PLYMPTON ST. MARY adjoins Plympton Earl's, and is an extensive parish, on the East side of the vale of the river Plym, 4½ miles N.E. of Plymouth. It gives name to a union, and is in East Stonehouse county court district, Ermington and Plympton petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Plympton hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Plympton rural deanery. It had 3491 inhabitants (1632 males, 1859 females) in 1871 (including 155 paupers in the union workhouse), living in 625 houses, on 10,211 acres of land. It has no village of its own name, but includes those of Ridgway, Underwood, Colebrook, Hemerdon, Sparkwell, Venton, and Lee Mill. It includes the seats of Saltram, Newnham Park, Furzdon, Beechwood, Hemerdon, Goodamore, Chaddlewood, &c., and many scattered farm-houses, some of them about four miles E.N.E. of the church, among the hills on the southern borders of Dartmoor Forest. RIDGWAY is a large and respectable village near the church, and has a station on the G.W.R., 3½ miles N.E. of Plymouth. UNDERWOOD is a considerable village, near Ridgway, and in it is the Union Workhouse, as noticed afterwards. There is a cattle fair at Underwood, on the 5th of July. A College was founded at Plympton St. Mary by one of the Saxon kings, for a dean and four prebendaries, or canons; but it was suppressed by Bishop Warlewast, in 1121, because the chapter 'wold not leve their concubines.' The bishop founded on the site of the college a Priory of Black (or Augustine) Canons, which was endowed by the Earl of Devon, Walter de Valletort, and other benefactors, and became one of the most opulent monasteries in the county. Its revenues were valued at the Dissolution at £912 per annum. In 1534 it was surrendered by John Howe, the last prior, who, with twenty monks, subscribed to the king's supremacy. The site, with the demesne, was granted to Arthur Champernowne, and was afterwards sold to the Strodes. The estate was subsequently sold in parcels, and the immediate site of the Priory now belongs to Mr. Heal, corn miller. The very small remains of the ancient buildings are to be found in the house and grounds of Mr. Evans, of 'Lower Priory.' The Priory mill belongs to Mr. Heal.

PLYMPTON ST. MARY union, which comprises 21 parishes, &c., had 22,190 inhabitants (10,559 males, 11,631 females) in 1871, living in 4202 houses; besides which there were 209 houses empty, and 35 building. The area of the union is 74,543 acres (including 125 acres of water). Of the inhabitants 26 were blind, 3 of whom were blind from birth; 18 persons were deaf and dumb; 26 were idiots or imbeciles (not in asylums); 31 were lunatics, of whom 8 were not in asylums; and 155 were paupers in the union workhouse. The total annual average expenditure of the parishes on their poor during the three years preceding the formation of the union was £7066; and in 1840, £8206; and for the year ended Lady-day, 1876, £15,557. The Union Workhouse, at Underwood, near Plympton St. Mary, is a large, substantial building, with room for more than 200 inmates.

The following enumeration of the parishes, &c., shows their territorial extent, the number of inhabited houses and population in 1871, and the present rateable value:—

NOTES, &c.—Marked 1 are in Yealmpton registration sub-district, and 2 in Plympton; (w) includes 25 acres of water.

PETTY SESSIONS are held every alternate Tuesday at the George Inn, Ridgeway, for the division of Ermington and Plympton, and the magistrates are given with Yealmpton.

The Earl of Morley is lord of the manor and barony of Plympton, and resides at SALTRAM, a stately mansion, in an extensive and finely-wooded park, on the East side of the river Plym, about 2 miles E.N.E. of Plymouth. In the reign of Charles I., Saltram was the property and residence of Sir James Bagg, Knight. Having been forfeited to the crown, it became the property of Lord Carteret and Mr. Wolstenholme, who sold it in 1712 to George Parker, Esq., great-grandfather of the late Earl of Morley. In 1784, John Parker, Esq., was created Baron Boringdon; and his son, in 1815, Viscount Boringdon and Earl of Morley. The latter died in 1840, and was succeeded by his eldest son, Edmund Parker (born 1810), who was succeeded by his eldest son, Albert Edmund (born in 1843), in 1864. The noble mansion of Saltram is the largest in the county, and was mostly built by Lady Catherine Parker, mother of the first Lord Boringdon, and daughter of Earl Poulett, who was Secretary of State to Queen Anne. The superior beauty of this situation induced the Parkers to continue the enlargement of the mansion and the embellishment of the grounds, and to leave their ancient family-seat of Boringdon, which is now a farm-house, but its deer park is still preserved as an adjunct to the grounds of Saltram, which possesses many singular attractions; for, exclusive of a great diversity of landscape, and many woods, the prospect of Plymouth Sound, the town, citadel, Mount Edgcumbe, and the endless variety of effects peculiar to the sea and harbour, are extremely interesting and pleasing. The groves and lawns of Saltram, overlooking the waters of the estuary of the Plym, called the Lara, are the scenes of many picnic parties during the summer season. The house has been much improved by the late Earl, and is surrounded by a beautiful lawn and grounds of about 300 acres. Its western front is 170 feet, and its southern and eastern fronts 130 feet in length. It contains many large and elegant apartments, and an extensive and costly collection of paintings of the most famous ancient and modern artists; as well as many other choice and rare articles of virtu. Among the paintings are some of the finest works of Titian, Rubens, Michael Angelo, Vandyke, Paul Veronese, Guido, Domenichino, Vandervelde, Poussin, Salvator, &c. In the great staircase is a magnificent picture of the Assumption, by Sabbatini; and in the library are some fine portraits by Sir Joshua Reynolds. The ceilings of the grand saloon and dining room were painted by Zucchi. Not far from this princely mansion is Chelson Meadow, comprising 175 acres, and formerly extra-parochial but now a civil parish in the ancient parish of Plymstock. Chelson Meadow, which had no inhabited house in 1871, was recovered from the tides in Chelson Bay, by means of an embankment, 2910 feet long, and about 16 in height; this was effected by the grandfather of the present Earl, at the cost of £9000, in the early part of the present century, and he received for it the gold medal of the Society of Arts. Plymouth races are held on this meadow. Among other improvements effected by him, may be named the new approach, which, after passing through a gloomy wood, leads the visitor to a most delightful prospect of the sea, and its promontories, bays, harbours, &c. He also constructed a dry dock in Catwater Bay, for the repairing of large vessels.

A great part of the parish of Plympton St. Mary belongs to the Earl of Morley, Lord Seaton, Miss Strode, Captain Tolcher, George Woollcombe, G. S. Symons, Captain Conran, and several smaller freeholders, most of whom have pleasant seats here. The Earl of Morley owns Colebrook, which came to his family with the heiress of the Mayhews. Hemerdon House is the seat of Mrs. Woollcombe. Newnham, the ancient seat of the Newnhams and Strodes, is now a farmhouse; but the mansion in Newnham Park, built about the beginning of last century, is the handsome residence of the Misses Strode, several of whose family have at various periods represented the borough of Plympton in Parliament. Beechwood House, built in 1797, is the seat of Lord Seaton; and Chaddlewood, anciently belonging to the Snellings and Martyns, is now the seat of G. Soltau-Symons, Esq. Goodamore is the pleasant seat of Colonel Phillipps-Treby, and was purchased by his grandfather, the late Commissioner Ourry.

The CHURCH OF PLYMPTON ST. MARY is a spacious and handsome structure, built at the period when a mixture of the Decorated and Perpendicular styles prevailed. It consists of a chancel, north and south porches, a fine tower, and a spacious nave, with two side aisles, and also two exterior aisles, which have anciently been chapels. The columns are clustered and composed of granite. The chancel has three ancient sedilia, with a cinquefoiled arch, and a piscina. The East window is very rich in marygold tracery, and below it is a poor Gothic altar screen of stone, in five compartments. The rood loft and screen are gone, but the spiral staircase which led to the loft remains. The vault, under the chancel, is the burial place of the Earl of Morley's family. There is a piscina in each of the exterior aisles, and in that on the north side is a highly enriched monument of 1460, in memory of Richard Strode, Esq., and another in memory of Sir William Strode, and his two wives, with their effigies, dated 1637. In the south chapel is an ancient tomb, with a recumbent effigy in armour, to the memory of one of the Courtenays. The tower contains eight heavy bells, and rises to the height of 82 feet, exclusive of the four octagonal turrets, crowned by small crocketted spires, which increase the height to 110 feet. The south porch is finely groined, and has a stoup and three canopied niches in the interior. On the exterior is represented the Almighty Father sustaining the Lord on the Cross, whilst below is represented the Annunciation, Mary and Gabriel being placed in niches to the right and left. On entering the church, the eye is struck by its extent, there being no galleries to intercept the view of the columns and arches, which present themselves in their full proportions and unusual combination. After the dissolution of the Priory, the Dean and Canons of Windsor became appropriators of the tithes, and patrons of the perpetual curacy, now valued at £175, in the incumbency of the Rev. Merton Smith, M.A. The tithes were commuted in 1840 for £1800 per annum, and were leased to the Earl of Morley. This lease has been repurchased by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who now hold the property belonging to the Chapter of Windsor. The WESLEYANS have chapels at Ridgway and Lee Mill. There are National Schools near the parish church, and at Sparkwell, and Lee Mill, built respectively in 1866, 1850 and 1874. At Sparkwell, three miles from the parish church, is ALL SAINTS CHAPEL, which was built about 1853, and which seats 250 persons. In a room over the south porch of the parish church is a library, given by the late Henry Treby, Esq.

The Maudlin lands, comprising about 10 acres, are let for about £90 a year, which is distributed among the poor parishioners. They formerly belonged to a small leper's hospital here, but have been long vested in trust for the poor. The poor have also £2 6s. 8*d*. yearly out of the Crown rents, under the name of 'a pension for the poor men of Plympton Hospital.' The Earl of Morley and others are trustees. The late Colonel Symons left £10 annually to be distributed in fuel for the poor. The rent of a small garden is applied in aid of the church funds.

PLYMPTON MAURICE, or Plympton Earl's, is an ancient disfranchised borough, and a small stannary and market town, pleasantly situated in a fertile vale, about 5 miles E. by N. of Plymouth, and 2 miles E. of the river Plym. Its parish, which is in Plympton St. Mary union, East Stonehouse county court district, Ermington and Plympton petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Plympton hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Three Towns rural deanery. It had 1084 inhabitants (463 males, 621 females) in 1871, living in 177 houses, on 232 acres of land. The parish includes part of the village of Ridgway, the other part being in Plympton St. Mary parish. The foregoing return includes 23 lunatics in Plympton House Lunatic Asylum. The town consists of four small streets, with a few respectable dwellings in the suburbs. Lord Morley, George Soltau-Symons, Esq., and B. J. P. Bastard are the principal owners of the soil. It had a grant for a market and fairs at a very early period; but there is now only a cattle market, which is held on the first Monday in each month. The barony of Plympton was given by Henry I. to Richard de Redvers, or Rivers, whom he created Earl of Devon. His son Baldwin, the second earl, rebelled against King Stephen, and was banished, but afterwards returned, and died in possession of the earldom, to which his son and his two grandsons in their turn succeeded. Richard, the first earl, built Plympton Castle, which was long the baronial seat of his family, and of which the large artificial mound on which the keep stood still remains, with some portions of the walls and fosse. Leland calls it 'a faire large castelle and dungeon, whereof the waulles yet stonde, but the logginges within be decayed.' Camden describes the ruins as the miserable remains of a castle; yet so lately as 1606 the office of constable of Plympton Castle was reckoned among those of the royal household, with a fee of £4 11*s.* 1*d.* per annum. It is said that while Baldwin de Redvers was defending Exeter against King Stephen, the garrison at Plympton Castle surrendered it to the king, by whose orders it was dismantled and nearly levelled to the ground. It was probably never afterwards occupied as a fortress, though some of the habitable part was suffered to remain. At the commencement of the civil wars Plympton was the head-quarters of the small force which the Royalists had then in the county; and it was one of the principal quarters of Prince Maurice's army whilst besieging Plymouth, from October to December 1643. The king had a garrison here, which was taken by the Earl of Essex in July 1644, with eight pieces of ordnance. The barony of Plympton, except during short intervals, when it was vested in the Crown by attainder, was possessed by the successive Earls of Devon till the death of Edward Courtenay, the 18th earl, in 1566, without issue, when this and other large estates were divided among his four aunts or their representatives. The Earl of Morley is now lord of the manor and barony, of which a considerable portion was purchased by his father of the Prideaux family. Plympton sent two members to Parliament from the time of Edward I. till 1832, when it was disfranchised by the Reform Act. Though not included in the Municipal Act of 1835, it was an ancient borough, claiming prescriptive rights, and having a governing charter of the 4th of William and Mary, styling the Corporation 'the mayor, bailiff, and burgesses of the borough of Plympton-Earle,' and appointing it to consist of a mayor, nine capital burgesses or aldermen and an indefinite number of burgesses or freemen, with a recorder, town clerk, &c., &c.: the aldermen to form the Common Council, and the mayor, recorder and deputy and the ex-mayor to be justices of the peace, with exclusive jurisdiction. The corporation has, however, lapsed.

The GUILDHALL is a neat building, with the date 1696 on its south front, and contains a fine portrait of Sir Joshua Reynolds, painted by himself. This eminent artist was born here in 1723, and his father was master of the Grammar School. He was elected the first president of the Royal Academy in 1768; in 1773 the degree of D.L. was conferred on him, and in 1784 the king appointed him his principal portrait painter, when he received the honours of knighthood. He died in 1792, and was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral.

The PARISH CHURCH (St. Maurice) is said to have been originally founded as a chantry chapel, by John Brackley, who endowed it with land which was valued at the Dissolution, in 1547, at £7 5*s.* 8*d.* per annum. It is a handsome old church, standing near the castle mound, and is now in course of a thorough restoration, at a cost of £1200. A new organ has been built at a cost of £205. There are five stained-glass memorial windows. The benefice is a rectory, valued at £140, in the patronage of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and in the incumbency of the Rev. Henry Tubal Hole. The tithes were commuted in 1845—the vicarial for £56, and the rectorial for £2. The INDEPENDENTS and WESLEYANS have small chapels here.

The GRAMMAR SCHOOL, a fine building in the Perpendicular style, with a good house for the master, was built in 1664, pursuant to the will of Elize Hele, who in 1658 left £1800 for its erection and endowment, and directed that it should be free for the poor children of Plympton, Brixton and other parishes, under the control of Sir John Maynard and his heirs. The endowment consists of Holland Farm (140 acres), let for about £170 per annum. The revision of the existing scheme is occupying the attention of the Charity Commissioners. A new teacher's residence was erected in 1868 at a cost of £2000, and the school was then thoroughly repaired.

In 1687 Mary Moulton left Hiley Field (1 acre) for the poor parishioners, Prior's Park (1 acre) for the perpetual curate and the poor, and Horsman's Meadow for the sole benefit of the curate. This charity now produces £7 10*s.* 8*d.* a year, which is equally divided between the rector and the poor. The poor have also 10*s.* a year from Rawlin's Charity (see Plymouth); 30*s.* a year from 2 roods of land, purchased with £40 left by Sir William Hele and Mary Drake. The dividends of £180 Three per Cent. Stock, left by Wm. A. Kite in 1816, are applied as follows: £5 8*s.* to the poor of this parish; 10*s.* 6*d.* to poor widows of the Archdeaconry of Totnes; and £2 2*s.* to the Plymouth Dispensary. The late Henry Hele Treby bequeathed £100 Three per Cent. Annuities, the dividends of which are distributed to the poor in blankets and coal on the 11th of December in each year. Plympton House, a handsome mansion with tasteful grounds, was formerly the seat of the Treby family, but is now a well-conducted Lunatic Asylum, established in 1835, and having accommodation for about 90 patients. It was first opened by Dr. Duck; but Charles Aldridge, Esq., M.D., is now resident physician and proprietor, Mr. Joseph Aldridge resident superintendent and manager, and Miss E. Wade matron.

POST OFFICE at Mr. Samuel Jerman's. Letters are delivered from Plympton St. Mary, which is the nearest Money Order Office, and are despatched at 9.30 a.m. and 6.35 p.m.

PLYMSTOCK is a parish and large straggling village in a pleasant valley, near Catwater Harbour and Plymouth Sound, 3 miles E. by S. of Plymouth. It is in Plympton St. Mary union, East Stonehouse county court district, Erminston and Plympton petty sessional division, Plymouth polling district of South Devon, Plympton hundred, Totnes archdeaconry and Plympton rural deanery. Its ancient ecclesiastical parish, which comprises the civil parishes of Plymstock and Chelson Meadow, had 3222 inhabitants (1579 males, 1643 females) in 1871, living in 559 houses, and contains 3736 acres of land. Chelson Meadow is a tract of land recovered from the sea, as noticed at page 666. Plymstock parish includes the villages, &c., of Oreston, Turnchapel, Hooe, Elburton, Pomphlet, and Stadiscombe, mostly lying on the eastern shore of Plymouth Harbour, where the river Plym finds its way to the ocean. Oreston and Turnchapel are the largest villages, and have ship yards on creeks of the Catwater. Limestone is got extensively in the parish, and ships take in water at Bovi Sand, on the shore near the Breakwater, where there are water works, a pier, a preventive station, and a circular watch tower, called Mount Batten. The stone for the construction of the Breakwater was taken from the Oreston quarries, and in a cavity of the rock, 60 feet deep, were found bones of the rhinoceros, wolf, deer, &c. The marble, dug from these quarries, is beautifully veined, and will bear a high polish. Plymstock was the head quarters of the besieging army, when Plymouth was invested by Colonel Digby, in September 1643, and it remained one of the principal stations after Prince Maurice arrived with his army. The royalists had batteries at Oreston and Mount Batten, and a guard at Hooe. Staddiscombe was the birth place of Dr. Nathaniel Forster, an editor of Plato, and the author of several learned works. The Duke of Bedford is lord of the manor of Plymstock, to whose family it was granted at the Dissolution, as part of the possessions of Tavistock Abbey. The Harris family are lords of the manor of Goosewell, and have a fine ancient seat here, called Radford, where the family has been settled for more than four centuries. B. J. P. Bastard, Esq., owns the manor of Staddiscombe, and Mr. Bayley owns West Hooe, but a great part of the parish belongs to the Earl of Morley, and several smaller owners. Extensive forts have of late years been built in the parish, called Forts Staddon and Stamford. PLYMSTOCK CHURCH (St. Mary and All Saints) is a large and well-proportioned structure, mostly in the Perpendicular style, with a tower and six bells. The chapel in the south aisle belongs to the Harris family. The church was formerly appropriated to Plympton Priory. It was restored by subscription at a cost of nearly £2500 in 1866, when the edifice was re-roofed, a new vestry added, the bells rehung (a sixth being added), a clock put in the tower, and the church re-seated. At the same time the churchyard was added to, and the walls, &c., improved. The living is a vicarage, valued at nearly £200, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Windsor, and incumbency of the Rev. Thomas Coulthard, M.A., who has a commodious residence in the Elizabethan style, erected about thirty years ago by the then incumbent, the Rev. F. F. Coke, on land given by the Duke of Bedford. The tithes were commuted in 1842, and are now in the hands of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. HOOE CHURCH (St. John) was built in 1853, at a cost of £1200, principally defrayed by the Rev. Hugh H. Berley. It consists of nave, chancel, and aisle, and will hold 250 persons. A district was assigned to the church in 1856, and had 1821 inhabitants in 1871. The living is a vicarage, valued at £78, in the patronage of Lord Blachford, and incumbency of the Rev. James John Tapson. There are small WESLEYAN CHAPELS at Turnchapel, Elburton, and Oreston, and at the latter place is an INDEPENDENT CHAPEL. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on June 21, 1871, and consists of Admiral F. H. Glasse, C.B. (chairman), Mr. Thomas Pearse (vice-chairman), Staff-Commander Way, and Messrs. Peters and Underhill. Mr. J. G. Norman is their clerk. The Board have built a school at Oreston, at an expense of £1200, and enlarged and greatly improved the boys' half of the old National School at Dean, at an outlay of about £500, and built a small mixed school at Goosewell, at an expense of about £600. The NATIONAL SCHOOL, built in 1827 at a cost of more than £400, has been transferred to the Board; but St. John's School, Hooe, is still conducted as a National School. The parish has an Almshouse for five poor people, founded by Sir Christopher Harris, in 1617, and endowed with a yearly rent-charge of £10, out of the manor of Goosewell. The poor of the village of Elburton have a house, let for £7, and left by Philip Anderson, at an early period. The poor parishioners have the following yearly doles: 20*s.* from Lanyon's Charity, and 16*s.* from £25 11*s.* 5*d.* Consols, left by John Burrows, in 1818. Out of the dividends of £2000 Three per Cent. Consols, left by the Rev. Vincent Warren in 1790, £41 is expended yearly in clothing ten poor boys and ten poor girls; and £12 is paid to a schoolmistress for teaching them. The rest is dispensed in religious books, &c., except 10*s.* given yearly to ten poor children of Egg Buckland, and 8*s.* to the sexton for keeping up the graves.

PLYMTREE is a parish and a pleasant village 4 miles S.E. of Cullompton, and 5 miles N.W. of Ottery Road Station. It is in Honiton union, county court district, Cullompton petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Hayridge hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Ottery rural deanery. It had 432 inhabitants (205 males, 227 females) in 1871, living in 94 houses, on 2185 acres of land. The parish, in which there are many scattered homesteads, is generally fertile and boldly undulated, watered by the Weaver, a tributary of the Culm, by the Tale, which falls into the Otter, and by ths Clyst, which rises at Clystwilliam in this parish. The manor, with the greater part of the soil, was formerly held of the Honour of Plympton by the Fitzpaynes, St. Aubyns, Courtneys, Peverells, Hungerfords, and Hastings, and was dismembered by the heiresses of T. Goodwyn. The soil now belongs to the Harward family, Thos. Baxter, Esq., R. H. Clarke, Esq., R. Davy, Esq., J. Harris, S. Ford, Messrs. Phillot and Slater, and other smaller freeholders. The CHURCH (St. John the Baptist) is in the style of the 15th century, with a chancel, nave, aisle, porch, and tower, and five bells. It has a handsome rood-screen, remarkable for its paintings of saints and historical personages; and over the west door is a representation of the Virgin and Child. The Register dates from 1538. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £21 18*s.* 1½*d.*, and now at £290, is in the patronage of Oriel College, Oxford, and in the incumbency of the Rev. Thomas Mozley, M.A., who has an ancient parsonage and 43 acres of glebe. For distribution in money and clothing the poor have about £80 a year arising from gifts and bequests in money and land by Nicholas Monk, rector, brother of the famous general, John Land, citizen of London, Harward, Ford, Crosse, Mundy, and others. On Norman's Green, in the centre of the parish, is a handsome and capacious Congregational Chapel, erected in 1850.

POST OFFICE at Mr. John Sanders', jun., Norman's Green. Letters are received on week days at 8 a.m., and despatched at 5.40 p.m. viâ Cullompton, which is the nearest Money Order and Telegraph Office. There is a WALL LETTER BOX near the church, cleared on week days at 5.20 p.m.

POLTIMORE, a parish of scattered houses, 4 miles N.E. of Exeter, includes the small hamlet of Ratsloe, and is in St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district, Wonford petty sessional division and hundred, Eastern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Aylesbeare rural deanery. It had 332 inhabitants (171 males, 161 females) in 1871, living in 64 houses, on 1710 acres of land. All the parish is the property and manor of Lord Poltimore, who resides occasionally at POLTIMORE HOUSE, a large square cemented mansion in a beautiful park, stocked with deer, and encompassed by verdant and well-wooded hills; and to the park are attached large pleasure grounds and gardens. The late lord much improved both the mansion and the park, and considerably enlarged the latter, which has again been enlarged by the present lord. At Domesday Survey the manor of Poltimore was held in demesne by Haimerius de Arcis, but it soon afterwards passed to the Poltimores, who conveyed it in the reign of Edward I. to Simon Lord Montacute, who sold it to William Pointington, a canon of Exeter. The latter gave it to his pupil, John Bampfylde, or Baumfield, an ancestor of its present owner. In 1641 John Bampfylde, Esq., was created a baronet, and the late Sir C. W. Bampfylde was the fifth baronet of his family. Sir G. W. Bampfylde was created Baron Poltimore in 1831. Lord Goring, who had been quartered at Poltimore with 1500 horse, retired into Essex on the approach of Fairfax, in October 1645, when Poltimore House was garrisoned by the latter, with the consent of its owner. The treaty for the surrender of Exeter is said to have been opened here on April 3, 1646. Sir Coplestone Bampfylde was an active promoter of the restoration of Charles II., and was the first sheriff of Devon after the King's return. His son was in command of the militia when William, Prince of Orange, landed on our shores; the Prince was welcomed by him as the preserver of our liberties. Two farms here formerly belonged to the prebendaries of Cutton and Hayes, in the small collegiate chapel which stood in Exeter Castle yard. The CHURCH (St. Mary) is an ancient cruciform structure, and consists of nave, chancel, transepts, and tower containing six bells. It was built by John Bampfylde, who died in 1390, and gave the great bell, as appears from an inscription on a slab in the chancel. The chancel is divided from the nave by a handsome oak screen. In the chancel is a piscina with shelf above. The East window is filled with stained glass, representing the Nativity, the Last Supper, the Resurrection, and the Ascension; it was given as a memorial of the late Lord Poltimore, by his widow. In the south transept is an altar tomb with recumbent figures of Richard Bampfildi (died 1594), and Elizabeth, his wife (died 1599); and in the chancel is a handsome mural tablet in memory of Lieut.-General F. W. Buller; there are also other monuments in memory of the Bampfylde family. The north and south windows in the chancel are filled with stained glass, in memory of the late rector, the Hon. John Fortescue, and his wife. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £15 15*s.* 5*d.*, and in 1831 at £589, with Huxham annexed to it, is in the gift of Lord Poltimore and incumbency of the Rev. Francis Sterry, M.A. The rectory house is a good commodious building with tasteful grounds. The NATIONAL SCHOOL, supported by subscription, has an average attendance of 50 mixed scholars. The ALMSHOUSES were founded and endowed for four poor people, by John Bampfylde in 1631, and enlarged for two additional almspeople, by the executors of Sir R. W. Bampfylde, who in 1775 left for that purpose £200, now vested in £245 7*s.* 11*d.* Three per Cent. Reduced Annuities. The original endowment consisted of 4½ acres of land and two cottages at Pinhoe, which was sold in 1872 for £600, and invested in the 3 per Cent. Consols by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. Over the almshouses are the arms of the Bampfylde family of that date, and underneath in bas-relief are faces of the founders, supported by four figures, representing the recipients, under which is the following inscription:—'Judge not my laurel wreath, rather bless that pouer, who made the death of two the life of fower.' The dividends are divided equally among the six almspeople. In 1797 Mary Bradford left £100 in trust, that the yearly dividends should be distributed among the poor of Poltimore, except what was necessary for repairing the monument of her husband and daughter. The dividends of £100, left in 1834 by the Rev. R. W. Bamptylde, formerly rector here, go towards the maintenance of the inmates of the Almshouses, and the dividends of £200 left by the late Lady Poltimore, are given to the poor at the discretion of the rector.

PORTLEMOUTH, or East Portlemouth, a parish and small village 5 miles S. of Kingsbridge, is picturesquely seated on an eminence on the east side of Salcombe haven, and near its confluence with the sea, 18 miles from Kingsbridge Road Railway Station, and 17 miles from Dartmouth. It is in Kingsbridge county court district and union, Kingsbridge polling district of South Devon, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Coleridge hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Woodleigh rural deanery. It had 387 inhabitants (193 males, 194 females) in 1871, living in 82 houses. The area is 2143 acres, of which 170 acres are water. The parish includes Rickham and Holset hamlets, and is bounded on the south by the lofty sea cliffs, extending to Prawle Point. An entrenchment on the hill is supposed to have been used in assaulting Salcombe Castle on the other side of the estuary. The Duke of Cleveland is lord of the manor of Portlemouth, but the manorial rights of West Prawle are vested in the 28 trustees of Blundell's School, Tiverton. Mr. H. Hurrell, Mr. William Swansborough, and a few smaller owners have estates here. At Rickham is a Coastguard Station. Portlemouth commands an extensive view of the English Channel, Bolt Head, Salcombe, as well as the estuary and its creeks as high as Kingsbridge. The CHURCH (St. Oneslaus) is an ancient dilapidated structure, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts, north porch, and a good square embattled tower containing three bells, one of which is broken. The church contains a very ancient font, and a richly-carved wooden screen. In the floor of the chancel is a stone in memory of the Rev James Grantham, who was for sixty years the rector of this parish; also of his successor, the Rev. Samuel Wells, who was rector for forty-eight years, and died on February 20, 1839, when he was succeeded by his son the present incumbent. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £29 8*s.* 4*d.*, and in 1831 at £366, in the joint patronage of the Duke of Cleveland and Lord Sandwich, and in the incumbency of the Rev. Thomas B. Wells, M.A. There is a glebe of 29 acres, and a good old residence, standing in tasteful grounds. The tithes are commuted at £347 a year. The WESLEYANS have a chapel here. The NATIONAL SCHOOL was built in 1876 at a cost of £320, raised by subscription: it will accommodate 63 children. The Rev. Richard Cleland, in 1618, left £20, the interest was to be given to poor persons, not in receipt of parish relief; but this charity has been lost many years.

POUGHILL, a village and parish 7 miles N. by E. of Crediton Railway Station, 8 miles S.W. from Tiverton, and 12 miles from Exeter, is situated near the source of the river Creedy. The parish is in Crediton union, county court district and petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, Cadbury rural deanery, and West Budleigh hundred. Poughill had 345 inhabitants (167 males. 178 females), living in 76 houses, on 1663 acres of land. The parish was anciently held by the Poughill, or Poghill family. The Rev. Thomas B. Melhuish, Robert Bradford, Esq., and the trustees of Mrs. Pyncombe's Charities, own a great part of the parish, and the rest belongs to other freeholders. The CHURCH (St. Michael) is in the Early Perpendicular style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, and tower containing five bells, and was thoroughly restored in 1856. The chancel is handsomely decorated, as is also the body of the church, with mural painting, which has been very thoroughly carried out within the last five years. The East window and four others are filled with stained glass. The Register dates from 1653. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £8 17*s.* 8½*d.*, and in 1831 at £221, in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor, and incumbency of the Rev. Thomas B. Melhuish, B.A. The parsonage is a small, neat residence, and the glebe is 22A. 36P. The tithes were commuted, in 1840, for £218 per annum. A new PARISH SCHOOL, for both sexes, has been erected, at the cost of £130. It had an endowment of £40 a year from Mrs. Gertrude Pyncombe's Charity. Mrs. Gertrude Pyncombe, who resided at Welsbere, in this parish, left a large estate, in 1730, to be vested with trustees for charitable uses in this and other parishes, and the augmentation of poor livings. The property now held by her trustees yields about £900 per annum. The annual payments made from this charity for the benefit of Poughill parish are as follows:—£5 for the poor, £5 for the schoolmaster, £5 towards repairing the chancel, and 40*s.* each to a poor man and two poor women not receiving parochial relief. Mrs. Pyncombe's trustees also provide Bibles and Prayer Books for the use of the parish school. The poor have 17*s.* 8*d.*, and the schoolmaster 17*s.* 8*d.* yearly, left by Robert Gay, in 1725, out of Lower Yedbury estate. In 1769 the Rev. Robert Bradford left a yearly rent-charge of 20*s.*, to be laid out in buying a blue coat for a poor man of this parish. The poor parishioners have the following yearly doles:—£1 15*s.* 8*d.*, left by Humphrey Brooke, in 1670; £1 19*s.* 6*d.*, as the interest of £39 10*s.* Poor's Money; and 10*s.*, paid as the rent of a pew in the church, left by John or Catherine Thomas. There are other charities, amounting to £16 a year, including the interest of £200, left by the late rector, the Rev. J. H. Ward, distributed in woollen clothing annually at the discretion of the rector and churchwardens.

POWDERHAM is a picturesque parish of scattered houses on the western side of the broad estuary of the Exe, opposite Lympstone, 6 miles S.S.E. of Exeter, and 2 miles N. of Starcross Railway Station. It is in St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district, Wonford petty sessional division, Exminster hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Kenn rural deanery. It had 235 inhabitants (113 males, 122 females) in 1871, living in 52 houses. The area is 1947 acres, of which 495 acres are water. The parish belongs to the Earl of Devon.

POWDERHAM CASTLE stands in an extensive and well-wooded deer park, which rises in bold swelling hills between and near the confluence of the Exe and the Kenn, the latter of which is a small stream falling into the estuary at the southern point of the parish. Camden states that Powderham Castle was built by Isabella de Redvers, Countess of Devon, who died in 1293, but it has been clearly ascertained that it never belonged to her, but to the Bohuns, Earls of Hereford and Essex, under whom it was held by a family of the same name as the village. Towards the middle of the 14th century Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, settled Powderham on Margaret, his daughter, who married Hugh Courtenay, second Earl of Devon of that name. She, by her will, dated June 28, 1390, settled it on her son, Sir Philip Courtenay, in whose descendants it still remains. He died in 1406. A genealogical sketch of the family is already given in the general survey of the county (pages 47–8), and since the sketch was in type we have been enabled to add the following particulars with respect to the descent of the earldom:—Richard de Abrinies, or de Redvers, son of Baldwin de Brionis, was created by Henry I. Earl of Devon, with a grant of the Isle of Wight in fee. Baldwin de Redvers, eighth Earl of Devon, died 1262, when his sister Isabel, wife of William de Fortibus, Earl of Albemarle, became his heir, and succeeded as Countess of Devon in her own right. She died 1293, when the earldom devolved upon the next heir of the last Earl, viz. Sir Hugh Courtenay, Baron of Okehampton, grandson of Robert de Courtenay, Baron of Okehampton, by Mary, eldest surviving daughter of William de Redvers, sixth Earl of Devon. His son, Hugh Courtenay, the second earl of that name, married Margaret de Bohun, daughter of Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, by Elizabeth, daughter of Edward I., and by her became possessed of Powderham Castle and the estates attached to it. From him through various vicissitudes, attainders, forfeitures, and new creations, the earldom has descended to the present earl, seventeenth in lineal descent from Hugh, Earl of Devon, and Margaret de Bohun, who enjoys the earldom under the patent of Restoration of Mary I., dated September 3, 1553, the Powderham branch of the Courtenays having been since 1556 the eldest male representatives of the family.

Powderham was anciently described as a strong castle, with a barbican for the protection of the estuary of the Exe. The castle was probably built either before the Norman conquest, to prevent the Danes from coming up the river to Exeter; or else by William de Ou, to whom the Conqueror gave Powderham. Of the castle then built, however, no vestiges remain. The ancient part of the present castle was probably erected by Sir Philip Courtenay above mentioned, and would seem to belong to the early part of the 15th century. The castle was garrisoned for the King in the early part of the struggle between Charles I. and the Parliament, and was long an object of contention between the two parties, changing hands twice or thrice during the war. When last in possession of the Royalists, it was more strongly fortified than before, having at that time eighteen pieces of ordnance mounted on its walls. Since then, it has undergone many alterations in order to adapt it to the requirements of a modern mansion; but it still retains in some degree a castellated appearance, having battlements on its towers. Until 1752 it retained a considerable portion of its ancient castle-like form, and had a quadrangular court in front, with embattled walls, and a tower gateway at the entrance. About that time it appears to have been very materially changed both inside and outside. The old hall was divided into two apartments, floors altered, and windows of modern date inserted. Of late years, however, it may be stated, endeavours have been made (and are from time to time continued) to restore the ancient character of the old part of the building. Still the exterior has, in parts, a modern appearance. The park is extensive, and is finely planted with trees, and diversified with some bold swells. On the summit of the highest ground is a triangular building with three hexagonal towers, called the Belvidere, constructed for the purpose of commanding the rich and diversified prospects of the sea, the river Exe, and the surrounding country. This ornamental building was erected in 1773, and is about 60 feet in height to the top of the towers.

The Church (St. Clement) is an ancient structure, with a tower and three bells, and has recently been renovated and beautified, chiefly at the expense of the Earl of Devon. In the chancel is a fine tomb in memory of the late Countess. Some of the windows have been enriched with stained glass, and the nave and aisles have been newly fitted up with open seats. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £27 3*s.* 6½*d.*, and in 1831 at £493, is in the patronage of the Earl of Devon, and incumbency of the Hon. and Rev. Henry Hugh Courtenay, M.A., who has 91A. 3R. 28P. of glebe, and a residence near the church overlooking the estuary. The tithes were commuted in 1839 for £298 per annum. The National School is supported by the Earl and the children's pence; and the poor parishioners have 60*s.* a year out of Newland estate at Exminster, left by John Fletcher, in 1714.

PRINCETOWN is a small town and chapelry in the Dartmoor Quarter of the parish of Lydford. Dartmoor Quarter had 2567 inhabitants in 1871, and comprises 54,241 acres of land. There are cattle fairs at Two Bridges, on the Thursday after August 2, and at Princetown on August 23. During the last and present centuries, some portions of Dartmoor have been planted and cultivated, and houses built. Princetown is now a considerable place, and, with railway accommodation, capable of very material development. The School-chapels of St. Raphael's, Dartmeet, and St. Gabriel's, Postbridge, were erected by the rector of the parish, the Rev. M. Fuller, in 1868 and 1869 respectively, since which dates services have been held on Sundays, and the buildings used as day schools during the week. The Church (St. Michael and All Angels) has lately been thoroughly restored, mainly through the exertions of the Rev. Morris Fuller, and was re-opened on May 12, 1876, by the Bishop of Exeter. It is used chiefly by the officials connected with H.M.'s Prison and their families.

Dartmoor Prison was erected in 1808–9, for the residence of prisoners of war, of whom it had often from 5000 to 10,000, guarded by from 300 to 500 soldiers. During the latter part of last century, the late Mr. Gullet, and the late Mr. Bray, of Tavistock, made great improvements in this part of Dartmoor, bringing some portions into cultivation and planting others. The late Sir Francis Buller purchased Prince Hall estate of Mr. Gullet, greatly improved it, and made it his occasional residence. But the greatest improver of Dartmoor was the late Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt, Bart., who was seated at Tor Royal, and was for some time Lord Warden of the Stannaries and M.P. for Plymouth. It was through his suggestion that Government erected the war prison here, for the accommodation of the numerous French and American prisoners who had till then crowded the prison ships of Plymouth. This prison consisted of five rectangular buildings, each 300 feet long and 50 broad, with two stories for the hammocks of more than 1500 prisoners, and a large loft above for exercise in inclement weather. There were two other spacious buildings, one used as the hospital, and the other as the quarters of the petty officers. Adjoining the prison was the Governor's House and other buildings necessary for the civil establishment; and at the distance of a quarter of a mile were Barracks for about 500 soldiers. The space between the walls of the prison formed a military road round the whole. On this the guard paraded. The sentinels were posted on platforms commanding a complete view of the prison; and some idea of its extent may be formed from the circumstance of the watch-word being a quarter of an hour in passing round. The lofty walls which surrounded all the buildings formed a circle nearly a mile in circumference, enclosing an area of nearly 30 acres. The great iron gate on the western side is arched over with immense blocks of granite, on which is engraved the appropriate inscription, 'Parcere Subjectis.' Opposite this is a large reservoir, from which the prison was supplied with excellent water, obtained by a diversion of part of the river Walkham. Connected with the prison was a neat Chapel, built by the prisoners, and opened in 1813. It is still used as a chapel of ease for Dartmoor Quarter of Lydford Parish, in which Princetown is situated, at the distance of 10 miles S.E. of the mother church. During the war there were two large inns near the prison, and they still remain—one of them being the Duchy Hotel, which was honoured by a visit from Prince Albert during his visit to Plymouth in 1846. A considerable number of tradesmen, necessary to supply the wants of so large a population, settled in the vicinity, besides the proprietors of the public bakehouses, slaughter-houses, and brewery; and a market was held in the prison every week day, to which produce was brought from Tavistock, Moreton, Chagford, &c. Many of the prisoners had prize-money to receive from their own country, and others obtained money by the manufacture of various ornamental or useful articles, which they sold to the market-people. Some of the prisoners also kept stores, and were trusted with stocks to the amount of from £20 to £30. In reference to these stores, the French are said to have been 'very honest,' but the Americans 'great rogues.' No. 4 prison was assigned entirely to blacks, on account of the dislike with which they were regarded by the other American prisoners. Oil lamps were placed at the corners of the prison buildings, and also on the walls, and were kept burning during the night. Some of the prisoners used to contrive to be supplied with a composition metal for the manufacture of base coin; and they managed to make in their hammocks, 1*s.* 6*d.* and 3*s.* pieces, and even forged Bank of England and Local Bank Notes, which they passed off either in the prison market or through the medium of some of the soldiers, several of whom were transported for that offence. The French are said to have been much more orderly than the American prisoners, many of whom were really Englishmen. Attempts were often made by men of both parties to escape by undermining the walls, and they were sometimes successful. In April, 1815, an erroneous notion having got among the prisoners that peace had been proclaimed, a great number of the Americans made an attempt to escape at the time their dinners were served out; but the guard was immediately called in, and quelled the disturbance, after killing 7 and wounding 35 others. After the termination of the war, this extensive prison, and most of the private dwellings in the neighbourhood, became unoccupied; but some of the houses were again tenanted after the commencement of the railway or tram-road, which extends from Princetown to Plymouth, and was constructed under Acts passed in 1819, 1820, and 1821, for the purpose of affording an easy transit for the produce of the immense granite quarries of this part of Dartmoor, as well as for bringing up lime and manure for the improvement of the land on either side, and coal, &c., for domestic use. Many plans were suggested for appropriating the extensive prison to some useful purpose, either as a School of Industry, or an Establishment for Convicts, but these proposals were not brought to maturity for some years. It had at last fallen into a complete state of decay. In 1850 this old prison was converted into a prison for the reception of convicts, and it now consists of five rectangular buildings, each 300 feet long by 50 feet broad, and the entrance is still beneath the gateway already referred to. A considerable addition has recently been added by the labour of the convicts, who are employed in all work connected with the building, and who have reclaimed and brought under cultivation a large tract of the surrounding moor. Previously to the addition referred to the prison was capable of holding 1400 prisoners, who are sent here for sentences of five years and upwards. They are divided into three classes, distinguished by a strip of black, yellow, or blue cloth on the collar of the jacket, and are under the jurisdiction of a governor, deputy-governor, about a hundred warders of different grades, and an armed 'Civil Guard,' consisting of 1 superintendent, 3 sergeants, and 25 privates.

From the Governor's report for 1876 it appears that during the year 22 acres of the waste land were reclaimed, trenched, and drained; 300 tons of peat were cut and saved in good condition; the value of farm produce sold or transferred for prison use was £2339 16*s.* 6*d.*, and the amount realised for live stock was £1055 6*s.* The following articles were made:—4425 pairs of boots for the police and prison officers; 840 great coats, 833 tunics, and 4104 pairs of leggings for the police; 1053 hammocks and 1250 bags for the Admiralty; and 380 prison officers' uniforms.

Captain W. F. V. Harris is governor; Captain F. Johnson, deputy-governor; Drs. R. E. Power and R. Harrison, medical officers; the Rev. Clifford Rickards, chaplain; the Rev. G. Green, Roman Catholic visiting priest; and Junius Roberts, Esq., steward.

PUDDINGTON, or Podington, a small village on an eminence near the source of the river Creedy, 7 miles N. of Crediton, and 8 miles W. by S. of Tiverton, is in Crediton union, county court district and petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton West rural deanery. It had 194 inhabitants (91 males, 103 females) in 1871, living in 44 houses, on 1361 acres of land. The manor belonged at an early period to the Sackvilles, and afterwards to the Walronds, but is now dismembered. Puddington Lodge, the pleasant seat of John L. Eland, Esq., stands on a commanding eminence, and is in the Italian style. The CHURCH (St. Thomas à Becket) has a tower containing three bells, and the north aisle was rebuilt in 1838, at the expense of C. N. Welman, Esq. The church, which was re-decorated in 1868 at the sole expense of J. L. Eland, Esq., contains four stained-glass windows, one being in memory of the late rector, the Rev. D. Llewellyn, and another of his son and his son's wife. The sanctuary has been paved with encausic tiles, and a new altar rail and a standard added. The west gallery has been removed, and the church seated with open oak benches. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £6 8*s.* 1½*d.*, and now at £210, in the patronage of W. B. Gamlen, Esq., and incumbency of the Rev. John B. White, who has a good residence on a lofty eminence. The glebe is 64A. 3R. 12P., and the tithes were commuted in 1838 for £131. The INDEPENDENT CHAPEL, originally built by Presbyterians about 200 years ago, is now a very modern edifice, called Tristram Chapel: it has 18 acres of land, let for £30, and left by a Mr. Melhuish towards the support of the minister. Here is a PAROCHIAL SCHOOL, built in 1849, and endowed by Peter Blagden with £30 a year. It is under Government inspection, and is managed by certain trustees, who must be owners and residents upon certain farms in the parish. The rector is an ex-officio trustee. The poor parishioners have the interest of £60, given by various donors, and a yearly rent-charge of 20*s.* left by Humphry Brook in 1670 out of Bere Farm.

PYWORTHY, a village and parish, 2½ miles W.S.W. of Holsworthy, is in Holsworthy union, county court district, deanery, and petty sessional division, Holsworthy polling district of South Devon, Black Torrington hundred, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 530 inhabitants (265 males, 265 females) in 1871, living in 107 houses, on 5021 acres of land. It includes the small hamlets of Derriton and Killatree. Lady Molesworth owns the manor, and she, and the Prince of Wales, as Duke of Cornwall, Miss Vowler, Mrs. Rosworthy, Mr. Stocker, Mr. Sanders, and Mr. Coombe, are the principal owners of the soil. The CHURCH (All Saints) is a handsome structure with clerestory windows, and a restoration of the fabric is in contemplation. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £27 8*s.* 4*d.*, and now at £400 (net), in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. Samuel W. Tagert, B.A., who has 172 acres of glebe, and a handsome house built in 1836. The tithes were commuted in 1838 for £370 a year. In 1711 the Rev. Robert Beckley left for the poor about 11 acres of land, let for about £11, and two cottages occupied by paupers. The poor had also the interest of £10; and they still have the dividends of £370, left in 1853, by the Rev. T. H. Kingdon, which are given in clothing to the poor. The WESLEYANS and the BIBLE CHRISTIANS have each a chapel here. Here is a School for the accommodation of 40 children.

RACKENFORD, a parish and an ancient village on the high road, is 8 miles W.N.W. of Tiverton, and 11 miles E.S.E. of South Molton Railway Station. It is in South Molton union, petty sessional division and rural deanery, Tiverton county court district, Northern division of the county, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 440 inhabitants (232 males, 208 females) in 1871, living in 85 houses, on 3938 acres of land. It is described as a borough in some old records, and had formerly a market, granted in 1235, together with an annual fair. The latter is still held for the sale of lambs, &c., on July 8, or on the following day, if that date falls on a Sunday. Here is also a small cattle fair, which has been held on the Wednesday before September 19, since 1776. RACES are held on or about the last Thursday in July. The parish rises in bold hills near the sources of the Little Dart river, and comprising many scattered houses. H. C. Devon, Esq., is lord of the manor, for which a court leet and baron is held yearly. The former resides at the old manor house, called Cruwyshaye, formerly a seat of the Sydenham and Cruwys families. William Hole, Esq., and Messrs. Thomas Ayre, M. Thomas, W. Cockram, Robert Tanner, and several smaller freeholders, have estates in the parish. There is a common of about 30 acres, in which is a never failing spring of pure water. The CHURCH (Holy Trinity) is a small antique fabric, consisting of chancel, nave, transept, north and south aisles, porch, and a tower containing five bells. In the church is a finely sculptured font. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £19 17*s.* 1½*d.*, and in 1831 at £335, is in the patronage and incumbency of the Hon. and Rev. G. R. Gifford, M.A., who has a good residence and 54A. 31P. of glebe. The tithes were commuted in 1842 for £327 per annum. A small BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHAPEL was built here in 1848. A NATIONAL SCHOOL was erected in 1873. The late Rev. John Comyns left the interest of £10 for the poor, who have also the interest of £128, left by the Rev. John Barnes, Thomas Kemp, and other donors; and £2 14*s.* a year out of West Bradley and Edgerley farms, left by Humphrey Brooke, in 1670.

RATTERY, or Rattrey, is a parish and small village on an eminence, 4 miles W. by N. of Totnes, in Totnes union, county court district, archdeaconry and rural deanery, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, and Stanborough hundred. It had 459 inhabitants (241 males, 218 females) in 1871, living in 89 houses, on 2823 acres. MARLEY HOUSE, a large and handsome stuccoed mansion, with a fine lawn, is the residence of the Misses Carew, who are daughters of the late Sir W. P. Carew, Bart. They are ladies of the manor, and owners of most of the soil. The CHURCH is an ancient structure with a tower containing four bells, and crowned by a small spire. It was repaired by the late Sir W. P Carew, and has a handsome appearance. Some of its windows are decorated with stained glass. The vicarage, valued in K.B. at £14 10*s.*, and in 1831 at £240, is in the patronage of the Misses Carew and incumbency of the Rev. Henry William Carew, who has a good residence and 60A. 3R. 5P. of glebe. The tithes have been commuted, the vicarial for £200, and the rectorial for £189 9*s.* The latter belong to the Misses Carew. There are two houses, a garden, and a field, vested for the repairs of the church, and a small Almshouse for six poor people. The poor have £3 a year, left by Dorothy Savery and Thomas Gould.

REVELSTOKE parish is in Plympton St. Mary union, East Stonehouse county court district, Ermington and Plympton petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Plympton hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Plympton deanery. It comprises 1541 acres of land, and had 464 inhabitants (215 males, 249 females) in 1871, most of whom are in the large fishing village of Noss Mayo, which lies in a low situation on the south side of a creek from the mouth of the Yealm, opposite Newton Ferrers, 9 miles S.E. of Plymouth. The parish also includes part of the village of Bridgend, the remainder being in Newton Ferrers and Holbeton parishes. Crabs, lobsters, herrings, and other fish are caught at Noss Mayo, where the villagers suffered severely from cholera in 1849, when about 50 of them died and more than 200 were afflicted with the dreadful malady. Liberal subscriptions were made for the relief of the sufferers, and a medical gentleman was sent down from London to their assistance. The manor of Revelstoke was long the property and seat of the Revells and the Perrings; it is now the property of Edward C. Baring, Esq., who owns all the parish, except the glebe, and a few acres belonging to different proprietors. The CHURCH (said to be dedicated to St. Peter) is an ancient structure with a small belfry and two bells, but in a state of complete dilapidation. The chancel end has been rebuilt, and is used as a mortuary chapel. At Noss Mayo is a small CHAPEL OF EASE, erected in 1839 at a cost of £925, and having chancel, vestry and gallery, and about 320 sittings. There is a small churchyard. The benefice is a rectory, in the gift of the Bishop of Exeter and incumbency of the Rev. Henry F. Roe, M.A., who has 4A. 3R. 37P. of glebe. The rectory house was erected in 1857, on a site purchased from the lord of the manor, by the incumbent giving up a certain portion of rent-charge, in lieu of tithes due from the manor in question. The tithes have been commuted, the vicarial for £116, and the rectorial for £140 per annum. The NATIONAL SCHOOL was built in 1844 at an expense of £337, defrayed by grants from the Committee of Council and the National Society, and subscriptions, and has recently had a class room added, through the liberality of the lord of the manor. The poor have a house and garden, purchased with £20 left by Sir William Hele in 1625, and other benefaction money.

REWE, a parish and a scattered village on an eminence 5 miles N.N.E. of Exeter, is in St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district, Wonford petty sessional division, Exeter archdeaconry, and Aylesbere rural deanery. It had 286 inhabitants (147 males, 139 females) in 1871, living in 55 houses, on 1340 acres. Rewe ancient parish consists of Rewe civil parish or township, and Up Exe tithing, the latter of which is in Hayridge hundred, nearly two miles from the church, while the former is in Wonford hundred. Up Exe tithing had 93 inhabitants (48 males, 45 females) in 1871, living in 21 houses. The parish is crossed by the Bristol and Exeter Railway. Before the reign of Edward III., the manor of Rew, or Rewe, was held successively by the Villiers, Sachville, Causebeuf, Blakeford, Picot, and Tantifer families. It was afterwards held by the Chiseldons and Wadhams. The Earl of Ilchester is lord of the manor, but part of the parish belongs to Sir T. D. Acland, Bart., Charles W. Troyte, and a few smaller owners. The CHURCH (St. Mary) was restored in 1867, at a cost of £1400, and now comprises chancel, nave, north aisle, north transept, and tower containing five bells. It contains a curious old Perpendicular screen. In the chancel is a window enriched with stained glass, representing the Good Shepherd, and inserted in memory of the late rector; and another, depicting the Virgin Mary and St. John the Evangelist, in remembrance of General Strangways, R.A., who was killed at the Battle of Inkermann; and in the north-east end of the north aisle is a three light window filled with glass depicting the Ascension, in memory of the Cuthbertson family. In the chancel are three mural monuments in memory of the Rev. Robert Tripp, M.A. (who was rector of this parish for 42 years, and died in 1825) and members of his family; and in the aisle are monuments of the Draper and Cleeve families. A large cross stands in the churchyard, and has been recently restored. The living is a rectory, valued in K B. at £22 4*s.* 2*d.*, and in 1838 at £429, in the patronage of the Earl of Ilchester and William Wyndham, Esq., and incumbency of the Rev. Philip Williams, M.A., B.C.L. There is a handsome rectory house built in 1844, at the cost of £2500. The glebe is 48 acres, and the tithes were commuted in 1837 for £348 per annum. The NATIONAL SCHOOL was built by subscription, in 1875, at a cost of £500, and is attended by about 60 children. The poor have two yearly rent-charges of 20*s.* each, left by Emanuel and Nicholas Warren, in 1696 and 1700, out of Pale and Millhayes Estates. They have also the interest of £50, left by Joseph Steere, in 1792. Nicholas Warren left 20*s.* a year to be laid out in linen cloth, not under 10*d.* a yard, distributed on St. Nicholas-day by the churchwardens and overseers.

RINGMORE. (See St. Nicholas and Stoke-in-Teignhead.)

RINGMORE, anciently spelt Ridmore and Rimmore, is a parish in Kingsbridge union and county court district, Ermington and Plympton petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, Woodleigh rural deanery, and Ermington hundred. It had 237 inhabitants (115 males, 122 females) in 1871, living in 51 houses, on 1128 acres of land. Ringmore village is situated on Bigbury Bay, 4 miles S. of Modbury. Colonel Moore is lord of the manor, formerly held by the Fitzstephen, Fishacre, Kirkham, Roe, and other families. The Duke of Somerset and a few smaller owners have estates in the parish. There is a Coastguard Station at Challaborough, with officer and five men; there are detachments at Kingston, and at Bantham, in the parish of Thurlestone. The CHURCH (All-Hallows) is one of the most interesting in the county, being wholly of the 13th century, with the exception of the north transept, or manor chapel, which was retained from a very early church, erected probably before the Norman Conquest. It consists of a nave and chancel, with chancel aisle, a north transept and a south tower and spire, the lower stage of which serves for the porch. The entire building was well restored in 1862–3, by the present rector, all the ancient features being carefully preserved. The chancel is beautifully decorated, and contains a good organ by Bevington. Most of the windows in the church are filled with stained glass by Horwood, of Frome Selwood. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £19 10*s.* 7½*d.*, and now at £445 a year, in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. F. C. Hingeston-Randolph. A small room is used by the BAPTISTS. Ringmore is the central parish of the ERME AND AVON SCHOOL BOARD UNITED DISTRICT, comprising the parishes of Ringmore, Bigbury and Kingston. (For members of the Board see Bigbury, page 159). The School is a very pretty building, near the church, erected at a cost of about £200. Francis Kirkham, the last of his race, gave a house to the poor of this parish for ever in 1768, but it was alienated some forty years ago, and converted into a barn on the manor. Here are the headquarters of the Erme and Avon Friendly Society, founded by the rector in 1865.

ROBOROUGH, 6 miles E. by S. of Torrington, includes the hamlet of Ebberley, and a number of scattered farms, and is in Torrington union, county court district, Great Torrington petty sessional division, Fremington hundred, Barnstaple archdeaconry, Northern division of the county, and Torrington rural deanery. It had 470 inhabitants (228 males, 242 females) in 1871, living in 89 houses, on 3114 acres of land. Charles W. Hole, Esq., is lord of the manor, and owner of part of the soil, but the Hon. Mark Rolle owns about half of the parish. The CHURCH (St. Peter) consists of nave, chancel, south aisle, and a handsome tower containing six bells. It was restored in 1868 at a cost of about £900, when the chancel and the north wall was rebuilt, a vestry erected, and the church newly roofed and reseated. The East window, and two others in the chancel, are enriched with stained glass in memory of members of the rector's family. There is a mural tablet in memory of the May family. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £10 9*s.* 8*d.*, and in 1831 at £244. The representatives of the Rev. T. May are the patrons, and the Rev. W. W. Gurney is the incumbent, and has 60 acres of glebe, and a handsome residence, in the Elizabethan style, erected by him in 1842, at the cost of about £1500. The tithes were commuted in 1842, for £271 per annum. The poor have the interest of £50 left by the Rev. Samuel May and John Alford. The SCHOOL was erected in 1854, and is attended by ninety children.

ROCKBEARE, a parish and small straggling village, 6 miles E.N.E. of Exeter, and 5 miles W. of Ottery St. Mary, is in St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district and archdeaconry, Ottery petty sessional division, Eastern division of the county, East Budleigh hundred, and Aylesbeare rural deanery. It had 485 inhabitants (223 males, 263 females) in 1871, living in 106 houses, on 2375 acres of land. The parish includes the small village of Marsh-Green, more than 1½ mile S.E. of the church, and many scattered farms, &c. The soil is generally fertile, and the surface boldly undulated. The common, about 200 acres, was enclosed in 1849. In the reign of Edward III., the manor was given to Canonleigh Abbey, by the Countess of Gloucester. It was long the seat and property of the Sainthill family, of whom it was purchased by Thomas Porter, Esq., of Nutwell House, a former lord of the manor, and owner of a great part of the soil, and of ROCKBEARE HOUSE, which he rebuilt after purchasing the old mansion of Sir J. L. Duntze, Bart., whose father resided here. The present mansion is a handsome structure, with pleasant grounds, about a mile S.E. of the church, and is occupied by Col. T. R. Crosse. C. H. Bidgood, Esq., has a large estate here, and his family was long seated in a house near the church. W. H. C. Nation, Esq., the lord of the manor, and John Elliott, Esq., are the other principal owners of the soil. The CHURCH (St. Mary) is an antique fabric, with a tower and five bells; and the chancel has been recently restored. In the burial ground is a monument in memory of Sir John and Lady Duntze, who died in 1795 and 1801. The Bishop of Exeter is appropriator of the rectory, and patron of the vicarage, valued in K.B. at £9, and in 1831 at £160. The Rev. R. H. Padmore, M.A., is the incumbent, and has 21 acres of glebe, and a good residence, built in 1833. The vicarial tithes were commuted in 1846 for £150 per annum. The Rev. R. W. Atkins is curate-in-charge. At Marsh Green is a small INDEPENDENT CHAPEL, erected in 1840. In the village, and at Marsh Green are Public Elementary Schools. The poor parishioners have the dividends of £97 7*s.* 3*d.*, 3 per Cent. Consols, purchased with money left by John Stile, and other donors. In 1702, Lawrence Colesworthy charged Allercombe estate with the yearly payment of £4, for schooling poor children, and 20*s.* for yearly distribution among twenty poor labouring men of this parish. Radford Wild charged Woodhouse estate with the yearly payment of 10*s.* for a sermon, and 15*s.* for the poor. The Rev. Charles Bidgood left 12*s.* a year, out of Farm estate, for a monthly distribution of bread among the poor.

ROMANSLEIGH, or Rumonsleigh, commonly called Rumsleigh, is a parish in South Molton union, county court district, rural deanery, and petty sessional division, South Molton polling district of North Devon, Barnstaple archdeaconry, and Witheridge hundred. It had 208 inhabitants (114 males, 94 females) in 1871, living in 44 houses, on 2491 acres of land. Romansleigh village is situated 4 miles S. by E. of South Molton. The parish is generally fertile, and the land rises to a lofty eminence, called Beacon Hill, said to be one of the highest points in the county. The Abbey of Tavistock, in which St. Rumon, the patron saint of the church, was buried, had an estate in this parish, and there was anciently a monk here from the collegiate establishment at Chulmleigh, under the visitorial control of the abbot. Sir T. D. Acland, Bart., is lord of the manor, and owner of about a quarter of the parish, the remaining three quarters belong to the Honorable Mark Rolle, Rev. J. James, Mrs. Benson, Mr. Greenslade, and others. The CHURCH (St. Rumon) consisting of nave, and chancel with vestry, was rebuilt in 1868 after designs by Edward Ashworth, Esq., at a total cost of £1200, of which £300 was raised on security of the church rates, and the remainder by subscription. The chancel contains two beautiful memorial windows by Clayton and Bell. In the churchyard are the remains of an old stone cross, and six beautiful lime trees forming an avenue to the rectory house. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £10 14*s.* 9½*d.*, in the patronage of Sir T. D. Acland, Bart., and incumbency of the Rev. James Mayne, B.A. The glebe comprises 128 acres, and the tithes are commuted at £200. There is a good rectory house. The school room was given by Sir T. D. Acland, who also left £50 for its support. The poor parishioners have 4*s.* a year left by Thomas Packer, and the interest of £10, being a legacy left by Mr. John Davy.

ROOSDOWN. (See Rousdon.)

ROSE ASH, formerly called Ralph Esse, is a parish in South Molton union, county court district, rural deanery and petty sessional division, Meshaw polling district of North Devon, Barnstaple archdeaconry, and Witheridge hundred. It had 563 inhabitants (286 males, 277 females) in 1871, living in 105 houses on 5082 acres. Rose Ash village is pleasantly situated on an eminence, 6 miles S.E. by E. of South Molton, 4½ miles from Bishops Nympton and Molland Railway Station on the North Devon and Somerset branch of the Great Western Railway. The parish rises in bold hills on the east and north, and comprises the hamlet of Yard. Ash moors were enclosed in 1867, when three acres were reserved by the Enclosure Commissioners for public recreation ground. The manor belonged, in the reign of Henry III., to Ralph de Esse. The three daughters of Sir Ralph Esse carried it in three moieties to the families of Dennis, Gifford and Halse. Dennis's share passed in marriage to the Glynns, and has been sold in parcels, and the other shares passed to the Downe, Smith, Davy and other families. Colonel Davy, J.P., is lord of Smyth's manor; but the Southcombe family own a portion of the manor. Colonel Davy receives a yearly high and chief rent from Halse or Smyth's share. Colonel J. T. Davy, J.P., W. Keates, Esq., R. Davy, Esq., F.R.C.S., Miss Thomas, Mrs. Benson, the Rev. W. H. Karslake, and W. T. Southcomb, Esq., Miss Buckingham, the Rev. J. L. H. Southcomb, and the Tanner family, are the principal owners of the soil. The ancient lords of the manor had the power of inflicting capital punishment. Col. Tanner Davy is the originator and editor of the 'Devon Herd Book.' The CHURCH (St. Peter) is an ancient structure of the Third Pointed date; the lower part of the tower may be older. In May 1874 the Rev. Wm. H. Karslake, of Meshaw, commenced the restoration of the church on his own responsibility, and collected money for the purpose. The course of proceeding recommended by his architect, Mr. E. Ashworth, of Exeter, was to renew the roof, then to prop it and rebuild the walls where necessary. For the original plaster ceiling there has been substituted one of open work, leaving the carved oak bosses at the intersection of the moulded ribs and purlines as before. The effect of this arrangement forms one of the most striking features in the restoration. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £18 19*s.* 7*d.*, in the patronage of the Rev. H. G. Southcomb, and incumbency of the Rev. John Hamilton Ladaveze Southcomb, who has 105A. 3R. 9P. of glebe. The commuted tithe rent-charge for 1877 was £494 6*s* 3¼*d.*, the value of the glebe and parsonage house about £160—the charges ecclesiastical and civil on which were £63 19*s.* The tithes were commuted in 1841 for £450 a year. The NATIONAL SCHOOL was built in 1848, but is not now used. The poor and the school have the dividends of £139 4*s.* Three per Cent. Consols, purchased with £133 left by various donors. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on January 13, 1875, and consists of Major John Tamar Davy, J.P. (chairman and hon. clerk), and Messrs. Hy. Ayre, Joseph Blake, John A. F. Loosmore and John Searle. They erected a school in 1877, at a cost of £348, to accommodate 93 children.

ROUSDON, or Roosdown, formerly an extra-parochial estate, but now a civil parish, 6 miles S.W. from Axminster, and 3 miles W. of Lyme Regis, is in Axminster union, county court district, petty sessional division and hundred, Eastern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Dunkeswell and Honiton rural deanery. It had 16 inhabitants (8 males, 8 females) in 1871, living in 3 houses, and comprises an area of 254 acres. This parish was anciently held by the Down family. Rousdon, on the land side, is entirely surrounded by Axmouth parish, out of which it was originally taken and made a distinct rectory by monks told off from a large religious establishment near Dieppe. Their CHURCH (St. Pancras), for a century a ruin, was rebuilt in 1872, by Sir Henry Wm. Peek, Bart., M.P. for Mid Surrey, who also gave the churchyard, and erected the schools opposite the north lodge gate. The church, which is in the Decorated style, consists of nave, chancel, short transepts and porch, and all its windows are filled with stained glass. The tithe is commuted at £5 per annum, and glebe land in Axmouth increases the value of the living to £43 a year. Sir Henry W. Peek, M.P., is the patron, and his brother, the Rev. Edward Peek, M.A., is the rector. The little parish has been laid out by Mr. Marnock, the eminent landscape gardener, in connection with a handsome mansion in the Early English style, now building by Moass & Redway, of Exeter, from the designs of Messrs. George & Vaughan, of London.

ST. BUDEAUX, a parish and pleasant village on an eminence overlooking the broad estuary of the river Tamar, 4 miles N.W. of Plymouth, is in Plympton union, East Stonehouse county court district, Midland Roborough petty sessional division, Roborough hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Three Towns rural deanery. It had 1522 inhabitants (774 males, 748 females), living in 271 houses, on 2649 acres. It includes the small hamlets of King's Tamerton, Honicknowle, Whittley, Saltash passage, Kinterbury, and part of Knackersknowle or Knoll, the latter of which is partly in Egg Buckland parish. St. Budeaux parish also includes 90 acres of land, hitherto reputed to be extra-parochial, situate on the east side of the Tamar, and north of the Royal Albert Bridge. This bridge, situated at Saltash, is constructed of iron, and is 2200 feet in length; the span of each of the openings, from the centre of one pier to the centre of the other, is 455 feet; the height of the centre pier, from the foundation in the bed of the river, 240 feet; and the height of roadway above high water mark, 100 feet. The total quantity of wrought iron in the bridge is 2650 tons, of cast iron about 1200 tons, and of masonry and brickwork for the piers about 17,000 cubic yards, and of timber about 14,000 cubic feet. The total cost of the bridge was £230,000. It was opened by the late Prince Consort on May 2, 1859. The Pollards were lords of the manor, but the family is now extinct, and the manor sold to various freeholders; John Croad Henn-Gennys, Esq., and Lady Ashburton, have estates here. The manor was anciently called Budockshed, and was long held by a family of its own name, who resided in the castellated manor house, of which an ivy-mantled tower still remains. Sir Harry Trelawny, aide-de-camp to the great Duke of Marlborough, lived here some years in retirement, and amused himself with planting and ornamental gardening. St. Budeaux church and churchyard, having been strongly fortified by the Royalists when blockading Plymouth, were taken by the Parliamentarians in January, 1646, when Major Stucley, with 20 other officers, and above 100 men, were taken prisoners.

The CHURCH, dedicated to St. Budeaux or Budock, which was erected in the 8th of Elizabeth, by Roger Budockshed, partly with the materials of the original church, which was of great antiquity, stood in an unhealthy situation near the Tamar estuary. The church was thoroughly restored in 1876 at a cost of £1300, raised by subscription. Among its numerous monuments is one to Sir Thomas Byard, of Mount Tamar, who devoted the greater part of his life to the service of his king and country; and another, beautifully sculptured in Italian marble, to the Major Stucley named above, which has been recently renovated by Sir George Stucley Stucley. The living is a vicarage, in the patronage of the vicar of St. Andrew's, Plymouth, and incumbency of the Rev. Wollaston Goode, M.A., who has a vicarage house and 3 acres of glebe. The small tithes are commuted at £60, and the great tithes at £325. The Rev.

Thomas Alcock, who officiated here more than 60 years, was a very eccentric and penurious character, and his sermons abounded in Latin and Greek quotations and passages from the English poets; even the treasures of private epistolary correspondence contributed to the instruction of his congregation. His 'Memoirs of Dr. Nathan Alcock,' his brother, is a well-written piece of biography. The new vicarage house and school, with teacher's residence, were built in 1866, with money given by the Government for the old buildings, which were required in the construction of forts, &c.

For educating and clothing twelve poor boys and twelve poor girls, the NATIONAL SCHOOL was endowed in 1767 with £400 stock, given by Peter Madock Docton, in satisfaction of an annuity of £10 left by his father. This stock was sold in 1770, and the proceeds laid out in the purchase of 17 acres of land. There are also belonging to the school £375 Three per Cent. Consols, which arose from savings of income; £100 left by Elizabeth Mary Docton; ond two yearly rent-charges of 20*s.* each, left by John Harris and Joanna Knighton. By a scheme issued by the Court of Chancery in 1863, all children residing in the parish are entitled to be admitted on the payment of one penny per week each; the clothing of 24 children is set aside by the scheme. Two cottages, for the residence of poor widows, were given by John Ernesettle, and endowed with 26*s.* 8*d.* per annum out of Ernesettle Barton. The poor parishioners have 30*s.* a year from Lanyon's and Rawling's charities, and one-third of the dividends of £100 Three per Cent. Consols, left by Joanna Knighton.

ST. GEORGE CLIST. (See Clyst St. George.)

ST. GILES-ON-THE-HEATH, a parish and village, 5 miles N.N.E. of Launceston, and 9 miles S. by E. of Holsworthy, is in Launceston union and county court district, Lifton petty sessional division and polling district of South Devon, Black Torrington hundred, diocese of Truro, and Trigg Major rural deanery. It had 356 inhabitants (177 males, 179 females) in 1871, living in 66 houses, on 3044 acres of land, including the hamlets of Pansom, Hoggadon, and Sitcott. The rateable value of the parish is £1720. Part of the parish is in the Duke of Bedford's manor of Werrington. Lady Molesworth is lady of the manor of Panson, or Paunston. The Duke of Bedford, H. Harvey, Esq., and H. Bradshaw, Esq., are the principal owners of the soil. The CHURCH was formerly in the appropriation of Tavistock Abbey, and is a small structure, consisting of chancel, nave, side aisle, and spire. The church is of Tudor architecture. The chancel was restored about ten years ago by Mr. Sedding; the square pews, which reached to the east wall of the chancel, and occupied two thirds of space of the chancel, were removed, and the original arrangement followed. The floor was laid with encaustic tiles. The whole expense was £120. At the present time the whole of the rest of the church is being restored, the south wall, which was supported by buttresses, rebuilt, and the pillars set upright, the tower raised, and the whole new roofed. This work is being done under Mr. St. Aubyn, and at a cost of £1000. The living is now valued at £120, in the patronage of the Duke of Bedford, and in the incumbency of the Rev. Charles H. Taylor, M.A., who has a house, built by the Duke of Bedford in 1869, at a cost of £1500. The trustees of Hele's Charity are impropriators of the tithes, which have been commuted for £129 8*s.* 8*d.* per annum. The poor have the interest of £22. The SCHOOL BOARD for this and Virginstow parishes was formed March 25, 1875, and consists of the Rev. C. H. Taylor (chairman and hon. clerk), Mr. John Mill (vice-chairman), and Messrs. T. Jewell, — Fry, and — Veale. The school, conducted on the mixed system, has accommodation for 40 children.

ST. GILES-IN-THE-WOOD, or Stow St. Giles, a parish and pleasant village 3 miles E. by S. of Great Torrington, is in Torrington union and county court district, Great Torrington petty sessional division, Fremington hundred, Northern division of the county, Barnstaple archdeaconry, and Torrington rural deanery. It had 977 inhabitants (478 males, 499 females) in 1871, living in 188 houses, on 4827 acres of land. The parish includes the hamlets of Kingscott, High Bullen, Dodscott, and Healand. A great part of it is in the manor of Stevenstone, which belongs to the Hon. Mark G. K. Rolle. He resides at STEVENSTONE HOUSE, which was almost entirely rebuilt and enlarged in 1868–72. It is in the Victorian style of architecture, and stands in a park of about 370 acres, which is well stocked with deer and contains fine timber. The Hon. Mark Rolle also owns the manor of Winscott, once held by Risdon the antiquary. Way Barton belongs to the Rev. C. W. Furse. Stevenstone is lighted with gas from works erected in 1873. Many good cottages have been erected during the last ten years, thus much improving the village. The CHURCH (St. Giles the Hermit), built in 1309 as a chapel to Torrington, and now consisting of nave, chancel, aisles, transepts, and tower containing six bells and a clock, was restored, in 1862, by the Hon. Mark Rolle, at a cost of £2000. Several of the windows are enriched with stained glass. The lych gate was erected by the patron in 1877. The benefice is a vicarage, valued at £126, in the patronage of the Hon. Mark Rolle, and incumbency of the Rev. H. J. Wilmot Buxton, who has a good parsonage house at Kingscott. The Dean and Chapter of Christ Church College, Oxford, are appropriators of the tithes, which are commuted at £479. There is a glebe of 29 acres. The BAPTISTS have a chapel at Kingscott, and the WESLEYANS one in the village; the latter was erected in 1854 (in lieu of one built in 1833), at a cost of £150; it will seat 130 persons, and contains a good organ. The NATIONAL SCHOOL, with teacher's residence, was erected in 1860 by Mr. Rolle, and is attended by 220 children. In the village is a READING ROOM, also provided by Mr. Rolle, established about 1870, which is well supplied with newspapers, and has a library of 220 volumes; there are about 55 members, and Mr. William Knott is the secretary. Here are four Almshouses, founded by Sir Henry Rolle, and endowed with £5 a year. The parish has several tenements for the poor, and two cottages for the clerk and schoolmaster. The poor have the interest of £200, given by various donors, and an annuity of 10*s.*, left by Charles Beer.

POST OFFICE at Mr. Walter Trick's. Letters are despatched at 5.30 p.m. to Torrington, which is the nearest Money Order Office. There is a WALL LETTER BOX at Kingscott, cleared at 5.25 p.m. week days only.

ST. LEONARD'S PARISH. (See Exeter.)

ST. MARY CHURCH, a parish and large village, which may be considered a suburb of Torquay, is in Newton Abbot union, Newton Abbot and Torquay county court district, Paignton petty sessional division, Haytor hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Ipplepen rural deanery. It had 4626 inhabitants (2015 males, 2611 females) in 1871, living in 877 houses, on 2589 acres of land. Its population was 801 in 1801, 909 in 1811, 1005 in 1821, 1204 in 1831, 1668 in 1841, 2293 in 1851, and 3231 in 1861. (See also 'Vital Statistics,' p. 81.) The parish includes Ilsham, Babbicombe, Barton, Coombe Pafford, Edginswell and Shiphay. It is situated on the high ground which shelters Torquay from the north in the southern corner of Babbicombe Bay, which is a part of the Great Western Bay, extending as far as the Bill of Portland. It is a much larger parish than Tormoham, and may be said to enclose it on three sides: it extends from Barton Cross to Hopes Nose, a distance of 7 miles; but it nowhere exceeds 2 miles in width. The configurations of the surface partake of the beautiful undulations noticed under the head of Torquay. Babbacombe-under-the-Hill is Swiss-like in its scenery. The Down is 300 feet above the level of the sea, and forms a most beautiful and natural promenade. The manor of Coombe Pafford and the Barton of Ilsham belong to Sir L. Palk. The manor of St. Mary Church, including Babbicombe, belongs to R. S. S. Cary, Esq.; a large part of Barton belongs to H. L. Brown, Esq.; and the district of Edginswell and Shiphay Collaton belongs to the Rev. Thos. Kitson and several smaller owners. A beautiful winding road has been made from the Down to Oddecoombe Beach for bathing purposes, where invalids may be driven down to the edge of the water. The Down is bordered with a number of marine villas, which in summer are much in request.

Petitor is a very remarkable spot; on each side are old red sandstone cliffs; in the centre is a promontory, whence the far-famed marble is procured. The marble, which rests on a substratum of red shale, is not very deep, and appears to have travelled there in some remote glacial period. St. Mary Church may be said to be the seat of the marble manufacture, and machinery has lately been applied in its manipulation. Madrepore inlaying has been practised from a remote period; and the material, so freely found hereabout, has been wrought into every conceivable ornament, and dispersed into every corner of the kingdom, not to say the world. The works now belong to Messrs. Blackler and Sons. Here are also terra-cotta works, belonging to the Torquay Terra-Cotta Co. (lim.) and to the Watcombe Terra-Cotta Co. Here is the late Mr. Brunel's favourite spot. He planted about 100 acres, intending to build a house, which he was not permitted to do. The place has changed hands several times, and a splendid mansion has now been built. The grounds contain the finest collection of conifers to be found in the country. Ilsham belongs to Sir L. Palk, and contains about 350 acres of land, which at some future time will form a very noticeable feature, so well is the ground adapted for building purposes, and so great its natural beauty.

The DAISON is the residence of W. J. P. Chatto, Esq., and was built in 1850, and considerably enlarged in 1868, when a private chapel wa s added. The house is 316 feet above the level of the sea, and receives its name from the Daison Hill, on which it stands, so called from it being the 'dais' or flat-topped rock on the common. Two sides of the hill show signs of having been at some time fortified with a double ditch; while the other two must have been very inaccessible before the hill was planted. Between the hills opening towards Ansteys Cove, and at a short distance from the sea, stands BISHOPSTOWE, the residence of Sampson Hanbury, Esq., and formerly of Dr. Phillpotts, the late Bishop of Exeter. This beautiful mansion is in the Italian style, and was built in 1841–2, from the design, and under the superintendence of Mr. Gribble, architect, of Torquay.

Watcombe and Ansteys Cove are favourite resorts of picnic parties, and are very noticeable for sublime attractiveness.

St. Mary Church is capable of large expansion, and in connection with Torquay is likely to form a considerable town. Part of the parish has been constituted a Local Board District, and had 4472 inhabitants (1948 males, 2524 females) in 1871, living in 884 houses. (See also page 81.) James W. Grant Wollen, Esq., is clerk; W. D. Bowden, Esq., surveyor and inspector; Paul Q. Karkeek, Esq., medical officer; and Mr. J. Parker Bovey, rate collector. The town is supplied with water from the Torquay reservoir, and its sewerage works have been carried out in conjunction with those of Torquay, with an outfall into the sea at Hopes Nose. (See Torquay.) GAS WORKS were established in 1868 by the Local Board, under an Act of Parliament. Mr. J. P. Bovey is the secretary.

KENT'S CAVERN.—The celebrated Kent's Cavern, or Kent's Hole, is situated in the Devonian limestone, about one mile due east from Torquay Harbour, and half-a-mile from the southern shore of Torbay, at the opening of the Vale of Ilsham. It has been known from time immemorial; even tradition fails to reach back to the date of its discovery.

Fossil bones and teeth were first found in it by Mr. Thomas Northmore of Cleve, near Exeter, in 1824; but the first to show the importance of the cavern to palæontologists and anthropologists was the Rev. John MacEnery, F.G.S., who conducted researches in it, during several years, commencing his labours in 1825. The Torquay Natural History Society undertook some investigations there in 1846; and in 1865 a committee, appointed by the British Association, commenced a thorough and systematic exploration, which has been continued without intermission up to the present date (1878), and is still in progress. The cavern has two entrances, in the face of the one and the same vertical cliff, and about 200 feet above mean tide level. The deposits hitherto recognised are known, in descending order, as the black mould, granular stalagmite, black band, cave earth, crystalline stalagmite, and breccia; some of which, however, are local only. With regard to the animal remains found in them, these accumulations resolve themselves into three series, or ages. The first, or uppermost, known as the Ovine deposits, includes the remains found in the Black Mould only, which represent the seal, water-rat, rabbit, hare, goat, sheep, red-deer, short-fronted ox, brown bear, badger, fox, dog, pig and man. The fossil remains found in the next lower series, from the granular stalagmite to the cave earth, both inclusive, are those of the cave lion, lynx (?), wild cat, cave hyæna, wolf, fox, Arctic fox (?), glutton, badger, cave bear, grizzly bear, brown bear, mammoth, woolly rhinoceros, horse, wild bull, bison, Irish deer, red deer, reindeer, hare, cave pika, water vole, field vole, bank vole, beaver, and a large extinct feline animal, termed Machairodus latidens. These are known as the Hyænine beds, because the hyæna was not only restricted to them, but he was by far the most prevalent form there.

The deposits below the cave earth make up the Ursine group, because the numerous remains found in them belong almost exclusively to bear, the only exceptions being a very few relics of cave lion and of fox.

That, however, which has rendered this cavern especially famous is the discovery of human industrial remains in all the deposits, from the Black Mould to the Breccia. In the Ovine beds they consist of 'whetstones;' angular and curvilineal plates of slate; pieces of smelted copper; bronze articles, including rings, a fibula, a spoon, a spear-head, a socketed celt, and a pin; spindle whorls, made of stones of different kinds; bone tools, including an awl, a chisel, combs of the size and somewhat of the form of shoe horns, having the teeth at the broad end; amber beads, charred wood, and numerous flint 'strike lights.' The human relics of the Hyænine era were numerous flint-flake implements—some ovoid and some lanceolate—flint chips and flint 'cores,' a bone awl, a bone needle or bodkin, having a well-formed eye, three bone 'harpoons,' and a bone pin; 'whetstones,' a hammer stone, and charred wood and bones. The existence of man in the oldest or Ursine era was attested by rude massive flint tools only. In short, as man is traced through the cavern deposits he is found from his tools to have been ruder and ruder as he was more and more ancient.

The Parish Church (St. Mary) was, with the exception of the tower, rebuilt at a cost of £10,000, in 1861; and is a large structure in the Decorated style, consisting of nave, chancel, aisles, and tower containing three bells. The tower was rebuilt in 1873, at a cost of about £3700, as a memorial to the late Bishop of Exeter, who is buried in this churchyard. The organ has been recently enlarged by Mr. Brunel, whose father gave the instrument; and a clock with chimes has been placed in the tower. The living is a vicarage, with Coffinswell annexed, valued in K.B. at £31 11*s.*, in the patronage of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and incumbency of the Rev. A. B. Wrey. There is a parsonage house, with a glebe of 1½ acre. The vicarial tithes are commuted at £205, and the rectorial at £305.

Babbicombe Church (All Saints) consists of nave, chancel, aisles, and porch, and was erected about four years ago, from designs by Mr. W. Butterfield, of London. The living is a vicarage, without house, in the patronage of the vicar of St. Mary Church, and incumbency of the Rev. John Hewett. The tithes are commuted at £70 a year, and there is a glebe of half an acre.

Furrough Cross Church, or, as it is commonly called, the Free Church, was built in 1852 for the use of parishioners of St. Mary Church, who, two or three years previously, had discontinued worshipping in the parish church on account of the Ritualistic doctrine and worship that had been introduced there. It is a neat, substantially-built Gothic structure, consisting of chancel, and nave with side aisle, with belfry over the porch. It is seated for 420 persons, and cost upwards of £1500. The expense was borne principally by the late Sir Culling E. Eardley, Bart., and several gentlemen in the neighbourhood. The property is freehold, and secured in the hands of a body of trustees for church purposes. There is no endowment. The congregation is in connection with no sect or Dissenting denomination; but is, in every respect except that of not being licensed by the bishop, in conformity and communion with the Church of England. Mr. Saml. Waymouth is clerk. The Schools adjoining Furrough Cross Church were built by public subscription in 1854, and cost about £600. They are fitted to accommodate 150 scholars. Babbicombe National School was erected in 1866 for 160 children.

Roman Catholic Church, dedicated to 'Our Lady Help of Christians and St. Denis,' is a beautiful building, in the Early Decorated style of architecture, by Mr. Joseph Hansom, the architect of the Duke of Norfolk's church at Arundel. The church at present will accommodate about 400 people, and consists of a nave and two aisles, with a sanctuary terminating in a pentagonal apse. The sanctuary is lighted by seven rose-windows, and is lined with Bath stone. The chancel arch is about 70 feet high, and the canopy over the high altar rises to a height of 30 feet, and gives great dignity to the altar, which is of Portland stone, with statues at each side, and a frontal with a carving of the Last Supper after Fra Angelico. A triforium runs above one of the aisles, which is intended to be a passage from the Orphanage to the gallery proposed to be erected at the west end when the church is completed, and the tower and spire are added. On the south side of the sanctuary is the Nun's Choir, separated by a screen of open woodwork. The exterior of the church is of the local marble in ashlar-masonry, and the presbytery is an ornamental building in harmony with the church. Parallel to the church on the south side is St. Mary's Priory, the Convent of the Sisters of Penance of St. Dominic, and one of the foundations of Mother Margaret Hallehan of Stone, Staffordshire. It is a large and striking edifice, and, besides the accommodation for the sisters, it includes a guest-house where ladies are boarded, and attached to it is a large orphanage for girls, where some 60 children are trained for domestic service. The orphanage was built in 1865; the church and presbytery were erected at the sole expense of a gentleman in the neighbourhood, and opened for divine service in 1869; and the convent, which is not yet completed, was commenced in 1872. A day school for Catholic children of both sexes is taught by the sisters in the Orphanage.

The PRIMITIVE METHODISTS have a chapel at Babbicombe, erected in 1868 at a cost of £625, to accommodate 185 persons; and the BAPTISTS and the WESLEYANS have each a chapel at Barton.

BARTON CHAPEL was built in 1873, at a cost of £600, of dressed limestone with Bath stone dressing, from designs by Mr. Clifton. The chapel will accommodate 150 persons.

Torquay Cemetery is in this parish. Babbicombe ecclesiastical parish, lately disjoined from St. Mary Church quoad sacra, by some failure or mismanagement in the process of separation, has lost the right of interment of its dead in the old parish churchyard, and is without one of its own.

POST from Torquay. There are three deliveries of letters, except on Sundays, when there is only one. There are Telegraph Offices at St. Mary Church and Babbicombe.

ST. MARY CLYST. (See Clyst St. Mary.)

ST. NICHOLAS parish, which includes the large villages of Shaldon and Ringmore, is in Newton Abbot union and county court district, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Eastern division of the county, Wonford hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Ipplepen rural deanery. It is situated on the south side of the mouth of the river Teign, opposite the seaport and bathing place of Teignmouth, 5½ miles E. of Newton Abbot and Bushell. The parish had 1243 inhabitants (514 males, 729 females) in 1871, living in 327 houses, the area is 790 acres, of which 210 acres are water. Ringmore village is in this parish and partly in Stoke-in-Teignhead. The manor, which was parcel of the barony of Okehampton, was held during many generations by the Carews, who sold it in 1671 to Lord Treasurer Clifford, an ancestor of Lord Clifford, the present owner.

SHALDON, a handsome village and bathing place in St. Nicholas parish, is picturesquely seated on the coast of the English Channel, opposite Teignmouth, and partly under the lofty promontory of bold red rocks, called the Ness. Shaldon is connected with Teignmouth by a ferry, and also by a long bridge which crosses the Teign by 35 arches, and is 1671 feet in length. (See Teignmouth.) Having a fine beach and much romantic scenery in its vicinity, it has become a favourite sea bathing place, during the last twenty years, in which many neat and tasteful houses, &c., have been erected on the Green, on the Marine Terrace, in Clifford Place, and in Bridge Street, as well as in the pleasant suburb of Ringmore. It has been much improved during the last five years, and has now many neat villas, and commodious lodging-houses. The CHURCH (St. Nicholas) was rebuilt by the Carew family about 200 years ago, and stands in a picturesque situation overlooking the estuary of the Teign, about half-a-mile west of Shaldon; but it is contemplated to erect a new church more in the centre of the village, as soon as funds are obtained. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £8, and now at £170, in the patronage of Lord Clifford, and incumbency of the Rev. William Henry Wrenford, B.A., who has a good residence. The living has been augmented from Q.A.B., and is said to have been formerly annexed to Haccombe. The CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, in Fore Street, was built in 1869 at a cost of £500, and has 200 sittings; the Rev. Richard Wrench is the minister. The WESLEYAN CHAPEL was erected in 1867. A SCHOOL BOARD was formed on October 24, 1874, and now consists of the Rev. W. H. Wrenford (chairman), and Messrs. Hosking (vice), Venn, Devonshire, and Hore. Mr. John E. White is clerk. They built the school in Bridge Road in 1876, at a cost of £1200, which will accommodate 160 children. Here is a COAST GUARD STATION, with a chief officer and three men. The poor parishioners have 10s. a year out of the parish rates, as interest of £10 left by Thomas Mudge, at an early period. A company is being formed with a capital of £2000 in £1 shares to light Shaldon and Ringmore.

POST, and MONEY ORDER OFFICE, and SAVINGS BANK at Mr. Richard Burch's, Fore Street. Letters are received at 7 a.m. and 5 p.m., and are dispatched at 2.25 and 6.35 p.m. (Sundays 11.35 a.m.) to Teignmouth.

SALCOMBE, a small seaport town, fishing station, and ecclesiastical district formed in 1844, out of Malborough parish, had 1913 inhabitants (829 males, 1084 females) in 1871, living in 410 houses, on 1300 acres. It is pleasantly and picturesquely situated on the western creek of the estuary, which runs up to Kingsbridge, and sends out several creeks from each side. It is considered the warmest place on the S.W. coast, as oranges, lemons, and American aloes bloom in the open air, in the pleasure-grounds of Woodcot and the Moult. To the lovers of coast scenery, there are many wild and romantic spots between Prawle point, on the east, and Bigbury bay on the west. Crabs, lobsters, and other fish are caught here. The sea cliffs rise in rocky grandeur westward from Bolt head, varying in height from 50 to upwards of 400 feet. Between Bolt head and Salcombe, in the haven mouth, are two coves, where the trees of a submerged forest are found under the sands, at the depth of two to three feet, and perfect hazel leaves and nuts have sometimes been dug up. It is the out-port of Kingsbridge, to which passenger boats ply daily. The entrance to the harbour is protected on the west by the bold promontory of Bolt Head, and on the east by Prawle Point. The haven has safe anchorage for about 200 ships, and vessels of 200 tons go up to Kingsbridge. It is often used as a harbour of refuge, and foreign vessels sometimes land their mail bags here. Since it has been a port of registry, larger vessels have been built, and now trade all over the world. The imports are chiefly coal, culm, groceries, foreign fruit, &c.; and many of the vessels built here are employed in bringing fruit, &c., from the Mediterranean, for which trade they are admirably adapted. The exports are corn, flour, malt, cider, potatoes, slate, &c. Here is a CUSTOM HOUSE. Captain W. H. Webbe, is principal officer, and Mr. R. L. Hurrell, tide-waiter. Lieutenant W. J. Balfour Ogilvy is inspecting commander of the coastguard, and Mr. T. Jenkins, officer-in-charge. The life boat was presented by R. Durant, Esq., of Sharpham, at a cost of £700. The boat house is on the South Sands: Mr. W. Cheffer is cockswain. At Hope Cove is the 'Alexandra' life boat, one of the two which were presented to the Royal National Lifeboat Institution by the Freemasons, as a thankoffering for the safe return of the Prince of Wales from his Indian journey.

SALCOMBE CASTLE was a strong fort, built for the defence of the harbour, about a quarter of a mile below the town, upon a rock which is insulated at high water, and sheltered behind by lofty rocky cliffs. There are still large remains of this bulwark, and the walls of the north-west angle are forty feet high, and about six feet thick. At the commencement of the civil wars of the 17th century, this castle was repaired at the cost of £3000, and Sir Edmund Fortescue was appointed governor for the king. After having sustained two other sieges, it was summoned by General Fairfax, on January 23, 1645, and after a siege of nearly four months, it surrendered on honourable terms to Colonel Weldon, governor of Plymouth; the garrison being allowed to march with their governor to his mansion of Fallapit. The castle key is still preserved in the family of the Fortescues.

Salcombe market is held on Fridays; and there is a pleasure fair on Whit Tuesday. The market house was built in 1848, at the cost of £600, and has a public room over the hall, and belongs to the market house and public room company, which was established in 1847: Mr. S. Pearce is secretary. The SALCOMBE SHIPPING ASSOCIATION was formed in 1831 to insure the ships belonging to the port against total loss. Mr S. Pearce is secretary. The GAS COMPANY (lim.), was incorporated in 1866. Mr. S. Pearce is the secretary.

The old Chapel at Salcombe, which was licensed by the bishop in 1401, had been gone to decay some centuries in 1801, when it was rebuilt, chiefly at the expense of John Yates, Esq., of Woodville. It was afterwards augmented with Queen Anne's Bounty, but being too small for the greatly increased population, it has given place to a new CHURCH (Holy Trinity), a handsome fabric, in the Lancet style of the 13th century, erected by subscription and grants in 1843, at a cost of £2605; it consists of chancel, nave, aisles, organ gallery, and small tower containing one bell. The East window is filled with stained glass, and was given by the Earl of Devon. The Register dates from 1843. The living is a vicarage, valued at £125, in the patronage of the Earl of Devon, and incumbency of the Rev. Maitland Kelly, M.A. There is a vicarage house, but no glebe. The WESLEYAN CHAPEL was built in 1849, at a cost of £391, in lieu of one erected in 1824; side galleries were added and other improvements effected in 1861, at an expense of £115; the chapel accommodates 500 persons. The BAPTIST CHAPEL was erected in 1871 at a cost of over £1000, on a site given by the Earl of Devon. The Rev. C. Evans is minister, and he is also pastor of Malborough church. The PLYMOUTH BRETHREN have a commodious place of worship in Folly Lane, and the Catholic APOSTOLIC CHURCH a meeting-room in Lower Street. The NATIONAL SCHOOLS at Allinghays were built in 1847 and 1875, the girls' school being added in the latter year. The INFANT SCHOOL was built in 1861, and a class room added in 1873. The BURIAL BOARD was formed on August 9, 1877: it consists of 7 members; the Rev. M. Kelly is chairman and treasurer, and Mr. J. Fairweather is secretary. A cemetery is about to be formed. Mr. S. Pearce is the honorary secretary of the Shipwrecked Mariners' Society. Salcombe Artillery Volunteer Corps (10th company of 2nd Administrative Brigade) has quarters here; W. H. Webb, Esq., is captain; J. H. Hill and T. Sladen, lieutenants; and Mr. William Lee, drill instructor. The Harbour Commissioners are the Earl of Devon (president), R. Hurrell, Esq. (chairman), and Messrs. J. Lidstone, P. O. Hingston, W. Beer, H. Grant, R. H. Sladen, and J. Harnden. G. B. Lidstone, Esq., is secretary, and Mr. J. H. Hill, harbour master.

POST, MONEY ORDER, TELEGRAPH, GOVERNMENT ANNUITY, and INSURANCE OFFICE, and SAVINGS' BANK, is at Mr. Edward Cole's, Buckley. Letters are received at 8.15 a.m., and despatched at 4.20 p.m. week days, and 11.45 a.m. Sundays, viâ Kingsbridge. Money Order, Annuity and Insurance business is transacted from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and on Saturday to 8 p.m. The Telegraph Office is open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. week days, and 8 to 10 a.m. Sundays. There is one delivery of letters daily, at 9 a.m.

WATER CONVEYANCE—Steam boat to and from Plymouth; steam boat to and from Kingsbridge, twice every week-day, according to tide. Nicholas March to and from Kingsbridge every week day.

SALCOMBE REGIS is a parish and small village, about 2 miles E.N.E. of Sidmouth, and 16 miles E. by S. of Exeter, picturesquely situated in the Sid valley, sheltered by boldly swelling hills, which terminate in the lofty red sandstone sea cliffs. It is in Honiton union and county court district, Ottery petty sessional division, East Budleigh hundred, Eastern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Ottery rural deanery. It had 504 inhabitants (221 males, 283 females) in 1871, living in 101 houses; the area is 2605 acres, of which 40 acres are water. The parish is bounded on two sides by the sea and the river Sid, and includes the small hamlet of Seed, or Sid. The manor was given to Exeter Cathedral by King Canute, but was sold by the Dean and Chapter, under the powers of the Land Tax Redemption Act of 1801, when three-fourths of it was purchased by the late George Cornish, Esq. The Rev. Robert Kestell-Cornish, Bishop of Madagascar, is now lord of the manor, but a great part of the soil belongs to C. J. Cornish, Esq., the Right Hon. Stephen Cave, the trustees of the late G. E. Balfour, Esq., and several others. SALCOMBE HOUSE, the seat of C. J. Cornish, Esq., is a large and handsome mansion, standing in a pleasant lawn, upon a bold eminence overlooking Sidmouth. Salcombe Hill rises 500 feet above the level of the sea. KNOWLE HOUSE is the property of the Right Hon. S. Cave. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is a fine Norman structure, comprising chancel, nave, aisles, and tower containing three bells. It has undergone many repairs and alterations, and was thoroughly restored about 25 years ago; a new chancel was built by order of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in 1869. In the chancel are many mural monuments and windows in memory of John Gray and Sarah Cornish. There was anciently a chapel in the parish, dedicated to St. Clement and Mary Magdalene. The parish is in the peculiar jurisdiction of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, who are appropriators of the great tithes and patrons of the vicarage, valued in K.B. at £14 12*s.* 8*d.*, and in 1831 at £160, and held by the Rev. John Philip Anderson Morshead. The tithes were commuted in 1739, and the glebe is about 9 acres. The parish school is supported by subscription, and attended by about 40 day and 50 Sunday scholars.

There is a WALL LETTER BOX near the Vicarage, cleared at 5.35 p.m., and also one opposite Brooklet Villa, cleared at 8.45 a.m. and 6.20 p.m. week days only. Sidmouth is the nearest Money Order and Telegraph Office.

SALTERTON, WOODBURY. (See Woodbury Salterton.)

SAMPFORD COURTENAY, a parish and pleasant village, 5 miles N.E. by N. of Okehampton, has a station on the South Devon Railway, and is in Okehampton union and county court district, Hatherleigh petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Black Torrington hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Okehampton rural deanery. The parish, which includes the hamlets of Willey and Croscombe, and the village of Sticklepath, had 1095 inhabitants (581 males, 514 females) in 1871, living in 202 houses, on 7962 acres of land. Sticklepath is on the Exeter and Launceston Road, about 2½ miles E. of Okehampton, on the banks of the Taw. Sampford Courtenay formerly belonged to the Courtenay family, as part of the barony of Okehampton. It is remarkable as the place where the western rebellion, occasioned by the alteration of the Church Service, broke out in 1549. (See page 324.) The Provost and Fellows of King's College, Cambridge, are lords of the manor. The Drew, Lethbridge, Rolle, Jackman, and other families, have estates in the parish, but about 4000 acres are copyhold, under King's College, and nearly 2000 acres are moors and commons. The CHURCH (St. Andrew) is a handsome structure, with a tower containing six bells. The benefice is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £47 2*s.* 1*d.*, in the gift of the Provost and Fellows of King's College, and incumbency of the Rev. Edward Reed Theed, who has 80 acres of glebe and a house. The tithes were commuted in 1842 for £650 a year. STICKLEPATH CHAPEL OF EASE is said originally to have been erected by Joan Courtenay, in 1146, and endowed as a chantry with lands, &c., valued at £9 10*s.* 8*d.* in 1547. It was rebuilt in 1875 at a cost of £700, raised by subscription. The WESLEYANS have a chapel at Sticklepath. A SCHOOL BOARD for this parish, and that of Honeychurch, with Belstone contributory, was formed on August 21, 1874, and consists of the Rev. E. R. Theed (chairman), Thomas Sloman, Esq. (vice-chairman), and Messrs. William Kelland, John Cook, H. Drew, John Langmead, and Edward Endacott. Mr. R. W. Fulford is clerk to the Board. The poor have the dividends of £111 13*s.* 8*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, purchased with £100 left by John Tickle, in 1801, and the interest of £33, given by various donors. They have also a small cottage, left by John Slowman, and an annuity of 10*s.*, left by John Langmead.

POST OFFICE at Mr. John Yeo's, Sampford Courtenay. Letters are received at 6.5 a.m., and despatched at 7.35 p.m. North Tawton is the nearest Money Order and Telegraph Office. POST OFFICE at Mr. Richard Yeo's, Sticklepath. Letters are received at 8 a.m., and despatched at 4.40 p.m. viâ Okehampton, which is the nearest Money Order Office.

SAMPFORD PEVERELL is a parish and village near the Great Western Canal, and the Bristol and Exeter Railway, 5½ miles E.N.E. of Tiverton, and 9 miles S.W. of Wellington. It is in Tiverton union and county court district, Cullompton petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Halberton hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton East deanery. It had 784 inhabitants (398 males, 386 females) in 1871, living in 159 houses, on 2000 acres of land. It has a fair for cattle, sheep, and horses, on the Monday before the last Wednesday in April, and had formerly a large woollen manufactory. The manor anciently belonged to the Peverells, from whom it passed to the Crown, in whose hands it remained until Henry VIII. sold it to Sir John Poulett. From that time the Pouletts retained possession until 1815, when the then Earl Poulett sold it to various freeholders. The Manor House was for a long period the seat of the Pouletts, and was for some time the residence of the mother of Henry VII., who died here. A Castle was built here by Oliver Dinham, about 1437, and its remains were cleared away about 1755. The CHURCH (St. John the Baptist) is an ancient structure, with a tower and six bells, and was restored in 1864 at the expense of the rector and parishioners. All the windows except one are filled with stained glass. The church contains a monument of Lady Poulett, who died in 1602; and a recumbent effigy of Sir Hugh Poulett as a crusader. The living, a rectory, valued in K.B. at £23 8*s.* 11½*d.*, and in 1831 at £320, is in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. George William R. Ireland, LL.D., who has 8 acres of glebe, and a good residence, erected in lieu of the old one, by the Canal Company, at the cost of about £1500. The tithes have been commuted for about £390 per annum. There is a WESLEYAN CHAPEL in the village, built in 1803. A NATIONAL SCHOOL was built here in 1874 at a cost of £600. Eight cottages and three houses, with land, &c., let for about £40 a year, have been vested in trust from an early period, for the relief of the poor parishioners not receiving parochial aid. The EAST DEVON COUNTY SCHOOL was established in 1860, by the Rev. C. S. Bere, assisted by various friends, and now belongs to a limited liability company. The buildings are admirably adapted to their purpose, and attached are a good racket court, a fives court, &c. The average attendance for the last few years has been 80 boys. The head master is Mr. Clouting, and there is a board of directors, chosen from the shareholders, in whom the management of the school is vested.

SAMPFORD SPINEY, a parish on the west side of Dartmoor, and in the valley of the small river Walkham, is 4 miles S.E. of Tavistock, including the village of Huckworthy Bridge and part of that of Horrabridge. It is in Tavistock union, county court district, petty sessional division, and rural deanery, and Tavistock polling district of South Devon, Roborough hundred, and Totnes archdeaconry. The parish extends over 1721 acres of land, and had 447 inhabitants (197 males, 250 females) in 1871, living in 101 houses. The manor anciently belonged to the family of Spinet, or De Spineto, and afterwards to the Drakes, Bidgoods, and Halls. The Rev. J. Hall Parlby is now lord of the manor, and principal landowner; but the Collins, Cole, and other families, have estates here, mostly freehold. The CHURCH (St. Mary) has a tower containing three bells, and was restored in 1868 at a cost of £700, raised by subscription. The living is a rectory, valued at £222 (gross), in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and incumbency of the Rev. Thomas Boggis, M.A. The tithes were commuted in 1841 for £172 10*s.* a year. There is no parsonage, and the rector resides at Tavistock. Here is a VOLUNTARY SCHOOL, rented of the lord of the manor, the Rev. J. Hall Parlby.

SANDFORD is a parish and straggling village in three detached portions, called East and West Sandford and New Buildings, in the vale of the small river Creedy, from 2 to 4 miles N. of Crediton. It is in Crediton union, county court district, petty sessional division and hundred, Northern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Cadbury rural deanery. It had 1630 inhabitants (841 males, 789 females) in 1871, living in 358 houses, on 7793 acres of land. There are two fairs at Sandford, on the third Monday in March, and last Monday in July. Ezekiel Hopkins, Bishop of Derry, and author of several theological works, was born here about 1633. The manor of Combe Lancelles was anciently held by the Lancelles family, but has been possessed more than two centuries by the Davie family, one of whom was created a baronet in 1641. Sir H. R. F. Davie, Bart., the present owner of this manor, and of Ruxford and other estates, resides at CREEDY PARK, which is delightfully situated on the west bank of the river Creedy, about 1½ mile N. of Crediton. The mansion, built by the first baronet, has been frequently altered, and has still a modern appearance. The Dowrich family are said to have held Dowrich House and Barton from the reign of King John, A.D. 1199. It was then the dwelling of Nicas or Nicholas de Duris; of William Richard de Douris in the beginning of King Edward I.; of William de Douris 30th Edward I.; of Richard de Dowris 8th Edward II.; of William Dowrish 19th Edward III.; and of Thomas Dowrish 14th Richard II. Risdon, writing about A.D. 1630, says that William de Dowrishe was lord of this land in the reign of Henry III., and that it was then lately the inheritance of Thomas Dowrish, the son of Walter Dowrish by the sister of George, Lord Carew, Earl of Totnes. Another historian writing upon it says:—'To enter the dwelling-house we pass through a building called the Prison, which indeed has all the appearance of one, and tradition says that it was such; for it is reported that the Dowrich family had great powers, and that it was actually a place of confinement for such offenders as were amenable to their jurisdiction. At the foot of the hill which we ascend to the house is a small brook with a bridge over it, and it is said that whatever criminal passed that bridge in his way from Dowrich House to the County Goal was sure to be hanged. Nothing remarkable is to be discovered in the house except a few very ancient family portraits and many armorial bearings of the intermarriages with some of the first families, the arms of whom are painted in the panels of the wainscoting of the drawing-room. The prospect from the house is extensive and very beautiful.' Lewis Dowrich, Esq. (great-grandson of the Thomas Dowrish mentioned by Risdon), died in 1717, having by his will devised the estate to his widow, Elizabeth Dowrich, who in 1719 intermarried with Charles Challis, Esq., of Lyon's Inn, who, having survived his wife, by his will, proved in 1745, devised the estate he had acquired through her to his daughter, Mary Lock, then the wife, and afterwards the widow of John Lock, Esq., lord of the manor of Bodington, in Gloucestershire. Mrs. Lock, who died in 1774, by her will gave Dowrich House and Barton and the mill near thereto (which last she had purchased from Mr. Hippisley-Coxe of Stone Easton, Somerset, who had acquired the same as his share of the estate of his ancestor, Sir John Davie, of Creedy, Bart.) to the family of the Rev. Charles Morgan, formerly rector of High Ham, Somerset. The Rev. Charles Morgan had two daughters, of whom the elder married Michael Clayfield, of Bristol, merchant. The younger daughter died unmarried in 1828, and upon her decease the property devised by Mrs. Lock passed to her great-nephew, Captain Edward Ireland Clayfield, elder son of Edward Rolle Clayfield, Esq., of Brislington, Somerset. Under the will of Captain Clayfield, who died without issue in 1862, the property passed to his nephew, Thomas Priaulx Clayfield-Ireland, Esq., second son of the late James Ireland Clayfield-Ireland, of Brislington, Esq., who died in 1872, having devised the property to his brother, Arthur Clayfield-Ireland, the present owner, who has lately purchased from the Crediton Charity Trustees a small estate called Rookwood, adjoining Dowrich, and which was once part of the Dowrich estate, having in the year 1621 been conveyed by Thomas and John Dowrich to trustees for the poor of Crediton. Polwhele, in his 'History of Devon,' states that Thomas Dowrich, of Dowrich, Esq., purchased the manor of Kennerleigh, and that Thomas, his grandson, sold it to John Northcote, Esq. Sir Stafford Northcote, Bart., M.P., is the present lord of the manor. There is a tradition which mentions that manor as having been lost by a Mr. Dowrich to a sharper at a game of picquet, the state of which game is represented on a table in Dowrich House, which table, the tradition says, Mr. Dowrich desired should be preserved as a warning to all the future heirs of Dowrich to avoid the vice of gaming. West Sandford was formerly the seat of the Chichester family; but now belongs to various owners. Park House is the pleasant residence of Elias Tremlet, Esq., and here are about a dozen smaller owners occupying their own land. The CHURCH (St. Swithun) is a neat Gothic structure, with a tower and five bells and a clock. It was newly seated and enlarged in 1850, at the cost of about £1400, exclusive of the handsomely-painted East window, which cost 100 guineas, and was inserted by his tenants and friends as a memorial of the late Sir Humphrey Phineas Davie, Bart., who died in 1846. The organ and the heating apparatus were erected in the church out of a legacy bequeathed by the late Mr. Brown, of Heavitree, near Exeter, to the parish for improving and embellishing the church. A small lancet window in the north chancel has been filled with stained glass by Mrs. Prowse, of Bow. The church was built at the beginning of the 14th century, and has a beautiful font of Caen stone, and several memorials of the Dowrich and Davie families. The parish was formerly a chapelry to Crediton, and is still connected with Crediton Church Corporation Trust, as noticed at page 244. The governors of this trust are impropriators of the tithes, which were commuted in 1843 for £1137 per annum. Three of the twelve governors are by the charters to be inhabitants of this parish, and they appoint the incumbent, with the approval of a majority of the parishioners. The Rev. Charles Gregory, M.A., is the present vicar, and the said governors allow him a yearly salary of £300, and also repair the Parsonage House, and contribute towards the support of the National School. Here is also an INDEPENDENT CHURCH, erected in 1849 in the Early English style, in connection with which there is a school. The NATIONAL SCHOOL was built in 1825 by the late Sir Humphrey P. Davie, Bart. Two new schools, at East village and New Buildings respectively, were erected in 1876 at the cost of about £500. The POOR'S LANDS, purchased in 1702 and 1720 with £205 given by Thomas Haydon and other donors, comprise a farm of 28 acres and several cottages, let for £62, and a field of nearly 3 acres let for £15 a year. In 1675 John Davie left six cottages, near the rivulet called St. Swithun's Shoot, in trust, to divide the rents among poor husbandmen not receiving parochial aid. They are let for about £24 a year. For a weekly distribution of two-shillings-worth of bread, Emanuel Davie left a yearly rent-charge of £5 4*s.* out of Moor Acre and Beer Meadow, now belonging to Sir H. R. F. Davie, who also pays £5 a year, left by John Dowrich, out of the Barton of Prowse, for clothing poor parishioners, not receiving parochial relief. In 1805 Daniel Norrish left £105 to be vested for the benefit of the poor. In 1677 Sir John Davie, Bart., charged Snow's tenement with the yearly payment of £10 for schooling 20 poor children, and £6 for providing them with clothing and Bibles. There are two yearly rent-charges of £3 each for schooling poor children, purchased with the bequests of Robert Ham and Mary Lock in 1743 and 1773. These free scholars are taught at the National School. The poor have the dividends of £200 (less legacy duty), invested in Bank of England Stock, and left by the Rev. Hugh Bent, a former incumbent—which are distributed on November 13—and also the interest of £100, left by Mrs. Morgan, of Dowrich, and given in coal on December 8 (the donor's birthday).

SATTERLEIGH parish is united for ecclesiastical purposes to the parish of Warkleigh, and is in South Molton union, county court district, hundred, rural deanery, and petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 66 inhabitants (32 males, 34 females) in 1871, living in 13 houses, on 515 acres of land. It is in the Mole Valley, 4 miles S.S.W. of South Molton. Henry Mordaunt, Esq., is lord of the manor, but part of the soil belongs to Messrs. John and Richard Baker, Miss Mary Thorne, and the Rev. Michael Thorne. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is a small antique fabric, with a wooden belfry, containing three bells; the chancel was repaired in 1852. The East window is filled with stained glass, in memory of James Gould, Esq., and his wife, of Northam. The Register dates from 1550. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £4 0*s.* 7½*d.*, in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. W. Thorold, J.P., of Warkleigh, who has here 31A. 0R. 20P. of glebe. There is also an augmentation farm in the parish of Warkleigh of 47A. 0R. 33P., forming parts of the endowment of the living. The tithes were commuted in 1849 for £70 a year, but the living is now worth £150.

SEATON is a parish and a pleasant retired village and bathing place on the western side of the river Axe, from 2½ to 3½ miles S. of Colyton, and from 19 to 20 miles E. of Exeter. Seaton parish, which includes the tithing of Beer, is in Axminster union, county court district, and petty sessional division, Colyton hundred, Eastern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Dunkeswell rural deanery. It had 2155 inhabitants (924 males, 1231 females) in 1871, living in 463 houses; the area is 2821 acres, of which 55 acres are water. Of the above, 1142 inhabitants (500 males, 642 females), living in 269 houses, were in Beer tithing. The parish and neighbourhood abounds in that beautiful and durable freestone, called Beer stone, of which the outer walls of Exeter Cathedral are built. This stone has been extensively used in the erection of churches and mansions in various parts of the county. Seaton has a pleasure fair on Whit-Tuesday. Seaton is supposed by some of the best informed antiquaries to have been the Roman station Moridunum, which Baxter has placed at Topsham, and Horsley at Eggerton Hill. Half a mile above the village is Honey Ditches, an oblong moated camp of 3 acres. Leland speaks of unsuccessful attempts to build piers at Seaton and Beer, and says a great tempest tore the unfinished pier at the latter place to pieces, and that in his time there was a 'mighty rigg and barre of pebble stones,' at the mouth of the Axe.

The GASWORKS were established here in 1863, at a cost of £1600, raised in £1 shares. There are 24 public lamps, and gas is supplied to private consumers for 7*s.* 6*d.* per 1000 cubic feet.

SEATON CHURCH (St. Gregory) is an ancient structure, with a tower and four bells, and was recently restored in 1867. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £17 0*s.* 7½*d.*, and in 1831 at £230, and now held by the Rev. Henry Vyvyan, who has 12 acres of glebe, and a good residence. The Hon. Mark Rolle is the patron, and also impropriator of the great tithes, formerly belonging to Sherborne Abbey. The tithes were commuted in 1839, the vicarial for £260, and the rectorial for £300 per annum. At Seaton is a WES-LEYAN and also an INDEPENDENT CHAPEL; the latter built in 1822. The poor parishioners have the interest of £20, given by Edward Good and the Rev. Robert Cutcliffe.

BEER, a tithing in the parish of Seaton, and about a mile west of Seaton Church, has a large fishing village on a small cove or creek, which runs to the English Channel through a deep narrow glen. The tithing had 1142 inhabitants (500 males, 642 females) in 1871, living in 269 houses. The Walronds were long seated at Bovey House, and were lords of the manor of Beer, which passed with their heiress to the late Lord Rolle, and now belongs to the Hon. Mark Rolle, who is the principal owner of the soil. The scenery on the coast from here to Sidmouth is probably the finest on the southern shores of Devon. The rocks are bold, and, by their association with other objects, present some very romantic and picturesque views. A part of the high cliff facing the sea, between Beer and Branscombe, called Southdown, was the scene of a great landslip in 1790, when upwards of 10 acres of land sunk down about 250 feet. Beer was formerly notorious for smuggling, and was the birthplace of that notorious smuggler, Jack Rattenbury, the Rob Roy of the West. Great quantities of fish are caught at Beer, and many of the women and girls are employed in making lace. The Queen's wedding dress was made here, in 1839. An Act for making a harbour in Beer cove was obtained in 1792, and another was obtained for the same purpose in 1820, but nothing has been done by the commissioners of either. Beer has a pleasure fair on the Monday after October 14. The foundation stone of the new CHURCH, built in the Geometrical Decorated style, on the site of the old chapel, from designs by Mr. Hayward, was laid on April 26, 1877, by the Hon. Mark Rolle, who defrayed the cost (£7000) of its erection. It consists of chancel, nave with clerestory, transepts, lean-to aisles, vestries, and north-west tower and quadrilateral spire, rising to the height of over 100 feet. The dressings throughout are of Beer stone, and the walling generally of Hook Head blue limestone. The columns supporting the arches are of polished Devonshire marble, and the capitals have been richly carved by Mr. Harry Hems, of Exeter. The seating throughout will be of pitch pine, and accommodation will be provided for 650 persons. The altar cover and the kneeling carpet are the gift of Lady Gertrude Rolle, who has also provided the altar rail. The lectern is the gift of, and has been carved by, a sister of Mr. Rolle. The curacy is annexed to the vicarage of Seaton. The INDEPENDENT CHAPEL was built in or about 1700, by Presbyterians. The WESLEYANS have a place of worship here. The late Lady Rolle left £3900 Three per Cent. Stock, for the foundation of an Almshouse at Beer, for 25 poor infirm fishermen, and 20 poor widows; and £3100 of the same stock for the support of Free Schools at Beer, for poor boys and girls.

SHALDON. (See St. Nicholas.)

SHAUGH PRIOR is a parish in Plympton St. Mary union, East Stonehouse county court district, Midland Roborough petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, and Plympton rural deanery and hundred. It had 615 inhabitants (352 males, 263 females) in 1871, living in 107 houses, on 8707 acres of land. The parish is pleasantly situated in the valley of the river Plym, and among the hills and dales at the south end of Dartmoor Forest, extending from 7 to 10 miles N.N.E. of Plymouth. Near Shaugh Bridge, on the Plym, the Dewerstone Rock rears its beetling crags above the channel of the Cad, or, properly speaking, the Plym rivulet, and in the vicinity are granite tors. The neighbourhood is often visited by anglers and the lovers of picturesque scenery. Excellent clay is found here for the china manufactures. Sir M. Lopes, Bart., is lord of the manor, which formerly belonged to Plympton Priory. The Earl of Morley, Chalker Pearse, Esq., and other proprietors, have estates in the parish. At Lee Moor are china-clay works and a brick manufactory. The CHURCH, an ancient fabric in the Perpendicular style, with a tower containing six bells, has been recently restored. It possesses a very curious and beautiful font canopy, which is fixed on the font in an unusual manner, access to the font being obtained by folding doors. The canopy is about 8 feet high, and the whole is surmounted by a finial, representing a bishop in the act of blessing, and there are other carved figures on the canopy. This rare specimen of carved woodwork has lately been entrusted to Mr. Harry Hems, of Exeter, for restoration. The living is a vicarage, or perpetual curacy, in the patronage of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and incumbency of the Rev. Jas. B. Strother, M.A., who resides at Tamerton Foliott. The patrons are appropriators of the great tithes. The parish land (6 acres) and a house, were purchased in 1627 with £23 left by 35 donors. The land is let for £10, and the house was converted into the parish workhouse about 1717, at the cost of £100. As noticed with Walkhampton, Lady Modyford left £50 to this parish, and directed the interest to be distributed in bread among the poor. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on December 28, 1874, and now consists of Sir Massey Lopes, Bart. (chairman), the Rev. G. R. Scobel (vice-chairman and hon. clerk), and Messrs. Martin, Mattacott, and Andrews.

SHEBBEAR is a parish and village on the northern acclivity of the Torridge Valley, 7½ miles W.N.W. of Hatherleigh. It gives name to a hundred, and is in Torrington union, and county court district, Great Torrington petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Barnstaple archdeaconry, and Torrington rural deanery. It had 950 inhabitants (473 males, 477 females) in 1871, living in 192 houses, on 5827 acres of land, and includes the hamlet of Cott. The manor belongs to Paul A. Kingdon, Esq., but most of the soil belongs to the Walter, Stevens, Coham, and other families.

The CHURCH (St. Lawrence) is a small structure with a tower containing six bells, and was appropriated to Tor Abbey. The Register dates from 1576. The living, a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £11 8*s.* 4*d.*, and now at £334, with Sheepwash annexed, is in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor, and incumbency of the Rev. William Strong Hore, M.A., who resides at Barnstaple. The Rev. John Popham Hayne, B.A., is curate in charge. There is a glebe of 3 acres, and the tithes were commuted in 1846, the vicarial for £288 11*s.* 8*d.*, and the rectorial for £216. The latter belongs mostly to the freeholders and the Brent, Stevens, and other families. There are CHAPELS here belonging to the Baptists, Wesleyans, and Bible Christians. A BIBLE CHRISTIAN COLLEGE, for the education of ministers' sons and candidates for the ministry, was opened in July 1878. It was built at an expense of about £5000, the foundation stone being laid on April 5, 1877, by the Earl of Portsmouth. It was in this neighbourhood that the Bible Christians originated. The SCHOOL BOARD for the united parishes of Newton St. Petrock and Shebbear was formed on October 1, 1874, and now consists of Messrs. W. Pett (chairman), Samuel Vanstone, James Paige, and B. Fowler. Mr. Henry Cory, Holsworthy, is clerk. The Board School, with teachers' residence, was built in 1877, and will accommodate 145 children. The Parish Lands for repairing the church and relieving the poor comprise about 100 acres, let for £90 a year, subject to fines. The poor have 23*s.* a year, left by Thos. Walter, and one Smallcombe; £5 5*s.* left by Lady Harrington; and the interest of £60 left by the Fortescue family for schooling poor children.

POST OFFICE at Mr. John Gammon's. Letters are received from High Hampton at 9.25 a.m., and despatched at 3.10 p.m. Holsworthy is the nearest Money Order Office. There is a WALL LETTER BOX in the village, cleared at 2.45 p.m. week days only.

SHEEPSTOR, or Shipstor, anciently written Schitestor, or Shittor, is a small village, in the picturesque valley of the little river Mew, or Meavy, on the western side of Dartmoor, near several rocky hills, and the Dartmoor Railway, 7 miles S.E. of Tavistock. It is in Tavistock union, county court district, Midland Roborough petty sessional division, Roborough hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, Plympton rural deanery, and Southern division of the county. It had 108 inhabitants (54 males, 54 females) in 1871, living in 20 houses, on 3595 acres of land. The parish includes some open moorland, on Ringmoor Down, &c., near the sources of the river Plym. John Bayly, Esq., is lord of the manor; but a great part of the soil belongs to Sir Massey Lopes, J. H. Boger, and several smaller owners. LONGSTONE, the ancient seat of the Elford family, is now a farm-house. The CHURCH is a small antique fabric with a tower containing five bells. The living is a vicarage, formerly united to Bickleigh, in the patronage of Sir Massey Lopes, valued at £61 (commuted tithe rent-charge). The Rev. Warneford Gompertz is the incumbent; and within the last few months Sir Massey Lopes has arranged for the purchase of Brook Cottage, belonging to the Rev. W. G. Daykin, which will be made the vicarage house. The PARISH SCHOOL was built in 1866, on the site of two cottages which belonged to the poor, and supported by children's pence and voluntary rate. The Poor's Lands comprise 5 acres, which are let for £9 10*s.* 0*d.* a year.

POST via Horrabridge, which is the nearest Money Order and Telegraph Office. There is a WALL LETTER BOX, cleared at 4.10 p.m. week days.

SHEEPWASH, or Shipwash, a parish and village in the Torridge valley, 5 miles W.N.W. of Hatherleigh, is in Torrington union, rural deanery, and county court district, Hatherleigh petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Shebbear hundred, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 462 inhabitants, (216 males, 246 females), living in 95 houses, on 1971 acres of land, the area including 182 acres of woodland, and 341 of common. A market was held here every Monday, till the latter end of last century; and here are still two annual fairs, on the second Thursday in March, and the Thursday before October 10. The two market houses, after being long neglected and dilapidated, were converted into dwellings some years ago. Several houses in the town were destroyed by fire in 1743. Lord Clinton, the principal landowner, is lord of the manor, formerly held by the Avenel, Metstead, Holland, and other families. Upcott Avenel is one of the pleasant seats of W. H. B Coham, Esq., J.P., and was formerly the property of the Hortons and Thornes. John Tosbury constructed the bridge over the Torridge here and devised lands for its maintenance. The CHURCH (St. Lawrence) is a small antique structure, with a low tower containing one bell and a clock, and is about to be restored. The Register dates from 1675. The benefice is a curacy annexed to the vicarage of Shebbear. The tithes were commuted in 1839—the vicarial for £99, and the rectorial for £110. The BIBLE CHRISTIANS and the BAPTISTS have each a chapel here. The NATIONAL SCHOOL, which will accommodate 85 children, was built in 1873–4, at a cost of £430, by Lord Clinton, who principally supports it.

POST OFFICE at Mr. Arthur Southcombe's. Letters by foot post, viâ High Hampton, are received at 8.5 a.m., and despatched at 5 p.m. Hatherleigh is the nearest Money Order Office.

SHELDON is a parish and small village, picturesquely situated among the hills, about 7 miles from Cullompton Railway Station, and 6 miles N.N.W. of Honiton. It is in Honiton union, county court district and petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Hayridge hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Dunkeswell rural deanery. It had 174 inhabitants (85 males, 89 females) in 1871, living in 34 houses, on 1681 acres of land. The parish belongs to Mr. E. Doble, Mr. Henry Ellis, Mr. George Speake, Mr. William Blackmore, and a few smaller freeholders. The manor was held by Dunkeswell Abbey, and afterwards by the Bourchier and other families. The CHURCH (St. James) was, with the exception of the tower, rebuilt in 1871, and now consists of chancel, nave, south porch, and western tower containing three bells. The chancel is separated from the nave by a rood screen. The Register dates from 1721. The living, a vicarage, valued in 1831 at £262, is in the patronage of William Miles, Esq., and incumbency of the Rev. Charles E. Band, of Combe Raleigh; the Rev. John Seager Gundry, of Honiton, is the curate. There is no parsonage house, and only a quarter of an acre of glebe, but the living is endowed with £140 out of the great tithes of Awliscombe. The tithes of Sheldon were commuted in 1837 for £145 a year, and that portion which belonged to Dunkeswell Abbey is now vested in Mrs. Drew. The Blackdown Mission has a room in the parish, supported by Messrs. Müller and Wright, of Bristol. Here is a small Parochial School; and there are charities amounting to 40*s.* a year.

SHERFORD, a parish and small ancient village, in a pleasant valley, 3 miles E. of Kingsbridge, and 13 miles from Kingsbridge Road Railway Station, is in Kingsbridge union, county court district, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Coleridge hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Woodleigh rural deanery. Its parish includes part of the village of Frogmoor, which is situated at the head of a navigable creek, 3 miles E.S.E. of Kingsbridge, and had 419 inhabitants (208 males, 211 females) in 1871, living in 88 houses, on 2326 acres of land. Here are lime kilns, granaries, and coal wharves, where vessels of 100 tons load and unload their cargoes. The manor is dismembered, and the parish now belongs to the executors of Stephen Brunskill, J. S. Hurrell, W. Pollard, and L. Howard, Esqrs., and a few smaller owners. It anciently belonged to St. Nicholas's Priory, Exeter, and afterwards to the Willoughby, Trevelyan, and Templer families. KEYNEDON, an ancient farmhouse of the early Tudor period, was successively the seat of the Prall, Halls, and Aldam families, the latter of whom sold it to L. Howard, Esq. Its tower was taken down by the Aldams. MALSTON, another farmhouse of the same age, was the seat of a family of its own name, and afterwards of the Stighulls and Reynells. The CHURCH (St. Martin) is a fine specimen of the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, and a lofty tower containing five bells. There are stoups at the north and south doors, and in the chancel is a fine trefoiled piscina. The benefice is consolidated with the vicarage of Stokenham, and is held by the Rev. J. C. Carwithen. The tithes were commuted in 1842—the vicarial for £171 5*s.*, and the rectorial for £249 19*s.* 8*d.* per annum. Of the latter, £105 belongs to the vicar of Townstal, £72 10*s.* to the vicar of Churstow and Kingsbridge, £59 to the vicar of Blackawton, £5 10*s.* to Mr. John Adams, £4 17*s.* 8*d.* to Mrs. Mary Holdsworth, £1 9*s.* to Mr. William Pollard, £1 5*s.* to Mr. John White, and 8*s.* to Mr. George Steer. Here is a small WESLEYAN CHAPEL. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on April 7, 1875, and now consists of the Rev. J. C. Carwithen (chairman), and Messrs. John Lindon (vice), John Adams, John J. Michelmore, and J. Wintle. J. S. Hurrell, Esq, of Kingsbridge, is clerk to the Board. A Board School has been erected this year. Poor seamen or their widows, of this parish, have 3 acres of land, purchased with £50 left by George Dottin, in 1701.

LETTERS are received by foot messenger at 9 a.m. from Frogmoor. There is a WALL LETTER BOX, cleared at 12 noon, week days only. Kingsbridge is the nearest Money Order Office.

SHERWELL, or Sherwill, a parish and pleasant village, 4 miles N.E. by N. of Barnstaple, giving name to a hundred and a rural deanery, is in Barnstaple union, archdeaconry, and county court district, Braunton petty sessional division, and Northern division of the county. It had 525 inhabitants (279 males, 246 females) in 1871, living in 107 houses, on 4462 acres of land. It includes the hamlets of Sherwell Cross and Sherwell village. Sir Arthur Chichester, Bart., whose baronetcy was created in 1641, is lord of the manor, and owner of most of the soil, and has a handsome seat here, called Youlston Park, which one of his ancesters obtained by marrying the heiress of the Beaumonts, in the reign of Henry VII. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is a plain structure, consisting of nave, chancel, north aisle, and tower containing six bells. In the church are several monuments of the Chichesters. The living, a rectory, valued in K.B. at £30 3*s.* 11½*d.*, and now at £561, is in the patronage of Sir A. Chichester, and incumbency of the Rev. Richard John Beadon, M.A., who has 85 acres of glebe, and a house erected about 30 years ago. The PARISH SCHOOL, which was erected in 1830, is attended by 85 children. The poor should have the interest of £56 10*s.*, given by various donors, but the charity has been lost.

SHERWOOD, or Sherwood Villa, near Newton St. Cyres, formerly extra parochial, has been constituted a civil parish, and is in Crediton union, county court district, and petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Cadbury rural deanery. It had 4 inhabitants (2 males, 2 females) in 1871, living in 1 house. The area is about 60 acres. The parish is owned by Thomas Flond, Esq., of Exeter.

SHILLINGFORD ST. GEORGE, 3½ miles S. by W. of Exeter, is a small parish in the Kenn valley, sheltered on the south by the lofty Haldon Hill, in St. Thomas's union, Exeter county court district, Wonford petty sessional division, Eastern division of the county, Exminster hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Dunkeswell rural deanery. It had 67 inhabitants (35 males, 32 females) in 1871, living in 13 houses, on 397 acres. Sir L. Palk is lord of the manor, owner of the soil, and patron of the rectory, which is consolidated with that of Dunchideock, as noticed at page 306. The incumbent has here a good residence. The CHURCH has a tower and one bell, and was repaired and beautified about 25 years ago.

SHOBROOKE, a parish and village in the vale of the small river Creedy, 2½ miles E.N.E. of Crediton, is in Crediton union, county court district and petty sessional division, West Budleigh hundred, Northern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Cadbury rural deanery. It had 626 inhabitants (316 males, 310 females) in 1871, living in 140 houses, on 3835 acres of land. J. H. Hippisley, Esq., J.P., owns a great part of the soil, and is lord of the manors of Shobrooke and Little Fulford, the latter of which extends into Crediton parish. He has a handsome seat here, called Shobrooke Park. The mansion was built by the lats R. Hippisley Tuckfield, Esq., who pulled down the old house, built by Sir William Periam, Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer. The park is well wooded, and stocked with deer. W. C. Cleave, Esq., owns part of West Raddon estate, and several smaller freeholders have estates in the parish. Part of West Raddon belonged to the Westcote family; and Thomas Westcote, the antiquary, was born there in 1567, and was buried at Shobrooke about 1640. His 'View of Devonshire' was edited and published in 1845 by the Rev. Geo, Oliver, D.D., and Pitman Jones, Esq.; but it is confined chiefly to the descent of manors and the pedigrees of families. The CHURCH (St. Swithun), an ancient structure, with a tower containing six bells, is in a very dilapidated condition, but steps are being taken to restore it. The rectory, which up to 1860 had been annexed to the Bishopric of Exeter for more than 200 years, is valued in K.B. at £36. The glebe is 25 acres, and the tithes were commuted in 1841 for £580 per annum. The rectory house was built about 18 years ago. The present rector is the Rev. G. I. Wallas, M.A. The living is in the gift of the Bishop of Exeter. Here is a small parochial school. The poor have £3 8*s*., and the schoolmaster £1 12*s*. yearly from the dividends of £200 Three per Cent. Stock, purchased with various benefactions. For teaching poor children the schoolmaster has also a yearly rent-charge of £3, left by Mary Trenchard in 1728, out of land at Shobrooke and Crediton. Elizabeth Tuckfield, in 1802, left £10 a year to the poor of Shobrooke (see Crediton), and they have also the dividends of £142 17*s*. 1*d*. Three per Cent. Stock, purchased with £90, left by Lydia Hunt, in 1804.

SHUTE, a parish of scattered houses, 3 miles N.E. of Colyton, 3 miles W. of Axminster, and 24 E. of Exeter, is in Axminster union, county court district, petty sessional division, Colyton hundred, Eastern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Dunkeswell and Honiton rural deanery. It had 747 inhabitants (370 males, 377 females) in 1871, living in 140 houses, on 2738 acres of land. The parish includes the village of Whitford, a mile S. of the church, and 1½ mile N.E. of Colyton. Sir Wm. Edmund Pole, Bart., is lord of the manor, and resides at SHUTE HOUSE. Shute Park, which is extensive and stocked with deer, has a larger and handsome mansion, mostly rebuilt by Sir John William Pole, Bart., about 1790, the ancient house being then fast falling into decay. The plan of the building is a square centre, with two uniform wings connected by corridors. The manor of Shute was anciently held by a family of its name, and afterwards by the Pynes, Bonvilles and Greys. It was purchased of Lord Petre, in 1787, by Sir J. W. Pole. Leland calls Shute Park 'a right good manor place of the Marquis of Dorset,' which before had long been the seat of the Bonvilles. Sir William Pole, the learned antiquary, settled it on his eldest son in 1628, during his father's lifetime; and it has ever since been the seat of his family. A fair for pleasure is held at Whitford on the Monday before Michaelmas-day. The CHURCH (St. Michael) is an ancient structure with a tower rising from the centre and containing five bells. It has several handsome monuments of the Poles, one of which has a fine white marble statue of Sir William Pole in full dress, as master of Queen Anne's household; there is also a tablet to C. B. Templer, Esq., who perished in the 'Halsewell,' East Indiaman, in 1786. The chancel was restored in 1863, and the interior was renovated and reseated in 1869, the cost being defrayed by rate and subscription. The living, a vicarage—formerly annexed as a chapelry to Colyton, but separated therefrom in 1860—is in the patronage of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and incumbency of the Rev. Thomas Cole. The vicarial tithes are commuted at £180; but the living is further augmented with £70 from the rectorial tithes of Colyton, but this arrangement only holds good until the present lease of the rectorial tithes of Shute falls in. Shute rectorial tithes are commuted at £300 a year. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on January 4, 1875, and now consists of Sir W. E. Pole (chairman), the Rev. T. Cole (vice), and Messrs. William Newbery, N. R. Gillingham and Robert Dommett. Mr. John Rapsey is clerk. The schools, with teacher's residence, were erected in 1876–7 at a cost of £1681, and will accommodate 130 children.

SIDBURY, a parish and an ancient compact village, in the picturesque valley of the river Sid, 3 miles N.N.E. of Sidmouth, is sheltered on either side by verdant hills, and had formerly a weekly market on Wednesday, pursuant to a grant of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter. It is in Honiton union and county court district, Ottery rural deanery and petty sessional division, East Budleigh hundred, Eastern division of the county, and Exeter archdeaconry. It had 1594 inhabitants (764 males, 830 females) in 1871, living in 355 houses, on 6827 acres of land. It includes the long village of Sidford, half-way between Sidbury and Sidmouth, where there is a good bridge, on the Exeter and Lyme Regis road. The parish rises in bold hills on both sides of the valley, and comprises many scattered farmhouses, and several handsome villas, with tasteful grounds, commanding pleasing views. Its market has long been obsolete, but it has still two annual fairs, on the Tuesday before Holy-Thursday, and the Wednesday before September 20. The latter is chiefly for cattle and cheese. On the narrow ridge of Castle Hill is an entrenchment, 1400 feet long, and about 300 broad. It is supposed to have been formed by the ancient Britons, and afterwards used by the Romans, Saxons, and Danes. The manor of Sidbury was held from an early period by the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, who sold it in 1801 to William Guppy, Esq., and other freeholders, of whom it was purchased by the late Robert Hunt, Esq. Court Hall, the manor house, is the property of the Right Hon. S. Cave, and he also owns Woodhouse, Sidbury House, and other estates in this large parish. The manor of Stone and Sidford was anciently held by the De la Stane family, and afterwards by the Pym, Periam, Pole, and Bartlett families. Mincombe and Sand estates were held at an early period by families of their own names; but the former now belongs to the Right Hon. S. Cave, and the latter to John Huyshe, Esq. Cotford House, the seat and property of W. R. Bayley, Esq., is a large and handsome mansion, built in 1847, at the cost of £8000. It stands near the site of the old house, on an extensive and well wooded lawn, commanding beautiful views of the surrounding hills. The Hon. S. Cave owns Knapp estate, on which the late William Hewertson, Esq., enclosed and cultivated about 200 acres of land, formerly a sterile common. Richard Marker and Thomas Glanville, Esqrs., and several smaller freeholders, have estates in the parish. A large mansion is being erected, from the designs of Mr. Brandon, by Messrs. Lucas Bros. for the Right Hon. Stephen Cave, M.P. for New Shoreham. The CHURCH (St. Giles) is a fine structure of Norman and Perpendicular architecture, which has undergone many repairs and alterations. The Norman tower was rebuilt in the original style in 1843, at the cost of £500. It contains a clock and six musical bells, and is crowned by a short spire. Two antique stone figures, found in the walls of the old tower, are now placed on either side of the western door. The aisles are separated from the nave and chancel by finely carved arches. The windows are in the Perpendicular style, but that at the East end has evidently been altered from the Norman style, as the external ornaments are of that character. The parish is in the peculiar jurisdiction of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, who are also appropriators of the great tithes, and patrons of the vicarage, valued in K.B. at £28, and in 1831 at £376. The Rev. George Thomas Comyns is the incumbent, and has 6 acres of glebe, and a neat residence, built in 1814, at the cost of £1200. The small tithes were commuted in 1843 for £616. A CHAPEL OF EASE was built at Sidford in 1865 at a cost of £1200, defrayed by the Rev. G. T. Comyns, the vicar, who also gave the site; it is built of red brick and freestone, and consists of chancel, nave, north and south aisles, and north and south porches. The INDEPENDENT CHAPEL, erected here by Presbyterians in 1715, was rebuilt in 1820 at the cost of about £600. It will seat 350 hearers, and is now under the ministry of the Rev. G. Ridgeway.

The National School was built in 1830, at the cost of £320, of which £150 was given by the National Society. For distribution in money, clothing, &c., the poor parishioners have £76 15s. per annum, arising as follows:—£30 from a house and 34 acres of land, left by Henry Beaumont, in the 35th of Elizabeth; £25 from 18 acres of Poor Land, at Venn Ottery, purchased in 1665 by the feoffees of the parish; £6 from 1½ acre of land, purchased with £60 left by Anthony Isaack, in 1631; and £6 16s. from two acres called Stephen's Cross Land, given by an unknown donor. They have also £5 a year out of Sandcombe estate, left by Anna Atleigh; and £1 a year out of Harcombe estate, left by Timothy Staple in 1637.

SIDMOUTH ranks next Torquay and Exmouth as a fashionable watering place on the southern coast of Devonshire, and surpasses them both as a warm winter residence for invalids, especially those afflicted with pulmonary complaints. It is distant 16 miles E. by S. of Exeter, 6 miles S. by E. of Ottery St. Mary, and 10 miles E.N.E. of Exmouth. It is in Honiton union, and county court district, Ottery petty sessional division and rural deanery, East Budleigh hundred, Eastern division of the county, and Exeter archdeaconry. It had 3360 inhabitants (1408 males, 1952 females) in 1871, living in 697 houses. The area is 1600 acres, of which 60 acres are water. The population of the parish was: 1252 in 1801; 1688 in 1811; 2747 in 1821; 3126 in 1831; 3309 in 1841; 3441 in 1851; and 3354 in 1861. (See also 'Vital Statistics,' page 81.) Sidmouth is a pretty market town and bathing place, picturesquely seated at the mouth of the small river Sid;—open on the south to the English Channel, but sheltered on every other side by the towering sea cliffs, and the verdant hills, rising boldly on either side of the deep valley, to the height of nearly 500 feet above the level of the sea. It is said to have been a borough, under the government of a portreeve, in the 13th century, and to have been, at a much later period, an important fishing station, until the loss of its fishermen and boats, in a severe storm, at an unknown date. We do not find any records of the borough, or of the grant of its market; and it was but an inconsiderable place about 80 years ago, when it began to put forth its claims as a watering place. The market is held every Saturday, and is well supplied with provisions. Here are two annual fairs on Easter Monday and the third Monday in September. There are here upwards of 70 small fishing boats, and a coastguard station; and about 400 women and children are employed in making Honiton lace. A branch Railway was opened from Ottery Railway Station on July 6, 1874, and the line will, it is anticipated, be extended to Exmouth, a distance of 9 miles. The manor of Sidmouth was given by William the Conqueror to the Abbey of St. Michael, in Normandy. During the succeeding wars with France, it was given to Sion Abbey. After the dissolution of the monasteries, it was successively leased to the Gosnell, Periam, and Mainwaring families. In the reign of James I. Christopher Mainwaring, Esq., sold it to Sir Edward Prideaux, Bart., whose descendant sold it to Thomas Jenkins, Esq., whose nephew sold it to Edward Hughes Ball Hughes, Esq., the late proprietor, to whom the town is indebted for many of its modern improvements. The late George Edmund Balfour, Esq., purchased the manor in 1867, but dying in 1869, the property fell into the hands of six trustees, who have added considerably to the estate, and built a large mansion of the Jacobean style, from designs by Mr. G. Somers Clarke, of Pall Mall, London. Attached to the house are extensive grounds beautifully laid out. KNOWLE was purchased by the late Richard Napoleon Thornton, Esq., from Mr. Marston, to whom the estate had been left by J. L. Fish, Esq. Richard N. Thornton died on May 28, 1876, after extending the grounds to nearly 40 acres, adding largely to the house and otherwise improving the estate, at a cost of about £40,000. The house is now occupied by his son, the Rev. Richard T. Thornton, B.A. There formerly existed a manor. The residence, or manor house (now called Woodlands) of Radway, which belonged to the Jenkins family, and another known as Old Hayes, were held by the late Lord Gwydir, and now belong to Captain Jolliffe, R.N. Several beautiful seats in the neighbouring parishes of Salcombe, Sidbury, Bicton, &c., are noticed at other pages.

In 1839 an Act of Parliament was obtained for building the present commodious Market-house, and granting the market dues to the lord of the manor. In 1835 the inhabitants, fearful of the incursions of the sea, which are continually wasting neighbouring parts of the coast, commenced the erection of the excellent sea wall, which cost about £2500, of which £1200 was given by the lord of the manor. It was completed in 1838, and affords a dry and very agreeable promenade, upwards of 1700 feet in length. The town is well lighted with gas, and is supplied with pure soft water, from the Cotmaton springs. It has some highly respectable shops, several good inns and hotels, and many well furnished lodging-houses and villas, suitable for the middle and higher classes of visitors. In 1820 Sidmouth was recommended as the residence of the late Duke of Kent, then in a very delicate state of health. He came here accompanied by the Duchess and her present Majesty, but died after a short residence, in the 53rd year of his age. That distinguished statesman, the late Right Honorable Henry Addington, was created Viscount Sidmouth in 1805, and in 1844 was succeeded by his eldest son, the present Viscount, who resides at Richmond Park, Surrey, and occasionally at Up Ottery, in this neighbourhood.

The beach at Sidmouth is situated in one of those hollows, or curves, of which there are many in the vast bay of Devon and Dorset, extending from Start Point in the former, to the Isle of Portland in the latter county. On the east and west sides of the town rise two immense hills, about 500 feet high, running northward from the peaked cliffs, with a deep valley between them, through which the little river Sid runs to the sea. Along the bottom of this valley lies the town, with a considerable part of its front towards the sea. On the slopes of the valley, extending about a mile inland, are the suburbs, studded with villas, and every description of marine residence. The bottom of the valley is an alluvial deposit, formed by the denudation of the hills; and the escarpments on the rugged and precipitate face of the lofty cliffs show the stratification of the new red sandstone formations, capped in some places with the upper green sand, and in others with small portions of the chalk formation. Many feet of hard limestone rock crown the top of Dunscombe Hill, though great quantities have been taken away for building purposes. These rocks are highly fossiliferous; many beds of shells, both bivalve and univalve, occur among them; and various ammonites and echinites are not rare. The beach is pebbly and shelving, and the pebbles consist chiefly of rolled flints, and marbles, often of great beauty; green sand pebbles, wood agates, chalcedony, and other siliceous productions are often found. Some of them contain crystals of carbonate of lime, which possess the double refracting power of Iceland spar. There are usually nine bathing machines on the beach. It was proposed to construct a harbour at Sidmouth in 1811, and the subject was revived in 1836, when the first stone at Chit Rock, on the western side of the town, was laid with much ceremony; but after expending a large sum of money, the work was discontinued, as impracticable, or not worth the great expense which its completion would have required. If the shingle by which the mouth of the river is constantly blocked up be protected from the action of the sea, the river will scour for itself a permanent opening, and the pier can then be made a small harbour, advantageous not only for landing coal to the Gas Works, but also for the general trade of the town, and for yachts. On the East Cliff is a flagstaff, erected by the townspeople in 1860, as a tribute of respect to Thomas L. Fish, Esq., then of Knowle. Mr. John Barber is chief officer of the Coastguard; Mr. William Gill, chief boatman; and there are fourteen men. Here is a life-saving and rocket apparatus. The Royal National Lifeboat Institution has a branch here. W. M. Floyd, Esq., is honorary secretary.

PETTY SESSIONS are held at the Market Hall once in two months by the magistrates of Ottery division. (See Ottery St. Mary.)

A Local Board was formed here in May 1863, and consists of John B. Webber, Esq. (chairman), and Messrs. Potbury, Denby, Lethaby, Grigg, Chamberlain, Harvey, Newman, and Farrant. John George Galloway Radford, Esq., is clerk; Mr. Alexander Martin, sanitary inspector and surveyor; Dr. Pullin, medical officer; C. F. Webber, Esq., treasurer; and Mr. James L. Hooke, rate collector. They have thoroughly drained the town, repaired the streets, and considerably strengthened the sea wall. There are upwards of 80 public lamps in the town, exclusive of the beacon light on the Esplanade, which is registered at Trinity House. The rates of the Local Board, including light and other expenses, only amount to 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound. The West of England Fire Engine Station is in Mill Street, and the keys are kept at Mr. J. Blackmore's.

Gas Works were established in 1837, and the Water Works in 1845. New Gas Works have however been recently erected by Mr. John Dunning, of Middlesbro', under the powers contained in a Provisional Order intituled, 'The Sidmouth Gas Order, 1874.' The promoter of the Gas Order also obtained a further Provisional Order for the purpose of erecting piers and landing places now in course of construction at the eastern end of the Esplanade.

The Parish Church, dedicated to St. Giles, but generally supposed to be dedicated to St. Nicholas, it having been consecrated on the morrow of the feast of St. Nicholas, is a large, handsome edifice, which was, except the tower, entirely rebuilt in 1860. It consists of a lofty nave, with aisles and clerestory, transepts, and tower containing eight bells. The tower is of Perpendicular date, and the rest of the church is in the Decorated style. The reredos is of carved stone. The tower, which is open to the nave, contains a five-light window filled with handsome stained glass, designed by Mr. H. Hughes, Soho. It was given by the Queen, as a memorial of her father, the Duke of Kent. Altogether the window contains upwards of sixty separate figures, besides heads of cherubs, emblems, and other forms. In the centre is represented Our Lord Blessing the Little Children; in the side compartments are illustrations of the six deeds of Love, referred to in Matt. xxv. 35–36, and two others, suggestive of benevolent institutions; in the circular head of the window is represented Our Lord in Glory; and at the base of the window are depicted five of the reputed acts of St. Nicholas. The East window contains a representation of the Crucifixion and the Evangelists, and was given by the Earl of Buckingham in 1860. There are also large, handsome memorial windows, respectively to the Major-General Sir Henry Floyd, Bart. (died 1869), Mary Barnard, George Cutteres, George Bador, Emma, widow of the Rev. Thomas Pennant, Elizabeth Bacon, Major James Brine and his wife, T. L. Fish, Esq. (died 1861), and John Badon, besides some smaller windows. All the windows, except those in the clerestory, are filled with stained glass. There are also many handsome mural monuments, and a stone slab in the transept, on which is cut a list of the vicars of Sidmouth in continuous succession from 1175; this list contains 35 names. The Register dates from 1588. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £18 15*s.* 5*d.*, and in 1831 at £484, in the patronage of Colonel Clements and J. M. Clements, Esq., and incumbency of the Rev. H. G. J. Clements. The tithes were commuted in 1839—the vicarial at £270, and the rectorial at £200 a year. There is a glebe of 23 acres, and a parsonage.

The New Church, dedicated to All Saints, is a small neat chapel of ease, at the north end of the town, erected in 1839, at the cost of about £2000, raised by subscription. A reredos of finely-grained Corsham stone, and executed by Mr. Harry Hems, of Exeter, was unveiled in February 1878. It has a small endowment, and about 800 sittings. The living is a perpetual curacy, in the gift of Sir J. Kennaway and others, and incumbency of the Rev. C. MacArthur.

Here is an old Unitarian Chapel, built about two centuries ago by Presbyterians. The Independent Chapel is a neat building, erected in 1846 at the cost of £1200. Here is also a Wesleyan Chapel, built in 1837 at the cost of £600, and the Plymouth Brethren meet in a room in York Street. Sunday Schools are attached to most of the places of worship, and large National Schools for boys, girls, and infants are connected with the Parish Church, and supported partly by subscription, and partly by a portion of the parochial charitable funds, distributed by the feoffees. All Saints' Church School was built by subscription in 1848, and has a house for the mistress. The Dispensary, supported partly by voluntary contributions, was established in 1836 for the medical relief of the poor, who contribute small annual payments in order to secure the advantages of the institution. Religious societies are supported by the congregations of the churches and chapels, and the town also supports a Poor's Friend Society, a Ladies' Benevolent Society, a Penny Club, a Coal Charity, a Blanket Charity, &c., and has a Masonic Lodge, and several Benefit Societies.

In consequence of an order from the Home Secretary to close the church burial ground against all burials, except family vaults, a Burial Board, consisting of nine members was formed on May 9, 1877. A cemetery of 3 or 4 acres, near the Railway Station, on the north side of the town, is formed, and two mortuary chapels have been erected after the designs of Mr. C. F. Edwards, of Exeter. J. George G. Radford, Esq., is clerk.

There is a National School in Mill Street; a Parochial School in Eastern Town; and All Saints' National School in All Saints' Road, which has an average attendance of 170 mixed scholars.

There is a large Assembly Room at the London Hotel; well-supplied Subscription Reading Rooms, &c., in the late Bedford Hotel; and two large circulating libraries in Fore Street. Pleasure boats, wheel chairs, carriages, horses, and donkeys are always ready for the accommodation of visitors on reasonable terms. Fortfield has been appropriated as a place of resort for the public and the Sidmouth cricket club; and the town and neighbourhood afford an inexhaustible mine for the study and amusement of the botanist, geologist, and conchologist, as well as to the lover of picturesque scenery. This club has the services of a professional bowler. William Hine Haycock, Esq., is secretary, and Mr. Procter, professional.

The Mechanics' Hall and Reading Room, in High Street, established in 1857, is supplied with all the London and local daily papers, periodicals, &c., and has a small library. There are about 50 members, and Mr. Edward Bowden is secretary. The Sidmouth Institution, in Fore Street, was established in 1854 as a reading-room and library for the tradespeople and visitors, and is well supplied with the London and local papers. Mr. Samuel Pile is secretary. There is an old-established Reading Room on the Esplanade.

The ORPHANAGE, Clifton Place, is supported by Mrs. Woodfall, of 7 Fort Green Terrace, and has now 7 orphans. Miss Ann Singer is the lady superintendent.

The POOR'S LANDS, &c., which have been long vested with twelve feoffees, in trust for the poor, and public uses in Sidmouth parish, comprise 22A. 1R. 7P. at Salcombe, let on long leases for £32 11s., and an estate, called Higher Southwood, in the parish of Dawlish, comprising 51 acres, let for about £50 a year. The latter was exchanged for an estate at Harpford; but this being an illegal transaction, the sale was cancelled. They were partly purchased with £120 left by Anthony Isaack, in 1639, and partly received in exchange for some parish land at Dawlish. £12 of the rent of the land at Dawlish is applied in providing sacramental bread and wine, and the remainder is given to the poor every Easter. The rent of the land at Salcombe is applied in schooling poor children, repairing the church, and relieving the poor. An old alms-house, given by John Arthur, in the 26th of Elizabeth, was exchanged about 1805 for the piece of land on which the parish school and poor-house are built. The Sexton's House, given by an unknown donor, was rebuilt about 50 years ago. A tenement, let for three lives, in 1808, for 5s., but now worth £15 per annum, was left in 1602 to the poor by Robert Blower. The master of the parish school has the dividends of £30 Old South Sea Annuities, purchased with £40 left by the Rev. — Burroughs. The poor have the interest of £60, left by John Conant and John Curtis; and of £50, left by Oliver Cawley, in 1779. In 1865 Mr John Watkins left £200 in trust with the vicar and churchwardens to pay the interest on Christmas-eve to poor parishioners. The feoffees sold, in 1872, with the consent of the Charity Commissioners, a small portion of the Salcombe property for £450, which is invested in the Three per Cent. Consols. The Freemasons' Lodge (164) meets on the last Wednesday in the month; the warrant was granted in 1781, and the Lodge was removed here in 1828.

POST, MONEY ORDER and TELEGRAPH OFFICE, SAVINGS BANK, and GOVERNMENT ASSURANCE and ANNUITY OFFICE, Market Place. Mrs. Georgina Barratt, postmistress. Letters are delivered at 7 a.m. and 2.30 p.m., and despatched 9.35 a.m. to London, 2 p.m. to the North, and 6.40 p.m. to all parts. There are WALL LETTER BOXES at Radway Place and the Railway Station.

CARRIERS to Exeter—John Mitchell and John White, Mon. Wed. and Fri

SILVERTON, a parish and large village, pleasantly situated on the eastern acclivity of the Exe valley, 7 miles N. by E. of Exeter, and 5½ miles S.W. of Cullompton, was anciently a market town, and has still two cattle fairs, on the first Thursdays in February and July. It is in Tiverton union and county court district, Cullompton petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Hayridge hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton East rural deanery. It had 1288 inhabitants (627 males, 661 females) in 1871, living in 269 houses, on 4714 acres of land. In 1837 nearly half of its houses were destroyed by fire, and another disastrous fire occurred in April 1878, the cottages destroyed being constructed of 'cob' (a mixture of clay and straw), and having thatched roofs. Its parish extends eastward to the river Culm, and westward nearly to the Exe, and comprises many scattered farm houses, and is divided into four quarters, called Borough, Yalton, Monk-Culm, and North Quarter. Sir Thomas Fairfax was quartered here with his army four days in October 1645. The manor, which had been part of the ancient demesne of the Crown, was held at an early period by the Beauchamps, whose heiress sold it to Sir John Wadham in the 14th century. It is now vested in the Earl of Ilchester and the trustees of the late Earl of Egremont, as representatives of the Wadhams. The former has five and the latter seven-twelfths. About a mile east of the village is SILVERTON PARK, where the late Earl of Egremont, who died in 1845, commenced to build a large and elegant mansion, in the florid and ornamental Grecian order of architecture; but in consequence of his death it was never finished. A great part of the parish belongs to Charles Arthur W. Troyte, Esq., Sir T. Dyke Acland, Bart., M.P., the trustees of the late Earl of Egremont, the Rev. John Glover, D. M. Long, Esq., the Earl of Ilchester, Charles Collins, Esq., and Barton Scobell, Esq. Combe Sachville was formerly held by the Reigny, Sachville, Browne, and other families; and Monk-Culm was given by the Earl of Moreton to Montacute Priory. The CHURCH (St. Mary), a large Gothic structure, consisting of nave, aisles, and chancel, was restored in 1863, when a new chancel was erected. It contains stained memorial windows to the Lewis, Savery, Scobell, Besly, and Kerswill families. Adjoining the churchyard was an ancient chapel. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £51 8*s.* 4*d.*, and in 1831 at £749, is in the patronage of the Earl of Ilchester and the trustees of the late Earl of Egremont, and incumbency of the Rev. Henry Fox-Strangways, M.A., who has a good residence, and 90A. 0R. 16P. of glebe. The tithes were commuted in 1843 for £950 per annum. A WESLEYAN CHAPEL was built here in 1845, and the parish has a well endowed school, and several charities for the poor. The FREE SCHOOL, which is open gratuitously to all the boys of the parish, was founded by John Richards, who in 1724 left £1200 to be laid out in land for its endowment, which now consists of a farm of 150 acres at Cheriton Fitzpaine, let for about £160 a year, and a house and 4 acres, worth about £10 a year. Attached to the school is a house for the master, who has usually about 60 free scholars. Here is a GIRLS' NATIONAL SCHOOL, supported by subscription, an annuity of 50*s.* left by Richard Troyte, out of Netherleigh, and one of £5 left by Dr. Troyte, about 25 years ago.

For a weekly distribution of about 12*s.* worth of bread, the poor have £2 2*s.* per annum from Sir John Acland's Charity (see Exeter); £2 12*s.* a year purchased with £50 left by Gawin Fursdon in 1663; 52*s.* a year, left by Henry Bustard in 1697; and about £20 per annum from 4½ acres of land, purchased with £250 left by Thomas Troyte in 1750. For distribution in linen cloth they have 30*s.* a year from two gardens, left by William Row and William Mills in 1651 and 1695; and £8 a year as the fourth part of the rent of a house and 20 acres of land at Tiverton, left by Andrew Arscott in 1659. For the relief of poor housekeepers of this parish frequenting the church, Edward Cotton, D.D. left two houses, a cottage, a garden, and an orchard of 2A. 1R. 30P., now let for about £30 a year, which is mostly divided at Christmas among poor families not receiving parochial relief. Two small houses, occupied rent free by poor families, were given by William Wreyford in 1700. The Church Lands, &c., comprise about 2 acres and a house let for £20 a year, which is carried to the churchwardens' accounts.

POST and MONEY ORDER OFFICE at Mr. Walter G. Dennis's. Letters, viâ Cullompton, are received at 7.5 a.m. and despatched at 7 p.m. Thorverton is the nearest Telegraph Office.

CARRIERS to Exeter—Benj. Thomas, Mon. Tues. Wed. Fri. and Sat.; & John Upham, Tues. and Fri.

SLAPTON, a parish and a pleasant village, on an acclivity rising from the central part of the coast of Start Bay, 8 miles S.W. by S. of Dartmouth, and E. of Kingsbridge, is in Kingsbridge union and county court district, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Coleridge hundred, Southern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, and Woodleigh rural deanery. It had 640 inhabitants (312 males, 328 females) in 1871, living in 140 houses. The area is 3430 acres, of which 110 acres are water. On the beach is the Sands Hotel, from which visitors have a fine promenade at low water along the sands to within a mile of Start Point. The hotel is elegantly fitted up for the accommodation of visitors, and about 200 yards from the beach is a long fresh-water lake of about 300 acres, called the Ley, well stocked with fish and wild fowl, and divided from the sea in some places only by a ridge called the Long Sand, over which the Dartmouth and Kingsbridge turnpike passes. The manor is dismembered, and was formerly held of the See of Exeter, by the service of being steward at the bishop's installation feast. Sir R. L. Newman, Bart., the heirs of Major Bent, and the Paige, Tucker, Holdsworth, Bastard, Wise, Wakeham, and other familes have freehold estates here. Pole or Poole, in this parish, was long the seat of the Brians, Amerediths, and Hawkins, and now belongs to Mrs. Bastard. The ruins of the old mansion were removed about 1800, and a modern house erected. The CHURCH (St. James) is an ancient structure in the Perpendicular style, and consists of chancel, middle and side aisles, north porch, and a low tower and spire containing five bells. There is a handsome old oak screen elaborately carved, and some clustered columns with foliated capitals. Over the north door is a parvise, in which are kept the parish chest and documents. The living is a vicarage, valued at only £60 a year, arising from a modus of £15 and land here and at Halwell. The Ven. Archdeacon of Totnes is patron, and the Rev. R. Antrim, M.A., the incumbent. In 1373 Sir Guy de Brian founded a collegiate chapel near the church for a rector, five fellows, and four clerks. The tower of this chapel, a good piece of masonry about 84 feet high, still remains. It originally formed the entrance gateway to the college quadrangle. The chapel was dissolved in 1545, when its revenues were valued at £63 6*s.* 2*d.*, and granted to Thomas Arundel. The college estate now belongs to Lieut.-Colonel Palmer. The PLYMOUTH BRETHREN CHAPEL was built in 1855, principally through the influence of the late Mr. Richard Bastard, the cost being £150, raised by voluntary subscription; it will seat 150 persons. Mr. Bastard left £500 for the repairs of the chapel and the expense of services. The PRIMITIVE METHODISTS have a small chapel here. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on July 8, 1874, and now consists of Messrs. Robert Paige (chairman), William Bastard (vice), Henry Fairweather, Thomas Hodge, and Charles Tucker. Percy Hockin, Esq., of Dartmouth, is clerk. A Board School, with teachers' residence, has been erected at a cost of about £1200. In 1690 John Kellond left £100, to be invested for the education of 20 poor children of this parish. His son, Charles Kellond, gave £50, to be applied in apprenticing a poor child yearly. These legacies were not paid till 1746, when they were recovered, with £205, as arrears of interest. The whole was then laid out in the purchase of 19A. 3R. 21P. of land, let for £34 per annum. By the new scheme of the Charity Commissioners the funds of this charity are directed to be applied wholly for a Sunday School.

SOURTON, a parish and small village on the north-western verge of Dartmoor, near the sources of the river Lew, 1½ mile from Bridestowe Station, 5 miles S.W. of Okehampton, is in Okehampton union, rural deanery, and county court district, Lifton petty sessional division and hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Southern division of the county. It had 532 inhabitants in 1871, and contains 5018 acres of land, including a large portion of open moorland, and the small hamlets of Collaven, Lake, and Southerleigh. There is an ice manufactory in the parish. S. C. Hamlyn, Esq., the Ven. Archdeacon Woollcombe, and J. G. Newton, Esq., are lords of the manor, and owners of most of the soil, and the rest belongs to the Rev. J. Woollcombe, John Gill, Jehu Ball, and a few smaller owners.

The CHURCH (St. Thomas à Beckett) is a small antique structure, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, and tower containing five fine toned bells, but the chancel was rebuilt in 1848, and has two stained glass windows. The church has been lately restored, and the tower opened at a cost of £110. The Register dates from 1560. The living is a chapelry, valued at £258 (commuted tithes), in the gift of the Bishop, and held by the Rev. C. W. Clarke, M.A. The WESLEYANS have a chapel here.

SOUTH BRENT, a large irregularly built village, in the valley of the small river Avon, has a station on the Great Western Railway, 5 miles N.E. of Ivybridge, 7 miles W. of Totnes, and 8 miles S.S.W. of Ashburton. Its parish is in Totnes union, county court district, archdeaconry and rural deanery, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Stanborough hundred, and Southern division of the county. It had 1449 inhabitants (729 males, 720 females) in 1871, living in 277 houses. The area is 9374 acres, of which 6312 acres are cultivated, and the rest open common, &c., in the south-east angle of Dartmoor Forest, where the hills rise boldly from the valleys of the Avon and Erme. The parish includes the small hamlets of Aish, Charford, Harbournford, Lutton, Wonton, Brent Mill, and many scattered farm houses. South Brent was formerly a market town, and has still two annual fairs, on the last Tuesdays and Wednesdays in April and September, the former called the lamb, and the latter the goose fair, but both are extensive marts for sheep, cattle and horses, held 'under the glove,' a glove being suspended on a pole during the fairs. On the last Tuesdays in February and August, good cattle markets are held. The manor belonged to Buckfastleigh Abbey, and was purchased by Sir William Petre after the Dissolution. The trustees of Mr. John Elliott hold the manor of Lord Petre, but most of the land was sold in parcels many years ago, and now belongs to the Misses Carew, the executors of Dr. Butter, and many smaller owners. The CHURCH (St. Patrick) is a large ancient fabric, in the Decorated style, with a low tower and six bells, and was restored about five years ago, at a cost of £2000. The Rev. Speare Cole, M.A., is appropriator of the great tithes, and patron and incumbent of the vicarage, valued in K.B. at £29 15*s.* 4½*d.*, and in 1831 at £906. The glebe is 31A. 3R. 37P., and the tithes were commuted in 1839 for £975 10*s.* per annum. The vicarage house is a good residence near the church. A part of the glebe has been purchased by the Great Western Railway Company. The INDEPENDENTS and WESLEYANS have small chapels here, and on Brent Hill are the ruins of an ancient building supposed to have been a chapel. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on August 20, 1874, and now consists of S. Boon, Esq. (chairman), Mr. J. Wakeham (vice-chairman), and Messrs. J. Veale, S. Carter, and J. Bowden. Mr. Edward Windeatt, of Totnes, is clerk. The Board have erected a school for 250 children, with teachers' residence, at a cost of £2350. Mr. Hine, of Plymouth, was the architect, and Mr. Richard Veale, of South Brent, builder. The Parish Lands, &c., comprise 64 acres and five houses, which have long been vested for the relief of the poor, and are let for about £180 per annum. The poor have also 20*s.* a year, left by John Peter, in 1570.

SOUTH HUISH, a parish of scattered houses, bounded on the west by Bigbury Bay, from 4 to 5 miles S.W. of Kingsbridge, is in Kingsbridge union and county court district, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Stanborough hundred, Southern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, and Woodleigh rural deanery. It had 354 inhabitants (165 males, 189 females) in 1871, living in 81 houses; the area is 1150 acres, of which 100 acres are water. The parish includes the hamlets of Silverhill, Galmpton and Hope Cove, the latter of which is a small fishing village. The Earl of Devon owns about 900 acres of the parish, and is lord of the manors. The parish was celebrated for its cider, large quantities of which were sent to the London and other markets. A Coastguard Station is in the parish, where smuggling flourished fifty years ago. The former parish church of St. Andrew, now ruinous, stands in the hamlet of Old Huish, in a deep valley, running down to the picturesque beach of Thurlestone Sands, with its curious arched Rock, giving rise to the local saying, 'Stands many a shock, like Thurlestone Rock.' The old church is chiefly in the Perpendicular style; but there is said to be undoubted Norman work in the walls of the tower. The handsomely-carved chancel screen has been removed to the private chapel of Boweringsleigh, near Kingsbridge. In 1866 the old church was found to be hopelessly out of repair, and it was so inconveniently situated for the inhabitants that it was resolved to abandon it. A new one was therefore erected in 1868 in the hamlet of Galmpton, the money being raised by voluntary contributions, with the aid of some of the church-building societies. The new Church of the Holy Trinity, in which all sittings are free, is a very pleasing structure in the Early English style. The beautiful stained glass in the chancel, by Messrs. Lavers and Barraud, is a memorial to the late Right Hon. Sir George J. Turner. The organ is the work of Messrs. Hele, of Plymouth. The parish possesses a peal of four bells; but they need repair, and only one is in use. In removing some of the fittings of the old church, some very curious bassos-relievos, in alabaster, with remains of colour and gilding, were discovered, but not in situ, and broken to pieces. There is considerable vigour in the execution, and the treatment of the six subjects remaining is remarkably unconventional; the figures are about nine inches in height; the period is believed to be that of Edward I.; they are at present to be seen at the house of the curate in charge of the parish. South Huish is a perpetual curacy annexed to Malborough, in the patronage of the vicar of West Alvington, and incumbency of the Rev. W. T. Keeling. The tithes were commuted in 1840—the vicarial for £90 and the rectorial for £260. The latter have lately fallen in to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. At Hope Cove is a small but graceful building, erected by Lord Devon for a Chapel of Ease and School, on account of the distance of this village from the old church. It is now, however, disused. There is a commodious Government Church of England School close to the new church, and not far off a small chapel with a school belonging to the PLYMOUTH BRETHREN. This school was erected in 1847 by Mr. Moseley, whose widow now manages it. It is under Government inspection. The church has 16*s.* yearly from the churchwardens of Aveton Gifford, from an unknown donor. From its position on the south-west coast, the parish is sometimes visited by rare migratory birds, including hoopoes, the night heron, the rotche, the spotted crake, the oyster catchers, the turnstone, the bittern, the little stint, and the perigrine falcon; specimens of many of the above are in the collection of Mr. George Balkwill. Mr. George Balkwill, jun., has a rain-gauge on a hill near, on a level with Bolt-tail, and is in correspondence with Prof. G. J. Symons, London, who calls it one of the best stations.

SOUTH LEIGH, a parish and pleasant village about 3 miles from the sea coast, from 3 miles W. of Colyton Railway Station, and 6 miles S. of Honiton, is in Honiton union, county court district and petty sessional division, Colyton hundred, Southern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Ottery rural deanery. It had 319 inhabitants (150 males, 169 females), living in 64 houses, on 2579 acres. The manors of South Leigh and Wiscombe formerly belonged to the Leigh, Courtenay, Bonville, Howe and other families, and were purchased in 1815 and 1825 by Charles Gordon, Esq., of Wiscombe Park, a pleasant seat about a mile west of the church. Morganhayes belongs to Sir Wm. Edward de la Pole; and here are other freehold estates belonging to Lady Prideaux, Sir W. E. Elton, Mrs. Gard and a few smaller owners. The CHURCH (St. Lawrence) is an ancient structure, with a tower and three bells. The south aisle and porch were rebuilt in 1821, and the chancel has been rebuilt by the present incumbent. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £11 8*s.* 9*d.*, and in 1831 at £215, is in the patronage of the representatives of the late Charles Gordon, Esq., and incumbency of the Rev. Robert William James, M.A., who has 35A. 1R. 37P. of glebe and a good residence, which he has recently improved, at the cost of more than £500. The tithes were commuted in 1841 for the sum of £226. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on January 12, 1875. In 1816 the Rev. James How left in trust, with the rector and churchwardens, the dividends of £175 Five per Cent. Stock—one-half for the support of the Sunday School, and the rest for a distribution of bread among the poor at Christmas. He also left another £175 of the same stock, and directed the dividends to be given in clothing to the poor.

SOUTH MILTON parish includes the hamlets of Upton and Sutton, and is in Kingsbridge union and county court district, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Kingsbridge polling district of South Devon, Totnes archdeaconry, Woodleigh rural deanery, and Stanborough hundred. The parish had 360 inhabitants (172 males, 188 females) in 1871, living in 77 houses, on 1556 acres of land. The village is situated in a deep valley, 3 miles S.W. of Kingsbridge. Mrs. Douglass is lady of the manor, and she and Sir G. Baker, Mr. Elliot, and Mr. Ilbert, are the principal owners of the soil. HORSWELL HOUSE, the residence of the Rev. James Edward Newell, M.A., was formerly a seat of the Roopes, from whom it passed to the Ilberts, who still own it. The CHURCH is a handsome structure, of Perpendicular architecture, with a lofty embattled tower containing six bells. The benefice is annexed to the vicarage of West Alvington, and the tithes were commuted in 1839—the vicarial for £128 4*s.*, and the rectorial for £219 1*s.* W. R. Ilbert, Esq., is lessee of the latter, under the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury. The Parish Lands, &c., comprise 7 acres and 4 cottages, let for £45, applied to the use of the church and school.

SOUTH MOLTON, a municipal borough and well-built market town, gives name to a parish, poor law union, county court district, petty sessional division, polling district, deanery, and hundred, and is in Barnstaple archdeaconry. The borough is co-extensive with the parish, and had 3978 inhabitants (1881 males, 2097 females) in 1871, comprised in 1028 families, living in 885 houses, on 6264 acres of land. The parish had 2753 inhabitants in 1801; 2739 in 1811; 3314 in 1821; 3826 in 1831; 4274 in 1841; 4482 in 1851; 3830 in 1861. (See also 'Vital Statistics,' page 80.) It includes the hamlets of Clapworthy Mill, Shallowford, High Bray, and Stag's Head; and the estates of Bremridge, Freynstone, Hucche, North Aller, Honiton Barton, &c., extending more than 2 miles west, north, and south of the town. The soil is generally fertile and well cultivated, and rises in bold undulations from the river Mole on the east, and the Bray on the west. The town is pleasantly situated on the bold western acclivity of the valley of the river Mole, 11 miles E.S.E. of Barnstaple, 18 miles N.W. by W. of Tiverton, 16 miles W. by S. of Dulverton, 28 miles N.W. by N. of Exeter, and 181 W. by S. of London. The principal streets are spacious and well paved, and contain several good inns and neat public buildings, and many handsome and well-stocked shops. The town is well supplied with pure soft spring water, and is lighted with gas from works established on October 3, 1839, with a capital of £2200 (since increased to £3300), raised in £10 shares. There are 62 public lamps, and gas is supplied to private consumers at the rate of 6*s.* 3*d.* per 1000 cubit feet. Mr. Thomas Chapple is secretary. The works are leased to Mr. William Oram. There is an efficient Fire Brigade.

The Mole, from which the town has its name, gives motion to several woollen and corn mills, and is here crossed by a good bridge of one arch, erected after the old one had been destroyed by a flood, in 1841. The manor of South Molton was part of the ancient demesne of the Crown; but in the reign of Edward I. it was held by Lord Martin, under the Earl of Gloucester, by the service of finding a bow and three arrows to attend the Earl when he went a hunting in Gower. It afterwards passed to the Lords Audley, the Dukes of Exeter, and the Whitmore and Squier families. In 1700 it was purchased of the latter by the Corporation, who are still lords of the manor; but most of the soil belongs to Earl Fortescue, Sir T. D. Acland, Bart., the Rev. J. L. H. Southcomb, and many smaller free and lease holders. The court leet with its annual dinner has been discontinued since 1867.

South Molton was one of the places appointed as the see of a Suffragan Bishop, by an Act of the 26th of Henry VIII., but it did not long enjoy that dignity. The town was formerly noted for the manufacture of serges, shalloons, and pelts. There is still one large woollen mill in the parish, employing about 150 hands; and in the neighbourhood are a saw mill and other factories, and quarries of flagstones, &c. In the north part of the parish is a lead mine, which yielded a considerable portion of silver, but was stopped in working about 25 years since; but is now resuscitated.

The town sent burgesses to parliament in the 13th of Edward I., but it never enjoyed that privilege afterwards. It was incorporated in 1590, by a charter of the 32nd of Elizabeth, and this charter was confirmed by one of the 36th of Charles II. The borough comprises the whole parish; and under these charters the Corporation consisted of a mayor, high steward, recorder and 18 capital burgesses, and an indefinite number of freemen, with a town clerk and other officers, and a court of record and quarter and petty sessions. Under the Municipal Act of 1835 the Town Council now consists of a mayor, four aldermen, and twelve councillors, and since that year, the borough has petitioned for and obtained a commission of the peace. The style of the Corporation is, the 'Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Borough of South Molton in the County of Devon.' The income of the borough for the year ended August 31, 1876, was £2840 18*s.* 11*d.*, arising from the rent-charges in South Molton parish, £947 7*s.* 9*d.*, the same in the parish of Northam, near Bideford, £570 8*s.* 3*d.* (both of which incomes will fall into the hands of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in 5 and 4 years respectively from Michaelmas 1877), and the remainder from rents, dividends, and manorial profits. The expenditure for the same year was £2816 3*s.* 2*d.*, being £192 15*s.* 3*d.* for stipends to the vicars of South Molton and Northam (which will also cease), £160 18*s.* 2*d.* for municipal officers; £151 19*s.* 3*d.* for police; £156 5*s.* for lighting; £195 6*s.* 4½*d.* for rates and insurance; £89 17*s.* 11*d.* for administration of justice; £107 10*s.* 10*d.* expense of prisoners; £347 0*s.* 5*d.* due to the municipal charities; £27 19*s.* 3*d.* for printing, &c.; £573 12*s.* 5*d.* for redemption of mortgage and interest; and £812 18*s.* 3½*d.* for general repairs and expenses. The accounts of the 'Markets and Fairs Fund' for the same period comprised £310 18*s.* 2½*d.*, received for tolls, &c., and £137 9*s.* 5*d.* paid for interest and repairs. By the time the tithe rent-charges fall off, the Corporation expect to have an income of £1400, derived from freehold property with a surplus of £400 a year, after paying all the salaries, police, lighting, &c., as now paid by them. The borough is exempt from county rates, except in cases of prosecution for capital offences.

TOWN COUNCIL. (1877-8.)

MAYOR—John Galliford, Esq.

RECORDER—J. J. Hooper, Esq. | HIGH STEWARD—Lord Poltimore.

CRIER AND TOWN BAILIFF—Mr. T. Moore. | POLICE SUPERINTENDENT—Mr. John Wood.

South Molton Union comprises 30 parishes, extends over 143,998 acres of land, and had 18,975 inhabitants (9643 males, 9332 females) in 1871, living in 3824 houses, besides which there were 257 uninhabited and 5 building. Of the population of the union 3 were blind from birth, besides 18 others; 9 were deaf and dumb, 29 were imbeciles, 5 lunatics, and 86 paupers. The total annual average expenditure of these parishes on their poor during the three years preceding the formation of the union was £8655. In 1838 their expenditure was £7886; in 1840, £8190 13*s.*; in 1848, £10,806 18*s.*; and for the year ended Lady-day 1876, £13,142. The average cost in maintenance per head for the half-year ended that date was 4*s.* 3½*d.* The Union Workhouse, at South Molton, is a large building, which was erected in 1836, at a cost of £4379, and has room for 230 inmates. Earl Fortescue is chairman of the Board of Guardians; R. M. Riccard, Esq., union clerk and superintendent registrar; and the Rev. J. Bawden, chaplain. Mr. and Mrs. John Mules are master and matron of the workhouse; Mr. James Flexman, Dr. Spicer, Dr. Hind, and Messrs. Thomas Sanders, S. J. Burrows, H. S. Traill, Henry Adey, Edwin Furse, and Charley Hartley are the medical officers; Messrs. Richard Jutsum (Grilstone) and Lawrence Babbage (South Molton) are the relieving officers and registrars of births and deaths; and Richard Tepper is registrar of marriages.

The following is an enumeration of the parishes, &c., in the union, showing their territorial extent, the number of inhabited houses and population in 1871, and the present rateable value:—

Notes, &c.—Marked 1 are in Witheridge registration sub-district; 2, Chulmleigh registration sub-district; 3, South Molton registration sub-district.

The County Court is held at the Guildhall on the Thursday after the first Monday of every month for a District comprising South Molton union, except Rackenford parish, which is in Tiverton district, but including Exford, Winsford, and Withypoole in Dulverton union, Somerset. Serjeant Petersdorff is the judge, Frederick Day, Esq., registrar and acting high bailiff, and Mr. J. A. Kingdon bailiff.

South Molton Petty Sessional District comprises the parishes, &c., given on page 28, and the magistrates for the division are Earl Fortescue, Earl of Portsmouth, Lord Poltimore, Viscount Ebrington, Rev. W. H. Harslake, Rev. Robert Hole, Rev. Joshua Bawden, John George Johnson, Esq., M.P., Rev. John V. Tanner, Narcissus C. Hatherley, Esq., M.D., Wm. Binford, Esq., Christian Budd, Esq., M.D., Rev. William Thorold, Rev. Richard L. P. Samborne, Hon. and Rev. G. R. Gifford, and John F. Vicary, Hy. C. Devon, J. Froude Bellew, J. Tanner Davy, and Wm. Gould Smith, Esqrs. Robert J. Crosse, Esq., is their clerk.

The Guildhall, where the county court and the sessions are held, is a handsome building of Portland stone, on the south side of Broad Street, projecting on arched pillars over the causeway. It has a commodious court room, a council room, and a large and elegant assembly room, where balls, banquets, &c., are occasionally held. The building is crowned by a turret and cupola, containing a bell and clock.

The Borough Gaol, in East Street, built in 1828–9, at the cost of about £2000, comprises dwellings for the superintendent of police, and six cells, two large day rooms, and an airing yard for the prisoners. It is now used as a House of Detention only. The prisoners convicted are sent to the county gaol at Exeter.

Markets.—In 1357 Nicholas FitzMartin, being then lord of the manor, obtained a charter for a market, to be held here on Sunday, and a fair at the festival of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary. The town has now a considerable market every Saturday, for corn, provisions, &c. Here are now two annual fairs for cattle, &c., on the Wednesday before June 22, and the Wednesday after August 26; and great cattle markets on the Saturdays after February 13 and March 15, and the Saturdays before April 23, August 1, October 10, and December 12. The Market House was erected in 1863 by funds obtained by sale of corporate property, and money borrowed for the purpose, which will be repaid in about seven years more. The market is the prettiest for its size in the West of England, and very commodious. The Assembly Room, over the entrance, is lofty and well ventilated, and fit for the public meetings and entertainments which are held there. The old Market House, built by the Corporation in 1810, is a square brick building, standing on pillars and arches. The upper room is used for lectures and reading room for the MECHANICS' INSTITUTE. A drinking fountain, with a granite base and coloured Devonshire marble columns supporting the basins, one above the other, the height of the whole being about 16 feet, has just been erected as a memorial to Hugh Squier, Esq., the founder of the Grammar School.

The CHURCH (St. Mary) is a spacious and handsome structure, in the Perpendicular style, with a lofty tower containing eight bells. In was enlarged in 1833–4, at the cost of £1400, and has now room for 1500 hearers. The interior was renovated, and a new organ erected, in 1829, at the cost of about £600; the church was restored and reseated in 1865, at a cost of about £3300, raised by subscription. The stone pulpit is of great antiquity, and is richly carved and ornamented. The church contains several handsome stained glass windows, and a carved stone reredos, all the gifts of townsmen. In the chancel and aisles are several handsome mural monuments, one of which is in memory of Henry Kerslake and his wife and two sons, who were burnt to death when their house was destroyed by fire in 1749. According to the parish Register, William Lake died here in 1754, at the advanced age of 104 years. In 1547 this church was given by Henry VIII. to the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and they are still appropriators of the tithes and rectorial glebe (242 acres), and patrons of the perpetual curacy, valued in 1831 at £157, and now in the incumbency of the Rev. Frederic King, M.A., who has a parsonage built about 40 years ago. The tithes were commuted in 1839 for £910 per annum, and are held on lease by the Corporation; but they will soon fall to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, as noticed on page 720.

At Honiton Barton, about 2 miles from the town, is Trinity Chapel, belonging to the Southcomb family. It was built in 1730, at the cost of more than £500, by the Rev. Lewis Southcomb, on the site of an ancient chapel. It was handsomely fitted up, and the founder endowed it with £40 a year out of an estate in the parish, and directed that it should never be made a sinecure; that the stipend should be paid every Lord's-day; and that when service was omitted, the stipend should go towards the repairs of the chapel, in which the founder and his father were both buried. This chapel is now allowed to fall into ruin, it having been discovered by the person (a clergyman of the Church of England) owning the estate, liable for the stipend, that the gift was void under the Mortmain Act. A new chapel was therefore built at Clapworthy Mill, a hamlet about a mile further west, with funds raised by public subscription, and endowed by the late Earl Fortescue with £1000, the interest of which is paid to the minister, who is appointed by the vicar of South Molton.

The INDEPENDENT CHAPEL is a handsome fabric, erected in 1834, at the cost of about £1000, on the site of the old one, which was built in 1700. The BAPTISTS had a congregation here before 1715; but their present chapel was built in 1843, at the cost of about £900, in the Lancet Gothic style. The WESLEYAN CHAPEL was built in 1822, at the cost of about £600. The PLYMOUTH BRETHREN have a small chapel in South Street; and there are in the town a few MORMONITES and BRYANITES, who meet at private houses.

A FREE SCHOOL with a house for the master was built in 1682, by Hugh Squier, who died in 1709, and bequeathed to the Corporation of South Molton, in trust for this school, and other charitable uses, Upcott Farm (52 acres), at Swimbridge, and the glebe and rectorial tithes of Northam. After paying reserved rent and fines to the Dean and Canons of Windsor, the Corporation derive from this property about £340 per annum. Pursuant to the founder's will, they apply yearly £40 to the support of the schoolmaster; and the rest of the clear income is divided into two equal shares, one of which is expended by the Municipal Charity Trustees in repairing the highways, and the other is used by the Corporation with their general income. A BLUE COAT SCHOOL, in the Churchyard, was established by subscription, in 1711, and afterwards endowed by various donors with £400, of which £200 was given by Elizabeth Squier, in 1734, and £100 by Elizabeth Northcote, in 1742. It has received many subsequent benefactions, and its present endowment consists of £2515 New Four per Cent. Stock. The two school rooms, with a house for the master and mistress, were provided by the Corporation. They receive £35 a year for teaching 36 boys and 15 girls, who are clothed in blue once a year. Formerly this charity clothed and educated 45 boys and 20 girls. These free schools were amalgamated in 1877 for elementary education, pursuant to a scheme issued by the Charity Commissioners. The governing body consists of (ex officio), the vicar, mayor, and Earl Fortescue; (representative) Messrs. R. J. Bickell, J. Cock, jun., J. Pearce, W. G. Smyth, J. White, Dighton, W. Oram, W. Powell, H. Peake; (co-optative) the Rev. J. Bawden, and Messrs. N. C. Hatherley, R. M. Riccard, J. Flexman, and R. J. Crosse. The Bowling Green has been purchased for £300 for the purpose of erecting new schools. A large NATIONAL SCHOOL was built by the Corporation in 1833–4, at the cost of about £500, and attended by about 100 scholars. SUNDAY SCHOOLS are attached to the church and to three of the chapels. The MECHANICS' INSTITUTE, held in the old Market House, was established in 1856, and has 134 members, and contains a good library of upwards of 2000 volumes; Mr. William Oram, is the secretary.

There are in the town various charitable and provident institutions; and among the latter is the North Devon Provident Society; the Barnstaple and South Molton Annuitant Society, which now pays £16 a year to each of 16 widows, and whose members pay £2 2*s.* a year; and a branch of the Devon and Exeter Savings Bank. In New Road is a neat Freemasons' Hall, erected in 1846, at the cost of £450, by Lodge No. 421, which meets on the first Tuesday of every month.

CHARITIES.—By a decree of the Court of Chancery, in the 3rd of Charles I., it was determined that the Corporation should provide a house of correction for the borough, at their own expense, and should pay a yearly rent-charge of £12 out of the Common Moor (6 acres) to the overseers, for distribution among the poor. Two small tenements, left to the poor by Jane Whittle, in 1678, are now worth about £5 per annum. The poor of the parish, not residing in the town, have the interest of £130, derived from £100 left by Henry Harewood, in 1629. The resident poor have £12 a year from £200 left by Elizabeth Squier, in 1734; and £100 left by William Hunt, in 1642, and now vested in turnpike securities. They have also £12 a year from other donors, and now vested in the funds. These sums, and the dividends of £200 Three per Cent. Stock, purchased with the gift of Nathaniel Sprigg, in 1781, are distributed by the Municipal Charity Trustees among the poor parishioners. For a weekly distribution of bread, they have an annuity of £2 12*s.* from Sir John Acland's Charity. (See Exeter.) Out of the market tolls the poor have 27*s.* 6*d.* per annum, pursuant to the bequest of Robert Brett in 1597; and about £2 a year from the gift of Joan Webber, in 1623. They have also the following yearly doles, viz., 20*s.* left by Thomas Badcock, in 1663; £2 12*s.* left by Agnes Badcock, in 1641, out of 2A. 31P. of land; 28*s.* from Mrs. Courtenay's Gift; £2 from £50 left by Joseph Palmer, in 1795; 8*s.* from £10 left by William Gould, in 1801; £2 5*s.* from £50 left by Thomas Nott, Nicholas Palmer, and Joshua Hole; and 30*s.* from £30 left by Mary Jones in 1822. The CHARITY TRUSTEES appointed for this borough, under the Municipal Act, are Messrs. W. G. Smyth, J. Cock, jun., R. J. Bickell, R. M. Riccard, J. Flexman, J. White, W. Webber, J. Pearce, and Rev. J. Bawden. Miss Mary Cock, who died in 1878, left £200 in trust with the Rev. J. Bawden, Mr. J. Cock, and Mr. J. Cock, jun., the interest to be given in bread every alternate week, from November to April, both inclusive.

The Rev. Samuel Badcock, an eminent critic and divine, was born here in 1747, and was minister of the Independent Chapel at Barnstaple from 1770 till 1778, but afterwards conformed to the Church, and was ordained by Bishop Ross. He and the late Judge Buller were educated at the free school here.

CARRIERS—Great Western Railway Co.; J. C. Wall, agent

SOUTH POOL parish includes North Pool hamlet, and is in Kingsbridge union and county court district, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, Woodleigh rural deanery, and Coleridge hundred. It had 421 inhabitants (205 males, 216 females) in 1871, living in 87 houses, on 2289 acres; of these acres, 360 are water. South Pool village is situated at the head of a navigable creek, 5 miles S S.E. of Kingsbridge. Albert P. Hallifax, Esq., is lord of the manor of South Pool, and the Earl of Devon owns that of North Pool. Sir H. W. Peek, Bart. M.P., and Mr. N. Prettejohn have estates here. The parish was anciently held by the Pole, Punchardon, and Scobell families. The CHURCH, dedicated probably to SS. Nicholas and Cyriac, and consecrated August 24, A.D. 1318, is of the Perpendicular style, and has a tower with six bells. Of the original structure the remains are few, but, in the restoration now being proceeded with, care is taken to keep or to reproduce all the restorers find, both of the oldest building and of its later additions. In the chancel is an Easter tomb, in memory of a former rector. There are also monuments of the Dare, Lake, and Bastard families. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £22 16*s.* 5½*d.*, and in 1831 at £486, is in the patronage of R. Kelly and A. P. Hallifax, Esqrs., the former having two turns and the latter one. The Rev. R. D. Alexander, B.A., became rector in 1861. There are a good residence and 50A. 0R. 9P. of glebe. The tithes were commuted in 1840 for £387 per annum. The National School was erected in 1866. The poor have 25*s.*, and the preacher on Christmas-day 15*s.* yearly, left by Andrew Horsman, in 1687; and the former have an annuity of 21*s.* left by Leonard Dare.

POST OFFICE is at Mr. John Vincent's. Letters are received at 8.45 a.m., and despatched at 4.15 p.m. (week days only), viâ Kingsbridge. Salcombe is the nearest Money Order Office. Dartmouth is the nearest Railway Station.

CARRIER—Samuel Elliott, to Dartmouth, Friday

SOUTH TAWTON, a parish and a compact village, is pleasantly situated on the banks of the river Taw, at the north end of Dartmoor Forest, 4 miles E. by S. of Okehampton, and 18¾ miles W. of Exeter. It is in Okehampton union and county court district, Crockernwell petty sessional division, South Tawton polling district of East Devon, Wonford hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Okehampton rural deanery. The parish, which had 1517 inhabitants (801 males, 716 females) in 1871, living in 342 houses, on 10,879 acres of land, includes the hamlets of Itton, Taw Green, Whiddon Down, Gooseford, Week, Fulford, Ramsley, Dishcombe, Addiscott, and South Zeal, extending from two miles S. to three N. by E. of the church. The parish also contains many scattered farm-houses, &c., and its surface is picturesquely broken into hill and dale, rising boldly on the south-west to the heights of Dartmoor, where the Taw and other rivulets have their sources. The representatives of the late H. A. Hoare, Esq., are the lords of the manor of Black Hall; the representatives of the late G. S. Fursdon, Esq., are lords of South Zeal; and William Damarel, Esq., is lord of Itton manor; and there are several smaller manors and estates, belonging to various owners. George Cann, Esq., of Dishcombe, is the principal resident landowner. OXENHAM, the property of the representatives of the late H. A. Hoare, Esq., belonged to the Oxenham family from the reign of Henry III. till 1814. This family resided here for many generations, and is remarkable for the tradition of a bird, which is said to have appeared to many of its members previously to their death! There are six ancient stone wayside crosses in the parish, the largest and most graceful of which is in South Zeal, near the chapel of St. Mary. SOUTH ZEAL is a straggling village on the high road, half a mile S.E. of the church, and is described as a borough in ancient records, and as having a market and two fairs, granted in 1298 by Robert de Tony, then lord of the manor. It has still a cattle fair on the Tuesday in the week after the festival of St. Thomas-a-Becket (July 7). Its ancient CHAPEL (St. Mary the Virgin) was long used as a school as well as for divine service; but the school having been removed to the new buildings, recently erected by the School Board, the chapel has undergone thorough restoration, at a cost of about £500, defrayed by the munificence of William Lethbridge, Esq., whose family has been connected with the parish for some centuries. Itton, or Ilton Moor was enclosed in 1849. The PARISH CHURCH (St. Andrew) is a large antique structure, with a tower and six bells. Among its ancient monuments is the effigy of a warrior in armour, supposed to represent one of the Wike, or Weeks family, who were long seated at North Wick, where an extensive Tudor House still stands. The Registers date from 1540, and the churchwardens' accounts from the same date contain many entries of interest. The living, a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £10, and in 1831 at £150, is in the patronage of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and incumbency of the Rev. John Bliss. The former were also appropriators of the great tithes, now leased to H. A. Hoare, Esq., at the expiration of whose lease they will fall into the hands of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The tithes were commuted in 1844 for £709, and 34A. 3R. 21P. of rectorial glebe. The Vicarage House was almost entirely destroyed by fire on Christmas-eve 1870, but has since been rebuilt on a larger scale, at a cost of £1600, mostly at the vicar's expense. The BIBLE CHRISTIANS and the WESLEYANS have chapels here. A SCHOOL BOARD was formed on August 1, 1872, and now consists of the Rev. John Bliss (chairman and honorary clerk), and Messrs. George Cann, William Brely, George Grendon, and John Knapman. New school buildings, with teacher's residence, have been erected at South Zeal, at a cost of £1700, and will accommodate about 200 children. Further accommodation is provided for the Whiddon Down district, in conjunction with the Drewsteignton School Board, and a third school is in an outlying district called Lang Down. The parish has three Almshouses for poor widows, founded by Robert Burgoyne, in 1656, and endowed with 1½ acre of land, worth £5 a year. The poor parishioners have the following yearly doles—30*s.* left by Oliver Lang, in 1654, out of Brushcombe Close; about £15 from John Northmore's charity, as noticed with Okehampton; £5 left by William Oxenham, out of Higher Cullaford estate; 5*s.* left by John Dunning, out of Scurhill's estate; and about £12 from 9½ acres of land, called Derracombe Field, purchased in 1730, with £80 given by William Battishull, Edward Northmore, and other donors.

LETTERS, by foot-post, are received at 8 a.m., and despatched at 5.5 p.m., viâ Okehampton, which is the nearest Money Order Office. There is a WALL LETTER BOX at South Tawton cleared at 1 p.m. week days only.

SOWTON, or Clist Fomison, a parish and small village in the Clist Valley, 3½ miles E. of Exeter, is in St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district and archdeaconry, Eastern division of the county, Wonford hundred, Woodbury petty sessional division, and Aylesbeare rural deanery. It had 398 inhabitants (194 males, 204 females), living in 83 houses, on 1094 acres of land. The tithing of Clist Satchfield (or Satchville) is partly in this parish, and partly in that of Farringdon. John Garratt, Esq., owns nearly all the parish, and is lord of the manors of Clist Satchville, or Bishop's Clist, and Sowton, alias Clist Fomison. The former was held by the Satchville family till the reign of Edward I., when it was mortgaged to Bishop Bronescombe, who built a mansion in that part of the manor which is in the parish of Farringdon, and afterwards annexed the manor to the See of Exeter; but in the reign of Edward VI. it was given to the Earl of Bedford. In the civil wars of the 17th century, it was garrisoned and fortified by Sir Thomas Fairfax, during the blockade of Exeter. The ancient name of the house was Clist House. It is now called Bishop's Court, and is the seat and property of J. Garratt, Esq., J.P., who has considerably improved it. The house is a commodious building, pleasantly situated on a commanding eminence, in a well-wooded park, on the east bank of the small river Clist, and was the seat of Lord Graves, who purchased the manor of the executors of Miss Beavis. The Chapel (St. Gabriel) in the house, erected by Bishop Bronescombe in 1270, was for several centuries used for ordinations and visitations. It was afterwards desecrated and used for domestic purposes. It has, however, been beautifully restored by its present owner, and is now a handsome edifice of the Early English style. The manor of Sowton was long held by the Fomeson and Ash families, and was sold to Lord Graves by the heirs of Miss Salter.

The CHURCH (St. Michael) is a handsome structure of Perpendicular architecture, consisting of nave, north aisle, chancel, and tower containing eight bells. It was built in 1844–5 on the site of the old church, by the late John Garratt, Esq. All the windows are filled with stained glass, two in the chancel being in memory of the Ven. Archdeacon Barnes, D.D., formerly rector, and several in the aisle in remembrance of the Garratt family. The church contains a mural tablet to the late John Garratt, Esq.; the carved wooden cover for the font is in memory of Miss Susan Garratt, and the lych-gate was erected in memory of Sarah D'Oyley, wife of the late John Garratt, Esq. There is an elegant stone pulpit, richly sculptured with figures of St. Paul and the Four Evangelists. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £11 16*s.* 3*d.*, and now at £264. The Bishop of Exeter is patron, and the Ven. Archdeacon Henry Sanders, M.A., is the incumbent, and has 18 acres of glebe, and a good residence. There is a small CHURCH OF ENGLAND SCHOOL at Sowton. Sowton has £3 15*s.* yearly for schooling four children, from Weare's Charity. (See Clist Honiton.) The poor parishioners have three yearly doles, viz., 17*s.* 6*d.*, left by Lawrence Seldon; 20*s.*, left by John Forward, in 1699; and £4 as the interest of £100, left by various donors, now vested with the Charity Commissioners, and producing £3 4*s.* a year.

SPREYTON is a parish and village on a lofty eminence, about 9 miles E. by N. of Okehampton, and 18 miles W. by N. of Exeter. It is in Okehampton union, and county court district, Crockernwell petty sessional division, South Tawton polling district of East Devon, Wonford hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Okehampton rural deanery. It had 418 inhabitants (207 males, 211 females) in 1871, living in 79 houses, on 3606 acres of land. The manor was held for a long period by the Talbots, whose heiress carried it in marriage to the Kelly family in the reign of Henry VI. Mr. George Gorwyn Lambert lays claim to the manorial rights, but his claim is disputed. The landowners are Messrs. W. H. Battishill, Samuel Norris, George Cann, John Heathman, George Bartlett, John Baker, Joseph Edwards, John Moon, and the Rev. Robert Hole. Fuidge House, the seat of Samuel Norris, Esq., is a neat cemented structure, and is pleasantly situated.

The CHURCH (St. Michael) is a plain structure, with a handsome tower, containing five bells; the tower is 72 feet high, and from it, it is said, 30 different parishes can be seen. The font is of granite, with some rude figures carved upon it. The screen was removed about 70 years ago, except a few fragments in the clerk's seat. The chancel is of later date than the nave and aisles, and has upon its roof a long Latin inscription, recording that it was rebuilt by Richard Talbot in 1451. An organ is now used instead of various instruments. The church is approached by an avenue of fine lime trees, and near the entrance is a venerable oak, the decaying trunk of which measures 40 feet in girth at the bottom. The Register dates from 1538. The benefice is a discharged vicarage, valued in K.B. at £10 5*s*. 8*d*., and in 1831 at £135, in the patronage of the Rev. W. B. Doveton, and incumbency of the Rev. Frederick Francis Hole, M.A., who has a good residence, and 89 acres of glebe. The small tithes were commuted in 1844 for £117 10*s*. per annum; the great tithes, £100 3*s*., belong to various landowners, and were formerly appropriated to Tavistock Abbey. The income of the living was augmented, in 1876, by the Governors of Q.A.B. with the interest of £500. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on April 3, 1875, and now consists of Messrs. Battishill, Davy, Heathman, Hooper, and Moon. The original gifts to the poor have been purchased by the Charity Commissioners, and those who have not within the year received parochial relief, have annually at Lady-day £12 3*s*. 4*d*.

STARCROSS, an ecclesiastical district and a large and well-built village, pleasantly situated on the west side of the broad estuary of the Exe, opposite Exmouth, is distant 8 miles S.S.E. of Exeter, and has a station on the Great Western Railway, which runs close to the estuary. Its ecclesiastical district, which was formed in 1829 out of the parish of Kenton, had 767 inhabitants (340 males, 427 females) in 1871, living in 166 houses, on 1800 acres of land. About thirty years ago it was celebrated only for its cockles and oysters, but it has been much improved, and is now well lighted with gas from the neighbouring works at Kenton. Many persons resort to it in the summer season who cannot bear the stronger sea air of the coast. It had its name from a cross, which formerly stood near the landing place, on the bank of the estuary. The Courtenay Arms is a large respectable inn, and has a spacious room, in which balls and assemblies are held at the time of the Regatta. The principal lodging-houses face the estuary, and command pleasing views of the opposite shore. There is a pleasure-fair in the village on Whit-Wednesday. EXELEIGH HOUSE, a large and handsome stone mansion, built in 1847–8, and enlarged in 1877, is the seat of Sir J. L. Duntze, Bart., whose grandfather, Sir John Duntze, of Rockbeare, was created a baronet in 1774, and was a wealthy merchant of Exeter. Starcross CHURCH (St. Paul's) was built in 1826–7, and was at first a Chapel of Ease to Kenton. The church was restored about 1841, when Starcross was constituted a separate ecclesiastical parish. The church, which was improved in 1867 at a cost of £600, has about 600 sittings, of which half are free. The benefice, worth about £205 per annum, is in the alternate gift of the Chapters of Salisbury and Exeter. The late incumbent, the Rev. W. Powley, who died in 1865, was presented by the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury, the present vicar (Rev. E. C. Bond) by that of Exeter. There is a School here under the Kenton School Board. The principal public building in Starcross is the WESTERN COUNTIES IDIOT ASYLUM (established in 1864), of which the foundation stone was laid by Lady Anna Maria Courtenay, on April 7, 1876. The estimated cost is £10,000, of which £1000 was given by the late Mr. Gibbs, of Tyntesfield, near Bristol. The asylum stands in its own grounds of about 7 acres, and is calculated to hold 100 inmates—60 boys and 40 girls. Mr. J. W. Rowell, of Newton Abbot, was the architect. The Earl of Devon is president; the Hon. and Rev. Henry Hugh Courtenay, M.A., chairman; George Pycroft, Esq., surgeon; Mr. William Locke, superintendent; and Mrs. Locke, matron.

CARRIER—Jno. Bidgood to Exeter daily

STAVERTON parish has a small village at its south-eastern extremity, on the south side of the river Dart, 3 miles N.N.W. of Totnes. Its parish is in Totnes union, county court district, archdeaconry and rural deanery, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Haytor hundred, and Eastern division of the county. It had 876 inhabitants (445 males, 431 females) in 1871, living in 186 houses, on 5356 acres. The parish rises boldly from the Dart valley, and includes the hamlets of Wolston Green, Sparkwell, and Strechford, many scattered farm houses, and about 700 acres of orchard grounds, celebrated for excellent cider. In the northern part of the parish, about 2 miles south of Ashburton, are the Penn Recca Slate Quarries, which were worked for centuries. The slate is found in immense blocks, and is of a beautiful sage-green colour. Great quantities of this durable slate are now sent to various parts of the kingdom, and many of the farmhouses, &c. in this neighbourhood have been roofed with it since the time of Charles I. and James I. Ashburton Church was roofed in the former reign with slates from these quarries, and they remained till about 37 years ago. At Pridhamsleigh is a large and curious limestone cavern. The Dean and Chapter of Exeter are lords of the manor Staverton, and owners of six-tenths of the parish. Mr. John Maye is lord of the small manor of Barkingdon; and the Executors of Lord Craunstoun are owners of Pridhamsleigh. There are also a few smaller owners and the Dean and Chapter lands are in the hands of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The PARISH CHURCH (St. George) contains a Perpendicular screen, and has been recently restored. It has a curious 'Prie Dieu' monument to members of the family of Worthe, or Worthy, the ancient owners of the manor of Metherell, and the donors of this property to the Chapter of Exeter. Many of the windows have been lately filled with handsome stained glass, and it is to be regretted that in many instances their original 3rd-pointed character has not been preserved. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £32 14*s.* 9½*d.*, and in 1831 at £394. The Rev. J. B. Hughes is the incumbent, and has a neat residence and 3A. 31P. of glebe. The Dean and Chapter are patrons, and also appropriators of the great tithes. The tithes were commuted in 1842, the vicarial for £385, and the rectorial for £460 per annum. A handsome NEW CHURCH has been built at Landscove, near Wolston Green, in the centre of the parish, at the cost of about £3000, subscribed by Miss Champernowne and several smaller contributors. It has been endowed by the Dean and Chapter. The present vicar is the Rev. Thomas Inglis Stewart, M.A., who has a good residence and £150 a year, but no glebe. Near the church is a WESLEYAN CHAPEL, built in 1841. The NATIONAL SCHOOL was built in 1875, at a cost of £500. The poor parishioners have 15 acres of land, and £100 Navy Five per Cents. derived from £200 left by Edward Bovey in 1709. They have also 13 acres of land, purchased with £200 left by Edward Gould, together with 20*s.* a year out of Bottom Park. For schooling and relieving the poor, the Rev. Thomas Baker left £200, which was invested in 1802 in £349 15*s.* 4*d.* Three per Cent. Consols. Of the income £8 is applied in schooling poor children, together with the dividends of £66 13*s.* 4*d.* of the same Stock, left by Thomas Bradridge in 1815. The poor have also an annuity of 32*s.* left by William Gould.

STOCKLAND is a parish and a large scattered village, on the bold range of hills between the Otter and Yarty valleys, about 6 miles N.E. of Honiton, and N.W. of Axminster, and S.E. of Chard. It is in Axminster union, county court district, petty sessional division and hundred, Eastern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Dunkeswell and Honiton rural deanery. It had 1080 inhabitants (558 males, 522 females) in 1871, living in 224 houses, on 5849 acres. Stockland, with the adjoining parish or chapelry of Dalwood, formed a detached member of Dorsetshire till 1842, when it was added to Devon by Act of Parliament. It has a cattle fair on the Wednesday after June 11, and comprises many scattered farmhouses, &c. Richard Marker, Esq., is lord of the manor; but the soil is owned by a number of small freeholders. The CHURCH (St. Michael) is a fine antique fabric, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, and tower containing six bells. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £15 13*s.* 11½*d.*, and in 1835 at £457, with the curacy of Dalwood annexed to it, in the patronage of about ten of the principal freeholders and inhabitants. There were originally 56 patrons, under a grant of the 3rd of Edward VI. The Rev. John Miles Cox, M.A., is the present vicar, and has a good residence and 3 acres of glebe. The vicarial tithes were commuted in 1844 for £450 per annum. The great tithes belong to the landowners, except those on 261A. 3R. 4P., which belong to about ten persons severally. The WESLEYANS have a chapel here. The charity lands of the parish yield about £75 a year, part of which is applied in maintaining a National School.

POST OFFICE at Mr. Samuel Pidgeon's. Letters by footpost, from Honiton, are received at 9.15 a.m., and despatched at 4 p.m. The nearest Money Order Offices are Honiton, Axminster, and Chard.

STOCKLEIGH (or Stokeleigh) POMEROY, on a bold eminence, 4 miles N.E. of Crediton, is a village and parish in Crediton union, county court district and petty sessional division, West Budleigh hundred, Northern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Cadbury rural deanery. It had 173 inhabitants (87 males, 86 females) in 1871, living in 39 houses, on 1239 acres. It was long held by the ancient family of Pomeroy, but is now the property of Sir H. R. F. Davie, Bart. The CHURCH (St. Mary) has an embattled tower and two bells. It was restored in 1863–4, at a cost of £1200, when open benches were substituted for the old pews; there are 130 sittings. The East window is filled with stained glass. The Register dates from September 9, 1675. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £15 6*s.* 8*d.*, and now at £310, is in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor, and incumbency of the Rev. Samuel Rundle, M.A., who has a good residence, with tasteful grounds. The poor have the interest of £112, given by various donors. The glebe is 42 acres, and the tithes were commuted in 1841 for £180. Here is a small Parochial Scool.

STOKE CANON is a parish and small village near the confluence of the rivers Exe and Culm, and on the Exeter and Bristol Railway, 4 miles N.E. by E. of Exeter. It is in St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district and archdeaconry, Wonford petty sessional division and hundred, Eastern division of the county, and Aylesbeare rural deanery. It had 445 inhabitants (215 males, 230 females) in 1871, living in 85 houses, on 1217 acres of land. The manor was given by King Athelstan to Exeter Cathedral, and still belongs to the Dean and Chapter, who also own a great part of the soil. The Rev. Prebendary Barnes, vicar of Heavitree, has a large estate here, and owns most of the cottage property in the village. Sir Stafford Northcote, Bart., and Mr. Lambert are also landowners. In April 1847 a hot cinder, blown from one of the railway engines, ignited the thatched roof of a row of cottages, and the fire spread till 24 dwellings, including the Parsonage House, were destroyed. The damage was about £10,000, half of which was recovered from the Railway Company. Six double cottages, in the Swiss style, were erected in 1848. Oakey, now the residence of Mr. Charles G. Ford, was long a seat of the Rodd family. The CHURCH (St. Mary) was rebuilt about 1836, except the tower, which contains a clock and four bells, at the cost of £1000. The nave was restored in 1875, the Rev. Prebendary Barnes and his sisters bearing a great part of the cost, when open benches were substituted for the old square pews. On the south side of the church is a stained glass window, in memory of the Barnes family; nine of whom are represented in an attitude of devotion, surrounding a figure of our Saviour. In the chancel are three monuments to the Merivale family, and in the nave are others to the Hall and Barnes families. The massive Norman font is very ancient and rudely carved. A lych-gate was erected by Prebendary Barnes in 1872, and in the churchyard is a cross of granite, in memory of the late Ralph Barnes, for forty years secretary to Dr. Phillpotts, the late Bishop of Exeter. The living is a vicarage, valued in 1831 at £221, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, the appropriators of the tithes. The Rev. William Tanner Davy, M.A., is vicar, and has a parsonage house, built in 1851, and 2A. 3R. of glebe. The poor parishioners have about £7 per annum, for distribution in linen, from Grace Bampfylde's Charity. (See Pinhoe.) They have also three other yearly doles, viz. 21*s.*, left by Richard Clarke in 1635 out of Bridwell estate; 40*s.* left by Emanuel and Nicholas Warren out of land at Rewe, and 39*s.* 2*d.* from £65 7*s.* 9*d.* Three per Cent. Stock, purchased with £50, left by J. D. Worthy in 1797. They have also the interest of £50 left by the late George Barnes, Esq. Miss Maria Worthy left, in 1839, £100, now producing £2 13*s.* a year, for keeping the family vault in repair, the residue to be distributed by the minister and churchwardens to the poor.

POST OFFICE at Mr. William Tidball's. Letters are received at 7.45 a.m. and despatched at 5.30 p.m. viâ Exeter, which is the nearest Money Order and Telegraph Office. There is a WALL LETTER BOX by Tremlett's Paper Mill, cleared at 5.40 p.m. week days and 9.50 a.m. Sundays.

STOKE DAMEREL. (See Devonport.)

STOKE FLEMING is a pleasant modernised village, on a commanding acclivity, rising from the northern coast of Start Bay, 2½ miles S.S.W. of Dartmouth. Its parish is in Kingsbridge union and county court district, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Coleridge hundred, Southern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, and Ipplepen rural deanery. It had 735 inhabitants (328 males, 407 females) in 1871, living in 146 houses, on 3332 acres of land; it has a light fertile soil, resting on dunstone and slate. It includes the small hamlets of Ash, Bugford, Blackpool, and Embridge, and several neat mansions. Stoke House is the property of G. P. Bidder, Esq., who has greatly enlarged and improved it. L. R. Netherton, Esq., is lord of the manor. L. R. Netherton, Esq., Mrs. Chilcote, T. H. Newman, Esq., and A. F. Holdsworth, Esq., are the chief owners of the soil. The manor was part of the ancient inheritance of the Flemings, from whom it passed to the Mohuns, Carews, and Southcotes, the latter of whom sold it to the Seales about the close of last century. In a garden near the church are some remains of the ancient Anglo-Norman manor house, consisting of three arches of red sandstone; and some of its other remains are seen in the columns and capitals worked up in neighbouring buildings.

The CHURCH (St. Peter) is an ancient fabric, in the Early English style, with a lofty tower, containing six bells, which were recast in 1777. The church was restored in 1872, under the superintendence of J. P. St. Aubyn, Esq. In the chancel are two fine brasses of the 14th century, and an ancient effigy. The rectory valued in K.B. at £31 6*s.* 0½*d.*, and in 1831 at £725, is in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. Edmund St. Aubyn, B.A., who has 71 acres of glebe. The rectory house was erected in 1834 by the Rev. A. Farwell, and attached is a well-wooded lawn of 7 acres. The Rev. Richard Reynolds was ejected from the rectory in 1646, when upwards of 80 years old, but he survived the Restoration, was re-possessed of the living, and died a few years afterwards, aged nearly 100. The poor parishioners have 2 acres of land, purchased with £50, left by John Paige, in 1689; a small meadow, left by Peter Creed, in 1694; and the interest of £25, left by persons named Perring and Haswell. An almshouse, with six rooms and a garden, was given by an unknown donor for the residence of poor families. Two houses and gardens at Dartmouth have been long vested for the reparation of Stoke church. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on March 2, 1874, and now consists of the Rev. Edmund St. Aubyn (chairman), and Messrs. L. R. Netherton (vice-chairman), J. W. Dammarell (treasurer), J. W. Eales, and W. Trant. Percy Hockin, Esq., of Dartmouth, is clerk. The schools were built in 1875–6, at a cost of £2282 (including the purchase of the site), and have accommodation for 110 children.

POST OFFICE at Messrs. Fox and Martin's; Mr. Robert L. Fox is postmaster. Letters are received at 7.55 a.m. and despatched at 5.55 p.m. viâ Dartmouth, which is the nearest Money Order and Telegraph Office.

STOKE GABRIEL is a parish and village, picturesquely situated on the estuary of the river Dart, 4, miles S.E. of Totnes, 6 from Dartmouth, and 7 from Torquay. Its parish, which includes the hamlets of Ash, Watton, and Portbridge, is in Totnes union, county court district, archdeaconry, and rural deanery, Paignton petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, and Haytor hundred. It had 684 inhabitants (338 males, 346 females) in 1871, living in 146 houses. The area is 3075 acres, of which 480 acres are water. WADDETON MANOR once belonged to a family of that name, and is now held by Henry Studdy, Esq., whose seat, Waddeton or Watton Court, is a handsome modern Elizabethan mansion. On the grounds is an ancient chapel, founded 1213. SANDRIDGE, a large and beautiful mansion, built by the late Lord Ashburton, is the property of his niece, the Baroness de Virte. MAISONETTE, the mansion nearest the village, is very prettily situated, and is now the property of Captain Richard Dawkins, R.N. Sir Geo. Baker, Mrs. Douglas, Rev. M. D. Dimond-Churchward and others have estates here, mostly freehold. The Dart abounds in salmon. The CHURCH (St. Gabriel) is a neat, antique fabric, with a tower containing six bells, the tenor of which is a particularly fine one. The tower and chancel are in the Decorated style, and the north entrance is in the Perpendicular style. The church has several neat monuments, and in the churchyard is a remarkably large yew tree and an ancient lych gate. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £16 11*s.* 10½*d.*, and in 1831 at £170, in the patronage of Sir S. H. Northcote and others, and in the incumbency of the Rev. Robert Bowden, who has neither glebe nor parsonage. The rectorial glebe (46A. 1R. 34P.) and the great tithes belong to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and are held on lease by John Belfield, Esq. The tithes were commuted in 1839, the rectorial for £297, and the vicarial for £198. The BAPTISTS have a chapel here. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on August 17, 1873, and now consists of the Rev. R. Bowden (chairman), Mr. W. Tapley (vice-chairman), and Messrs. W. Matthews, J. Searle, and Thomas Ford. A new School to accommodate about 160 children was erected by the Board in 1876 at a cost of nearly £1200. The poor parishioners have 6 acres of land in Broadhempston parish, purchased in 1679 with £62, left by J. Fell and other donors. They have also two annuities, namely, £1 6*s.* 8*d.* out of the great tithes left by an unknown donor, and 6*s.* 8*d.* left by Richard Kelly in 1633. Captain John Davis, a celebrated navigator, who discovered Davis' Straits, was born at Sandridge in the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

POST OFFICE at Mrs. Elizabeth Churchward's. Letters are received at 8.30 a.m., and despatched at 4.20 p.m. week days, and 10 a.m. Sundays, viâ Totnes, which is the nearest Money Order Office.

STOKEINTEIGNHEAD, or Stoke-in-Teign-Head, parish includes the hamlets of Gabwell and Higher and Lower Rocombe, and part of Ringmore. It is a detached member of Wonford hundred, and is in Newton Abbot union and county court district, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Newton Abbot polling district of East Devon, Totnes archdeaconry, and Ipplepen rural deanery. It had 681 inhabitants (309 males, 372 females) in 1871, and comprises 2531 acres, of which 216 acres are water. Stokeinteignhead village is seated in a picturesque dell, about half-a-mile from the sea coast, one mile south of the estuary of the Teign, and 4 miles E. of Newton Abbot. Ringmore is a suburb of Shaldon on the south side of the Teign, opposite the town of Teignmouth (see page 690). Trehawke Kekewich, Esq., is lord of the manor, formerly held by the Fitzpayne, Stowford, Speccot, Trehawke, and other families. T. Kekewich, Esq., the trustees of the late William Flamank, and Mr. W. Blackaller, are the principal owners of the soil. The farm called Teign-Harvey belongs to Eliza Hele's charity, Exeter. The CHURCH (St. Andrew) is a 13th century structure; there is a very fine oak screen and a hagioscope. The pillars and capitals are very peculiar. A new chancel was added in 1868 at the cost of £800, by the friends of the Rev. J. N. Gould; a window has been filled with stained glass in memory of Miss Gould, daughter of the rector; the organ placed in the chancel and enlarged, and the screen restored at the cost of the curate-in-charge. In the church is a fine ecclesiastical brass. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £36 15*s.* 10*d.*, and now at £400 (net), with 38 acres of glebe, and residence, in the patronage of the Bishop of Exeter, and incumbency of the Rev. J. N. Gould, B.A., who is non-resident; the Rev. E. John W. Stevenson, M.A., is curate-in-charge. The rectory house is pleasantly situated near the church. The tithes were commuted in 1842 for £429 a year. The SCHOOL BOARD was constituted on August 10, 1875, and consists of the Rev. E. Stevenson (chairman), Mr. G. Bond (vice), and Messrs. W. Bond, Lang, and Crabb. Mr. Tompkins, of Newton Abbot, is clerk. They built a school in 1877 with accommodation for 72 children, at a cost of £800, on a site given by T. Kekewich, Esq. In 1741 Gregory Andrews left 30*s.* a year for schooling poor children, and for distributions of bread, &c. This annuity has been changed for another of the same amount, charged by the Rev. Aaron Neck on two meadows called Rocombe Gardens, which he also charged with £2 10*s.* per annum for schooling poor children, and 10*s.* is given for clothing to the poor.

POST OFFICE at Mr. Wm. Winsborrow's. Letters are received at 9.20 a.m. from, and are despatched at 6.15 p.m. (Sundays 10.15 a.m.) to, Teignmouth.

STOKENHAM, or Stockingham, a parish and a small pleasant village, 5½ miles E. of Kingsbridge, is in Kingsbridge union and county court district, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Coleridge hundred, Southern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, and Woodleigh rural deanery. It had 1628 inhabitants (809 males, 819 females) in 1871, living in 365 houses; the area is 6011 acres, including 340 acres of water. The parish includes the six villages of Chillington, Beeson, Beesands, Hallsands, Kellaton, or Kellington, and Torcross, extending for 4 miles along the picturesque shores of Start Bay. Several of these villages are fishing places, noted for fine crabs, which are in high repute in London. The parish extends southward to Start Point, where there is a lighthouse, in which has recently been placed a revolving light and a fog-horn, which are worked by steam. The parish also includes the hamlets of Bickerton, Dunstone, Cornborough, and many scattered houses. Torcross, adjoining Slapton Ley, is a pretty little bathing place, and has a good hotel, containing a billiard room, and having bathing machines. An annual regatta is held here. The parish is generally fertile, and it extends westward in a picturesque vale to Frogmore, where there is a creek from Kingsbridge estuary. Sir Lydston Newman, Bart., of Mamhead, is lord of the manor of Stokenham, and has a neat marine residence, called Stokely House, which has been lately added to. The manor has been held by the Fitzjohns, Fitzherberts, Courtenays, Hastings, and Carys, and was sold by the latter to the Newmans. Miss Burnell is lady of the manor of Kellaton, and A. F. Holdsworth, Esq., J.P., owns Stokenham Priory estate, and has a picturesquely situated mansion near the bay called Widdecombe, rebuilt about 1725. Coleridge, a handsome mansion, in the Elizabethan style, is the seat of John Allen, Esq., J.P., who owns the estate which gives name to this hundred. The Nicholls, Edmunds, Pitts, Randall, Cole, and other families have estates in the parish, mostly freehold.

The CHURCH (St. Michael and All Angels) is a large and substantial structure in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north and south transepts, two parcloses, and tower, containing six bells. It has been recently thoroughly restored, at a cost of £1800, which was defrayed by voluntary subscriptions. A good organ, built by Brycesom Morton and Co., has been erected at a cost of £300, raised by a bazaar and subscription. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £48 7*s.* 8½*d.*, and in 1831 at £625, with the curacies of Chivelstone and Sherford annexed to it, is in the patronage of the Crown, and incumbency of the Rev. John Charles Carwithen, M.A., domestic chaplain to Lord Fortescue. There is a vicarage house, which has been added to and almost entirely rebuilt; the glebe is only 2A. 21P. The tithes were commuted in 1843, the vicarial for £360 5*s.*, and the rectorial for £309 14*s.* 11*d.* per annum. Of the latter, £171 belongs to A. F. Holdsworth, Esq., and the rest belongs to 41 other impropriators, in sums varying from £16 to 2*d.* The rectory was appropriated by the Earl of Salisbury to Bisham Priory, in Bucks. The hundred court was anciently held here, and there are some remains of an old building called the Prison, near the church and the site of the ancient manor house. There was anciently a market and a fair at Stokenham, but they were removed to Dodbrooke after a long dispute between the lords of the two manors. The old Independent Chapel here was built by Presbyterians about 1715, and at Torcross is a small INDEPENDENT CHAPEL. As noticed with Exeter, this parish has from Jeffery's charity £4 a year for a Nonconformist minister, and has three full suits for three poor men. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on August 22, 1874, and now consists of the Rev. J. C. Carwithen (chairman), Mr. L. Pitts (vice), and Messrs W. Hurrell, F. Helmer, and W. B. Edwards. John H. Square, Esq., of Kingsbridge, is clerk. The old Parish School has been transferred to the Board on payment of 5*s.* a year to the trustees of the old Stokenham National School, who have the use of it on Saturdays and Sundays, and any other days when it is not used by the board. There has also just been erected at Huccombe a handsome Board School, at a cost of £700, and opened at Midsummer, 1877.

STOKE RIVERS is a parish and village, 5½ miles E. by N. of Barnstaple, in Barnstaple union and archdeaconry, county court district, Braunton petty sessional division, Barnstaple polling district of North Devon, and Sherwell rural deanery and hundred. It had 208 inhabitants (105 males, 103 females) in 1871, comprised in 38 families, living on 2426 acres of land. W. P. Hiern, Esq., is lord of the manor and owner of most of the soil, the rest belonging to Messrs. J. Q. and P. H. Tamlyn, John Crang, Esq., and others. Stoke Rivers anciently belonged to the Rivers family. In the parish are remains of two ancient encampments. The CHURCH (Holy Ascension) is a Gothic structure, consisting of nave, chancel, north aisle, and tower containing five bells. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £14 14*s.* 7*d.*, in the patronage of Trustees, and incumbency of the Rev. Harvey Alexander, who has 59A. 1R. 32P. of glebe, and a good old residence. The tithes were commuted at £245. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed in 1875, and consists of the Rev. H. Alexander (chairman), and Messrs. J. Q. Tamlyn, P. H. Tamlyn, N. W. Channings, and G. H. Fry. Mr. John Hearson, of Barnstaple, is clerk to the Board. The Board School was built in 1875, at a cost of £350, and is attended by 30 children. The interest of £200, left about 25 years ago by Mr. Amos Tamlyn, is applied in educating poor children.

STONEHOUSE (EAST), commonly called Stonehouse, is a populous township and parish, forming the centre of the 'Three Towns,' lying between Devonport and Plymouth, and separated from the former by Sutton Pool and Stonehouse Creek and Lake, and from the latter by Mill Bay and a boundary line running behind the Bridgewater Engineering Works, across the middle of Union Street and up Twickenham place, Manor Street and Eldad Road to Mill Pool—a little east of Mill Bridge, opposite Stoke. More than half of Union Street is in Plymouth, and also one side of Twickenham place, Manor Street and Eldad Road. Stonehouse, though to all appearance forming part of Plymouth, is a separate township. It was added by the Reform Act of 1832 to the Parliamentary Borough of Devonport; but it is still in the hundred and petty sessional division of Roborough, and supports its own poor under the New Poor Law. It is in the Southern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, and Three Towns rural deanery. It had 14,585 inhabitants (6844 males, 7741 females), living in 1340 houses, on 190 acres of land. It contained 3407 persons in 1801, 5174 in 1811, 6043 in 1821, 9571 in 1831, 9712 in 1841, 11,979 in 1851, and 14,343 in 1861. In 1871 there were 43 houses uninhabited, and the returns for that date include 5 inmates in the Little Sisters of the Poor Convent, 94 in the workhouse, 41 in the Eastern Kings' Redoubt Barracks, 618 in the Royal Marine Barracks, and 307 in the Royal Naval Hospital. In the parish there were 18 blind persons, of whom 1 was blind from birth, 4 deaf and dumb persons, 7 idiots or imbeciles, and 3 lunatics. The rateable value of the parish is £14,284. It was anciently called Hepeston or Hippeston, and in the reign of Henry III. had but one house, which was the seat of Joel de Stonehouse, then lord of the manor. Before this time it obtained the name of East Stonehouse, in contradistinction to the hamlet of West Stonehouse, which stood on the opposite shore of the harbour, near Cremill and Mount Edgcumbe, until burnt by the French, some centuries ago. The manor passed from the Stonehouse family to the Durnfords, with whose heiress it passed to the Edgcumbes. The Earl of Mount Edgcumbe is now lord of the manor and owner of all the land, except what has been sold to Government for the Royal William Victualling Yard, &c. Most of the land is built upon and let at moderate rents, on leases, subject to perpetual renewal on the payment of small fines by every succeeding tenant. Stonehouse had become a considerable place when Risdon wrote, about 1620, and it increased rapidly in buildings and population during the first thirty years of the present century.

Stonehouse owes its prosperity chiefly to its convenient situation for naval and military depôts, and the large Government establishments connected with the victualling, sanitary and medical service. During the Napoleonic war there were maintained here several barracks, capable of containing more than 3000 men. The principal of those now occupied are the Royal Marine Barracks, which have room for about 1500 men, and were built about 1783. They are near the head of Mill Bay, opposite the Great Western Docks, now in course of extension. From these Docks the town extends southward along that bold and strongly fortified neck of land which juts into Plymouth Sound and Hamoaze Harbour, between Mill Bay and Sutton Pool, and is terminated on the south-west by that extensive and elegant establishment the Royal William Victualling Yard, and by the forts and batteries of Devil's Point and Western King, and on the south east by the forts, &c., of Eastern King, where there is a large new battery. Stonehouse participates largely in the trade and commerce of the port of Plymouth (see page 609), and its streets are generally spacious and well built, running in straight lines, crossing each other at right angles, and having many handsome houses and well-stocked shops, and several commodious inns and hotels. The Three Towns Banking Company is situated in the main thoroughfare in Edgcumbe Street. Mr. Thomas S. Bayly is manager. Stonehouse Bridge, which crosses the Creek between Stonehouse Pool and Lake, forms a direct communication between this town and Devonport, and was built about 1773 by the lords of the two manors, whose successors, the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe and the St. Aubyn family, have equal shares of the tolls, which now yield above £5000 per annum. Foot-passengers pay a halfpenny, horses 1*d.*, and carriages 2*d.* to 3*d.* each. Before the erection of this bridge the passage was by a ferry-boat. It is matter of surprise that the inhabitants of the Three Towns have not taken means for the abolition of tolls on this bridge, so as to make it free, like the Mill Bridge (nearly half a mile above), which was rebuilt about fifty years ago.

The ROYAL WILLIAM VICTUALLING YARD occupies the north side of that large headland at Stonehouse which projects into the Sound and the spacious harbour of Hamoaze. This magnificent National establishment was commenced in 1826, and completed in 1835, from the designs of Sir John Rennie, at the cost of £1,500,000. The entire premises occupy about 13 acres of land, of which nearly half was recovered from the sea; the material for that purpose being obtained from the excavations made in levelling and preparing the remainder of the site. The entrance-gateway is in the Græco-Roman style, and wholly of finely-wrought granite. The front exhibits a grant central arch and two side entrances; and on the former is placed a statue of William IV., of Portland stone, 13½ feet in height. It is a most exquisite piece of sculpture, and a good likeness. The ox's heads and anchors over the side entrances were carved by a rustic sculptor. The general facing of the extensive buildings is of wrought limestone; but the plinths, dressings, cornices, &c., in the principal fronts are of granite. The doors and window frames are of cast iron, as are the internal columns of all the warehouses, and the girders, lintels, &c., of the Cooperage. The Long Store, Melville Store and the Cooperage are roofed with iron, copper and slate. On the right of the entrance is a fine range of buildings, 250 feet by 200 feet, wherein the bread for the Navy is prepared, by means of a steam engine of 40-horse power and 25 pairs of mill-stones, capable of grinding 1000 bushels of corn in the short space of ten hours. The flour is passed from the mill to the story below, where it is kneaded, and the dough cut into biscuits, by curiously contrived machinery. In one part of the buildings appropriated for the preparation of butchers' meat is the slaughter-house, where 70 or 80 head of cattle can be dispatched at once. The next buildings, on the left, are called the Melville Quadrangle, and are 240 feet square, with a lofty granite arch-way surmounted by a clock. The interior contains spacious apartments for the various stores connected with victualling the Navy. In front is a large basin, with an entrance for vessels from the harbour, and around it are spacious quays built of granite. The next building is the Brewhouse, with a steam-engine of 40-horse power; but, owing to the discontinuance of serving beer to the Navy, it has remained useless for the purpose it was intended, but is now used as a store and for other purposes. Beyond this is the extensive Cooperage, floored with four-inch York paving.

The Royal Marine Barracks occupy an area of 12½ acres, a portion of which has been reclaimed from the sea in Mill Bay, which forms the eastern boundary of this establishment, the principal front of which faces and forms a fine architectural façade in Durnford Street. These barracks accommodate 1400 men and officers. The parade is 432 feet long and 204 feet wide. There is a large drill shed, 327 feet long and 64 feet wide, erected in the rear, for the exercise of the men in wet weather, and at the back of this shed are built the general cook-room, lavatories, latines, &c., besides the canteen and the commissariat stores and shops, with the workshops and washhouse establishment. The officers' mess is approached from the south-east angle of the parade; it is 65 feet long, 35 feet wide, and 24 feet high, and its walls are decorated with paintings of distinguished marine and other officers. In connection with these Barracks are Schools for the men and boys, and for the girls and infants. The former occupies, with the exception of a small portion used as an Infirmary, the building which was in former times, when Stonehouse was a watering-place, the old Assembly Room, known as the 'Long Room.' The latter school is a handsome building situated in Caroline Place. It is erected with Portland and Bath stone, and forms one of the leading architectural features of the 'Three Towns.'

On the headland called the Eastern King are erected, in connection with these Barracks, the divisional stables, magazine, and a large practice-battery mounted with heavy guns, including 9 and 6½ ton guns. The band of these Barracks has long been celebrated for its superior excellence, and is a great advantage to the many entertainments that take place in the town and neighbourhood around.

The Queen's Harbour Master has an official residence occupying a commanding position on the Long Room Hill, overlooking the Sound, Mill Bay, and Hamoaze.

In Mill Bay, immediately below the Barracks and other buildings herein described, a large extension of the Great Western Docks is in course of progress, which, when completed, will allow the largest vessels to lie alongside its several quays—a convenience greatly wanted in this port. At a short distance are the Clarence Stores, 340 feet long and 50 broad. In front of these stores is a noble wharf, extending 500 feet, and forming a delightful promenade on the margin of the broad waters of Hamoaze near their confluence with the Sound. The officers' residences are to the right of the entrance. About 150 men are employed here, but in time of war the number would be greatly augmented. The Devil's Point is the high ground behind the Victualling Yard, where there is a Reservoir holding 7000 tuns of water, and a Battery, from which the Royal Marines practise artillery firing. On the headland are also erected a Coastguard Station, allowing accommodation for a chief officer and ten men, with a watch-house. In connection with this establishment, for the instruction of the Naval Reserve are two practice-batteries, with a small-arms drill shed.

The Royal Naval Hospital is at Stonehouse, opposite Stonehouse Lake, and occupies about 24 acres, including a verdant lawn of 13 acres. It was opened in 1762 for the reception of sick and wounded officers, seamen, and marines, of whom it received no fewer than 48,452 from 1800 to 1814, a great portion of whom were returned to the service as effective men. The buildings range in the form of a square, and will accommodate 800 patients. The buildings contain 60 wards—40 of which are of the following dimensions:—59 feet 8 inches by 23 feet 10 inches; height, 12 feet; cubic space, 17,064 feet each. The remainder, 60 feet by 24 feet; height, 9 feet; cubic space, 13,680 feet each. Each ward is fitted to accommodate 14 patients; but, in case of necessity, a larger number can be admitted. Certain wards are set apart for zymotic diseases. There is also an operating theatre, victualling room, and cook room, or kitchen. The cooking is carried on by steam, and the arrangements are most complete. A new church is in course of erection. There is a complete laundry with fumigating and disinfecting stoves. The water reservoir is supplied by the Devonport Water Company. The hospital is now under the sole charge of an inspector-general of hospitals and fleets, with a proper staff of officers, as under—viz., deputy inspector-general, agent, fleet surgeon, chaplain, staff surgeon, and three surgeons, all resident.

The Royal Military Hospital is on the opposite side of Stonehouse Lake, near Stoke Church, and was built in 1797. The south front is of grey marble, and has a very imposing appearance, being of considerable length, and having an arcade of 41 arches, forming a fine promenade for the sick. It will accommodate 500 patients, and has extensive grounds enclosed by a lofty wall. The Blockhouse, at Higher Stoke, is a square fortification, erected in the reign of George II., and intended as a redoubt for the defence of the town and harbour. The views from its ramparts are extensive and beautiful, embracing not only the three towns and their harbours, but a large portion of the adjacent country, in the picturesque vales of the rivers Tamar and St. Germans or Lynher.

A large and handsome building called St. George's Hall, situated at the east end of Emma Place, with accommodation for the county court, was erected in 1849–50 at the cost of £3700, raised in £1 shares, and enlarged in 1872 at a cost of £1000. It is in the Italian style, and contains besides two court rooms, the Local Board offices, a handsome Masonic lodge room, and a fine ball room, 85 feet by 45. The offices of the secretariat of the District Lodge of Oddfellows (M.U.), are also in this building.

East Stonehouse county court district comprises: Antony, Brixton, Bickleigh, Botusfleming, Colebrook, Cornwood, Compton Gifford, Devonport, East Stonehouse, Ermington, Egg Buckland, Harford, Holbeton, Landulph, Landrake, Luton, Maker, Millbrook, Newton Ferrers, Noss, Plymouth, Plympton St. Mary, Plympton Maurice, Plymstock, Pennycross, Pillaton, Revelstoke, Rame, Ridgway, Saltash, Shaugh, Sparkwell, Stoke Damerel, St. Budeaux, St. John's, St. Mellion, St. Erney, St. Stephens, Sheviock, Tregantle, Tamerton Foliott, Ivybridge, Underwood, Wembury, and Yealmpton. M. Fortescue, Esq., Q.C., is judge; Robert G. Edmonds, Esq., registrar, and district registrar of the High Court of Justice; Mr. R. Rodda, high bailiff. For bankruptcy purposes, Okehampton, Tavistock, Totnes, and Churston Ferrers, Kingsbridge, Launceston, and Liskeard, are united to East Stonehouse. A court is held here for Admiralty purposes.

The town is well lighted with gas from the Plymouth Gas Works; and has a supply of water from a spring rising at Tor, in the tithing of Compton Gifford. This is augmented with water supplied by the Corporation of Plymouth and the Devonport Water Company.

The Urban Sanitary Authority consists of 24 members, namely:—Messrs. C. Bulteel, J. Deacon, J. Head, W. E. Harris, H. Perry, R. R. Rodd, J. Moore, and Captain Wheeler, R.N., C.B., who retire in April 1879; Messrs. T. S. Bayly, R. L. Blight, J. Friend, J. Perry, G. L. Lake, G. Phillips, E. Sloggett, and Thomas Taylor, jun., who retire in April 1880; Messrs. J. Brown, J. Goad, S. Hyne, R. Oram, J. Treverton, J. Taylor, G. E. Tippetts, and J. C. Wills, who retire in 1881. C. Bulteel, Esq., is chairman; Mr. J. Edward Curteis, clerk; Mr. J. L. Hodge, surveyor; Mr. Thomas Leah, medical officer of health; Mr. J. Roberts, sanitary inspector; Mr. W. H. Wood, collector of rates; and Mr. Jago, turncock. There is a Volunteer Fire Brigade, consisting of 12 members; Mr. J. Taylor, of 15 Battery Street, is captain. The Town Council of Devonport and East Stonehouse Urban Sanitary Authority are about to drain Stonehouse Lake, carrying the drainage of Stonehouse and Devonport under Durnford Street to Furstone Bay. Sir Joseph Bazalgette, C.B., is engineer.

East Stonehouse Parish Workhouse was erected in 1801, when the old one was taken down; it has room for 130 paupers. The parish forms a union and registration district under the new Poor Law; and in 1838 expended £3005 14*s.* in maintaining its in and out-door poor. It has been resolved to erect a new Infirmary, and Mr. H. B. Snell has been instructed to draw the necessary plans. Mr. Richard Robinson Rodd is the clerk; Mr. Fortescue Arnett Graham, superintendent registrar; Mr. George Carter Bignell is the relieving officer and registrar of births and deaths; Mr. John B. Turpin is the registrar of marriages; and Mr. Robert Kingcombe, deputy-registrar; Mr. George and Mrs. Mary Ann Horswill are master and matron of the Workhouse.

The Police Station in which petty sessions are held is situated near St. George's Hall; and the magistrates for this division are R. J. Laity, G. W. Soltau, R. M. Dunn, C. R. Buller, E. St. Aubyn, C. Simpson, J. B. Wilcocks, W. E. Matthews, I. F. Fortescue, Esqrs., the Rev. J. Hall Parlby, Major Trist, Admiral Lowe, and Captain Wilson, R.N. R. R. Rodd, Esq., is their clerk. Captain Brutton is the superintendent of police; and Mr. R. R. Rodd, county coroner.

Churches and Chapels.—East Stonehouse was formerly a chapelry, in the parish of St. Andrew's, Plymouth, but was constituted a separate parish by Act of Parliament. St. George's, the parish church, was built by subscription in 1789, on the site of the ancient chapel. It is a plain stone fabric, with a disproportioned tower, but the interior is neatly fitted up, and has about 700 sittings. These pews are freehold, but a committee, at the head of which is the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, has been formed for the purpose of making them free to the public, and already a number of pews have been conveyed to trustees for effecting that object. The living is a vicarage, valued at £217 per annum, in the patronage of the Vicar of St. Andrew's, Plymouth, and incumbency of the Rev. P. R. Scott. St. Paul's Church, at the end of Durnford Street, was built by subscription and grants in 1830–31, at the cost of about £2700, and is an elegant structure in the Lancet Pointed style, with 1100 sittings, the greater part of which are free. The benefice is a curacy, in the patronage of the incumbent of St. George's. St. Matthew's Church, in Clarence Place, has been erected from plans by Mr. Henry John Snell, at a cost of £5000, exclusive of site given by the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, valued at £1500. It was consecrated on December 16, 1876. The living is a perpetual curacy, valued at £200. The Rev. Walter A. Prideaux is the present incumbent, and the vicar of the parish and three lay trustees are patrons. There is an episcopal chapel at the Royal Naval Hospital, of which the Rev. R. Measham is chaplain. There is a Baptist Chapel, in Union Street; a Wesleyan Chapel, in Edgcumbe Street; and Independent Chapels at Emma Place and Union Place.

The School Board was formed on June 16, 1874, and now consists of the Rev. P. R. Scott (chairman), the Rev. S. Hobbs (vice), and Messrs. T. S. Bayly, J. Friend, Thomas Taylor, J. Treverton, and Capt. W. T. Wheeler. Mr. Sidney H. Phillips is clerk. A Board School has been recently erected in High Street, at a cost of £5150. They have also an Infant School in East Street; and the erection of a new school is in contemplation. Here is a large National School, which was established many years ago, and has since been considerably enlarged. It is now in three departments, attended by about 314 boys, 215 girls, and 282 infants.

The poor parishioners have 30*s.* a year from Rawlin's and Lanyon's Charities (see Plymouth), and they participate in the benefits of the Dispensary at Devonport.

The HOME for the AGED and INFIRM, under the care of the Little Sisters of the Poor, is situated in St. Mary's Street. 'The Institute for the Little Sisters of the Poor was founded in 1840, at St. Servan, in Brittany. Its object is to provide homes for the aged and infirm poor of both sexes; to feed them, clothe them, and to minister to all their wants.' The present building at Stonehouse was opened in 1865, and was built on the site of St. Mary's Catholic Church at a cost of £1500. The Stonehouse Permanent Equitable Benefit Building Society was commenced in 1849, and now have upwards of £12,000 on deposit. Mr. J. Lewis is secretary.

STOODLEIGH, or Studley, is a parish and a straggling village, on an acclivity, 6 miles N.N.W. of Tiverton Railway Station, and 6 miles from Dulverton Railway Station, and 3½ miles S.S.W. of Bampton. It is in Tiverton union and county court district, Cullompton petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Witheridge hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton West rural deanery. It had 521 inhabitants (258 males, 263 females) in 1871, living in 91 houses, on 4336 acres of land, extending eastward to the river Exe. One of the lofty hills on the west side of the parish is called Stoodleigh Beacon, or Warbrightsleigh Hill, and is said to have had a beacon erected upon it by order of Edward II. The manor was anciently held by the Champeaux and Marchant families, and afterwards by the Fitzpayne, Anstill, Kelly, Carew, Brickdale, and Fitzakerley families. Thomas Carew Daniel, Esq., J.P., now lord of the manor and principal owner of the soil, resides at Stoodleigh Court, a neat mansion in a small park, commanding extensive prospects.

The CHURCH (St. Margaret) is an ancient structure in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch, and square tower, containing six bells, and has an organ. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £20 0s. 2½*d.*, and in 1831 at £395, is in the patronage of T. Carew Daniel, Esq., and incumbency of the Rev. Joseph Bockett, M.A. The rectory house is a neat building with tasteful grounds, and the glebe is 30 acres. The tithes were commuted in 1841 for £407 per annum.

The PARISH SCHOOL, adjoining the churchyard, was built in 1847, by the late T. Carew Daniel, Esq., at the cost of £220. In 1668 Elizabeth Carew left £400 for the equal benefit of the poor of this parish, and Crowcombe, in Somersetshire. This legacy was laid out in the purchase of 33 acres of land in the latter parish, now let for about £50 per annum. There is also belonging to this charity £114, which arose from the sale of timber.

STOWFORD is a parish and small village, in the valley of one of the tributary streams of the Lyd, 7 miles E.N.E. of Launceston. It is in Tavistock union, county court district, archdeaconry and rural deanery, Lifton hundred and petty sessional division, and Southern division of the county. It includes Sprytown hamlet, and had 466 inhabitants (227 males, 239 females) in 1871, living in 95 houses, on 2065 acres of land. Henry Bradshawe, Esq., is lord of the manor of Milford, but that of Stowford belongs to Edward Blackburn, Esq., together with Haine and Stone estates (about 1100 acres), which were held by the Harris family for many generations. He has a handsome seat here called Haine, a large quadrangular building in the castellated style, erected about 70 years ago, and completed by its present owner, who purchased the estate about 16 years ago. The estate is noted for the growth and quality of its oak. Three limestone quarries have been worked in the parish, but they are now abandoned.

The CHURCH (St. John), a handsome structure, consisting of nave, chancel, north and south aisles, and tower containing six bells, was restored in 1876, under the direction of Sir G. G. Scott, R.A. In the church are several monuments belonging to the Harris family, one of whom was master of the household to George II. and III. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £11 12*s.* 6*d.*, and in 1831 at £270, is in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. John Bidlake Wollocombe, M.A., who has 55A. 2R. 22P. of glebe, and a residence. A Parochial School, partly endowed, is supported by the rector and Mr. Blackburn. The Parish Land comprises a farm of 36 acres, given by Mrs Trist, in the 16th century, for the repairs of the church, and the surplus for the poor. The dividends of £300 Three per Cent. Consols, purchased with the gift of Margaret Doyle, in 1791, are paid for schooling poor children.

STREET. (See Blackawton.)

SUTCOMBE, a pleasant village and parish on the north side of the small river Waldon, 5 miles N. by W. of Holsworthy, is in Holsworthy union, county court district, rural deanery, and petty sessional division, Holsworthy polling district of South Devon, Black Torrington hundred, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 420 inhabitants (215 males, 205 females) in 1871, living in 83 houses, on 3593 acres of land. Earl Stanhope owns a great part of the parish, and the rest belongs to the Yeo family. The parish has a good repute for salubrity. The soil is a light loam, and the sub-soil various, but a large proportion of rock. The CHURCH (St. Andrew), an ancient structure, is a very interesting one. The plan consists of a nave of three bays with western tower and south porch, chancel of two bays, and north aisle extending the whole length of nave and chancel. There is also a south aisle, extending three bays at the side of the chancel. Externally the church is quite plain. The windows and a doorway of the north side are of granite, of the time of Henry VIII. The East window of the south aisle is a good specimen of West of England Perpendicular. The floor of the church is paved throughout with ancient embossed tiles of many patterns. There is no chancel arch, but the lower part of a once fine rood-screen remains in situ. The pulpit is a good specimen of Jacobæan carving. The bench-ends in the nave are very fine; they are square-ended, and have a twisted border of foliage deeply cut, and each seat-end has a grotesque or a badge carved on it. The font, which is rude in character, stands in its original position at the west end of the nave. The roofs have rafters set to segmental pointed arches, and the principals and purlins are moulded with fine quatre-foiled circular bosses at the intersections. The piers are slender granite monoliths, and support flat, four-centred granite arches. There is a singular square opening in the north-east wall of the chancel, which was probably intended for a shrine. The porch, which is Perpendicular, protects what in all probability is a Saxon doorway. The church is undergoing careful restoration under the present rector; the architects being Messrs. G. F. Bodley, Esq., and T. Garner, Esq., of London. The chancel is beautifully restored under the direction of Mr. Bodley, architect, of London. The fine old carved woodwork has been restored, and the general aspect of the chancel has been greatly enhanced by a fine stained glass window, by Messrs. Burlison and Grylls, of London. The roof has been richly painted by Mr. Carter, of London. The nave is still in process of restoration. The living, a rectory, valued in K.B. at £17 10*s.* 7½*d.*, is in the patronage of Samuel Lewis Lancaster-Lucas, Esq., and incumbency of the Rev. A. E. Clementi-Smith, M.A., who has 62 acres of glebe and a handsome residence, built in 1849–50, standing in charmingly picturesque grounds of several acres. The tithes were commuted in 1842 for £300 a year. The WESLEYAN CHAPEL was built in 1834, at a cost of about £300; and the BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHAPEL in 1869, at an expense of £450, defrayed by voluntary subscription. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on November 26, 1874, and consists of Messrs. William Allin (chairman), Charles Cawsey (vice-chairman), Richard Allin, Joseph Carter, William Carter, and Daniel Allin. The school, with teachers' residence, was built in 1877, at a cost of £650, to accommodate 70 children. Here is an Almshouse for six poor people, founded by Sir William Morice in 1674, and endowed with 42A. 1R. 38P., called Upcott Parks, and an annuity of £20 out of the great tithes of Broad Clist. The poor parishioners have the interest of £20 10*s*. The Rector of Sutcombe is the acting feoffee.

SWIMBRIDGE, or Swymbridge, a parish and large village, 5 miles E.S.E. of Barnstaple, includes the hamlets of Cobbaton, Gunn, Newland, and West Stowford, and many scattered farms and pleasant seats. It is in Barnstaple union, archdeaconry and county court district, Braunton petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, South Molton hundred, and Sherwell deanery. It had 1422 inhabitants (694 males, 728 females) in 1871, living in 311 houses, on 7280 acres of land. The Duke of Bedford is lord of the manor, but John Pyke-Nott, Esq., R. Chichester, Esq., the Hon. Mark Rolle, and others, have estates in the parish. In Risdon's time there were some remains of the manor house of Ernsborough (now Irisborough), where that eminent civilian, Dr. Cowell, was born in 1554. The CHURCH (St. James) is an ancient and handsome structure, consisting of nave, aisles, chancel, and tower containing five bells, and crowned by a spire. A rich screen in fine preservation divides the nave and chancel. The pulpit is of carved stone; the font is encased with oak, on the panels of which are some curious carved figures; on the front of the gallery at the west end is 'H.H. 1617'; and the altar rails bear the date 1701. The communion plate is very ancient; on the chalice the year 1576 is engraved, and on one of the salvers is the date 1718. In the church are monuments to Tristram Chichester, Esq. (who died in 1654), a member of the Cutcliff family (1721), and John Rosier (died 1658), besides several to the Nott family. The Register dates from 1561. The living is a vicarage, valued at £300, in the patronage of the Bishop of Exeter, and incumbency of the Rev. J. Russell. This parish was formerly united with Landkey, but was separated therefrom in 1866; and the glebe has been sold by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The graveyard was enlarged in 1877 by land given by the Duke of Bedford, and is now about an acre in extent. The CHAPEL OF EASE (St. Thomas) at Cobbaton was erected in 1866-7, at a cost of about £850, and is a handsome and commodious structure, consisting of nave, chancel, and small spire containing one bell. It has an endowment of £120 a year, given by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners; and the curate officiates. The licensed Chapel at Gunn was built in 1873–4 by John Pyke-Nott, Esq. There is a BAPTIST CHAPEL in the village; and at Cobbaton is one belonging to the WESLEYANS, which was built in 1838 at an expense of £120, and will seat 150 persons. The SCHOOL, at Swimbridge, with teacher's residence, was erected in 1866, and is attended by 100 children; and that at Cobbaton, built in 1876 at an outlay of £300, has an average attendance of 30 pupils. The Parish Lands, &c., comprise 116 acres and 18 houses, let for about £200 a year, out of which the church is kept in repair, £30 a year applied in aid of the schools, and the remainder given to the poor. In the same trust is a house for the sexton, and a house and garden occupied by paupers. The poor have also the interest of £40, left by three donors; and an annuity of 20*s*. left by Charity Symons in 1665.

SYDENHAM DAMAREL, or South Sydenham, is a scattered parish, on the eastern side of the Tamar, from 4 to 5 miles W.N.W. of Tavistock. It is in Tavistock union, county court district, petty sessional division, and rural deanery, Southern division of the county, Lifton hundred, and Totnes archdeaconry. It had 509 inhabitants (250 males, 259 females) in 1871, living in 101 houses, on 1413 acres of land, including the village of Horsebridge. John Carpenter-Garnier, Esq., M.P. (lord of the manor), Earl Fortescue, Robert Perkin, Esq., and Reginald Gibb, Esq., are the principal owners of the soil. The Church (St. Mary) is a small fabric in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch, and a handsome embattled tower containing five bells. The Register dates from 1511. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £10 6*s.* 8*d.*, and now at £165, in the gift of J. Carpenter-Garnier, Esq., M.P., J.P., and incumbency of the Rev. Jonathan Clouter Parkyn, B.A., who has a large residence, and 102 acres of glebe. The tithes have been commuted for £165 a year. Here is a small Bible Christian Chapel, erected in 1832. The School was built by John Carpenter-Garnier, Esq., in 1863. The poor have £20 a year from Tremayne's charity, as noticed at page 241.

TALATON, or Tallaton, is a parish and a village on a northern declivity, 3½ miles N.W. of Ottery St. Mary, and 11 miles N.E. by E. of Exeter, in Honiton union and county court district, Ottery petty sessional division, Hayridge hundred, Northern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Ottery rural deanery. It had 489 inhabitants (250 males, 239 females) in 1871, living on 2365 acres of land. The parish rises to a bold eminence, which overlooks the Otter valley, and includes 140 acres of waste, the hamlets of Larkbeare, Escot, Talewater, Westcott, and Fairmile, and several scattered houses. Sir John Kennaway, Bart., is lord of the manor and owner of a great part of the soil, and has a handsome seat here called Escot House (see Ottery St. Mary Directory), built on the site of the old mansion, which was erected about 1688, and was destroyed by fire on December 28, 1808, with all the furniture and most of the pictures and other valuables. The late Sir John Kennaway was created a baronet in 1791, and purchased this estate in 1794, of Sir George Yonge, Bart., who entertained George III., Queen Charlotte, and three of the princesses here on August 14, 1789. Escot House stands on a well-wooded demesne of 500 acres, remarkable for its firs and forest trees, which increase rapidly after their roots have spread through the loamy substratum. J. P. Mathew, Esq., owns part of the parish, and resides at Rydon House; and Mr. R. Pratt and a few smaller freeholders have estates here. The Church (St. James) was, with the exception of the tower, porch, east wall, and vestry, rebuilt in 1859–60, at a cost of £2000, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, and tower containing five bells and a clock. The old oak roof was kept and placed over the present structure. The church contains a rich oak screen, some memorials of the Eveleigh and other families, and eight of its windows are enriched with stained glass. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £32 3*s.* 1½*d.*, and in 1831 at £581, in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. L. P. Welland, B.A., who has 62A. 1R. 1P. of glebe, and a rent-charge in lieu of tithes. The Poor's Land, 2½ acres, let for £3, was purchased in 1657 with £23 benefaction money. The sum of £30, given by William Eveleigh, and £30 paid by the parishioners, were laid out in 1802, in the purchase of two small tenements, worth £8 a year. The poor have also the dividends of £230 9*s.* 6*d.* New Five per Cent. Stock, purchased with £209, left by Jonah Pynsent, Elizabeth Prideaux, and George Baker, and £15 derived from timber felled in the poor's land.

ESCOT DISTRICT CHURCH, for adjacent parts of Talaton, Ottery St. Mary, and Feniton parishes, is about 2 miles from the respective parish churches, and 5 miles W.S.W. of Honiton. It is a small neat structure, erected a few years ago; and its perpetual curacy, valued at £75, is in the patronage of Sir John Kennaway, and incumbency of the Rev. T. F. Boultbee. TAMERTON FOLIOT (or Tamerton Foliott) is a parish in Plympton St. Mary union, East Stonehouse county court district, Midland Roborough petty sessional division, Roborough polling district of South Devon. Totnes archdeaconry, Plympton rural deanery, and Roborough hundred. It had 1145 inhabitants (555 males, 590 females) in 1871, living in 254 houses, on 4775 acres of land. Its village is large and neat, and is pleasantly situated at the head of a creek, from the confluence of the Tamar and Tavy, 5 miles N.W. of Plymouth. It formerly had a fair on the third Tuesday in July, and also a market, granted in 1269. The manor of Tamerton Foliot was anciently held by the Foliot family, and afterwards by the Gorges, Bonvilles, Coplestones, and Bampfyldes, the latter of whom sold it to the Radcliffes, in 1741. It now belongs to the trustees of the late Walter Copleston Radcliffe, Esq. Warleigh, the ancient manor house, is near the mouth of the Tavy. The Foliot family furnished three of the early bishops of Hereford: Gilbert (1149), Robert (1174), and Hugh (1219). Maristow, more than 2 miles north of Tamerton, and 7 miles S. of Tavistock, is delightfully situated on the east bank of the Tavy, and is the seat and manor of Sir Lopes Massey Lopes, M.P. for South Devon. He is the third baronet, was born 1818, and succeeded his father Sir Ralph in 1854. He has issue living Henry Yarde Buller (born 1859), Adela Elizabeth, and Louisa Eleanor. The mansion has tasteful and well wooded grounds, and stands near the site of the ancient chapel of St. Martin, which belonged to the canons of Plympton, and from which the manor was originally called Martinstow. After the Dissolution, it was granted to the Champernownes, from whom it passed to the Slannings and Heywoods, the latter of whom sold it to Sir Masseh Manasseh Lopes, Bart., in 1798. It was visited twice by George III., Queen Charlotte, and three of the princesses, during their sojourn at Saltram, in 1789. The present baronet has built a costly Gothic chapel, for the most part on the site of the ancient chapel of St. Martin. Besides these two owners, there are several smaller ones, some of whom have seats here. The CHURCH (St. Mary) consists of nave, with north and south aisles, and a handsome tower containing six bells, and was restored about 25 years ago. It contains some antique monuments, one of which has the effigy of one of the Gorges, in plate armour. An addition to the churchyard was consecrated in 1871. The Register dates from 1794. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £17 7*s.* 8½*d.*, in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor, and incumbency of the Rev. Edward Roberts, M.A., who has a house and 3 acres of glebe. The tithes were commuted in 1839—the vicarial for £339 10*s.*, and the rectorial for £155 10*s.* a year. The latter belong to John Stephens, Esq., and others. A new and commodious WESLEYAN CHAPEL in a Gothic style was built in 1877 by subscription. The ALMSHOUSE for four poor widows was founded, in 1669, by Lady Bampfylde, who endowed it with an adjoining field. Mary Dean's School was founded in 1734, by Dame Mary Dean, of Maristow, who endowed it with the interest of £480, and with Radge Estate, in the parish of Tavistock (96 acres), now let for £160 per annum. This endowment is managed by governors appointed under a scheme sanctioned by the Committee of the Privy Council on Education in 1874. Handsome school buildings to accommodate 140 children, with a residence for the master, and separate playgrounds for boys and girls, were completed in 1877, at a cost of £1700, on a commanding site, given by the late W. C. Radcliffe, Esq. The poor have the dividends of £235 19*s.* 3*d.* Three per Cent. Stock, which arose from the gifts of Lady Modyford and other donors.

CARRIER—Richard Symons, to Plymouth, Tues. Thurs. and Sat

TAVISTOCK is an ancient parliamentary borough and handsome market town, and has a station on the London and South Western and the South Devon Railways. It is delightfully seated in the picturesque valley of the small river Tavy, from which it has its name, 33 miles S.W. by W. of Exeter, 15 miles N. of Plymouth, 20 miles W. of Ashburton, and 205 miles W.S.W. of London. It gives its name to a large union, deanery, county court and polling district, a petty sessional division, and a hundred. Its parish is all within the borough, except the manor of Cudlipptown, and extends over about 4000 acres of open moorland on the confines of Dartmoor, and includes 10,573 acres of cultivated land, stretching more than 3 miles north, west, and south of the town, and forming a fertile and picturesque district, bounded on the east by the Tavy, and on the south-west by the navigable river Tamar, which separates it from Cornwall, and to which there is a canal from the town, more than four miles in length, opened in 1817, and passing, in a tunnel nearly two miles long, under the rocky hills to Morwellham Quay, to which the Tamar is navigable for vessels of 200 tons burthen. The population of the parish was 3420 in 1801, 4723 in 1811, 5483 in 1821, 5602 in 1831, 6272 in 1841, 8147 in 1851, 8965 in 1861; but in 1871 it had decreased to 7781, 'owing to the abandonment of mines, the general depression of the mining industry in the district, and the consequent migration and emigration of miners, some of whom have removed to the colliery districts of the North of England, others having gone to America and Australia.' The area of the parish, exclusive of the manor of Cudlipptown, is, according to the census tables, 11,450 acres. The river Tavy rises in the mountainous region of Dartmoor Forest, which extends to within a few miles east of the town. In the neighbourhood are the copper, tin, and lead mines, called the Devonshire Great Consols, Bedford United, Tavy Consols, Wheal Crebor, West Maria and Fortescue, and Wheal Russell. The first named was opened about 1845 by a company, and nearly £1,000,000 has been paid as dividend; but the 'lode' fell off a few years ago, and since then no dividend has been paid. There are a large number of hands employed, and hopes are entertained that the mine will again enter the dividend list. The manufacture of coarse woollens flourished here from an early period, but declined at the close of last century, and is now obsolete. Mining operations have been carried on in the neighbourhood from time immemorial, and there are now to be seen several remains of the Phœnician smelting-houses, called 'Jews' houses.' Tavistock is one of the principal stannary towns in Devon, and in the town are two ironfoundries and engine-works.

For many years the town has been undergoing a remarkable change, scarcely an old building remaining. New villas and terraces have sprung up, and with the present railway facilities it is becoming a summer resort for the inhabitants of the larger towns. Not the least interesting feature is the large number of convenient cottages, erected by the Duke of Bedford for the working classes. Of these there are about 280 in the town, whilst in the parish there are about 400. In 1859 a branch line in connection with the South Devon Railway at Plymouth was opened, and in 1876 the town was brought into direct communication with the metropolis by means of the London and South Western Railway. The Devon and Cornwall Railway is in course of construction. In the vicarage grounds are two ivy-mantled towers, called Betsy Grimbal's Tower and the Still House, and behind the Bedford Hotel is an elegantly carved porch, with four lofty pinnacles.

The site and precincts of Tavistock Abbey now form the handsomest part of the town, and in the open space fronting the Guildhall is a handsome statue of the seventh Duke of Bedford, cast from copper raised from mines on the estate.

The late Duke of Bedford in 1845 supplied the town with pure water from a reservoir of 50,000 gallons, at the top of Bannawell Street, which is filled by never-failing springs. The cost of the Water Works was about £1400. In the winters of 1846–7–8 he employed a great number of labourers in effectually draining the town, and in carrying the drain waters through Fitzford Meadows, which, aided by the fructifying influence of irrigation, now yield three crops a year. The cost of this work was about £1500. In 1866 another reservoir was constructed in Kilworthy Lane, which holds 300,000 gallons, and the town was entirely relaid with new pipes.

The Duke of Bedford owns most of the parish, and is lord of the manors of Tavistock, Hurdwick, Morwell, Ogbear, Parswell and Ottery, formerly belonging to the Abbey; but the manor of Cudlipptown belongs to Mrs. Anna Eliza Bray, and was formerly held by the Rolle, Sawle and Bellowes families. Kilworthy, an ancient house, now occupied as a farm, was long the seat of Judge Glanville and his family, and now belongs to the Duke of Bedford. Mount Tavy is the pleasant seat of John Carpenter-Garnier, Esq., M.P. for South Devon. Fitzford, adjoining the town, was anciently the seat of the Fitze family, and afterwards of the Grenvilles, but now belongs to the Duke of Bedford, and is the site of a number of cottages. Morwell House, occupied by a farmer, is a large and ancient quadrangular building in the Tudor style, which has been completely restored by the Duke of Bedford, who has rebuilt and enlarged many of the farmhouses on his extensive estates. This house was a country seat of the Abbots of Tavistock, and is situated in the southern part of the parish, overlooking the Tamar valley. Endsleigh, the seat of the present Duke, is in the adjacent parish of Milton Abbot, as noticed there. William Russell, the seventh Earl of Bedford, was created Marquis of Tavistock and Duke of Bedford in 1649. The present Duke (Francis Charles Hastings Russell) was born in 1819, and succeeded in 1872; and his son (George William Francis Sackville), the Marquis of Tavistock, was born in 1852. Their principal seat is Woburn Abbey, Bedfordshire.

Tavistock Abbey, which stood in the town on the western acclivity of the vale of the Tavy, is said to have been founded in 961 by Orgar, Earl of Devon, or his son Ordulph. The abbey was destroyed by the Danes in 997, but was soon afterwards rebuilt. It was richly endowed by the founder and subsequent benefactors, and its revenues were valued at the Dissolution at £902 5*s.* 7*d.* per annum. It was made a mitred abbey in 1458; and in 1514 Richard Banham procured for himself and successor a seat in Parliament He also obtained from Pope Leo X. a Bull which exempted the abbey from Episcopal jurisdiction. The abbey had long a flourishing school for Saxon literature, and also a printing-press, said to have been the second set up in England. The productions of this press are now extremely rare. In the Abbey Church were buried Edward, brother of Edmund Ironside, Earl Orgar and his son Ordulph, St. Rumon, to whom the church was dedicated, Bishop Livingus, &c. John Courtenay, one of the abbots, was heir to the earldom of Devonshire, which honour he declined in favour of his next brother. The abbot had the power of inflicting capital punishment in the manor of Hurdwick. The abbey and all its large possessions were granted by Henry VIII., in 1539 or 1540, to John, Lord Russell, an ancestor of the Duke of Bedford, their present owner. The tower and ruins of the Abbey Church, which had been consecrated by Bishop Stapledon in 1318, were pulled down about 1670, and the materials used in building a school-house. In the early part of last century the principal remains of the abbey were 'the gatehouse, then used as a prison for captive seamen; the Saxon School, used as a granary, &c.; the walls of the kitchen and chapter-house, uncovered at top; and the abbot's hall, then fitted up as a meeting-house for the Presbyterians,' and now occupied by Unitarians. The refectory and some other parts of this once splendid abbey were incorporated into the Abbey House, a large and elegant castellated mansion, built about 150 years ago, and enlarged by the seventh Duke of Bedford, and elegantly fitted up as an inn, under the name of Bedford Hotel. The noble dining-room of this hotel, which is supposed to have been the refectory, is used for balls and other public uses. On removing the ceiling of this spacious room, about 55 years ago, the original vaulted roof was discovered. The Duke of Bedford erected in 1848, on part of the ruins, a new Guildhall, as afterwards noticed, and over the abbey gateway is the Public Library. In one of the towers are instruments for registering the state of the weather.

Tavistock sent members to Parliament as early as the reign of Edward I., and it regularly sent two representatives from the time of Edward III., until 1868, when by the 'Representation of the People Act, 1867,' its number of representatives was reduced to one. The right of election, until the passing of the Reform Act of 1832, was in the freeholders of inheritance, residing in the borough, who were about 50 in number. The number of Parliamentary voters for the borough in 1877 was 842. The old borough comprised only the town and its immediate vicinity, but the borough limits were extended by the Reform Act so as to comprise all the extensive parish, except the manor of Cudlipptown. Its present representative is Lord Arthur Russell. Tavistock is a borough by prescription, but was never incorporated. It is governed by a portreeve, who is the returning officer, and is appointed at the court-leet of the lord of the manor; but his duties are only nominal. A survey and valuation of the borough, made in 1726, says the lord holds courts leet and baron twice a year, at which a portreeve and eight masters are appointed by the lord's steward; that there were lands worth £60 per annum, mostly expended by the masters in repairing the church; and that the lord had a gaol and two serjeants-at-mace, a court of pleas for the manor and hundred, and a weekly court of record. Quarter sessions were formerly held here.

Tavistock Union comprises 25 parishes, of which an enumeration, showing their territorial extent, number of inhabited houses and population in 1871, together with their rateable value in 1877, is given below. One of the parishes (Calstock) is in Cornwall. The population of the union or registration district in 1871 was 31,240 (15,605 males, 15,635 females), living in 5793 houses, on 153,429 acres of land (exclusive of 5888 acres of water); there were 431 houses uninhabited and 11 building. In the union there were 51 blind persons, 14 deaf and dumb, 16 imbeciles, 19 lunatics, 194 paupers in the workhouse, and 888 prisoners in Dartmoor convict prison. The Workhouse is a large building, erected in 1837 at a cost of £7000, and has room for about 300 inmates. It was originally built for 210 paupers, but the hospital was subsequently extended. The total average expenditure of the parishes on their poor during the three years preceding the formation of the union was £8547. The expenditure of the union was £6394 in 1838; £8047 in 1840; and for the half-year ended Lady-day, 1878, £6027 12*s.* 5¼*d.*, inclusive of £299 13*s.* paid to the county rates, and £354 14*s.* 9*d.* paid to police rates. The average weekly cost per head of the indoor paupers during the half-year ended Lady-day, 1878, was for food and necessaries, 3*s.* 5¼*d.*, and for clothing, 7¾*d.* Mr. Robert Luxton is clerk to the guardians; Mr. Reginald B. E. Gill, treasurer; Messrs. S. P. Haddy, Solomon Perry, and Andrew Bray, relieving officers; Mr. Richard E. West, medical officer; Mr. Henry and Mrs. Mary Ann Hart are master and matron of the workhouse; Mr. W. Roberts, schoolmaster; and Miss Ann Ford, schoolmistress. The medical officers are Messrs. Richard E. West, of Tavistock; John Norrish, of Beer Alston; Henry Turner Wood, of Calstock; Richard Willis, of Horrabridge; Gilbert W. Northey, of Tavistock; J. Griffiths Doidge, of Lifton; and William C. Northey, of Tavistock. R. Luxton, Esq., is superintendent-registrar; and J. D. Johnstone, Esq., is his deputy; Mr. T. H. Cranch is registrar of marriages; and Messrs. John Vosper, Samuel P. Haddy, Solomon Perry, and J. Easterbrook are registrars of births and deaths and also vaccination inspectors.

Notes.—(a) the area includes 950 acres of water. Marked 1 are in Buckland Monachorum sub-district; 2 in Tavistock sub-district; 3 in Milton Abbot sub-district; and 4 in Lifton sub-district. The area marked w includes water.

Petty Sessions are held here every alternate Wednesday for Tavistock petty sessional division (see page 28), and the magistrates usually sitting here are William Pryce Mitchell, Esq., the Rev. William Gill, W. N. Chichester, Esq., Reginald B. E. Gill, Esq., and J. Carpenter-Garnier, Esq., M.P. R. Luxton, Esq., is their clerk; Mr. W. H. G. Cornwall is superintendent of police.

The County Court is held once a month at the Guildhall for the following parishes and places:—Beerferris, Brentor, Buckland Monachorum, Calstock, Coryton, Cudlipptown, Dartmoor, Gunnislake, Hingston Down, Horrabridge, Latchley, Lamerton, Lewtrenchard, Lidford Town, Marystow, Mary Tavy, Meavy, Mill Hill, Milton Abbot, Morwellham and the Quays, Peter Tavy, Princetown, Sampford Spiney, Sydenham Damerel, Sheepstor, Stowford, Thurshelton, Tavistock, Walkhampton and Whitchurch. M. Fortescue, Esq., Q.C., is judge; Christopher V. Bridgman, Esq., registrar and high bailiff.

The handsome new Guildhall was erected on the site of part of the old abbey ruins, in 1848, by the late Duke of Bedford, and comprises an extensive room, in which the petty sessions, county court, &c., are now held; a magistrates' room and other apartments; under which is the Bridewell, comprising six cells, and a dwelling for the police sergeant; adjoining is a fire engine station, &c. This building, for the free use of the town, cost his grace about £3000, and is erected in the same style as the venerable remains of the abbey, now mostly incorporated with other buildings. On the completion of the new Guildhall, the old structure, which was in a dilapidated state, was taken down.

In Bedford Square, facing the east end of the church, is the Town Hall, a handsome building erected by Francis, seventh Duke of Bedford. The hall is capable of seating 800 persons, and is beautifully decorated, the walls being hung with shields and portraits of local celebrities, chiefly the handiwork of Lady Arthur Russell. Underneath the hall is the Mechanics' Library and Recreation Rooms, and Volunteer Armoury. The cost of the erection of the Town Hall, the markets (afterwards noticed), and the shops, was £16,000.

In 1591, when the plague raged at Exeter, the summer assizes were held here, and 13 persons were condemned and executed on the abbey green. On the breaking out of the Civil Wars of the 17th century, Tavistock was the scene of great confusion and excitement. While the Earl of Bedford and most of the burgesses, with the celebrated Pym, one of their representatives, were warm in favour of the Parliament, many of the neighbouring gentry espoused the royal cause. Fitzford, the ancient seat of the Grenvilles, held out for the King, but was taken by the Earl of Essex, with 1000 stand of arms and £3000 in money. Prince Charles held several councils here when Plymouth was blockaded by the Royalists, and Exeter by the Parliamentarians; but the town does not appear to have been garrisoned during that period, though the Royal army marched through into Cornwall, with the King at its head.

Henry I. is said to have granted Tavistock a charter for a weekly market to be held on Saturday, but it is now held on Friday, and is one of the largest in the county for corn and slaughtered sheep, swine, &c., which are extensively purchased for Plymouth and other towns. The Market House is a handsome commodious pile of buildings erected in conjunction with the Town Hall, in the centre of the town, and is supplied with every modern convenience. Attached are large slaughter houses, whence large numbers of carcases are despatched to the London markets. The corn market is held in a building on granite arches, erected, in 1839, by the then Duke of Bedford. Fairs are held on the second Wednesday in each month.

The Gas Works, established in 1821, and enlarged in 1835, now belong to a company with a capital of 750 £5 shares. The Works are in Ford Street; there are 114 public lamps, and gas is supplied to private consumers at 4*s.* 3*d.* per 1000 cubic feet. Mr. W. A. Palmer, is secretary, and Mr. Charles Terdray, manager of the works.

The Church (St. Eustachius) is a large and handsome structure, consisting of a nave with a north and two south aisles, a chancel, a south porch, and a lofty tower and an illuminated clock, containing eight bells. and standing on four arches at the west end. In 1844–5 it underwent a thorough renovation, and has open carved benches affording 1004 sittings, of which 410 are free. A large stained glass window was erected at that time, but within the past few years three handsome stained windows have been added in memory of members of local families. It has a stone pulpit and altar screen, finely carved; and some ancient and modern monuments, one of which has effigies of Sir John Fitze and his lady; and another has the effigy of Judge Glanville in his robes. In the church are preserved some human bones of gigantic size, which were found in a stone coffin when digging for the foundation of the Bedford Hotel, and are said, by tradition, to be the bones of Ordulph, son of the founder of the abbey. The Duke of Bedford has recently promised £250 towards the repair of the organ. The Duke of Bedford is impropriator of the great tithes, formerly belonging to the abbey, and also patron of the living, which is valued in K.B. at £10 17*s.* 6*d.*, and in 1831 at £302, and now in the incumbency of the Rev. W. J. Tait, who has a good residence, with pleasant grounds. He receives a stipend from the Duke. In 1846 the tithes of 3151 acres of land, not belonging to the Duke, were commuted for £363 11*s.* per annum. There were anciently chapels of St. Margaret and St. John in the parish; and Tanner says there were here a house of Austin Friars, and a Lepers' Hospital. The Duke of Bedford has within the last few years erected two additional churches, one at Gulworthy for the accommodation of the inhabitants at the extreme western part of the parish, and another at the west end of the town, at Fitzford. The latter was erected in 1866–7, has nave, chancel, aisles, and detached tower, and is in the 13th century style, from designs by Mr. H. Clutton, of London. The church is built of Hurdwick stone with Portland and Bath stone dressings, and cost £14,000.

There are now in the town six chapels belonging to the Congregationalists, Wesleyans, United Free Methodists, Bible Christians, Plymouth Brethren, and Unitarians. The Independent Congregation was formed in 1796, and a new church was erected in 1873, near the site of the old one, which was built in 1833. The present building is in the Geometrical style, having a tower 133 feet high; and adjoining the church are superior Sunday Schools, the whole being erected at a cost of £6000, a large portion of which was given by the Duke of Bedford. Three small windows have been filled with stained glass, in memory of Mr. Alfred Rooker, the son of a former minister of the church. The Unitarian Chapel occupies part of the Abbey buildings, as noticed at page 754, and its congregation originated as Presbyterian in 1670. The Wesleyan Chapel was erected in 1856; the Free Methodist in 1838; and the Bible Christian in 1846. The Plymouth Brethren have a meeting room in the town.

A small Cemetery was made about 40 years ago, on land given by the late Duke of Bedford; and a burial ground of 5A. 3R. is in course of formation, at the cost of the present Duke, who is also defraying the expense of its formation, &c. The buildings, erected in 1877–8, comprise a gatehouse, in which is a mortuary chapel, and a fine chapel crowning the highest point of the ground. These buildings are in 15th century Gothic, and were designed by Mr. H. Clutton, of London. They are built wholly of Dartmoor granite, and are the first of their kind constructed of that material. The cost was £10,000.

The ancient Grammar School formed part of the old Vicarage premises, which were taken down about 30 years ago to enlarge the churchyard; but the Duke of Bedford furnished the vicar with another residence, and built the present large and elegant school-house and school in 1837, at the cost of £2500. He allows about £50 a year to the head master, and £20 to the second master, in consideration of which they charge only small quarterages for such boys as are sent by him or his steward. In 1649, Sir John Glanville, Kt., left a house and land at Lamerton, in trust that the yearly profits should be applied in maintaining a boy from this school at one of the Universities. The property is now (1878) worth £50, and for the last seven years has been applied in accordance with the donor's direction. The School Board was formed on March 14, 1874, and now consists of Edward Rundle, Esq. (chairman), the Rev. W. J. Tait, the Rev. D. P. Alford, and Messrs. John Dunn, John Clifton, Luke West, and Edward Turner. Mr. Edward Horswill is clerk. They have three schools under their control. The National Schools, erected in 1847, form a large and handsome building in the Tudor style. Here are also large British Schools.

The Mechanics' Library, held underneath the Town Hall, in Bedford Square, and Duke Street, was established in 1832, and now has about 800 members and a good library. Mr. Thomas Hardy is the secretary.

Kelly's College was founded under the will of Admiral B. M. Kelly, who died at Saltford, near Bristol, on September 26, 1867. The object of the founder was to establish a school in the western part of Devonshire, at which, so far as the endowment would allow, the following classes of boys might be placed on the foundation to be boarded and educated:—Class 1. Lineal descendants of the grand-parents of the founder, i.e. of Arthur Kelly, of Kelly, who died at Kelly in 1762, and Mary his wife. Class 2. Sons of officers in the Royal Navy, of and above the rank of lieutenant, who shall have been killed in actual service. Class 3. Sons of other deceased officers in the Royal Navy of like rank to the above. Class 4. Any other candidates. Priority to be given to candidates of the classes in the order above given. The provisions contained in the founder's will being deemed by the trustees inadequate for carrying out the object of the testator, application was made to the Charity Commissioners, and after overcoming legal delays and difficulties, at length on August 9, 1872, a scheme giving the trustees powers for the establishment and regulation of the Kelly College at Tavistock, as a first grade school, was obtained. The scheme provides for the reception, not only of foundationers, in accordance with the will of the founder as above given, but also for the reception of other boarders, and of day boys on the usual terms. The subjects of instruction, as defined by the scheme, include classics, modern languages and literature, physical science, and mathematics; religious instruction in accordance with the principles of the Church of England is imparted, but day scholars may be withdrawn during the time of such instruction. Every candidate for admission as a foundationer must not be less than 10 nor (except with the special permission of the trustees) more than 14 at the date of his formal admission, and must satisfy the head master of his fitness to be a member of the college. No foundation boy shall be entitled to remain after the age of 18. The trustees have power to provide exhibitions tenable at the college, or by persons educated at the college, at the universities of Oxford or Cambridge, or any place of advanced professional or scientific education. The trustees have power to remit, partially or wholly, the capitation fees of boys who are reported by the headmaster or examiner to be deserving of special reward. The site of twenty acres upon which the college stands, was given by the late Duke of Bedford, but in consequence of his death within a year of the gift, it lapsed, and the present Duke thereupon renewed the gift, and it was conveyed to the trustees on September 7, 1872. Extensive preliminary works were necessary from the nature of the site before the buildings could be commenced, and it was not until May 29, 1875, that the first stone of the college was laid. The school was opened in September 1877. The buildings, erected on an artificial terrace overlooking the playground, comprise an excellent head master's house; adjoining it a boarding house for fifty boarders; and, following in the same line, the west wing and centre of the college—it being intended that the east wing of the college and the chapel shall be built, as well also as more boarding houses, when the number of boys shall demand these additions. The existing class rooms and other accommodation in the college are considered adequate for the teaching of 300 boys. There has been expended upon the buildings above mentioned, including preliminary works and all other incidental expenses, as well as the erection of a handsome lodge, gates, &c., about £30,000. The cost has been defrayed out of the capital funds of the charity. The trustees are the Earl of Devon, the Bishop of Exeter, Sir T. D. Acland, Bart. M.P., Reginald Kelly, Esq., W. Marwood Kelly, Esq. M.D., Sir J. T. B. Duckworth, Bart., Rear-Admiral the Hon. F. A. C. Foley, Sir Massey Lopes, Bart, M.P., J. Tremayne, Esq., M.P.. and Fredk. Morshead, Esq. Robert West Taylor, Esq. M.A., is head master; the Rev. T. A. A. Chirol, M.A., and J. M. Batten, Esq., B.A., assistant masters; Mr. A. L. Vingoe is music master; and Mr. Henry Rafter, drawing master.

Tavistock Public Dispensary was established in 1832; the Rev. W. J. Tait is president, W. Honey, Esq., honorary treasurer; R. W. Crighton, Esq., M.D., is physician; W. C. Northey and R. E. West, are surgeons; Mr. Stanners, dispenser and secretary. The Tavistock Lying-in Charity is under the management of four ladies; Mrs. Cornish is treasurer. A Kitchen to provide cooked dinners, &c., for the sick poor, and to instruct girls in the first principles of cooking, is opened twice a week. Mrs. Tait is secretary. Here is a Blanket Society, of which Miss Cornish is secretary, and she is also secretary of the Dorcas Society. Tavistock Savings Bank was established in 1816, and on November 30 it had deposits amounting to £57,101 1*s.* 1*d.*, belonging to 1543 depositors; besides which there was a surplus fund of £1070 10*s.* 6*d.*; Mr. E. Straker is the actuary, and R. B. E. Gill, Esq., treasurer.

Eminent Men.—Among the worthies of Tavistock may be enumerated the celebrated Sir Francis Drake, said to have been born at Crowndale; Judge Glanville, and his son Sir John, a political writer; and William Browne, the poet, who was born in 1590. Several of the abbots were learned men, and with the aid of their printing press gave great encouragement to literature. Mrs. Bray, the lady of a deceased vicar, has published several interesting works, descriptive of the romantic beauties of this neighbourhood, and recording much of its history, and the manners and traditions of its inhabitants. Tavistock is said to have been the seat of Earl Orgar, the story of whose beautiful daughter, Elfrida, is well known.

Charities.—In 1674, Nicholas Watts left, in trust for charitable uses, ten houses and gardens, and about 16 acres of land, now let for £64 a year, subject to fines on the renewal of the leases. There is also belonging to the same trust £125 Navy Five per Cents, purchased with a small unapplied portion of the rents intended to be applied in fitting a youth for the University, but there are seldom any applications for this branch of the charity. The trustees, pursuant to the donor's will, pay yearly £10 to four dissenting ministers, and distribute £35 5*s.* among 95 poor men in sums of 7*s.* each. New trustees were appointed, and a new scheme sanctioned, by the Court of Chancery for the application of the four branches of the charity, about 20 years ago. Several ancient charities settled by Act of Parliament in the 3rd of George III. comprised divers small tenements, rent-charges, &c., which were given by the said Act to the Duke of Bedford in exchange for an annual rent of £120, charged on his estates in this parish. The Act directed that, out of the first three years' income, the trustees should lay out £300 in erecting an almshouse for 15 poor persons of Tavistock, who do not receive parochial relief. The annuity of £120 is applied as follows:—£50 for the support of the almspeople and the repairs of the almshouses; £30 in quarterly distributions among 60 poor parishioners; £4 4s. to the master of the Grammar School; £20 in four marriage portions to poor maidens; and £15 in apprenticing two poor boys. The Gift House, an old building, given by Oliver Maynard in 1602 for the residence of poor artificers and handicraftsmen, is about to be rebuilt, subject to the approval of the Charity Commissioners. Here were also Lord Courtenay's almshouses for four poor widows. A Freemasons' Lodge is held in the Abbey Buildings, and here are an Oddfellows' Lodge and a Philanthropic Society.

POST and MONEY ORDER OFFICE, SAVINGS BANK, GOVERNMENT ANNUITY, and INSURANCE and TELEGRAPH OFFICE, 4 Abbey Place; Mr. Edwin Straker, postmaster. There is a WALL LETTER BOX in West Street, cleared at 11 a.m. and 5.20 p.m. week days only.

TAVY ST. MARY, or Mary Tavy, is a parish and a village in the Tavy Valley, and on the western side of Dartmoor, 4 miles N.E. by N. of Tavistock, has a station on the Tavistock and Launceston branch of the South Devon Railway, and is chiefly inhabited by miners. It is in Tavistock union, county court district and petty sessional division, Tavistock polling district of South Devon, Lifton hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Tavistock rural deanery. The parish, which had 1035 inhabitants (497 males, 538 females) in 1871, living in 210 houses, and comprising 4180 acres of land, includes about 2100 acres of open moorland, the Horndon, Kingsett, Bedford Lanchead hamlets, &c., and the high moorland district of Blackdown and other parts of Dartmoor, where there are five valuable copper, tin, and lead mines called Wheal and North, South, and East Wheal Friendship. John Francis Buller, Esq., is lord of the manor, and he and Richard Bowhay, Esq., are owners of a great part of the soil. Lydford Railway Station is in this parish. The Church (St. Mary) was built about 1500, and consists of nave, chancel aisles, and a square tower with pinnacles, and containing five bells. It is now being thoroughly restored at a cost of about £1100. The Register dates from 1560. The living, a rectory, valued in K.B. at £14 5*s.* 7½*d.*, and now at £195 (gross), is in the gift of John F. Buller, Esq., and in the incumbency of the Rev. Walter Champernowne, M.A., who has 30A. 1R. 10P. of land and a residence. The tithes were commuted in 1843 at £194 15*s.* The Wesleyans and Bible Christians have chapels here, the former being built in 1835. The National School was erected in 1837. The Church Land, 2½ acres, is at Lydford.

Post Office at Mr. Josiah Down's. Letters are received at 9.25 a.m., and despatched at 4.10 p.m. to Tavistock, which is the nearest Money Order Office.

TAVY ST. PETER, or Peter Tavy, is a parish and scattered village in the Tavy valley, on the western borders of Dartmoor, 4 miles N.N.E. of Tavistock. It is in Tavistock union, county court district, rural deanery and petty sessional division, Tavistock polling district of South Devon, mostly in Roborough hundred, and in Totnes archdeaconry. It had 365 inhabitants in 1871, living in 79 houses, on 3500 acres of land: it includes Willsworthy hamlet, a high moorland district in Lifton hundred. The Duke of Bedford is lord of the manors of Peter Tavy and Huntingdon; but Willsworthy belongs to the Buller family; and Thos. Roskelly-Parsons, Esq., has an estate here. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is an ancient building in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch, and square embattled tower surmounted by pinnacles, and containing five bells. It was renovated in 1870 at a cost of £400, raised by voluntary subscription. The Register dates from 1674. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £17 1*s.* 8*d.*, in the patronage of the Bishop of Exeter, and incumbency of the Rev. Thomas Gibbons, B.A. There is a rectory-house, and a glebe of 73 acres. The tithes are commuted at £245. An ancient chapel at Willsworthy has long been used as a cowhouse. The WESLEYAN CHAPEL was erected in 1834; and the NATIONAL SCHOOL was erected in 1865 at a cost of £300.

TAWSTOCK, a parish and pleasant scattered village, separated from Barnstaple by the river Taw, has two Railway Stations, and is in Barnstaple union, archdeaconry, rural deanery, and county court district, Braunton petty sessional division, Barnstaple polling district of North Devon, and Fremington hundred. The parish, which had 1199 inhabitants (620 males, 579 females) in 1871, living in 247 houses; it comprises 6582 acres of land, includes the neighbouring hamlets of East Combe, West Combe, Hiscott, Chapeltown, St. John's Chapel, and Harracott Lake, and the farms called Bridgetown, Collibear, Linscott, Charlacott, Uppacott, &c., &c., extending to 5½ miles S. of Barnstaple. The Barnstaple Junction Station on the London and South Western Railway is in this parish; and at Chapeltown is another station on the branch from Exeter to Barnstaple. There is not a single public house in this parish, the refreshment rooms at the stations being the only licensed places. The manor was successively held by the Brewer, Tracey, Martyn, Audley, Fitzwarren, Hankford, and Bourchier families. The eldest daughter of Edward Bourchier, Esq., Earl of Bath, carried it in marriage to Sir Christopher Wrey, who was created a baronet in 1628. It now belongs to Sir Bourchier Palk Wrey, Bart., whose seat, TAWSTOCK COURT, is now occupied by George Henry Pinckney, Esq. Tawstock Court is a large and handsome mansion, delightfully situated in an extensive and well-wooded park, on the western side of the river Taw, 2½ miles S. of Barnstaple, near the Taw Vale Railway. The house was nearly burnt down in 1787, but was soon afterwards rebuilt from a design by the late Sir B. Wrey. An ancient gateway dated 1574 is all that remains of the old mansion of the Bourchiers. The park is rich in beautiful scenery and fine ancient oaks, and the high grounds command extensive views over the bay and town of Barnstaple. Lord Allington is lord of the manor of Templeton. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is a fine Gothic structure, consisting of nave, chancel, aisles, and a tower rising from the centre. About 12 years ago the nave was re-seated at an outlay of £1000; the chancel re-roofed and other repairs effected by the rector at an additional cost of £350. In the church are monuments of the Bourchiers and Wreys. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £69 12*s.* 1*d.*, is in the patronage of Sir B. P. Wrey, and incumbency of the Rev. H. B. Wrey, M.A., who has 112 acres of glebe surrounding the rectory house. The tithes are commuted at £930. The CHAPEL OF EASE at Harracott (Holy Trinity) was erected in 1842, in the Perpendicular style, and consists of nave, chancel, vestry on south side, and bell turret at the west end for one bell. There is a gallery at the west end, and the chapel contains 250 sittings, all of which are free save 12 in the chancel. The Rev. W. F. Newman, M.A., one of the rector's curates, officiates here. At Tawstock is a CHURCH OF ENGLAND SCHOOL, supported partly by voluntary rate, and attended by 85 children. HARRACOTT CHURCH SCHOOL was built about 1861, and is attended by 62 children. The BAPTISTS have chapels at Eastcombe and Hiscott; and the BIBLE CHRISTIANS at Chapeltown and Hiscott. The Poor's Lands, purchased with the benefactions of various donors, now comprise 22 acres of land at Collibear, let for £28; 3 acres and a cottage at Great Torrington, let for £17; and 28A. 3R. 27P. at Pen Hill, Fremington, let for £43, making a total of £88. The poor have also a rent-charge of £12 a year out of Hollowmoor, given by Sir B. P. Wrey in exchange for some old poor's land; the interest of £601 11*s.* 8*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, derived from the sale of about 4 acres of land to the Railway Company; and £120 left by Margaret Payne and another donor; the interest of £100 derived from the sale of two poll deeds invested with the waywardens at 4 per cent.; and two rent-charges of 13*s.* 4*d.* and 6*s.* 8*d.*, left by Lawrence Gibbs.

POST OFFICE at Mr. John Ridd's. Letters are despatched at 5.10 p.m. to Barnstaple, which is the nearest Money Order Office and Railway Station. There is a receiving house at Mr. George Sloman's, Chapeltown.

TEDBURN ST. MARY, a parish and pleasant village on the Okehampton road, 7½ miles W. by N. of Exeter, is in St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district, Crockernwell petty sessional division, Wonford hundred, Eastern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Kenn rural deanery. It had 721 inhabitants (415 males, 306 females) in 1871, living in 136 houses, on 4433 acres of clayey and hilly land. It formerly had a cattle fair on the Monday before Michaelmas-day, and includes the hamlet of Upcott, and many scattered farmhouses. At Domesday Survey, Tedbourne (Teteborne) was held by Ralph de Pomerai, under Baldwin de Sap. The manors of Hackworthy and Melhuish were formerly held by families of their own names, and now belong to Francis Drummond Fulford, Esq., of Exmouth. John Abbot, Esq., Mr. Thomas Preston, and several smaller owners have estates in the parish. The CHURCH, an ancient structure with a tower containing six bells, was partly restored in 1868, when the chancel was rebuilt and the church seated with open benches, the whole at a cost of £950; there is a good organ. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £18 6*s.* 3*d.*, and in 1831 at £319, is in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. Charles William Edwards Tothill, T.A.K.C.L., who has 38½ acres of glebe, and a good residence. The tithes were commuted in 1838 for £400 per annum. For the repairs of the church, certain houses and lands are held in trust, by trustees, recently appointed by the Charity Commissioners, and produces an income of about £50 a year. The poor parishioners have £10 a year, left by Elizabeth Tuckfield. (See Crediton.) They have also the following small annuities, viz., £1 11*s.* 4*d.* left by Sir John Acland; 10*s.* left by Paul Triggs; 10*s.* left by James Lake; 20*s.* left by William Strong; and 24*s.* as interest of £30, given by Sir G. Chudleigh, Agnes Westcott, and John Williams. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on November 18, 1874, and now consists of the Rev. C. W. E. Tothill (chairman and hon. clerk), and Messrs. Thomas Preston (vice-chairman), John Lethbridge, James Kemble, and Henry Priston. A school, for 120 children, was built in 1877, at a cost of £1350.

TEIGNGRACE parish, seated mostly in the Teign valley, from 1 to 3 miles N.N.W. of Newton Abbot, is in Newton Abbot union and county court district, Teignbridge petty sessional division and hundred, Eastern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, and Moreton rural deanery. It had 147 inhabitants (73 males, 74 females) in 1871, living in 32 houses, on 1329 acres of land. The parish is chiefly in pasturage but includes 358 acres of wood. The Railway from Haytor Granite Works, and the Stover Canal, which unite at Ventiford in this parish, are noticed at pages 500 and 557. The Duke of Somerset owns about 1200 acres, and is lord of the manor, which he purchased in 1829 of the Templer family, who were formerly seated at Stover House, which was built in 1776, by James Templer, Esq., of Haytor granite. The Duke occupies the farm and resides occasionally at the house, which is embellished with a handsome colonnade of Portland stone. It stands on a pleasant eminence in a finely wooded park, in which are about 20 acres of water. The manor was anciently held by the Bruer, Grace, Downe, and Holcomb families, and afterwards by the Courtenays, the latter of whom sold it to James Templer, Esq., about 1765. The CHURCH (St. Mary) was rebuilt in 1787, at the expense of three brothers of the Templer family, and is a small, neat, cruciform structure, with a tower and spire, but the interior has more the appearance of an elegant domestic chapel, than that of a parish church. On the walls are many handsome monumental marbles in memory of various members of the Templer family; and also an elegant cenotaph, in memory of the great Nelson. The living is a rectory valued in K.B. at £5 9*s.* 4½*d.*, and now at £180, in the patronage of the Duke of Somerset, and incumbency of the Rev. George Q. Head, M.A., who resides at Fishwick, Kingsteignton. The glebe is 65 acres, but there is no parsonage. A NATIONAL SCHOOL was erected in 1873, at a cost of £300, and has accommodation for 40 scholars. The poor parishioners have £60 a year, from land invested in funded property.

TEIGNMOUTH is a well-built town, seaport, and bathing place, delightfully situated on the north side of the mouth of the navigable river Teign, partly upon the triangular point of land which projects half-way across the estuary, and has the English Channel on one side, and the river on the other; and partly around the bottom and on the acclivities of the hill which rises gradually from the point to the north-west, one side commanding a fine view of the sea, and the other of the river. It is in the two small parishes of East and West Teignmouth, and is crossed by the Great Western Railway, which winds in a circuitous route along the coast and the north side of the estuary. It is distant about 14 miles S. of Exeter by rail, and 12 by road; 5 miles E. by N. of Newton Abbot, 8 miles N. by E. of Torquay, and 187 miles W.S.W. of London. It is in Newton Abbot union and county court district, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Exminster hundred, Eastern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Kenn rural deanery. Shaldon and Ringmore are suburbs on the opposite side of the river, and Bishopsteignton joins it on the west. East Teignmouth parish has an area of 745 acres, and had 484 inhabitants in 1801; 813 in 1811; 1466 in 1821; 1810 in 1831; 1576 in 1841; 1760 in 1851; 2059 in 1861; and 2443 in 1871; West Teignmouth parish had 1528 persons in 1801; 2080 in 1811; 2514 in 1821; 2878 in 1831; 2883 in 1841; 3389 in 1851; 3963 in 1861; and 4308 in 1871; the area of the former is 745 acres, inclusive of 75 acres of water, and of the latter 493, inclusive of 90 acres of water. The Earl of Devon is lord of the manor of East Teignmouth, and Lord Clifford of West Teignmouth, the former of which was long held by the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and the latter by the Bishops of Exeter. The former granted East Teignmouth a charter for a market and fair in 1253. West Teignmouth was a celebrated haven at an early period, the river being then navigable for large ships, and having no shifting bar at the entrance. It sent members to the council on shipping held at Westminster in the reign of Edward I., and furnished seven ships and 120 mariners for the fleet of Edward III. The town was partly burnt by a French pirate in 1340, and experienced a similar misfortune in 1690, from several ships that were detached for that purpose from the French fleet, then drawn up in Torbay. To repair the injury sustained by this attack, the inhabitants procured a brief, which enabled them to raise upwards of £11,000 towards rebuilding their houses. In 1774 the inhabitants of Teignmouth and Shaldon presented a petition to Sir William Courtenay, stating that the French had plundered and burnt the place, in the 2nd year of William and Mary, and that they then threatened a second visit; they, therefore, petitioned him to allow them to build a small battery on the beach at East Teignmouth, but every remnant of it long since disappeared. At this time Teignmouth and Shaldon fitted 20 ships, of from 50 to 200 tons each, for the Newfoundland trade.

A portreeve and other officers are appointed for West Teignmouth manor at the annual court leet and baron, but their offices are now limited to the manorial affairs. Teignmouth belonged to the Port of Exeter (see pages 329 and 338), but was made a free port in 1853. It has still a large trade with Newfoundland, and a considerable home fishery for whitings, herrings, mackerel, pilchards, soles, turbot,* &c., caught in the channel; and for salmon caught in the river. It also exports great quantities of granite, brought down the Teign from the Haytor quarries; and of fine pipe and potter's clay, dug up in the neighbouring parish of Kingsteignton. A commodious quay on the river was constructed in 1820, by George Templer, Esq., for the convenience of shipping these heavy articles. A convenient market place was erected about the same time; and a market was formerly held every Saturday. Here are three annual fairs, on the third Tuesday in January, the last Tuesday in February, and the last Tuesday in September.

The value of the total imports of foreign and colonial merchandise at the port was £83,803 in 1872; £89,914 in 1873; £118,240 in 1874; £76,209 in 1875; and £60,308 in 1876. The gross amount of Customs Revenue received was £8892 in 1872; £10,476 in 1873; £9519 in 1874; £9626 in 1875; £10,265 in 1876. The value of the total exports of the produce of the United Kingdom from the port was £11,994 in 1872; £12,627 in 1873; £8952 in 1874; £7159 in 1875; and £6646 in 1876. The number and tonnage of steam and sailing vessels, including their repeated voyages that entered and cleared, with cargoes and in ballast FROM and TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES in 1876 was—entered: 18 British sailers, 1948 tons; steamers nil; 6 foreign sailers, 1176 tons; steamers nil; total 24 sailers, 3124 tons;—cleared: 33 British sailers, 3447 tons; steamers nil; 13 foreign sailers, 1763 tons; steamers nil; total 46 sailers, 5210 tons;—FROM and TO BRITISH POSSESSIONS—entered: 12 British sailers, 1228 tons; 1 steamer, 19 tons; total 13 British vessels, 1247 tons; foreign vessels nil;—cleared, 19 British sailers, 2652 tons; steamers nil, and foreign vessels nil. The number of sailing and steam vessels, including their repeated voyages that entered and cleared with cargoes, and in ballast respectively, FROM and TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES and BRITISH POSSESSIONS in 1876, was—with cargoes, entered, 21 British sailers, 2215 tons; 1 steamer, 19 tons; total 22 vessels, 2234 tons; 5 foreign sailers, 1115 tons; steamers nil; grand total 27 vessels, 3349 tons;—cleared: 29 British sailers, 3240 tons; steamers nil; 8 foreign sailers, 933 tons; steamers nil; grand total, 37 vessels, 4173 tons; in ballast—entered: 9 British sailers, 961 tons; steamers nil; 1 foreign sailer, 61 tons; steamers nil; grand total, 10 sailers, 1022 tons;—cleared: 23 sailers, 2859 tons; 5 foreign sailers, 830 tons; grand total, 28 sailers, 3689 tons. COASTWISE, with cargoes—entered: 479 sailers, 51,922 tons; 1 steamer, 55 tons; total 480 vessels, 51,977 tons;—cleared, 375 sailers, 38,118 tons; in ballast—entered: 159 sailers, 15,145 tons; 1 steamer, 55 tons; total 160 vessels, 15,200 tons;—cleared: 184 sailers, 19,360 tons; 1 steamer, 55 tons; total 185 vessels, 19,415 tons. The grand total of vessels entered with cargoes and in ballast was 677, and their tonnage 71,548; and cleared 625, and their tonnage 65,395. The number of vessels on the register on December 31, 1876, was 48, having a tonnage of 5986, including 1 steamer of 23 tons burthen. The number of fishing boats on the same date was 305. The certificates of 193 boats were endorsed in 1876, and the number of men and boys required to work them is 385; there were 118 men and boys constantly employed in fishing, resident within the limits of the port, and 422 persons other than regular fishermen occasionally employed in fishing. In 1876, 1 wooden ship having a tonnage of 47 tons was built at this port.

Races and a Regatta are held every summer. In the latter part of last century Teignmouth began to be known as a bathing place, and from that time to the present, new houses, &c., have arisen to supply the accommodation of the continually increasing number of visitors, who throng to this favourite place of resort in summer and autumn. The visitant can here choose a locality embracing scenery adapted to his taste. On the Den, or Beach, he will have the 'ocean wide, the broad expanse, with towering cliff and shelving shore'; and on the hills the same, with the addition of the town as a foreground; but should his taste incline inland, the north-western end of the town will afford him a magnificent prospect up the Teign and over the country, as far as the high and bold hills of Haytor, Dartmoor, &c. The Den has been reclaimed, flower borders formed, rockeries built, and paths cut, making a very pleasant promenade.

The town has many well-stocked shops, many rows of handsome houses, and several large and commodious hotels, including Collings' Royal Hotel, situated on the Den, and commanding extensive views of the sea. The beach is composed of fine sand, and can be used at any state of the tide. The inclination of the shore is gradual, and the bather can use either deep or shallow water. The climate is mild and salubrious, and there are many instances of longevity among the inhabitants. The delightful promenade along the Den is more than half-a-mile long, running parallel to the sea, and having seats at convenient distances. It commands an extensive view of the ocean, and the Ness and the cliff on the west, and the Parson-and-Clerk rocks on the east. There is also a promenade pier. The walks and rides in the neighbourhood are beautifully diversified and picturesque, and in the suburbs are many handsome seats. Bitton, with its beautiful grounds on the West Cliff, is the seat of Mrs. C. A. Parsons. Winterbourn House is the pleasant residence of Miss Richards. About half-a-mile to the north-west, on Haldon Hill, is 'The Yannons,' a large and handsome mansion, occupied by Robert Moir, Esq. The lodge and stables are in the same style as the mansion, and the grounds command extensive and beautiful views of sea and land, and are laid out with great taste. In the dining-room are some fine paintings by eminent artists, and in the drawing-room is a richly carved mantelpiece, which is much admired.

Gas was introduced in 1840, from the works a mile west of the town, in Bishop's Teignton parish. The Bridge which crosses the Teign to Shaldon is one of the longest in England, and was built in 1826–7, by a company of proprietors, at the cost of about £20,000. It is 1671 feet long, and is composed chiefly of iron and wood. There are 34 arches, and a drawbridge over the deepest part of the channel. From the action of the salt water on the iron the principal arch gave way in 1838; but the whole was repaired in a durable manner, and the bridge was reopened in 1840. Foot passengers pay 1*d.* each, and it was a great thoroughfare for carriages, &c.; but its traffic has been considerably reduced since the opening of the Railway, though the latter goes round by the north shore of the estuary. The small Lighthouse on the Den was built in 1844-5, at the cost of £300, by the Teignmouth Harbour Commissioners. The Custom House is in Willow Street, and the Inland Revenue Office at the Devon Arms. The Coastguard consists of one officer and nine men; the Station was built in 1868, and is situated on the Strand. The 'China' Lifeboat Station is situated near the entrance to the harbour. Its boat was subscribed for in 1864 by the merchants and Englishmen resident in Hong Kong and Shangai. It is 32 feet long, and has 10 oars. T. B. Gibbs, Esq., is secretary and treasurer.

Petty Sessions for Teignbridge division are held in the Assembly Rooms, in Bank Street, every alternate Monday, and the magistrates usually sitting here are H. B. T. Wrey, R. M. Marsh Dunn, John Griffiths Beavan, James George John Templer, and Michael Lewis Brown, Esqrs. George Henry Croydon, Esq., is their clerk. There is a Police Station in Lower Brook Street.

The West Teignmouth Improvement Commissioners adopted the Local Government Act in 1859. The Local Board consists of J. G. Beavan, Esq., J.P. (chairman), the Rev. Henry Hutchins, Messrs. T. Flamank, N. W. Hudson, Wm. Esworthy, Colonel Barrows, Messrs. Thomas Squarey, R. T. Langley, W. B. Linter, G. P. Ward, T. W. Hutchins, J. Holcombe, J. P. Tothill, C. H. Collins, Dr. Magrath, Messrs. R. W. Templer, W. B. Harris, and Richard Gibbings. Mr. W. R. Hall Jordan is clerk; W. C. Lake, Esq., M.D., medical officer; and Mr. G. Turner, surveyor.

Teignmouth Water Works, which are the property of the town, afford an abundant supply of excellent quality water, procured chiefly by gravitation from the fine springs under Haldon. In addition to the original Ven stream brought into the town many years ago, some five years since the rapid increase in the number of villa residences on the eastern side of the parish induced the Local Board to purchase land and construct a second storage reservoir, to contain three million gallons, adjoining the Old Exeter Road, about one mile outside the town, for giving a constant supply to the new buildings on the high levels, and to serve as a reserve for the town in case of fire or other emergency. Since the period last named, the growth of the town westwards has also made rapid progress; and to provide against accidents, or other contingencies resulting from long drought, &c., about three years ago the Board purchased a small property in the Coombe Valley, wherein wells were sunk and adits driven, giving a supply of water almost inexhaustible. During the past year a new boiler-house, with handsome shaft, fuel stores and pump-room, have been erected thereon, and steam pumping machinery fixed capable of delivering an additional supply of 250,000 gallons of water per day.

The Gas Works, also the property of the governing body, are situate about one mile to the westward of the town by the side of the river Teign, and the late South Devon (now Great Western) Railway, on the road to Newton Abbot. These works have been considerably improved and extended within the last few months, the average daily production being about 60,000 feet. Both Gas and Water Works are under the control of the town surveyor.

The Public Baths, on the beach, are conveniently fitted up with hot, cold and shower baths. The East Devon and Teignmouth Club, established in 1869, has 150 members, and occupies what was formerly the Subscription Rooms. These rooms are situated in the centre of the Crescent, on the Den, facing the sea, and form an elegant structure, built in 1826. The ATHENÆUM and MECHANICS' INSTITUTE, established in 1859, is in Sun Lane. The Teignmouth Gazette, established in 1840, is published on Wednesday mornings—Mr. George Henry Croydon is the proprietor—and the Teignmouth Times, commenced in 1850, is issued on Saturdays by Mr. John Field Hawkins. The FREEMASONS' LODGE (Benevolent, No. 303) hold their meetings in the Masonic Hall on the first Monday in each month.

The TEIGNMOUTH, DAWLISH and NEWTON INFIRMARY and DISPENSARY was established in 1848 by Frederick Leman, Esq., and is supported by subscriptions, &c.; the erection of new buildings and the establishment of a convalescent home in connection with the institution is in contemplation. The trustees are Lord Clifford, J. G. J. Templer, Esq., W. B. T. Wrey, Esq., C. A. W. Troyte, Esq., J. R. Gulson, Esq. the medical officers are J. A. Magrath, Esq., M.D., W. C. Lake, Esq., M.D., H. J. Edwards, Esq., C. J. Workman Esq, M.D. (ophthalmic surgeon). Mr. Charles Fenwick is house surgeon and secretary; the Rev. Dr. Jacob chaplain; and Miss Wood, matron.

CHURCHES.—In 1815 an Act of Parliament was passed for rebuilding the churches of East and West Teignmouth, and for authorising the sale of the church lands, &c., belonging to both parishes. This Act recites that the expense of rebuilding East Teigmouth Church was estimated at £2200, and West Teignmouth Church at £5400; and that the inhabitants of each parish had agreed to raise the sum of £1000 towards such respective expenses. The cost of obtaining the Act of Parliament amounted to no less than £1760 3*s.* 9*d.*, of which £744 8*s.* 11*d.* was paid by East Teignmouth, and £1015 14*s.* 10*d.* by West Teignmouth. The church lands, &c., which belonged to East Teignmouth, were sold for £1340, and those belonging to West Teignmouth, for about £3900. EAST TEIGNMOUTH CHURCH (St. Michael) was rebuilt in 1822–3, and is a cruciform structure, with a tower containing a clock and bell. A new chancel was built in 1876, at a cost of £1800, and a window was enriched with stained glass. A tower and spire will be erected soon. The interior is well arranged, and has a finely carved altar-piece, over which is a painting of Christ crowned with thorns. The vicarage, valued in K.B. at £11 18*s.*, and in 1831 at £135, is in the patronage of the Vicar of Dawlish, and incumbency of the Rev. Henry Charles Deshon. There is no parsonage, and the great tithes are in the same appropriation as those of Dawlish, to which East Teignmouth was formerly a parochial chapelry. In 1769 Amy Newberry left a tenement, and directed the rent to be applied in buying plate, &c., for the communion table. Being dilapidated, it was let some years ago at a small reserved rent. WEST TEIGNMOUTH CHURCH (St. James) was (the tower excepted) rebuilt about the same time, at the cost of more than £4000. It is a large octagonal structure, possessing in its outward character very little attraction. The interior, although of a novel and singular appearance, has some pretensions to architectural taste; the slender pillars supporting a richly vaulted ceiling, from the middle of which rises an octagon dome lantern, produce a good effect. It has about 2000 sittings, and a tower containing a clock and four bells. The living is a vicarage, valued at £300, in the patronage of five trustees, and incumbency of the Rev. J. Metcalfe, M.A. There is now a vicarage house but no glebe, and the parish was formerly a chapelry to Bishop's Teignton. About 3½ miles N.W. of the town are the venerable ruins of Lithwell or Lidwell Chapel, where a priest, popularly called St. Simon, is said in a legendary tale of the 16th century to have committed many murders on the surrounding heath, for the sake of hoarding up gold in a secret chest under the altar, at the foot of which was a deep well, in which he is said to have buried his victims. This chapel was in Dawlish parish, and the well may still be seen in the middle of the ruined walls, covered with a large granite slab.

The INDEPENDENTS are building a new church to accommodate 500 persons, and attached will be a school room separated from the church by folding doors, and increasing the accommodation to 800. A provision will be made by which invalids can be driven in a bath chair into one of the vestries, and there join in the service, and leave at any time without disturbing the service. The estimated cost of the whole is £4500. The WESLEYAN CHAPEL, with sittings for 450 persons, was erected in 1845, at a cost of £1500, in lieu of their old chapel, which was taken down to make room for the railway. The chapel belonging to the PLYMOUTH BRETHREN was built by Baptists in 1824. The PRIMITIVE METHODIST CHAPEL was erected in 1876. A new ROMAN CATHOLIC CHAPEL, in lieu of that on Myrtle Hill (which was required by the Great Western Railway Co.), has just been built on a site on Dawlish Road, at a cost of about £5400; it is a handsome building from designs by Mr. Hansom, of London, and is intended to accommodate 550 persons. St. Scholastica's Abbey, or Benedictine Convent, on Dawlish Road, is a handsome Gothic structure, and was erected in 1864 by Lord Clifford.

The BURIAL BOARD for the parishes of East and West Teignmouth was established on July 7, 1854, and consists of 18 members. Mr. W. R. Hall Jordan is clerk and registrar. The cemetery, situate about a mile from the town, is 3A. 3R. 27P. in extent, of which about 2½ acres are consecrated: the cost of its formation and the erection of mortuary chapels, lodge, &c., was £4150.

The SCHOOL BOARD for the two united parishes was formed on January 16, 1875, and consists of the Rev. Henry Hutchins (chairman), Mr. Thomas W. Hutchings, the Rev. James Metcalfe, the Rev. H. C. Deshon, Messrs. John H. Tozer, Robert Alsop, and George P. Ward. Mr. W. R. H. Jordan is clerk. The Board have schools in the Exeter Road, and large additional schools building.

The 3RD DEVON ARTILLERY VOLUNTEERS (1st Administrative Brigade) have a Battery on the Den. T. B. Gibbs, Esq., is captain; G. H. Croydon, Esq., lieutenant; W. C. Morris, Esq., sub-lieutenant; the Rev. C. H. Britton, hon. chaplain; and Sergeant-Major Pawson, drill instructor.

For schooling poor children, East Teignmouth has the dividends of £110 South Sea Stock, left by Thomas and John Coleman. In West Teignmouth was a small almshouse, called the Maudlin House, which was anciently a lepers' hospital, and afterwards the asylum of poor parishioners; but it fell down many years ago, and its site is now a garden. It was endowed with an adjacent field of 2 acres, now let for about £10, and with a house at Newton Abbot, let for 21*s.* per annum. These rents are applied to the relief of the poor parishioners, as also are five annuities of 2*s.* each. The interest of £15 10*s.*, left to the poor by Sir Peter Lear and others, is paid out of the poor rates. Sir John Elwill and his son left £150 to be invested for the schooling of poor children of East and West Teignmouth. This money was invested in Three per Cent. Consols, yielding £8 14*s.* 7*d.* per annum, for which 12 poor children are instructed by a schoolmistress. A house and land at Bitton, given to the poor of West Teignmouth, by Mary Risdon in 1718, have been sold for £180, which is vested with the overseers, who distribute the interest among the poor not receiving parochial relief.

POST, MONEY ORDER, and TELEGRAPH OFFICE and SAVINGS BANK at Miss Fogwell's, Wellington Place. Letters are delivered daily at 7 a.m., 10.15 a.m., and 4.15 p.m., except on Sundays, when there is only one delivery. Letters are despatched to Newton Abbot, Torquay, Plymouth, and Cornwall at 8.55 a.m., 2.30 p.m., and 8.40 p.m.; London and Exeter, 11.30 a.m., and 8.40 p.m.; for North Mail, 3.30 p.m. There are LETTER BOXES in Bitton Street and near East Teignmouth Church, cleared at 11 a.m., 2 p.m., and 8 p.m.; in Buckeridge Road, cleared at 1.45 and 7.45 p.m.; in Dawlish Road, 1.50 and 7.50 p.m.; in Landscore Road at 10.45 a.m., 1.55 p.m., and 7.55 p.m. Money Orders are granted and paid from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; on Saturdays to 7 p.m.

TEIGNTON, BISHOP'S, DREW'S, and KING'S. (See Bishop's, Drew's, and King's Teignton.)

TEMPLETON, from 5 to 6 miles W.N.W. of Tiverton, is a parish in Tiverton union and county court district, Cullompton petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Witheridge hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton West rural deanery. It had 240 inhabitants (120 males, 120 females) in 1871, living in 48 houses, on 1895 acres of land, picturesquely broken into hill and valley, and traversed by a small rivulet. The manor belonged at an early period to the Knights Templars (thence called Templeton), and afterwards to the Knights Hospitallers, and is a peculiar jurisdiction. After the Dissolution it was granted to George Loosemore, and it afterwards passed to the Periam, Pole, and Chichester families. Chichester Nagle, Esq., is now lord of the manor, and owner of about half of the parish, and the rest belongs to the Chichester, Hill, and other families. The CHURCH (St. Margaret) was originally built in 1335, by the Knights Templars, as a chapel to Witheridge, and was dedicated in 1439. It consisted of nave, chancel, south porch, and tower containing three bells, one of which is an 'Ave Maria' bell. With the exception of the tower, the church was rebuilt in the late Decorated style in 1877–8, when it was found to have no foundations. Mr. Drake, of Exeter, has presented the whole of the glazing of the windows, and inserted emblems of the Four Evangelists in the tracery of the East window; in one of the north windows, has been placed a figure of St. Margaret. The Register dates from 1578. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £8 15*s.*, and now at £160, is in the patronage of Sir W. E. De la Pole, Bart., and incumbency of the Rev. Edward Pole, M.A., who has a pleasant residence and 86 acres of glebe. The tithes were commuted in 1842 for £160 per annum. There is a SCHOOL built by Lady Chichester, in 1875, at a cost of £200, and by her given to the parish. The poor parishioners have 20*s.* a year out of Bere Farm, at Cruwys Morchard, left by Humphrey Brooke, in 1670. Several other small charities are lost.

TETCOTT, 5 miles S. of Holsworthy, is a village and parish near the confluence of the rivers Tamar and Claw, in Holsworthy union and county court district, rural deanery and petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, and Black Torrington hundred. It had 276 inhabitants (151 males, 125 females) in 1871, living in 58 houses, on 2181 acres of land. Lady Molesworth is lady of the manor and owner of all of the soil. The CHURCH (Holy Cross) was restored in 1868: it contains a good Norman font, and an organ, given by the present rector in 1868. The living, a rectory, valued in K.B. at £13 16*s.* 8*d.*, and now at £200 (gross), is in the gift of the trustees of the late Sir W. Molesworth, and incumbency of the Rev. T. Walter West, M.A., who has 65 acres of glebe, and a good house, erected about 1850. The tithes were commuted in 1841 for £145 a year. This parish is united with those of Clawton and Luffincott as a School Board district (see Clawton). The School here was built in 1875, at a cost of £600. The poor have the dividends of £50 Four per Cent. Stock, and of £83 6*s.* 8*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, left by John Arscott and the Rev. John Rouse, in 1789 and 1819. The BIBLE CHRISTIANS have a chapel here.

THELBRIDGE, a parish of scattered houses, 8½ miles N.N.W. of Crediton, and 6½ miles E. by S. of Chulmleigh, is in Crediton union and county court district, South Molton petty sessional division, Witheridge hundred, Northern division of the county, Barnstaple archdeaconry, and Chulmleigh rural deanery. It had 281 inhabitants (147 males, 134 females) in 1871, living in 53 houses, on 2240 acres of land, and is bounded on the north by the Little Dart and on the south by Washford rivulet. The manor was successively held by the Charteray, Annelegh, Binley, Stewkly, Shortridge, and Pearse families. It now belongs to Mr. F. J. P. Maunder, and he and William Cornish Cleave, Esq., Miss Baker, John Pyke-Nott, Esq., and others, have estates in the parish. The CHURCH (St. David) has recently been restored, and consists of nave, south porch, chancel, and new tower containing six bells. The East window is filled with stained glass, the gift of the parishioners to the present rector, and the church has an organ and a stone font. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £10 6*s.* 5½*d.*, and in 1831 at £220, in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. Samuel Hosegood, who has a good residence and 148A. 2R. 13P. of glebe. The tithes were commuted in 1844 for £161 14*s.* 3*d.* per annum. The poor have three yearly doles, viz., a rent-charge of 20*s.* left by Humphrey Brooke, in 1670, out of Edgerley estate, in Cruwys Morchard; 5*s.* out of a tenement, left by Richard Greenslade; and 21*s.*, as the interest of £26, given by several donors.

THOMAS, ST. (See Exeter.)

THORNBURY, on the banks of the small river Waldon, 5 miles N.E. of Holsworthy, is a pleasant village and parish in Holsworthy union, county court district, rural deanery, and petty sessional division, Holsworthy polling district of South Devon. Barnstaple archdeaconry, and Black Torrington hundred. It had 359 inhabitants (186 males, 173 females) in 1871, living in 73 houses, on 2772 acres of land. J. Graham, Esq., is lord of the manor and principal landowner; but Mr. A. Hutchings, Mr. Matthew Cole, and Mr. John Hutchings have estates here. A new line of railway is being constructed to Holsworthy, branching off from Sourton, near Tavistock. It is supposed that this line will be opened to Holsworthy by the autumn of this year. The nearest station will then be at Holsworthy. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is an ancient structure, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, porch, and tower containing five bells, and has lately been handsomely restored, mainly by subscription, though the lord of the manor rebuilt the north aisle at his own cost—£400. The tower has been raised and much improved, the three original bells have been recast, and, with the addition of extra metal, converted into a peal of five: the cost of these and other improvements was £600. The chancel has been almost rebuilt, and two windows filled with stained glass, designed by Wailes, of Newcastle, at the cost of £450, entirely defrayed by the present rector. The Register dates from 1652. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £11 3*s.* 11½*d.*, and now at £290 (inclusive of 100 acres of glebe), in the gift of J. Graham, Esq., and held by the Rev. William Edgcombe, B.A., who has a good house. The WESLEYAN CHAPEL was built about 45 years ago, at a cost of £100. The SCHOOL was built in 1866 by subscription, at a cost of £200.

LETTERS are received viâ Brandis Corner, but the nearest Money Order Office is at Holsworthy. There is a WALL LETTER BOX at Church Gate, cleared at 3.35 p.m. week days only.

THORVERTON, a parish and large village, is pleasantly situated on the west side of the Exe valley, about 7 miles N. of Exeter, and E. by N. of Crediton. It is in Tiverton union and county court district, Cullompton petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Hayridge hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Cadbury rural deanery. It had 1082 inhabitants (537 males, 545 females) in 1871, living in 256 houses, on 4036 acres of land. The parish includes the hamlets of Raddon, Yellowford or Yoldford, and many scattered houses. It has two annual fairs—one on the last Monday in February, chiefly for fat sheep; and the other on the Monday after July 18, for lambs, of which upwards of 40,000 are frequently sold, principally for rearing. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor of Thorverton, and owners of 1392 acres. J. H. Hippisley, Esq., is lord of the manor of East Raddon, and owner of 1226 acres; the Fursdon family own 624A. 2R.; and the rest of the parish belongs to Lord Clinton and other freeholders. The manor and church of Thorverton were given by Henry II. to St. Martin's Abbey, in Tours; and in the farmhouse called Chapel St. Martin may be seen the remains of a Roman Catholic Chapel. The CHURCH (St. Thomas à Becket) is a large and handsome Gothic structure, with a tower containing six bells and a clock. It was restored and redecorated at a cost of £2250 in 1864, when fine-carved oak benches were substituted for the old pews, and a new chancel and transept built; also a new organ, by Dicker, of Exeter, added, at a cost of £130. Three of the windows have been enriched with stained glass at the expense of a late vicar (Archdeacon Freeman) and his family. In the churchyard are two handsome memorial tombs side by side, in memory of the two late vicars, Dr. Coleridge and Archdeacon Freeman. The Dean and Chapter of Exeter are appropriators of the great tithes and patrons of the vicarage, valued in K.B. at £18 12*s.* 8½*d.*, and in 1831 at £535, and now in the incumbency of the Rev. S. C. Clarke, M.A., who has 27 acres of glebe and a handsome residence, built in 1840, at the cost of about £1900. The great tithes were commuted in 1843 for £534, and the small tithes for £452 per annum. Westcote mentions a fine monument of the last of the Wallis family at Thorverton, inlaid with brass, which had been entirely defaced. In the parish is a BAPTIST CHAPEL, which was built by Presbyterians in 1715, and has a school built in 1833. The Parish Land consists of 24 acres at Farringdon, purchased in 1763 with £580, which had been bequeathed by various donors for various charitable uses. It was sold in 1876 to Mr. Johnson, of Farringdon, for £2200, which was invested in the Three per Cents. The dividends (about £70) are applied as follows:—two-fifths in schooling poor children at the NATIONAL SCHOOL (built 1841), and the remainder in money, bread and clothing among the poor parishioners. To provide petticoats for poor women of this parish Mary West left a yearly rentcharge of 35*s.* 2*d.* in 1694 out of a house in Exeter. For distribution in bread among ten poor people John West left 20*s.* a year out of Yellowford Farm in 1728. For distribution in clothing the poor of Thorverton have £7 yearly from Grace Bampfylde's Gift. (See Pinhoe.) They have also £10 a year from Eliz. Tuckfield's Charity, as noticed with Crediton, and an annuity of 32*s.* 6*d.*, left by James Burned in 1790, out of Ridgeman's tenement. The dividends of £333 Three per Cent. Consols, left by Mr. William Reynolds, of Exeter, are distributed among twenty poor persons on St. Thomas's-day, and thirty poor persons have £3 a year left by Mr. Robert Skinner in 1866.

THROWLEIGH, or Throwley, is a parish and small village, near a rivulet at the foot of the north-eastern declivities of Dartmoor, 6½ miles E.S.E. of Okehampton, and 3 miles S.E. of South Zeal. It is in Okehampton union, rural deanery, and county court district, Crockernwell petty sessional division, Okehampton polling district of East Devon, Wonford hundred, and Totnes archdeaconry. It had 323 inhabitants (152 males, 171 females) in 1871, living in 70 houses, on 1943 acres of land. Richard Crocker, Esq., is lord of the manor of Throwleigh, but part of the parish belongs to James Crocker, Esq., William Dunning, Esq., the Rev. John Ingle, John Aysh, Esq., James Dunning, Esq. (of Wonston), Richard Dunning, Esq., and J. Dunning, Esq. The manor belonged at an early period to the Ferrers, and then after passing to many other families it was dismembered. The CHURCH (St. Mary) is a stone structure, consisting of nave, chancel, north aisle, and tower containing five bells. The chancel was restored in 1858–9, when the body of the church was repaired and two windows filled with stained glass, and other improvements effected at a cost of £580, of which £490 was provided by the rector. The tower is well-proportioned; there is a very handsome priests' door to the chancel, and the roof of the chancel is very handsome. The Register dates from 1653. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £19 6*s.* 10½*d.*, and now at £212, in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor, and incumbency of the Rev. S. H. Archer. The glebe is 49A. 3P., and the tithes were commuted in 1840 for £178 per annum. At PROVIDENCE PLACE, on the south side of the parish, is a small chapel belonging to the BIBLE CHRISTIANS, built in 1839, at the cost of about £140, and having a small burial ground. A Schoolroom was added in 1869 at a cost of about £40. A SCHOOL BOARD for the united district of Gidleigh and Throwleigh was formed on January 11, 1875, and now consists of the Rev. S. H. Archer (chairman), and Messrs. John Endacott (vice-chairman), — Underhill, — Crocker, and W. Dunning. Mr. George Honey, of South Tawton, is clerk. The school for the united district is situated near Wonston, and was built, at a cost of £650, to accommodate 84 scholars. A house and garden have been vested from an early period for the use of the church, and are let for about £5 10*s.* per annum. The churchwardens have also two annuities of 5*s.* each, left by John Dunning and an unknown donor. The latter also left 5*s.* a year for the poor.

POST OFFICE at Mrs. Elizabeth Powlesland's. Letters by foot post are received at 10.40 a.m., and despatched at 3.35 p.m. viâ Okehampton, which is the nearest Money Order Office and Railway Station.

THRUSHELTON. (See Thurshelton.)

THURLESTONE, a parish and village on rising ground, near the beach of Bigbury Bay, 4 miles W.S.W. of Kingsbridge, is in Kingsbridge union and county court district, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Kingsbridge polling district of South Devon, Totnes archdeaconry, Woodleigh rural deanery, and Stanborough hundred. The parish, which includes the villages of Buckland and Bantham, and the hamlet of Annemouth (or Onemouth), had 381 inhabitants (186 males, 195 females) in 1871, living in 91 houses; the area is 1898 acres, of which 135 acres are water. Annemouth is perhaps a strange corruption of Avonmouth. Bantham is a small fishing village, with fine hard sands, and a salmon pool and harbour for barges. The trustees of the late Mr. W. Brunskill hold the manor, but part of the parish belongs to several smaller freeholders. The river Avon bounds the parish on the north, and the Bay on the west. On the coast is a remarkable arched rock, which has for centuries braved the foaming surge: hence the proverb, 'Brave every shock, Like Thurlestone Rock.' It is of the red conglomerate formation, or red sandstone. The CHURCH is an ancient Early Decorated structure, consisting of chancel, nave, side aisle, and tower. The tower, greatly dilapidated, was restored in the incumbency of the present rector—about 36 years ago—when one bell was also renewed. The tenor is considered one of the best, if not the best, in the county. The chancel was restored about ten years ago at the expense of the present rector, and the remainder of the church shortly after by subscription. The pulpit is finely carved, and partly composed of elegant panels taken from the screen. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £25 10*s.*, and in 1831 at £383, is in the patronage of Lord Churston, and incumbency of the Rev. P. A. Ilbert, M.A., who has 35 acres of glebe, and a large and handsome residence, erected by himself.

THURSHELTON, or Thrushelton, a scattered parish, 10 miles S.W. by W. of Okehampton, is in Tavistock union, rural deanery, and county court district, Lifton petty sessional division and hundred, Lew Down polling district of South Devon, and Totnes archdeaconry. It had 448 inhabitants (244 males, 204 females) in 1871, living in 96 houses; the area is 3714 acres, generally having a fertile soil, resting on clay, limestone, and manganese. John Tremayne, Esq., M.P., is lord of the manor of Canonbarn; and he and T. G. Newton, Esq., are the principal owners of the soil. The CHURCH (St. George) is a plain Perpendicular structure, consisting of nave, with south aisle, chancel with aisle, south porch, and an embattled tower at the west end. There is a piscina in the south wall of the chancel, and another in the chancel aisle. The church is seated to hold 150 people. The living is a curacy, annexed to the vicarage of Mary Stowe, in the gift of John Tremayne, Esq., the impropriator of the tithes, which were commuted in 1839—the rectorial for £130, the vicarial for £109 a year. The Rev. H. B. Grylls is the vicar. The WESLEYANS have a chapel here. The parishes of Lew Trenchard and Thrushelton are united as a School district, and there is a joint School at Lew Cross.

TIVERTON, an ancient borough and market town on the Tiverton branch of the Bristol and Exeter Railway, was formerly a principal seat of the woollen manufacture, and is now noted for its extensive lace manufactory, and its numerous charities. It is pleasantly situated on the sloping banks at the confluence of the river Exe and the Loman rivulet, 13 miles N. by E. of Exeter, 62 miles S.W. of Bristol, and 165 miles W. by S. of London, by road, or 184 by rail. It gives name to a poor law union, county court district, a polling district, a hundred, and two rural deaneries, and is in Cullompton petty sessional division, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton West rural deanery. The PARISH OF TIVERTON is co-extensive with the borough, and comprises 17,491 acres of fertile land, picturesquely undulated, and forming an irregularly shaped district, extending in two directions five miles, and in others one to three miles from the town. Its total population amounted to 6505 in 1801, 6732 in 1811, 8651 in 1821, 9766 in 1831, 10,040 in 1841, 11,144 in 1851, 10,447 in 1861, 10,024 (4508 males, 5516 females) in 1871, of whom 7552 were in the town, and the others in the four quarters of the parish; 503 in Clare; 813 in Pitt; 566 in Pryor's; and 590 in Tidcombe. These quarters contain several hamlets, and many scattered farm-houses, neat villas, &c. In Pitt Quarter, which extends four miles north, are the small villages of Chettiscombe, Bolham, and Cove. In Tidcombe Quarter are the hamlets of Chevithorne, West and East Mere, Craze-Loman, and Manley, extending two miles east and south-east. In Clare Quarter are Palmer's and Withleigh villages, and many scattered houses, extending two miles westward. In Pryor Quarter is the hamlet Ashley, the seats of Ashley Court, Ashley House, and Collipriest House, and many scattered houses extending two miles south of the town. The branch railway, on which the town is situated, extends 5½ miles eastward to the Bristol and Exeter line, and was opened in June 1848. The Grand Western Canal extends north-eastward from this town to Taunton, where it joins the navigation to Bridgewater and the Bristol Channel. This canal is 23 miles in length, and is used chiefly for supplying the neighbouring districts with lime, coal, corn, manure, &c., and is worked on friendly terms with the railway. It is the only portion ever completed of that extensive scheme the Grand Western Canal, for which an Act of Parliament was obtained in 1796, and which was intended to have proceeded southward to Topsham, and thus to have opened a direct inland navigation from the English to the Bristol Channel. The situation of this ancient town, on the southern declivity between the Exe and the Loman, over which it had two fords, gave it the name of Twyford, or Two-ford-town, which has since been corrupted to Tiverton.

The Manor of Tiverton, which had been part of the royal demesne, was given by Henry I. to the Earl of Devon, who is supposed to have built the Castle here about the year 1100. Edward Courtenay, Earl of Devon, who died in 1419, was a distinguished admiral, and made Tiverton Castle his chief place of residence. After the battle of Tewkesbury, in which the Earl of Devon was slain, in the cause of Henry VI., this manor was seized by the Crown, but was restored to the succeeding Earl of Devon in 1485. Catherine, widow of William Earl of Devon, and daughter of Edward IV., died at Tiverton Castle in 1517, and a handsome monument was erected to her memory; but this and the other monuments of the Courtenay family, with the chapel which contained them, were destroyed in the civil wars. Edward VI. gave the manor of Tiverton to the Duke of Somerset, and in 1556 it passed to the heirs of the four sisters of Edward, Earl of Devon. Their several shares were afterwards sold to various purchasers. The Castle was purchased by Roger Gifford, Esq., and in 1605 was sold to John West, Esq. In 1728 the Castle and six-eighths of the manor and hundred of Tiverton, passed with a co-heiress of the Wests to the Carews, and they now belong, with another eighth of the manor, to the Misses Carew, but a great part of the parish is freehold, belonging to Sir J. H. Heathcoat-Amory, Bart, M.P., of Knightshayes Court, and many smaller proprietors.

The Castle, which stands on the hill north of the town, was dismantled after the civil wars; but the habitable part of it was afterwards formed into a mansion, for the residence of the Wests, and was occupied by the late Lady Carew. It is now occupied by two families, and near it are some remains of the towers and gateways of the ancient fortress.

Tiverton was known by the name of Twyford as early as 872. Nearly three centuries ago it had become a principal seat of the woollen manufacture; but it afterwards lost much of its trade, in consequence of repeated calamities by fire, in one of which, in 1612, no less than 600 houses were destroyed. In another fire which occurred on April 3, 1598; many men and women were burnt, besides 600 houses, 300 pairs of looms, and, it being market day, much corn, apples, butter and cheese, and market horses were consumed. In 1625 a flood destroyed 53 houses, and the town suffered severely from a great storm in 1703. The last calamitous visitations by fire were in 1731, when 298 houses were destroyed, and in 1785 and 1788, when 67 were burnt to the ground. The chief cause of these fires appears to have been the prevalence of straw-thatched roofs. In 1731, after the great fire of that year, an Act was obtained for the substitution of slated and leaded roofs, and for the rebuilding of the town, and determining differences touching the houses destroyed by the late fire, and for the better prevention of such calamities in future. Acts for paving, lighting, and otherwise improving the town, were obtained in the 34th of George III., and the 4th of George IV. Under the Act of 1731, the streets were widened, and the new houses regularly built. The town has now four principal streets, and is about a mile in length and breadth. The central part of it is between the Exe and the Lowman, on the slope of the hill, which rises gently to the north from the angle formed by their confluence. Both streams are crossed by stone bridges, and that over the Exe has a considerable endowment for its support, as afterwards noticed. A stream called the Town Leat, which rises about five miles above the town, and still supplies the inhabitants with water, was given by Isabel, Countess of Devon, about 1262, and was so contrived as to run through the principal streets. Tiverton is now one of the cleanest and best built towns of its size in the West, and its inhabitants have long been characterised for social intercourse: assemblies and concerts are often held, and many friendly societies, clubs, &c., have been formed for mutual benefit.

During the commotion occasioned by the introduction of the Book of Common Prayer, and the enclosure of the monastic lands in 1549, a battle was fought at Cranmore, near Collipriest, between the insurgents and the King's army; the former were soon dispersed, and several of them hanged and quartered. (See page 324.) In 1643 the Royalists drove the Parliamentarians from Tiverton. The Earl of Essex and King Charles I. were here with the army in 1644. In October 1645 Sir Gilbert Talbot was governor of Tiverton, but General Massey marched thither from Cullompton, and took possession of the town. Sir Thomas Fairfax joined the latter on the 18th, and on the following day the church, castle, and outworks were taken by storm, and Sir Gilbert Talbot, several officers, and 200 privates were taken prisoners. In December Sir Thomas Fairfax made Tiverton the head-quarters of his army.

The manufacture of serges, druggets, drapeens, and other woollen goods at Tiverton, began to decline about the year 1740, though in 1790 there were in the town and vicinity 1000 looms and 200 wool combers; but none are now left. In 1815 a large woollen mill, which had been built in 1790, was purchased by Messrs. Heathcoat and Co., who, by extensive additions, converted it into an immense lace manufactory, which now employs about 1500 men, women, and children. In 1809 they obtained a 14 years' patent for a greatly improved lace or bobbin net machine, and built a large factory at Loughborough; but, owing to the damage done to their machinery by the Luddites of the Midland Counties, they removed to Tiverton, and greatly augmented the prosperity of that town. Their machinery here is chiefly set in motion by a water wheel, 25 feet broad and 25 feet in diameter, and they have a large iron foundry in their gigantic establishment.

A market and fair were established here before A.D. 1200. Markets are now held every Tuesday and Saturday, and are well supplied with provisions; and the former is a considerable market for corn, cattle, &c. There are also great markets for cattle on the second Tuesday in each month. A spacious Market Place, with convenient approaches, was built in 1830.

Races are held in September. W. C. Rayer, Esq., of Holcombe Court, is master of the Tiverton Hunt, which has a full pack of fine hounds.

The Gas Works are now the property of and worked by Messrs. J. H. Heathcoat & Co., who supply gas at the rate of 5*s.* 6*d.* per 1000 cubic feet. There are about 90 street lamps.

Tiverton Union comprises 27 parishes, &c., extending over 103,053 acres. It had 29,726 inhabitants (14,271 males, 15,455 females) in 1871, living in 6377 houses; there were also 340 houses uninhabited and 18 building. These returns include 92 paupers in the union workhouse, 8 prisoners in the borough goal, and 2 patients in Tiverton Infirmary and Dispensary. In the union there were 36 blind persons, of whom 1 was blind from birth; 18 deaf and dumb; 60 idiots or imbeciles (not in asylums), and 8 lunatics (not in asylums). The total average annual expenditure on the poor during the three years preceding the formation of the union was £18,215. In 1838 the expenditure was £14,248, and for the year ended Lady-day 1878, £15,583. The Union Workhouse was built on the site of the old Workhouse at Tiverton Town end in 1836-7 at a cost of £6000, and is a commodious building, with accommodation for 300 paupers. C. M. Hole, Esq., is union clerk; Francis Dunsford, Esq., treasurer, and the Rev. George Hadow, hon. chaplain; Mr. James and Mrs. Mary Jane Mills, master and matron of the workhouse; Mr. W. R. Haydon is the workhouse medical officer; and he and Messrs. W. F. Terry, Richard Bryden, Fras. L. Stephenson, Wm. Gribble, Edward M. Puddicombe, Edward C. Hill, Henry McClure, Edward Nason, Samuel James Burrows, and Nathaniel B. Grigg. The relieving officers are Messrs. John Jarman, Samuel Besley, and John Frost; Thos. Clarke Esq., is superintendent registrar, and Mr. Frederick A. Payne is his deputy; the sub-registrars are Messrs. Arthur C. Sharland (James Mills, deputy), Samuel Besley (Henry Nott, deputy), Robert Mildon (R. B. Mildon, deputy), Henry Hill (W. H. Frost, deputy), Peter Warren (Peter Warren, jun., deputy), and Thomas Bradford (W. H. Woolway, deputy). Corporation.—In 1615 James I. granted the inhabitants of Tiverton a charter of incorporation, with the privilege of sending two members to Parliament; and in the same year they built the Town Hall, on the site of St. Thomas's Chapel. The privileges granted by this were confirmed by a charter of the 11th of George I., styling the corporation 'the mayor and burgesses of the town and parish of Tiverton,' and directing that the Common Council should consist of the mayor, twelve capital burgesses and twelve assistants, and that the mayor, ex-mayor, and the recorder should be justices of the peace. Under the Municipal Reform Act of 1835 the borough is included among those which are to have a commission of the peace, a court of quarter sessions, &c., and is divided into three wards, and placed under the government of the borough magistrates, a recorder, a mayor, six aldermen and eighteen councillors. The population of the wards in 1871 was—Castle Ward, 2849, Lowman Ward, 3642, and West Exe, 3533. The income of the old corporation in 1833 was only £116, but its expenditure was £160, the difference being paid by the mayor. In 1841 the expenditure of the borough was £628, and its income £695. The receipts and expenditure of the Town Council for the year ended August 31, 1877 were—(Municipal Borough Fund):—Receipts—Balance on general account, £666 6*s.* 8½*d.*; on Bampton Street widening account, £2 19*s.* 4*d.*; borough rate, £6100; rents and fees, £49 5*s.*; Treasury allowances, £72 7*s.*; fines per clerk to borough magistrates, £20 5*s.*; stamping weights and measures, £2 9*s.* 7*d.*; treasurer's accounts sold, 3*s.* 2*d.*; guardians of Tiverton union, on account of maintenance of lunatics in Fisherton House Asylum, £360 12*s.*; total, £7,274 7*s.* 9½*d.*; Urban Sanitary Authority, £524 7*s.* 1*d.*—grand total, £7808 14*s.* 10¼*d.* Expenditure—(Borough Fund) Salaries, &c., to Municipal officers, £223 12*s.* 6*d.*; police, £496 3*s.* 6½*d.*; gaol, £199 1*s.* 9½*d.*; administration of justice, £125 18*s.* 10*d.*; Devon and Exeter Reformatory, £7 17*s.* 6*d.*; lunatics, £664 16*s.* 3*d.*; School Board, £527 7*s.* 4*d.*; interest of debt, £156 3*s.* 3*d.*; instalments of loans paid off, £266 13*s.* 4*d.*; public works and repairs, £321 19*s.* 6½*d.* other expenses, £123 9*s.* 2½*d.*—total, £3113 3*s.* 1*d.*; (Urban Sanitary Authority), highways and streets, £3335 0*s.* 10*d.*; loans repaid with interest, £695 3*s.* 5*d.*; salaries, &c., £214 9*s.*; other charges, £32 1*s.* 9*d.*; total, £4276 15*s.*—grand total, £7389 18*s.* 1*d.*, leaving a balance in the hands of the treasurer of £418 16*s.* 9½*d.* The number of burgesses entitled to vote for the two parliamentary representatives of the borough in 1837 was 496, and in 1878 1374, and the members on the Municipal Register, 1603. It was formerly a 'close borough,' 23 being the greatest number polled for 30 years previous to 1831. The Town Hall, a noble building in the Venetio-Italian style of the Renaissance period, was erected at a cost of about £12,000, in 1864, on the site of the former one, which was built in 1615. It is surmounted by a bold cornice with enriched finials and lofty tower containing an illuminated clock. The ground floor comprises the county court office, magistrates', committee, and waiting rooms, and police-station with lock-up cells; on the first floor is a town hall, used as a court of justice and council chamber, and over the grand staircase is a large gallery for the use of the public, besides a jury room, a mayoralty room, and a retiring-room for the recorder and magistrates. The Town Hall contains portraits of Kings George I., II. and III., a full length one of George III., one of the late Lord Palmerston—of whom there is a marble bust, which was presented by W. North Row, Esq., a former mayor, at the expense of 180 guineas; there are also portraits of the late John Heathcoat, Esq., M.P., and F. Hole, Esq., the last being presented by Lord Palmerston.

Petty Sessions for the borough are held in the Town Hall every Thursday by the borough magistrates, to whom W. Partridge, Esq., is clerk.

Petty Sessions for Tiverton district of Cullompton petty sessional division are held once a fortnight at the Town Hall. Tiverton district comprises Bampton, Bickleigh, Cadbury, Cadeleigh, Calverleigh, Clayhanger, Cruwys Morchard, Halberton, Highley St. Mary, Hockworthy, Huntsham, Loxbeer, Morebath, Oakford, Stoodleigh, Templeton, Thorverton, Uplowman, and Washfield. A. Cruwys Sharland, Esq., and Frederic Burrow, LL.D., are clerks to the Division.

The County Court is held monthly at the Town Hall for the parishes in Tiverton union, and for Morebath, Rackenford, and the following places in Somerset—Bromford Regis, Brushford, Dulverton, Exton, and Hawkridge. Serjeant Peterdorff is judge; C. M. Hole, Esq., registrar; Mr. W. Webster, high bailiff; and Mr. H. R. Cleeve, clerk.

A spacious and handsome Borough Gaol and House of Correction was built in 1845-6 on the separate system, at a cost of about £4000; but this prison has, under the Prisons Act, been discontinued, and the prisoners are sent to Exeter County Gaol. According to the 41st Report of the Inspectors of Prisons, there were on September 29, 1876, for criminals 33 certified cells (27 for males, 6 for females); 1 punishment cell for each sex, and 1 reception cell; for debtors, 4 sleeping cells for males, and 1 day room The total population of the prison on that date, exclusive of debtors and military prisoners, was 4 males and 1 female; the average daily number of persons in custody, $3\frac{102}{365}$; ditto for the preceding five years, $3\frac{574}{1825}$; the greatest number at any one time during the year, 12 (8 males, 4 females); average greatest number taken from the greatest number at any one time during the preceding five years, $9\frac{1}{5}$. The total ordinary expenditure of the prison, including salaries of all officers, &c., for the year ended September 29, 1876, £199 13*s.*; average annual cost per prisoner, without allowing for earnings of labour, £60 17*s.* 4*d.*; average annual profit on each prisoner's labour, 14*s.* 8*d.*; average weekly cost of food per prisoner, 4*s.* 3*d.*

The PARISH CHURCH (St. Peter) which has about 1500 sittings, is one of the largest and handsomest parish churches in the county, consisting of a spacious nave, chancel, and side aisles, with a south porch and a lofty tower containing 8 bells. Though the work is of different ages, it is tolerably uniform in style. The aisles are separated by clustered columns and pointed arches, and a rich Gothic screen divides the nave and chancel. The interior was cleansed, repaired, and newly-seated in 1848, and the altar-piece is a fine painting of 'The Wise Men offering to Christ,' given by the late Rev. Robert Hole, in 1841, and was again repaired in 1874 at a cost of £500. The exterior of the porch and chapel, erected by John Greenway in the reign of Henry VIII., is richly sculptured with tracery, and subjects taken from scripture history. The porch was rebuilt in 1825, when the sculpture was renewed by Mr. William Beck. In the church is a painting of Peter delivered from the Prison by the Angel. In 1875 the Rev. Michael Thorne, B.A., enriched two windows with stained glass—one in memory of his sister, the widow of the Rev. J. Thorne, vicar of Bishop's Nympton, the other in memory of his brother, who died at Blundell's School; that in the west end cost £107, and contains representations of the Good Shepherd, and scenes in the life of St. Peter; and that in the east end cost £127, and depicts six scenes in the Passion of our Lord; both windows were designed by Drake, of Exeter.

A library, bequeathed to the parish by the Rev. J. Newte, is in the vestry. The Rectory is in four portions, of which the following are the names, with the incumbents, the number of acres in each, the glebe, and the yearly sums for which the tithes were commuted in 1841:—Pitt Portion (5840 acres), Rev. William Knight, M.A., £850, the glebe 30 acres; Tidcombe Portion (3920 acres), Rev. George Hadow, M.A., £757, glebe 90 acres; Clare Portion (3550 acres), Rev. Henry Venn, M.A., £568; and Prior's Portion (3185 acres), Rev. Michael Thorne, B.A., £400. The tithes of 1155 acres in other parts of this extensive parish are commuted for £66, which is divided yearly among the four rectors. King's College, Cambridge, has the patronage of Prior's Portion, and the other three are in the patronage of the representatives of the four daughters and co-heiresses of Sir H. Courtenay, who died 1471. Four houses, with gardens, and a close of 4 acres, have been vested from an early period for the reparation of the church.

ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL OF EASE, at the west end of Fore Street, is a plain structure, consisting of chancel, middle and side aisles, and bell turret, containing one bell and a clock. It was commenced in 1714, but not finished till 1730, nor consecrated till 1733. It was thoroughly restored in 1877 at a cost of £1200, defrayed out of Mary Peard's charity, which was left for the purpose. The front of the gallery, which extends along both sides and across one end, was lowered, and the pews replaced by modern sittings; the aisles were paved with Minton's encaustic tiles; a new reading desk erected: and a hot water apparatus put in. It has several neat monuments, one of which is in memory of Henry Blagdon, Esq., who died in 1716, and gave £150 towards the erection. The west wall of the churchyard was rebuilt and the yard itself ornamentally planted, altogether at a cost of £180. The four rectors and their curates perform duty here alternately, and also at the three following chapels of ease in other parts of the parish. COVE CHAPEL, in Pitt Quarter, was rebuilt in 1857, and consists of nave, chancel, and porch; it will hold 200 persons. WITHLEIGH CHAPEL, in Clare Quarter, 3 miles W. of the town, is a neat building, erected in 1846 by subscription; and a school was built near it in 1849. CHEVITHORNE CHAPEL, in Tidcombe Quarter, about 2 miles N.E. of the town, is a handsome fabric, erected in 1843, at the cost of about £2000, of which £1500 was given by the Rev. William Rayer, a former rector of this portion of the parish. There were formerly several ancient chapels in the town, and in other quarters of the parish, but few traces of them are now extant.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, West Exe, is a large commodious Decorated structure, and consists of chancel, central and north and south aisles, and tower surmounted by a lofty spire, and containing three bells and a clock. The erection of the edifice was commenced in 1854 and completed in 1856, at a cost of £6000, half of which was granted from Mary Peard's charity, and the remainder given by the late Ambrose Brewin, Esq., of Hunsleigh, who also endowed the church with £500 a year. There is a very good organ, the gift of the late John Heathcoat, Esq. The living is a vicarage, valued at £550 a year, in the patronage of the trustees, and incumbency of the Rev. Edward Baker, M.A., who has a good residence. There is a Church of England Mission Room, which was erected in 1876 by Mrs. Brewin, at a cost of £100.

The Independent Chapel, in Peter Street, called Steps Meeting House, has an endowment for the support of the minister, amounting to £56 18*s.* per annum, arising from land, house, and stock left by Thomas and Joan Keene, Thomas Enchmarsh, John Tristram, Eliza Lichigaray, and Mrs. F. Warren. The Baptist Chapel has an endowment of 20*s.* a year for the poor of the congregation, and about £55 a year for the use of the minister, arising from property left by Thomas Glass, M.D., Richard Hooper, and other donors. The minister's house and garden were given in 1810 by Faith Chorlock, together with two cottages. But the property belonging to the Baptist Trust is so old, that the rents are swallowed up in repairs.

On the western side of the town is a small ROMAN CATHOLIC CHAPEL, built in 1838. The BAPTIST CHAPEL, in Newport Street, was built in 1730, and was rebuilt in 1876–7, at a cost of (including the organ, which is a very good one) £4200, towards which John Lane, Esq., gave £1000, the remainder being raised by subscriptions, collections, and a bazaar. The chapel occupies an eligible position in Newport Street, and is a commodious building, capable of seating 850 persons. Adjoining the chapel are Sunday Schools, which were built at a cost of £700, and are now being enlarged at an outlay of £200. This congregation dates from 1607, when it was founded by John Smyth, Thomas Helwys, and John Morton. The INDEPENDENT CHAPEL, in Peter Street, is a large stone building, erected in 1831–2, at the cost of £4683, including the cost of the land, and the school and minister's house. There is another INDEPENDENT CHAPEL in Elmore Street, built in 1843, at the cost of £750. The WESLEYAN CHAPEL, in Peter Street, was built in 1814, and new schools were added in 1876; and in Andrew Street is a small BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHAPEL, erected in 1843. These chapels have been mostly erected in lieu of old ones. There was a Presbyterian Chapel here as early as 1672, and the ancient chapel of St. Peter was occupied by Independents in 1687. John Wesley himself opened a chapel here in 1750.

The TIVERTON MIDDLE CLASS SCHOOLS were formed on the endowments of the Charity Schools, formerly in the churchyard, but now occupying commodious buildings in Castle Street. These schools were established in 1713, and were at first supported by subscriptions and collections at sermons, but they have now an endowment yielding a clear annual value of about £390. The schools are now constructed under a scheme approved of on March 20, 1877. The course of instruction for boys embraces reading, writing, arithmetic, and bookeeping; geography and history; English grammar, composition and literature; mathematics; Latin; French or German, or both; natural science; drawing and vocal music; and drilling and gymnastics. The governors are assisted in the management of the girls' school by a ladies' committee consisting of five members. The course of instruction comprises reading, writing and arithmetic; geography and history; English grammar, composition and literature; Latin or some foreign European language; some branch of natural science; domestic economy and the laws of health; needlework; drawing and vocal music; and such other subjects as the governors may from time to time prescribe. Twenty scholarships are maintained in the school, and competed for by boys and girls who have for not less than three years immediately preceding attended Chilcott's School in Tiverton, or some public elementary school in the parish of Tiverton. Exhibitions, funds permitting, may be established, tenable at any place of higher education approved by the governors, and awarded to children who are being and have for not less than two years been educated at the school. The governing body consists of six representative and six co-optative governors, namely:—(co-optative) Sir John Heathcoat Heathcoat-Amory, Bart., M.P. (chairman); the Revs. Geo. Hadow, Wm. Knight, and Henry. Venn, Thomas Carew, Esq., and John F. Worth, Esq.; (representative) Messrs. Francis Dunsford, Stephen Fisher, Frederick Mackenzie, Francis E. Pike, John A. Travers, and E. M. Winton. Two of the representative governors are appointed by the Town Council, two by the School Board, and one each by the Borough Magistrates and by the rectors of the several portions of Pitt, Tidcombe, and Clare. Messrs. Dunsford & Co. are their bankers, and Mr. William Partridge, of Tiverton, clerk. The girls' school is as yet the only one opened, and it is conducted in the large and convenient premises formerly used as the Blue Coat School, now remodelled and adapted for the purpose; there is accommodation for 80 pupils. The income is derived from endowments of Henry Blagdon, Peter Newte, John Tristram, Mary Peard, and Benjamin Gilbert, and from Trowbridge's gift. The first four endowments are of land still belonging to the trust. It is difficult to give the particular amounts of each, but in the aggregate they amount to nearly £400 per annum. The schools in Castle Street were built in 1841 at a cost of some £2000, which of course came out of the principal of part of the money endowment. Henry Blagdon's end is now the chief part of the land end, producing about £170 per annum.

The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on July 2, 1874, and now consists of Stephen Fisher, Esq. (chairman), the Rev. George Hadow, M.A. (vice-chairman), the Rev. J. P. Carey, and Messrs. Henry Haydon, Frederick Snell, Frederick A. Payne, and John Carpenter. George W. Cockram, Esq., is their clerk. The Board built a school at Cove in 1876, to accommodate 60 children, at a cost of £1000. They rent schools at Bolham, Withleigh, and Chevithorne; and schools in Elmore Street and Bampton Street have been transferred to the Board. Elmore Street School was built in 1848 as a BAPTIST SCHOOL, by the late Ambrose Brewin, Esq., for girls and boys, and that in Bampton Street was also built by him. They were supported by him and his widow for many years. The NATIONAL SCHOOL, in St. Andrew's Street, is a large and handsome building in the Swiss style, erected in 1844, at the cost of about £2000, and having dwellings for the master and mistress in the centre, and school rooms on either side; they have an average attendance of 60 boys, 50 girls, and 75 infants. The BRITISH SCHOOL, in Leat Street, adjoining the large factory of Messrs. Heathcoat and Co., is a spacious and handsome structure, in the Elizabethan style, built in 1844 by John Heathcoat, Esq., M.P. There are 750 scholars on the books.

BLUNDELL'S SCHOOL was founded and endowed by Peter Blundell in 1599, and is now under a Board of Governors, of which the Earl of Devon is chairman. Arthur C. Sharland, Esq., is clerk and treasurer. The subjects of secular instruction are English, Latin, and Greek languages and liturgatures; mathematics; French and German; history and geography; reading, writing, and arithmetic; physical science; drawing; and vocal music. There are attached to the school 14 scholarships and exhibitions, tenable at the Universities, of the total value of £670. Boys educated at the school are eligible to compete for scholarships, &c., of the annual value of £1040. A. L. Francis, Esq., M.A., is head master.

TIVERTON SCHOOL OF COOKERY was established in May, 1878; there are three divisions: plain cookery, middle-class cookery, and sick-room cookery. Mr. Henry R. Cleeve is hon. secretary.

CHILCOTT'S FREE SCHOOL, &c.—Robert Comyn, alias Chilcott, by will in 1609 directed his executors to build a school house, at the cost of £400, and vest it with 13 trustees, to whom he left a yearly rent-charge of £90, which is now applied as follows, viz., £20 to the schoolmaster for teaching the poor boys of Tiverton; £2 for repairing the school (the expense of repairs often exceeds this sum); £3 to the clerk for keeping the accounts of his charity; £13 10*s.* is given to 15 poor persons in money; £13 10*s.* to 15 poor persons in clothing; and £16 5*s.* to 15 poor persons in bread. This rent-charge, after deducting £12 for land tax, is paid by the Duke of Leeds out of lands in Yorkshire. In 1790 Benjamin Gilberd left £300 for the augmentation of the schoolmaster's salary, and it was laid out in the purchase of £332 7*s.* 11*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, the dividends amounting to £9 19*s.* 4*d.* per year. In 1802 Richard Davis left £50, now applied to buying books for the use of the school. With this sum, £75 Three per Cent. Consols were purchased. There is also belonging to the charity £100 of the same stock, purchased with savings of income in 1802; £70 of this sum was sold out some years back to defray some law expenses. The School is in Peter Street, where there is a house and garden for the master, who teaches reading, writing, arithmetic, geography, history, and English grammar to 50 boys. He has a yearly salary of £29 19*s.* 4*d.* (including Gilberd's legacy), and is allowed 6*s.* 6*d.* per quarter for each of the boys.

Village Schools, &c.—The rector of Tidcombe pays £3 a year to a schoolmistress at Cove for teaching 12 children to read. This sum arises from one-eighth of the rent of Buckhays Farm, left by the Rev. John Newte in 1715. About £4 a year is distributed in Bibles and Prayer-Books among the poor parishioners as one-half of the rent of Bible Field, given by the same donor. For instructing ten poor children of Chevithorne, and providing them with books, about £9 a year is paid out of Pleshy's and Whitedown Farm (130 acres), as one-eighth of the rent of that estate left by Peter Newte in 1719. Though the land is poor a much larger share ought to be paid to the four rectors as trustees of this charity.

The Athenæum, or Literary and Scientific Institution, is over the Fore Street entrance to the Market Place, and was built at the same time as the Place. The Institution is well suppled with the literature of the day; and the large room is used for balls, concerts, lectures, &c. Heathcoat Hall, and Working Men's Institution, was built in 1876, by Sir John H. Heathcoat-Amory, Bart, M.P., at a cost of £1000, and is a plain substantial building in Wellbrook Street. It has a large hall, capable of seating 600 persons, and used for lectures, concerts, &c.; reading, billiard, smoke rooms; and a circulating library of upwards of 400 volumes. In the large hall have been recently placed portraits in oil of the late John Heathcoat, Esq., M.P., and the late Samuel Amory, Esq., barrister-at-law. The Literary and Scientific Institution holds its meetings in the Athenæum. Science and Art classes are held in connection with the Society of Arts, and a series of lectures; concerts are given fortnightly during the winter months. There is a good library, and the members number 189. Sir J. H. Heathcoat-Amory, Bart., is president; Mr. H. S. Gill, treasurer; and Mr. H. R. Cleeve, secretary. Here are Lodges of Oddfellows and Freemasons.

Three Newspapers are published here—the 'Devon and Somerset Weekly News,' established 1873, is issued every Thursday by Mr. W. A. Woodley; and the 'Tiverton Gazette and East Devon Herald,' commenced in 1858 (Tuesdays), and the 'Western Observer' (Thursdays), are issued by Messrs. Gregory & Son.

The proceeds of the seven following Charities, amounting to about £150 per annum, are distributed by the Borough Charity Trustees, appointed under the powers of the Municipal Act, for the management of all the charities vested with the Corporation. The Elmore Lands (16 acres) were held of the Crown at a nominal rent, from 1806 till 1837, but they were sold in the latter year, and all that now remains of this once valuable charity are the dividends of £250 Navy Five per Cent. Stock. It is said that Elmore was given by Madam Elson de Rosse, in 1250, to remain for ever a common for the use of the poor parishioners; and that it formerly comprised 150 acres. It was afterwards seized by the Crown, and part of it granted on lease for the benefit of the poor, who, in 1837, vainly petitioned for a renewal of the lease. John Berry, in 1618, gave a house and 15 acres of land, at West Chevithorne, to the Corporation, in trust to pay yearly 50*s.* each to two labourers, one weaver, and a fuller, and to apply the rest of the income to their own use. This estate now yields a clear annual rent of about £10. In 1623 another John Berry left to the Corporation £60, to be invested in land, for the relief of the poor. The land purchased was sold to the Canal Company, in 1814, for £250, which was laid out in the purchase of £267 Navy Five per Cents. The sum of £100, given by Daniel Cudmore and George Hartnoll, in 1637 and 1662, was laid out in the purchase of 4 acres of land, now let for about £16. In 1663 Thomas Leigh left to the mayor and burgesses all his eighth part of the market tolls of Tiverton, in trust for the relief of the most indigent poor of the borough. This gift yields about £3 15*s.* per annum. In 1747 the Corporation laid out £115 poor's money in the purchase of 2 acres of land, called the Shillands, now let for about £12 per annum. The poor have 1*s.* worth of bread weekly from Sir John Acland's Charity. (See Exeter.)

Mary Marshall, of Tiverton, spinster, who died in 1803, by will gave £400 in the Navy Five per Cents. upon trust, to pay 1*s.* weekly to each of the six poor women who should for the time being reside or dwell in the Almshouse in Peter Street, in Tiverton, and to pay the overplus, if any, to such poor persons of Tiverton as her trustees should think proper. Of the above stock, £40 was raised to pay the legacy, the remainder producing a dividend of £18 a year. The 1*s.* a week is paid to the almswomen, and the overplus disposed of as directed by her will.

To provide a fund for repairing St. George's Church, and her tomb in the churchyard, Mary Pead, in 1769, gave a farm of 65 acres, at Awliscombe, and the sum of £1000. The latter with savings of income has been invested in the purchase of £1600 Three per Cent. Consols, and the farm is let for £80 a year. The invested fund has recently been dealt with by order of the Charity Commissioners.

John Lane, in 1679, left 10 acres of land, at Buckland, in Somersetshire (now let for about £30), and a yearly rent-charge of £12 10*s.* out of an estate called Slade, at Sheldon. Agreeable to the donor's will, the yearly proceeds are applied as follows:—20*s.* in Bibles for poor boys of Chilcott's School; about £22 in distributions of clothing to six poor people of Tiverton, and two of Cullompton; 3*s.* per month to each of the said eight poor people; and about £3 3*s.* for an annual dinner for them and the trustees. Twenty poor men of Tiverton have 9*s.* 6*d.* each yearly, from a rent-charge of £9 10*s.*, left by Robert Chattey, about 1680, out of a house called Priddice's Tenement. Thirty-two aged poor of the town have divided among them £3 6*s.* per annum, arising from six chief rents, purchased with £70 left by William Hewitt, in 1689. John Alstone, in 1696, left an almshouse and adjoining tenements for six poor shearmen, and £500 to be invested for the use of the general poor of Tiverton. Owing to the mismanagement of former trustees, all that now remains of this charity is part of the almshouse occupied by three poor fullers, and a reserved rent of 7*s.* 6*d.* per annum. Mary Rice, in 1697, left the residue of her real and personal property, to be vested in trust, and the yearly proceeds to be distributed in sums of 40*s.* each among her poor relations of the families of Morrish, Lane, and Tanner, or in default of such, among the honest and pious poor parishioners of Tiverton. The property belonging to this charity now yields an annual income of about £180, arising as follows:—£120 from Rix Farm (50 acres), at Bolham; £31 from the White Bull Inn; £12 10*s.* from the Bampton turnpike, and the rest from the interest of money. The clear income is distributed half-yearly among about eighty poor people, appointed by the trustees, who give a preference to the relations of the foundress. In 1785 Mary Marshall left for the poor of Tiverton £100, which was laid out in the purchase of £100 Navy Five per Cent. Stock. The dividends are distributed in sums of 2*s.* or 3*s.* In 1790 Benjamin Gilberd left £1000 to be invested in stock, and the yearly dividends to be distributed at Christmas, among the poor not receiving parochial relief. This charity now consists of £1090 Three per Cent. Consols. In 1808 Richard Down gave £500 Three per Cent. Consols, in trust that 20*s.* worth of bread should be distributed fifteen times a year among the poor, after the administration of the Sacrament in St. Peter's Church and St. George's Chapel.

Walter Tyrrell, in 1568, left £200 to be invested for the use of the poor, by John Waldron, who, in consideration thereof, granted a yearly rent-charge of £10 13*s.* out of the manor of Daccombe, to be applied by the churchwardens in weekly sums of 8*d.* each to six poor people. Robert Reed, in 1621, left £100 to provide for a weekly distribution of 3*s.* worth of bread among twelve poor people. The mayor and burgesses applied this money for the redemption of the Town House, out of which they pay £7 10*s.* yearly, in satisfaction of this charity. Richard Hill, in 1630, left to the mayor and burgesses an annuity of £12 2*s.* 8*d.*, for the weekly distribution of 4*d.* worth of bread each to fourteen poor parishioners. Out of this rent-charge £1 14*s.* 8*d.* is deducted for land tax, and the rest is distributed among twelve poor people. It is paid out of three closes, two of which are called Lowman and Alsabrook Meadows. Edw. Blagdon, in 1653, granted four houses and a garden and orchard, in Barrington Street, to four trustees, for the equal benefit of two poor men of Tiverton, and two of Washfield parish. These premises were burnt down in 1832, and rebuilt in 1833–4, and now yield a clear yearly profit of about £17. A house and 2 acres of land, left by John Lovell, in 1673, are let for £21 a year, and one-fourth of the rent belongs to the poor of Tiverton, and three-fourths to the poor of Bickleigh. Peter Atkins, in 1657, granted a yearly rent-charge of £10 to the poor of Tiverton, out of an estate called Padcott and Burridge. For many years the overseers improperly applied this annuity in aid of the poor rates. The poor parishioners have also £10, and the trustees 10*s.* yearly, left by Gregory Shorland, in 1658, out of an estate called Bengewall. Six poor people of Clare Quarter, and four of Prior's Quarter, have 15*s.*, and the trustees 5*s.* yearly, left by Thomas Maunder, in the 24th of Charles II., out of land at Querk Hill.

Greenway's Charity.—In 1529 John Greenway founded an Almshouse here for 5 poor men, and endowed it with property then worth only £8 13*s.* per annum, but now yielding about £270 a year, including £60 a year paid in consideration of the old parish workhouse, and £27 10*s.* derived from the seat rents in Greenway's Chapel in St. Peter's Church. The charity property comprises also a farm at Dipford, let for £52 10*s.*, and seven houses, and various parcels of land in Tiverton. The almshouses in Gold Street have been several times repaired and enlarged, and the number of almspeople increased, in proportion to the augmented value of the endowment. The principal management of the charity rests with the town churchwarden, the fourteen trustees never interfering, except in the granting of leases. There are at present on the foundation 25 almsmen, who have a yearly supply of coal. They are paid weekly stipends, varying from 5*s.* to 2*s.* 7*d.* each.

Waldron's Almshouses, in Wellbrook Street, were built for the reception of 8 poor men by John Waldron, who endowed them in 1577 with a yearly rent-charge of £24 out of the manor of Daccombe. The 8 almsmen are appointed by the churchwardens, and each has a weekly stipend of 1*s.* They have also divided among them £5 a year from Enchurch's Gift.

Slee's Almshouses, in Peter Street, were founded in 1610 for 6 poor widows or aged maidens, by George Slee, who left £500 for their erection and endowment. The endowment is a yearly rent-charge of £20, out of the rectory of Coleridge, and from it each almswoman has 1*s.* per week. The churchwardens are the trustees, and the almswomen have each a further weekly allowance of 1*s.* from the dividends of £360 Navy Five per Cent. Stock, left by Mary Marshall in 1803. The residue of these dividends is divided among the most necessitous poor parishioners, according to the donor's will.

Exe Bridge Trust comprises 32 houses, with gardens, &c., which were let on leases for two or three lives, at rents which amounted in 1820 to only £18 5*s.* 8*d.*, though their real value was then upwards of £300 per annum; but, as the leases expire, the trustees now let the property at rack-rent. Part of this property was vested in trust by Walter Tyrrell and Johan, his wife, in 1563, who directed that the yearly proceeds should be applied, as far as necessary, in repairing West Exe Bridge, in Tiverton, and that the surplus, if any, should be distributed among the poor parishioners. Of the houses now in existence, some were rebuilt after the fire in 1785, and the remainder after a similar calamity in 1794. About sixty years ago upwards of £1500 was expended in repairing and widening the bridge; and, until about thirty years ago, the poor derived but little benefit from the charity.

In 1803 Mary Marshall left £200 Five per Cent. Bank Annuities, in trust that one-half of the yearly dividends should be applied in clothing poor children attending the Sunday school; and that the other half should be divided among the 2 sextons and 4 rodmen of the parish church, except what was necessary for keeping her tomb in repair.

Market Trust.—By the gifts of John West in 1628, William Spurway in 1650, and Sir John and Mr. Jonathan Trelawney in 1654, several houses and gardens, and seven-eighths of the market tolls of Tiverton were vested with the trustees for the benefit of the poor parishioners. The market house was built on the site of a house which was burnt down in 1731, and the site of it and several adjoining houses is held by the trustees on a lease for 1000 years, at the annual rent of £30. The market house and seven-eighths of the tolls produce about £196 yearly, besides which the trustees derive £29 from the rents of 8 houses, let on 99 years' leases. The net income, amounting to about £167 per annum, is dispensed in weekly doles of bread to about 120 poor parishioners.

WORTHIES.—Peter Blundell, the founder of the Grammar School, was born at Tiverton in 1520, of very humble parents, and amassed great wealth through his own exertions. EDWARD CAPERN, the rural postman, and the Devonshire poet, was a native of this town, his father being a baker, living on the banks of the Exe, near Tiverton Bridge. The Right Hon. Sir John Taylor Coleridge was born here in 1790. He was called to the Bar in 1819, became serjeant-at-law in 1832, and was made one of the judges of the King's Bench in 1835, when he was knighted.

POST, MONEY ORDER and TELEGRAPH OFFICE, SAVINGS BANK, and GOVERNMENT ANNUITY and INSURANCE OFFICE, Bampton Street. Mr. William Henry Snell, postmaster. CARRIERS—To Bampton, James Cottrell, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday; Cullompton, Henry Elliot, Tuesday; Dulverton, Mrs Ann Heath, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday; Exeter, John Wood, Mon. Wednes. & Fri

TOPSHAM is a small ancient market town, seaport, and fishing station, within the jurisdiction of the Port of Exeter, pleasantly situated about 4 miles S.E. of Exeter, on the east bank of the river Exe, which here receives the small river Clist, and suddenly expands into an estuary, about a mile broad and six in length, extending southward to the English Channel, at Exmouth. Its parish is in St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district, Wonford hundred and petty sessional division, Eastern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Aylesbeare rural deanery. It had 3121 inhabitants (1396 males, 1725 females) in 1871, living in 663 houses; the area is 1740 acres, of which 170 acres are water. The parish includes the straggling village and chapelry district of Countess-Weir, or Wear, on the east bank of the Exe, from 1 to 2 miles N.W. of the town (see page 242). Topsham consists chiefly of one long street, extending north and south, and several short ones running east and west to the Exe and the Clist, which unite at the south end of the town, which projects into the broad estuary on the point of land called the Strand, whence the tides are seen rolling in majestic grandeur between a succession of the richest and most varied scenery, having the woods and Castle of Powderham on the west, and the pleasant village of Lympstone and many gentlemen's seats on the east. At the Strand the water flows near the houses, and the prospect is highly interesting; but a still more extensive view is commanded from the high cliff in the centre of the town, on which the church stands, and which is occupied as the churchyard. Before the construction of Exeter Ship Canal, and for some time afterwards, the business done at Topsham was very great, as noticed at page 329, where we have already noticed the erection of Countess-Weir across the bed of the Exe, and the long-continued dispute between the Corporation of Exeter and the former lords of the manor of Topsham. Exeter Ship Canal now falls into the estuary by a spacious lock on the opposite side, at Turf, near the South Devon Railway; but still Topsham enjoys a share of the coasting trade, and its merchants import timber and other produce from America and the Baltic. The quays and wharves are spacious, and here are bonded warehouses for all foreign goods, except wine and spirits, East India goods, and tobacco. Here are three ship and boat building yards, a large paper mill, and chain cable manufactories, &c. Topsham seemed doomed to decay after the erection of the ship canal to Exeter, for which city it had previously been the shipping port. After languishing for a long period a new spirit came over it about 40 years ago, and the town and its trade and commerce have much improved. Many new buildings have sprung up in the town and neighbourhood, many of the shops and old dwellings have been much improved, and it is becoming a favourite place of resort for the invalid, and the care-worn citizen, seeking health or retirement. It has two good inns, several commodious taverns, many well stocked shops, and many fishing boats, employing about 100 men and boys in catching herrings, whitings, sprats, &c. Sprats are plentiful in the estuary. The town had formerly a market, held every Saturday, and there is still a fair for cattle, &c., on the Thursday after July 18. Edward I. granted a charter for a market to Hugh de Courtenay, Earl of Devon; and also confirmed a fair for three days at the festival of St. Margaret, which had been granted by Henry III., in 1257, to Baldwin de Redvers, the 8th Earl. In the parish, near the banks of the river Clist, are several targets and an extensive range belonging to the Exeter Volunteers. The manor of Topsham was part of the ancient demesne of the Crown, and was held for a long period by the Earls of Devon (see page 328). It was afterwards held by the De Courcy family, but the parish now belongs to various freeholders, some of whom have pleasant seats here. The fee-farm rent is vested in A. H. Hamilton, Esq., of the Retreat, a neat cemented villa, with tasteful grounds formerly the residence of his late uncle, Sir Alexander Hamilton, Kt. The manor of Weir Park, or Wear, was anciently called Heneaton, Hineton, or Honiton Siege, and obtained its present name from the weir which was constructed by the Countess of Devon, as already noticed, and from which the hamlet is called Countess-Weir. It belonged successively to the Bukenton, Bathonia, Medstead, and Holland families. It was a seat of a younger branch of the Hollands till the latter part of the 17th century. It was purchased in 1760 of the Rodds, by the Spicers, of Exeter, who sold it in 1804 to the late gallant admiral, Sir John Thomas Duckworth, who greatly improved his handsome residence, called Weir House, and was created a baronet in 1813. He died in 1817, and was succeeded by his son, the present Sir John Thomas Buller Duckworth, Bart., who was one of the parliamentary representatives of the city of Exeter. The mansion stands on an eminence commanding delighful views, and contains a fine bust of the late Admiral. The ruins of the old seat of the Hollands are to be seen about a mile from the present mansion. The other principal proprietors who have seats in the parish are William Wood Walrond, Esq., J.P., Newcourt House; Robert Manning Davy, Esq., J.P., Grove Hill; Francis Davy, Esq., Riversmeet; and Mrs. Ord, Altamira.

When Exeter was besieged by the King's forces in 1643, the Earl of Warwick, the Parliamentary admiral, is said to have battered down a fort at Topsham, and killed 70 or 80 men. Sir Thomas Fairfax, with the Parliamentary army, was quartered here in October 1645 (see page 326).

The Church (St. Margaret), which stands on the cliff overlooking the Exe, was, with the exception of the tower, rebuilt in 1876–8, and now consists of nave with aisles, chancel, and transepts. It is in the Early Decorated style, and the cost of its erection was over £5500, raised by subscription and grants from church building societies. Mr. Ashworth was the architect, and Messrs. Stephens & Son, of Exeter, the builders. The chancel, which is paved with Minton's tiles, is divided from the nave by a low screen of Bath stone, with tracery and marble shafts. The sanctuary is enclosed with a brass rail and standards made by Mr. Rowe, of Exeter. The communion table is of cedar and English oak, and has been presented to the church. The reredos is an enlargement of a former altar-piece, and contains the Decalogue. The East window, of five lights, is filled with stained glass, as a memorial of a former vicar; it contains a representation of our Lord in the centre and the Four Evangelists in the side lights, with their symbols in the tracery above. The south chancel window depicts the Adoration of the Shepherds, and the Baptism of Christ, and was inserted by the Rev. H. T. Ellacombe in memory of the Rous family. The brass eagle lectern is a gift of the Pennell family. The organ, which has been rebuilt, stands in the north chancel aisle. The north transept window of four lights is enriched with stained glass, executed by Beer and Driffield in memory of the late F. Ross, Esq., and was inserted by Captain Greatwood. The west window contains a representation of the Ascension, and was given by Mr. Rookes in memory of his parents; the Sunday School children have presented a small window in the tower entrance, depicting Christ blessing little children; and in the tower is another small window containing a representation of St. Margaret, the patron saint, and subscribed for by the workmen engaged in the restoration. The font is Norman, and stands on an octagonal base at the tower entrance. The tower adjoining the south transept has two Perpendicular arches. There are 848 sittings, of which 449 are free. The church contains two handsome monuments by Chantrey. One of them is in memory of the late Admiral Sir J. T. Duckworth, Bart., G.C.B. The bust on this monument is an excellent likeness of the deceased, and below is a representation, in bas-relief, of the naval engagement in which the brave Admiral defeated the French fleet at St. Domingo. The other is in memory of the Admiral's son, Colonel George Duckworth, who fell at the battle of Albuera, in 1811. The Dean and Chapter of Exeter are appropriators of the tithes and patrons of the vicarage, which is in their jurisdiction, and was valued in 1831 at £227. The Rev. John A. Leakey, M.A., is the incumbent. The glebe comprises 30 acres and several houses, but some tenements, let for £10 15*s.*, have been long vested for the repairs of the church. The appropriate tithes were commuted in 1842, for £445 per annum. The Independent Chapel, in Victoria Place, was erected in 1838–9, in lieu of the old chapel in High Street, at the cost of about £1100. The Wesleyan Chapel was built in 1864, in lieu of that erected in 1818, at the cost of about £400. The Unitarian Chapel was erected in 1780 on the same site as that built in 1723, and the minister has about £5 a year from several tenements left by John Greenfield, in 1734. The Cemetery, which was formed in 1856, comprises about 2 acres, and has two mortuary chapels and a lodge. Mr. William Serina is clerk to the Board, and Mr. John Hilliar, lodge keeper.

The New Hall was built in 1871 at the cost of the late E. B. Penny, Esq., and fitted up with cooking apparatus for the purpose of supplying cheap dinners for the working classes; but, not answering, it was sold to Edward Johnson, Esq., of Farringdon, who let it to the Topsham Young Men's Mutual Improvement Society. This society has now about 50 members, and contains a small library. Lectures, &c., are given during the winter months. Messrs. Thomas Mayo and R. Williams are secretaries.

The Topsham Gas and Coke Company (Limited) was established in 1849, and has its offices in Fore Street. Mr. John P. Harrison is secretary. There are about 85 public lamps.

Topsham Working Men's Club was established in 1873, and has a good reading room, which is well supplied with London and local newspapers, periodicals, &c., besides a small library, and smoking, bagatelle, committee rooms, &c. There are 90 members, principally of the working class. Mr. Peter Drew is steward.

Topsham District Horticultural and Cottage Garden Society was established in 1871 for the encouragement of cottage gardens among the working classes. Mr. W. Thomas Roberts is secretary.

In connection with the Working Men's Club is a PENNY BANK, of which Mr. J. Periam is secretary. The Topsham Branch of the Western Provident Association was established in 1848. Mr. John Osborn is the local secretary.

The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on April 17, 1872, and consists of the Rev. J. A. Leakey (chairman), Alfred Holman, Esq. (vice-chairman), Colonel William H. Walrond, Henry M. Martyn, Esq., and William James Sanders, Esq. W. A. Serina, Esq., is clerk. The NATIONAL SCHOOL has been transferred to the School Board, and the legacy of £300, left by Joseph Somaster in 1767, and several small benefactions, are now employed in aid of sundry exhibitions to the best scholars. The endowment arising from these sources now consists of Rushmore Field, let for £12, and the dividends of £640 Three per Cent. Consols. Samuel Elliott left, in 1768, £452 12*s.* 5*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, for the education of 13 poor children; and 15 boys and 15 girls are now educated at the Board School in consideration of the above. He also left the yearly sum of £1 11*s.* 6*d.* to the minister of the Presbyterian Chapel for preaching two sermons on education. John Watkins, about 1600, left for the poor of Topsham a house in Exeter, now the King's Head Inn. It is worth about £60 a year, but was let in 1796 for 99 years, at £12 per annum, in consideration of a fine of £80, which was laid out in the purchase of £150 Four per Cent. Stock. The rent and dividends are divided among the poor parishioners at Christmas. In 1636 John Shere left three houses in trust to pay £4 yearly to the perpetual curate, and to divide the residue of the clear rents among the poor. They are now let for about £40 per annum. For apprenticing poor children Ann Collier, in 1777, left £500 Three per Cent. Consols. To this stock £25 was added in 1801, by gift of Mr. S. Dorrington. For distribution in bread the poor parishioners have the interest of £100 left by William Kennaway in 1792; the dividends of £83 1*s.* 8*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, left by William Short in 1801; and a yearly rent-charge of £4 left by William Townson in 1810, out of several houses. Among the eminent men who were born at Topsham, are Captain Burgess, R.N., who was killed at the battle of Camperdown, and Sir William W. Follett, the late Attorney-General. In memory of the former there is a monument in St. Paul's Cathedral, erected at the national expense. Under the port of Exeter, a custom house officer and six river pilots are stationed here. The Brent Lodge of Freemasons (No. 1284) was established here in 1870, and a Royal Arch Chapter was added in 1877. The lodge has a beautiful hall at the Globe Hotel.

POST, MONEY ORDER, TELEGRAPH OFFICE, SAVINGS BANK, and GOVERNMENT ANNUITY and INSURANCE OFFICE at Mr. Robert H. Pollard's, High Street. Letters, viâ Exeter, are received at 5.8 and 10.30 a.m., and 4.40 p.m., and despatched at 9 a.m. and 3 and 8 p.m. There is a WALL LETTER BOX at the Strand, cleared at 2.30 and 7 p.m. week days, and 9 a.m. Sundays.

CARRIER—John Moore, to Exeter, daily

TORBRIAN (or Torbryan) is a parish and small village in a wooded valley, 4 miles S.S.W. of Newton Abbot, in Newton Abbot union, county court district, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Haytor hundred, Eastern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, and Moreton rural deanery. It had 218 inhabitants, (118 males, 100 females) in 1871, living in 40 houses, on 2010 acres of land, and it anciently belonged to the Bryan family. It now belongs to several freeholders, the largest of whom are the Wolston and Ley families, Samuel Harris, D. R. Scratton, Thomas Tripe, S. Burd, and William Harper, Esqrs. The CHURCH (Holy Trinity) is an ancient structure, consisting of chancel, nave, north and south aisles (in both of which are two chapels), and a south porch with parvise. It is in the Perpendicular style, and was restored by the late rector in 1861. The church contains a fine oak screen, on the panels of which are figures in very good preservation. In the churchyard, which is entered by a lych gate, are the remains of an ancient cross, and a venerable yew tree of great girth. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £20 14*s.* 7*d.*, and now at £344 (commuted tithe rent), with 17A. 1R. 35P. of glebe, and a rectory house, which was rebuilt in 1865. The Rev. T. Wolston, B.A., is the patron, and the Rev. C. Wolston, LL.B., the rector. The parish is united to Denbury for School Board purposes (see Denbury). The poor parishioners have 20*s.* a year, left by John Peter, in 1570, out of the great tithes of Cornworthy.

TORQUAY, the Queen of Western Watering places, and the Montpellier of England, as it is frequently called, is a handsome market town, seaport, and bathing place, delightfully situated on the strand and the picturesque acclivities of the shore of the northern recess of Torbay, in the parish of TORMOHAM (or Tormohun), 22 miles S. of Exeter, 7 miles S.E. of Newton Abbot, 8 miles S. of Teignmouth, 12 miles N. by E. of Dartmouth, and 207 miles W.S.W. of London. So greatly has Torquay been extended since the beginning of the present century, when it consisted of a small harbour surrounded by a few lodging houses and fishermen's cottages, that it now covers almost the whole of the promontory bounded by Babbacombe Bay on the north, the English Channel on the east, and by Torbay on the south. It has long absorbed the old villages of Tor and Upton, and is rapidly taking in St. Mary Church and Babbacombe. It is connected with the Great Western Railway by a branch line from Newton Abbot extending to Brixham and Dartmouth. The parish of Tormoham, which contains 1465 acres, had 838 inhabitants in 1801; 1350 in 1811; 1925 in 1821; 3582 in 1831; 5982 in 1841; 11,474 in 1851; 16,419 in 1861; and 21,657 (8885 males, 12,772 females) in 1871. This last return includes upwards of 1700 visiting Torquay. Torbay, which looks almost due east, has for its northern boundary a promontory terminating in the point called Hope's Ness, and Berry Head forms its southern boundary. The scenery of the bay is varied and picturesque,—Torquay with houses spread over the hills and in the valleys, in many instances half hid amid exuberant shrubbery, forms a striking feature. The town is situated on a bay upon the southern shore of the northern boundary of Torbay, and the greater part of the town is sheltered from unfavourable winds by the Vane and Park Hills; the Warren and Waldon Hills; the Braddons and the Warberry Hills, which rise to a height of 450 feet; and the Lincombes, but slightly lower. Its climate is very equable.—in winter the sea breezes giving warmth, and in summer coolness. The climate is so mild that, as Dr. Thomson says, it fosters a vegetation of wonderful luxuriance, which permits the passion flower, and the myrtle, the hydrangea, and even, in favoured spots, the camellia to winter out of doors, as well as many another delicate plant. Torquay has the great advantage of a dry subsoil. In 1780 Torquay consisted merely of a few fishermen's or villagers' houses, chiefly on the site of the present Strand and Victoria Parade, a water mill near the upper end of what is now called Fleet Street, and a very small harbour enclosure, overlooked by the old manor house of Torwood. During the French Wars, 1792–1815, Torquay was often visited by the fleet, the officers of which found the place a pleasant rendezvous for their wives and families. Its advantages as a winter resort soon became apparent, and since that time it has made rapid progress.

Invalids from all quarters have been attracted by these advantages, and that the attention given to them is not of a cursory or temporary nature, is shown by the immense influx of visitors. The town has at least trebled its size during the last quarter of a century, far overleaping its original boundaries; it has spread itself over a vast extent of country, not to be equalled for natural beauty, and displays every kind of residence. By far the greater portion of this choice territory is owned by Sir Lawrence Palk, Bart., M.P., who is lord of the manor of Tormoham, and the remainder by R. S. S. Cary, Esq., lord of the manor of Tor Abbey. The lower parts of the town, built around the harbours and quays, are occupied chiefly by the premises of tradesmen, and the whole surrounding country is dotted with tasteful villas and terraces. The town is copiously supplied with the purest water from Hennock, on the borders of Dartmoor, a distance of 12 miles, the pipes being laid some years since, at a cost of about £50,000. The outfall for the sewage was formerly in the foot of the bay; but this is in course of alteration by Sir J. Bazalgette, as noticed below. A visitor could spend months exploring the marvels of Torquay, and it will be our object to describe briefly some of its most noticeable features. At the beginning of the century the harbour was but a small wooden construction for the use of fishermen; the inner harbour was built by the grandfather of the present Sir L. Palk, under an Act entitled the 'Torquay Harbour Act, 1803,' and encloses an area of about 7 acres. As the place increased in importance, more accommodation became necessary, and the outer harbour was built by Sir L. Palk, under the provisions of an Act called 'The Piers and Harbours Act of 1860,' at a cost of about £60,000. It is capable of accommodating vessels of large tonnage, and within its boundaries one can see the trim yacht and the ponderous merchant ship moored quietly together. This harbour was formally opened by Lady Palk, on which occasion the family were entertained, and Sir Lawrence presented with the handsome portrait which now adorns the large Bath Saloon. Since that event Torquay has risen considerably in importance as a yachting station, and its opening was celebrated by an ocean race for a cup of 100 guineas, presented by Sir L. Palk. Contiguous is a handsome line of warehouses and stores, surmounted by that extensive pile of buildings—the bath rooms, skating rink, &c. The buildings contain a fine saloon, concert rooms, the offices of the manor, &c., hot and cold and open sea baths. At the junction of the roads forming the Strand and Victoria Parade, a street runs in a northerly direction towards Alsham, called the Babbicombe Road. On this road will be found the Post Office; next the Museum; then the Public Gardens, about 4 acres of land, given by Sir L. Palk, tastefully laid out. The Manor House, originally the residence of the Earls of Londonderry, was situated at Torwood, on this road, on the site of what is now known as Torwood Mount. It was built in the 15th century, and after being used for many years as a farm house, was taken down in 1840. The new Manor House was built by the present baronet in the year 1862, from the designs of Mr. J. W. Rowell, the manor architect. It is an imposing block, stands on the highest part of Lincombe Hill, and commands extensive views by sea and land.

Adjacent to the Manor House is the Lincombe Drive, commanding almost unrivalled views, and which may be truly called a royal road. It and the adjoining brake, about 50 acres, have been given to the public to be formed into gardens and recreation grounds, and called the Manor Gardens. At the foot of the Manor Gardens is Meadfoot Beach, which, with its recently formed sea wall and roadway constructed in connection with the new main drainage works, will, with the Drive above, form a perfectly unique feature. Returning to the Strand, a street runs nearly two miles long to Tor (or Torre); it is called at different parts of its course Fleet Street, Lower Union Street, Higher Union Street, terminating in Brunswick Square, Tor. Fleet Street is chiefly remarkable for the bold and architectural character of its modern erections for shops and business purposes. Lower Union Street contains the Town Hall, erected about 25 years since. Adjoining Higher Union Street is the Parish Church of Upton, remarkable for its graceful architecture. The Upton Schools adjoin the churchyard, and close to them is the Torbay Infirmary. The Cricket Grounds are on the outskirts in this direction. The grounds comprise about 4 acres of land, which were given by Sir L. Palk; they have a pair of rustic erections, and altogether form excellent recreation grounds. The Cemetery is also in this direction, which contains a number of handsome monuments, and will well repay a visit to its interesting precincts. There are terra-cotta works close by, where works of art are brought to a high state of perfection. St. Michael's Mount, crowned by its small but interesting antique chapel, is in the immediate vicinity. Following on the route to the Torquay Station we came on Torre Abbey, the residence of R. S. S. Cary, Esq. This place has undergone various vicissitudes; after passing through the possession of several families, as the St. Leger, Pollard, Seymour, Ridgway, Stawells; by the latter it was sold in 1662 to Sir George Cary, ancestor of the present owner. It has lately been partially restored. Torre Abbey in pristine beauty must have been a lovely place, with its large elms and verdant avenues; and many interesting ruins are still to be seen. There is attached to the premises a large building, called the 'Spanish Barn,' from a tradition that 500 prisoners from the Spanish Armada were confined there. Waldon Hill opposite has been, as it were, crowned with numerous buildings; its sheer cliff surmounted with tasteful homes forms a most imposing picture to this entrance to the town. The Imperial Hotel, an imposing building, stands at the head of these modern erections; but the Royal, the Queen's, Torbay, Belgrave, and Victoria and Albert are all fine hotels, having ample accommodation. Kent's Cavern, although situate in the adjoining parish of St. Mary Church, is still nearer to Torquay, and is a most interesting grotto; it is now in the care of the Royal Society, by whom yearly grants are made to conduct explorations in a scientific manner, the results of which will have, it is supposed, important effects in the interests of science. It is now closed as a show place. It is the property of Sir L. Palk, who placed it at the disposal of the Royal Society (see pages 72 and 686). The greater part of the promontory on which Torquay stands is composed of marble and limestone, so that the materials for building are at hand, which has doubtless contributed to the rapid growth of the town. About the middle of Union Street a road branches north leading to Ellacombe, the hive of the industrial population. The formation of this district was the scheme of Sir L. Palk, for the better accommodation of the working classes. It was prettily laid out by Mr. J. W. Rowell, the manor architect; the houses are neat and of a superior order to those generally erected for that purpose. It leads to Ellacombe Church, the site of which was given by Sir Lawrence. On this road are also St. Michael's Mission Church, the Market, and various institutions for the poor. It is in contemplation to build an Aquarium and Winter Garden here, and the preliminary steps are being taken.

Its commerce consists chiefly in the importation of coal, timber, and other articles for home consumption, but it has a small trade with Newfoundland, and a number of coasting vessels trading to London, &c., as well as steam-packets, which ply regularly to Guernsey, Jersey, Plymouth, Portsmouth, and Southampton. The manor of Tor Brewer belonged to William de Briwere, or Brewer, in the reign of Henry II., and his younger daughter carried it in marriage to the Mohuns, from whom the present name of Tormohun (sometimes corrupted to Tormoham) is derived, who had a seat here in the 13th century, but afterwards sold the manor to the Ridgways. About 1768 it was purchased of the Earl of Donegal by Sir Robert Palk, grandfather of its present owner, Sir L. Palk, Bart. In 1196 William Briwere founded Tor Abbey, in the south-western part of the parish, for Premonstratensian canons, and endowed it with considerable revenues, which were afterwards augmented by his son. On its suppression, in 1539, its yearly income was valued at £396 11*s.*, and it had then fifteen monks, besides the abbot. It was granted, with the adjacent estate, in 1543, to John St. Leger, Esq., who conveyed it to Sir Hugh Pollard. It afterwards passed to the Seymours, Ridgways, and Stowells, the latter of whom sold it, in 1662, to Sir George Cary, Knight, an ancestor of its present owner, Robert Shedden Sulyard Cary, Esq., who resides at the Abbey House, which has picturesque and well-wooded grounds, adjoining the coast, and commanding a view of the noble bay and the rocky tors, or hills, in the neighbourhood. The house is mostly modern, though some parts of the old Abbey are still preserved. It consists of a centre and two wings, one of which is connected with a castellated gateway, having octagonal towers and battlements. Beyond this gateway is a large building, called the Spanish Barn, with loop-hole windows and numerous buttresses, and profusely mantled with ivy. The Roman Catholic Chapel attached to the house contains a superb altar, and a fine painting of the Crucified Saviour. There are interesting ruins of the ancient Abbey Church in the grounds, and among them is a large Norman arch, with a small one on either side, richly adorned with sculpture, and clad with ivy. Sir L. Palk and R. S. S. Cary, Esq., own nearly all the parish, the houses of Torquay having been built on sites granted by them for terms of 99 years.

A small Market Place was built near the Strand, in 1823; but in 1849 the Torquay Market Company obtained an Act of Parliament for the erection of a spacious Market Place, slaughter-houses, &c., at the cost of £10,000. The hall in Market Street is 173 feet by 66 feet, and contains twenty-four shops, with as many stalls. Mr. Samuel Day is the secretary, and Mr. John Chilcott collector. The markets, held every Tuesday and Friday, are well supplied with all kinds of provisions.

The government of the town is vested in an Urban Sanitary Authority, whose jurisdiction extends over the whole parish. The offices are at the Town Hall. Mr. Briscoe Hooper is clerk; Mr. Samuel J. Daw, treasurer; Mr. Perring, accountant; Mr. Samuel Rhind, medical officer; Mr. John Little, surveyor; Mr. T. S. Weeks, water bailiff; Mr. W. Watson, inspector of nuisances; Mr. George J. Pepprell, collector.

The Town Hall, a plain building, in Lower Union Street, with a square tower and a clock, was built in 1851 at the cost of £2000; in it are the offices of the Urban Sanitary Authority, the water bailiff, and the magistrate's clerks.

The Gas Works were originally established here by a private company, but in 1860 a new company was formed, who have now a capital of £45,000 in £10 shares. They charge 4*s.* 6*d.* per 1000 cubic feet for gas, and there are 500 street lamps. The works, which are situated at Hollacombe, within Paignton parish, were constructed in 1860, and the offices, in Fleet Street, were built in 1877. John Kitson, Esq., is secretary; Mr. John Joseph Matthews, accountant; Messrs. William Gardner and William Mabin, collectors; and Mr. James Greenfield, works manager.

Water Works.—An Act of Parliament was obtained in 1856, enabling the Local Board of Health to supply the towns of Torquay, Newton Abbot, and St. Mary Church with water from the works at Tottiford, where a large storage reservoir was constructed in 1859. This reservoir, situated 800 feet above the level of the sea, covers 35 acres and holds 80,000,000 gallons of water. The stream supplying this reservoir rises near Blackiston Rock, a few miles from Moreton Hampstead. There is a supply reservoir, containing 1,500,000 gallons, on the Chapel Hill, for domestic purposes, &c.; another on Warberry Hill, having a capacity of 2,750,000 gallons, which supplies the villas in the immediate neighbourhood, and St. Mary Church. The total cost was £80,000. It is contemplated to construct a second storage reservoir, capable of holding 120,000,000 gallons, and also to lay a duplicate main. The cost of these works is estimated at £30,000. Mr. S. Weeks is the water bailiff.

Drainage Works.—An intercepting sewer was completed in August 1878, by the Local Board, under the direction of Sir Joseph Bazalgette. At its commencement, near Tor Railway Station, it is 2ft. 6in. high, and 1ft. 8in. wide, and is carried through a tunnel 5ft. 6in. high, 4ft. wide, and a quarter of a mile long, to Swan Street, where there is a pumping station. The two pumps here are capable of raising 14,000 gallons of sewage per hour 16 feet high into the high-level sewer. At Fleet Street this drain receives a large amount of sewage from St. Mary Church and the Upton Valley. From Fleet Street to the outfall, at Hope Nose, two miles from the mouth of the Harbour, the main sewer is 7 feet in diameter, and it has a fall of 4½ feet per mile. It passes through a tunnel nearly a mile in length, and shortly afterwards under the new Sea Road, which has been constructed from Meadfoot Road to Kilmorie, a distance of about 2000 feet. At Kilmorie the sewer again enters a tunnel nearly a mile long, and which in one point is about 280 feet below the surface. It has been ascertained by careful observation that the flood tide, on the one hand, runs out eastward to the sea, while the ebb tide, on the other hand, runs out beyond Berry Head, outside the mouth of the Bay, so that no sewage can possibly get from the sewer into the Bay. The sewage is discharged at all times of the tide, and its flow through the sewer is rapid and continuous. The total length of the high-level intercepting sewer is about 3½ miles, varying in size from 2ft. 6in. by 1ft. 8in. to 7 feet in diameter, and of this about 2 miles is tunnelled through limestone rock and shale. The total length of the low-level sewer is 1½ mile, and the sewers vary from 9 inches to 3 feet in diameter. The Sea Road, above noticed, has a minimum width of 30 feet, including an asphalted footpath of 8 feet, and now forms a delightful promenade. The total cost has been £70,000, defrayed by loan sanctioned by the Local Government Board.

Petty Sessions are held here every Monday for the Paignton division (see page 28), but meetings are also held at Paignton and Churston Ferrers, near Brixham. The magistrates for the division are:—M. Phillipps, Esq., Edward Vivian, Esq., Henry Phillipotts, Esq., W. B. Fortescue, Esq., W. Halliday Halliday, Esq., W. T. Bridges, Esq., P. B. Drinkwater, Esq., L. B. Bowring, Esq., W. F. Splatt, Esq., W. Froude, Esq., the Rev. F. A. Stewart-Savile, Henry Studdy, Esq., Charles S. Hayne, Esq., Henry T. Uniacke, Esq., Francis H. Spragge, Esq., the Rev. Thomas Kitson, the Right Hon. Lord Churston, Henry Toms, Esq., Llewellyn Llewellyn, Esq., and Richard Mallock, Esq. P. Perring, Esq., is clerk to the magistrates, and has his offices at the Town Hall, Torquay. The Police Court and Sessions Hall, with houses for the superintendent and sergeants of police adjoining, were built in 1875, at a cost of £5000, and have eight cells for prisoners. Captain Hugh Coffin Vaughan is the superintendent of police, and has a staff of two sergeants and twenty-three constables.

There is a Fire Engine Station underneath the Town Hall, in Lower Union Street, and another at the Market Hall, Market Street, belonging to the West of England Insurance Company. Mr. S. Weeks is superintendent of the former, and Mr. John Chilcott of the latter.

The Parish Church at Tormoham, more than a mile west of the Quay, is an ancient structure consisting of nave, aisles, chancel and embattled tower. There are two galleries, and the church affords accommodation for 400 persons. The building was thoroughly repaired and repewed in 1849, and the chancel was extended in 1874 for the admission of a new organ, at the outlay of £700. A window in the chancel was filled with stained glass in 1875, in memory of the late Rev. George Collyer Harris, M.A., prebendary of Exeter, and for ten years curate of Tormohun, and afterwards and until his death vicar of St. Luke's new parish. The east window of the chancel, and that of the south aisle, are similarly enriched. In the church are some handsome monuments, one of which supports the effigy of one of the Ridgway family, father of the first Earl of Londonderry, who resided at Torwood manor house, now pulled down. The Register dates from 1628. The living is a vicarage, valued at £360 a year, with that of Cockington annexed. Richard Mallock, Esq., is the patron, and the Rev. Joseph H. Harris, D.D., the incumbent. The living has been augmented by Queen Anne's Bounty and Parliamentary grants; and the great tithes were purchased some years ago by the two principal landowners. The burial-ground was closed in January 1861.

Upton Church (St. Mary Magdalene), in Higher Union Street, is a handsome Early English structure, with a tower and graceful spire containing eight bells and a clock. It was erected by subscription, and consecrated April 12, 1849; is neatly fitted up with open seats, and has room for about 1000 hearers. The late P. Dawson, Esq., gave £2000 on condition that a large portion of the seats should be free; and the site and endowment were given by Sir L. V. Palk. The living is a rectory, valued at £300 (including fees, &c.), in the patronage of Sir L. Palk, Bart., M.P., and incumbency of the Rev. Richard Robins Wolfe, M.A., prebendary of Exeter Cathedral; the Rev. Thomas Nash Hicks, M.A., is the curate, and Mr. Thomas Craddock, B.Mus., the organist.

St. John's Church, in Montpellier Place, built in 1822 by Sir L. V. Palk, Bart., was restored and partly rebuilt under the direction of G. Street, Esq., in 1869-71, at a cost of £13,000, and is a handsome structure, consisting of nave with clerestory, chancel with clerestory, north and south aisles, and square massive tower. Besides the ordinary font, which stands at the west end of the nave, in a recess in the middle of the west wall is a constructional baptistery for adult immersion, sunk 3 feet 9 in. below the pavement. The baptistery is guarded by a dwarf wall, and reached by four descending steps. There are 1000 sittings, all of which are free. The living, a vicarage, valued at £210, is in the patronage of the vicar of Tormoham, and incumbency of the Rev. Charles Edward Ricketts Robinson, M.A., hon. canon of Rochester; the Rev. W. Hampshire is curate, and Mr. Charles Banson, organist.

St. Mark's Church, built for a district taken out of the parishes of Tormoham and St. Mary Church, under the powers of a local Act procured by Sir L. Palk, Bart., in 1855, is a cruciform structure, consisting of nave, chancel, aisles, transepts and square tower. It was erected in 1857 at the cost of £4500, and has 850 sittings, of which one-third are free. The living is a rectory, having an endowment of £150, in the patronage of Sir L. Palk, Bart., and incumbency of the Rev. F. A. Stewart-Savile, M.A.; the Revs. W. B. Davis, M.A., and — Prince, are the curates, and Mr. H. Pook is the organist.

St. Matthias's Church, on the Babbicombe Road, was built in 1857, at a cost of £5000, as a Chapel of Ease to St. Mark's, and is a small structure consisting of nave, chancel, aisles, and tower containing a clock. The Rev. Thomas Attwood is curate in sole charge, and Mr. Stone is the organist.

St. Luke's Ecclesiastical District was formed in 1869, and had 3631 inhabitants in 1871. Its Church, on the northern slope of Warren Hill, is a handsome stone structure in the Early English style, and was erected in 1862, from designs by H. Blomfield, Esq., at a cost of £9000, raised by private subscriptions, aided by a grant of £500 from the Church Building Society. It consists of nave, chancel aisles, and tower surmounted by a spire. There are 950 sittings, of which 550 are free. The chancel has been beautifully decorated by Messrs. Heaton and Butler, at an outlay of £1000; the roof and frescoes illustrate the 'Te Deum' and the 'Benedicte.' All the windows in the chancel, north aisle, and clerestory are filled with rich stained glass; the font is of various marbles. The living, a vicarage valued at £450, including an endowment of £200, is in the patronage of the vicar of Tormoham, and incumbency of the Rev. William Skinner Boyle, M.A., rural dean: the Revs. Charles N. Kelly, B.A., and Thomas John Yarde, B.A., are the curates.

Ellacombe Ecclesiastical District was formed in 1868, and had 4263 inhabitants in 1871. Its church, dedicated to Christ, is a neat edifice, erected in 1868 at the cost of £5000. The site was given by Sir L. Palk, and the cost of the building defrayed by the late Mr. Haliburton. There are 700 sittings, many of which are free. The living, a vicarage valued at £400, partly derived from an endowment of £150, and the remainder from pew rents, is in the patronage of trustees and incumbency of the Rev. John Awdry Jamieson, M.A.; the Rev. James Holderness, B.A., is the curate, and Mr. Hole, organist.

All Saints' Temporary Church, Torre, was erected in 1867 on a site given by the late Prebendary G. C. Harris, for a permanent church, when funds are sufficiently raised for that purpose.

St. Michael and All Angels' Church, in Market Street, is a substantial building, consisting of nave with clerestory, and north and south lean-to aisles, a north porch, a chancel, with a south aisle screened off from the south aisle of the nave, to act as a choristers' vestry, while the priests' sacristy is to the east of it; and corresponding with the south chancel aisle is a transeptal structure on the north side, designed as an organ chamber. The church, which is in the Early English style, is built of the red conglomerate from the neighbourhood of Paignton, dressed externally with the green stone from the Forest of Dean, and internally, a delicate green sandstone from the neighbourhood of Bridgend, Glamorganshire, is made to interchange harmoniously with the native conglomerate; and the internal works are lined with a soft red stone from the quarries of Babbacombe. John Pritchard, Esq., was the architect, and the cost of the building was about £7000. The font, communion table, and organ are special gifts. In the chancel are a credence-shelf and sedilia of three bays. The reredos and communion table will be executed in mosaic from the spirited cartoons of Mr. Armstead. There are 520 sittings, all of which are free. The Rev. Hubert M. Patch, M.A., is the curate-in-charge.

Trinity Chapel, at Park Hill, is a neat cemented structure, of mixed architecture, which was erected by subscription in 1837-8, at the cost of about £5500, and will seat nearly 900 persons. The Rev. F. A. Baines is the patron and incumbent.

Roman Catholic Church.—For many long years the Catholics of Torquay and the surrounding neighbourhood attended the services of their religion in the private chapel of Tor Abbey, the residence of the Cary family. But a site on the Abbey Road having been given by Robert Cary, Esq., the foundation stone was laid by him on April 4, 1853, the Rev. Mr. Power being the priest of the mission. The Church, dedicated to our Lady of the Assumption, is a Decorated Gothic structure, after the designs of Messrs. J. and C. Hansom. It was built by subscription, and was consecrated in 1854. Later on, a Lady Chapel and aisle were added, through the exertions of the Rev. Canon Windeyer. The church will accommodate about 300 persons. Above the High Altar, which is of Bath stone with marble pillars, is a window filled with stained glass, representing the Assumption, &c., and given by Mr. Cary; in the aisle is a memorial window to the late canon, placed there by the congregation. The pillars of the church are of polished Devonshire marble. The stations of the Cross here, which are considered very fine and artistic, were shown in the Paris Exhibition. The Rev. John A. Charles is the priest.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, situated in the Torwood Gardens, is a neat structure, erected in 1862, at a cost of about £6000; there are 600 sittings. In connection with the church, a manse, or parsonage house, was purchased in 1870, at a cost of £1400. The Rev. Archibald N. Mackray, M.A., is the minister.

The Independent Chapel, in Abbey Road, was built in 1847, at an expense of £2200, and is a handsome building in the Italian style, containing 800 sittings. The Rev. Charles Knibbs is the minister. The Belgrave Congregational Church, Torre Hill Road, a spacious stone structure with Sunday schools attached, was built in 1871 at a cost of £7000; there are 1060 sittings. There is another Independent Chapel, in Lower Union Street, and the Rev. Henry Hooper is the minister.

The Baptist Chapel, Upton Vale, is a commodious structure with schools attached, erected in 1863, at an outlay of £7000, and has accommodation for 1000 hearers. The Rev. Evan Edwards is the minister. The Baptists have another chapel in Temperance Street.

The Wesleyans have a chapel in Rock Road, built in 1862; another, with accommodation for 650 persons, on the Babbicombe Road, which was erected in 1874, at a cost of £5000; and a third in course of erection, in Lower Union Street, in the Classic style, to accommodate 1000 persons, at a cost, including the erection of schools, of £6000.

The Unitarians have a chapel in Lower Union Street; the Primitive Methodists in Temperance Street, and Market Street, Ellacombe; the Friends in Warren Road; and the Brethren and Bible Christians have places of worship in the parish. The Primitive Methodist Chapel, at Ellacombe, was erected in 1877, at a cost of £2000.

The Torquay Extramural Cemetery Company was incorporated by Act of Parliament in 1852, and half of the cemetery, which comprises altogether 16½ acres, was consecrated in June 1874. The cost, including the erection of the two mortuary chapels, was upwards of £7000. A massive marble tomb, in memory of Mr. Isaac M. Singer, of Paignton, has just been erected at the outlay of several thousand pounds. The Rev. Thomas Clarke, B.A., is the chaplain; Mr. John Lane, secretary and registrar; and Mr. Richard Delbridge, lodge keeper.

Schools.—The Tor National Schools, built in 1841 and enlarged in 1851, have accommodation for 450 children; the Torquay National Schools, Pimlico, erected in 1826, will hold 350 children; the Torwood National Schools, in Ilsham Road, built in 1872 at a cost of £700, are attended by about 80 scholars; the Trinity Trust Schools, Meadfoot Lane, were built in 1842; the Upton Church Schools, in Higher Union Street, were erected in 1872 at a cost of £2000, and will hold 300 children; Ellacombe National Schools, erected in 1872 at a cost of £2600, are attended by about 500 scholars, and at Boston Fields is an Infant School; St. Luke's Middle Class School, near the church, was erected in 1876 in memory of the late Prebendary G. C. Harris, M.A., late vicar of St. Luke's, at a cost of £750, and will accommodate 130 scholars; in Rock Road is a Mixed School, attended by 120 girls and infants; St. John's Parish Schools are in Braddon Street; and the Choir School adjoins the church. There are British Schools on Abbey Road, Tor Hill Road, and at Upton Vale; they are attended by about 1000 children; Mr. Thomas Viccars is the master and general superintendent. The Roman Catholic School, on the Abbey Road, was built in 1858, and will accommodate 70 children. St. Winifred's Middle Class Day and Evening School, on the Abbey Road, was established in 1867; attached to these schools is a Public Library of 3000 volumes. Torquay School of Science and Art, Braddon's Hill Road West, was established in 1866. Mr. Thomas Viccars is science master, and Messrs. S. Morrish and George Bedford, art teachers.

The Royal Assembly Rooms (and Lyceum Theatre), on the Abbey Road, were built in 1862–3, and will hold 1200 persons. Torquay Aquarium, Winter Gardens, and Skating Rink Company (limited), has been formed with a capital of £30,000 in £5 shares. The grounds, which are in Babbacombe Road, cover an area of 4½ acres. Mr. James Murray is the secretary. The Bath Saloon, on Beacon Terrace, comprises ball, concert, and reading rooms, and a skating rink. Captain Hugh Hall is proprietor, and Mr. Charles Davidson manager. The Free Libraries Act was adopted for the town at a public meeting held in January 1877. On the Torwood Road, adjoining the town, are the Public Gardens, comprising about 4 acres of land, appropriated by the lord of the manor to the use of the public, and tastefully planted and laid out with gravel walks, forming a pleasant sheltered promenade.

Torbay and South Devon Club, formed some years ago, and transferred to a limited liability company in 1863, has a fine suite of rooms, near Beacon Terrace, including reading, dining, card, and smoke rooms, together with a new billiard room with two tables. Adjoining the clubhouse is a small garden, commanding an extensive view of Torbay and Berry Head. There are about 130 members. Mr. Robert Kitson is secretary, and Mr. M. Aspland steward. The Victoria Club, at 23 Victoria Parade, was established in 1859, and has 200 members. The building, which cost upwards of £4000, includes billiard and reading rooms, and racket court. Mr. Henry Day is the proprietor. The Royal Torquay Yacht Club, established in 1875, has 100 members. Regattas are held in August. Sir L. Palk, Bart., M.P., is commodore, and Mr. W. Gobby King, secretary.

Hotels.—The oldest hotel is the 'Royal,' which has a room chastely fitted up for balls, &c. The 'Imperial Hotel,' which is the largest in this part of the country, being 120 feet long in front, 90 feet deep, and 90 feet high, was built in 1866, and has fifty sitting rooms, besides card, billiard, coffee, and reading rooms, together with all the requirements of a first-class family hotel. It belongs to a limited liability company, and Mr. George Hussey is the manager. In addition to the above there are several first-class family, commercial, and private hotels, and boarding establishments.

Newspapers.—The Torquay Directory (Neutral), established in 1840, belonging to a limited liability company, is published on Tuesdays by Mr. William Winget, the manager, at the offices, Higher Fleet Street; and The Torquay Times (Liberal), established in 1865, is issued on Saturdays by Mr. Martin Fradd, the proprietor, at 59 Fleet Street.

The Torbay Dispensary and Infirmary was established in 1844, but the handsome building it now occupies was not erected until 1850. Sir L. Palk, Bart., M.P., is president; W. H. Kitson. Esq., honorary secretary; Drs. J. Tetley, W. H. Madden, C. Paget Blake, honorary consulting physicians; W. W. Macreight, Esq., M.D. and W. Powell, Esq., M.B., honorary physicians; J. B. Toogood, Esq., honorary consulting surgeon; W. Pollard, James Pollard, and J. U. Huxley, honorary surgeons; D. Watson, Esq., honorary dentist; J. B. Richardson, Esq., house surgeon; Mrs. Summers, matron; Mr. G. J. Pepprell, secretary; and Mr. John Lane, collector.

The Western Hospital, Torquay, for patients of a consumptive tendency, natives of or residents in Berkshire, Devonshire, Gloucestershire, Hampshire, Herefordshire, Shropshire, Somersetshire, Wiltshire, and Worcestershire, was opened on October 1, 1850, and is located on the Lower Warberry Road. Patients from any other county are eligible for admission, if the sum subscribed and paid by residents in such county amount to not less than twenty guineas a year. But whenever the annual subscriptions paid by residents in any of the before-mentioned, or other county, is sufficient, with life donors, to make up twenty nominations, patients from such county are not admitted to the hospital. No patient is admitted from any penitentiary, reformatory, or house of correction. Drs. J. Tetley, W. H. Madden, and C. R. Hall, are honorary consulting physicians; C. B. Nankivell, C. Paget Blake, W. W. Macreight, S. Hounsell, Esqrs., honorary physicians; W. Pollard, Esq., honorary surgeon; W. B. Rodway, Esq., honorary dentist; Mrs. Hardham, matron; and Mr. Henry Dart, secretary.

The Erith House Institution for invalid ladies was established in 1853, and 'provides a temporary residence, with board, medicine, and medical attendance for ladies of limited means, chiefly those suffering from chest diseases, viz., wives or widows, or daughters of clergymen, and of naval, military, and professional men, or governesses, &c., who have a fair prospect of being benefited by a genial climate.' H.R.H. the Duchess of Cambridge is patroness; the Rev. C. Campe, hon. chaplain; Drs. Tetley, Radcliffe Hall, Madden, Paget Blake, consulting hon. physicians; Drs. Hounsell, Ramsey and Lombe, the hon. physicians; W. Pollard, Esq., hon. surgeon; W. B. Rodway, Esq., hon. dentist; Miss Baldwin, hon. treasurer; C.L. Pannel, Esq., hon. secretary; and Miss Harriet Parrett, lady superintendent.

The Torquay Errand Boys' Association and Winter Night School, in the Warren Road, was founded in 1870. Its object is to provide education for the sons of the poorer classes, who are obliged very early in life to go out to work, instead of remaining at school. The boys clean boots and shoes, and go errands for the villa residents, and in the afternoon go to school. An attempt, so far successful, has been made to work a home for orphan boys in connection with the association. Chairman of the committee, H.H. Erskine, Esq., Mapleton; treasurer and hon. secretary, Paul Q. Karkeek, Esq., 1 Matlock Terrace; superintendent at the school, Mr. J. E. Newton.

The Female Servants' Home, at 1 Efrides Road, was established in 1875; Mrs. Luscombe is the matron.

St. Raphael's Convalescent Home, situated on the Upper Lincombe Road, was established in 1866, and is intended for the reception of women of good moral character, needing sea air, medical superintendence, and nursing. The present home, which was enlarged in 1874, was erected at a cost of £6000, and has accommodation for 40 patients. It is under the care of the Sisters of St. John the Baptist. W. W. Stebb, Esq., is surgeon; the Rev. H. A. Fielden, chaplain; and W. Coates, Esq., M.D., treasurer.

The Invalid Soup Kitchen, at the Mission House in Market Street, was commenced by the Misses Mansfield in 1867; Mrs. Newton is the matron.

The Freemasons' Lodge (St. John, No. 328) meets every first and third Monday in the month at the Masonic Hall in Park Place, which hall was built in 1857; a Royal Arch Chapter (No. 328) was formed in 1875. The Jordan Lodge (No. 1402) also holds its meetings here. Here are several Clothing Clubs, a Lying-in Charity, a Shipwrecked Fishermen and Mariners' Benevolent Society; and several Friendly Societies. The poor parishioners have the interest of £62, left by Thomas Kingsley and other donors; and the dividends of £468 8*s.* 6*d.* Navy Five per Cent. Stock, purchased with £500 left by George Baker in 1800.

TORRINGTON, GREAT. (See Great Torrington.)

TOTNES, an ancient borough and market town, which retains some portions of its once formidable castle, and gives name to a parish, archdeaconry, and deanery, to a large union, and to a county court district, is picturesquely seated on the western bank of the navigable river Dart, opposite its suburb of Bridgetown, 10 miles N.W. by W. of Dartmouth, 22 miles S. by W. of Exeter, 22 miles E. by N. of Plymouth, 9 miles W.S.W. of Torquay, and 194 miles W.S.W. of London. Its borough comprises Totnes parish, and part of that of Berry-Pomeroy, the former of which is in the Southern division of the county, and the latter in the Easterr. Totnes parish, which is locally situated in Coleridge hundred, had 2503 inhabitants in 1801; 2725 in 1811; 3128 in 1821; 3442 in 1831; 3849 in 1841; 3828 in 1851; 3409 in 1861; and 3468 (1563 males, 1905 females) in 1871, living in 616 houses, on 1045 acres. BRIDGETOWN, on the opposite side of the river, in Berry Pomeroy parish, and in Haytor hundred, is a handsome eastern suburb of the town, and forms part of the borough of Totnes. The borough comprises the whole parish of Totnes and the manor of Bridgetown, the latter of which was added to it by the Parliamentary and Municipal Reform Acts of 1832 and 1835. The population of the borough was 4073 in 1871. It has a station on the South Devon Railway. The Dart is navigable to it for vessels of 200 tons burthen, and, excepting during the winter months, a steam packet plies daily between it and Dartmouth. A handsome stone bridge crosses the river and a small island, between Totnes and Bridgetown, and was built by subscription, at the cost of £12,000, in 1828, in lieu of the ancient narrow bridge. Steps descend from it to the island, which has been laid out in walks, and planted with trees and shrubs, by the Duke of Somerset, for the use of the public. The situation of Totnes is remarkably fine. The main street is about three-quarters of a mile long, and after climbing the steep acclivity rising from the margin of the river, it stretches itself along the brow of the hill, which commands a fine view of the valley and the winding stream, but is sheltered on every side by higher grounds. The piazzas in front of some of the houses in the upper town, and the higher stories projecting over the lower ones, are manifest proofs of its antiquity, 'a claim which is strengthened by the keep of its castle, a very large circular building, turreted, and rising from an immense artificial mound.' The erection of this castle is ascribed to Judhael or Joel de Totneis, to whom the manor was given by William the Conqueror. The ruins are now finely mantled with ivy, and the grounds around them are tastefully laid out and planted, and have been thrown open by the Duke of Somerset as a promenade for the inhabitants. There are some neat and substantial mansions in the town and suburbs, and a considerable number of respectable houses have been erected during the last forty years on and near the Plymouth Road, in Totnes, and of late years building has been actively carried on at Bridgetown, which still continues. During the same period many of the old houses have been rebuilt or modernised. The beauty of the surrounding neighbourhood, and the fine scenery of the Dart and its creeks below the town, will always ensure for Totnes and its vicinity a genteel resident population, and a constant influx of strangers to visit these attractions. The sporting and angling of the neighbourhood are of the best description, and there is a salmon weir on the river a little above the town, but salmon and other fish abound in all parts of the river, especially in its route to Dartmouth, where it widens into a broad estuary, with several creeks. Since 1833 the Commissioners of the river Dart have expended large sums of money in improving the navigation, so as to enable vessels of 200 tons to come up to the quays and wharf near the bridge, where coal, culm, corn, balk, and artificial manures are imported, and timber, minerals, grain, cider, and other agricultural produce exported. A tramway from the Totnes Railway Station extends to the Quay, and greatly facilitates the transit of goods. Totnes is in the port of Dartmouth, and had formerly a share of the woollen manufacture. Being in the heart of the fruitful district called the South Hams, or garden of Devonshire, which abounds in rich pastures, meadows, corn fields, and orchards, its weekly market, held every Saturday, is abundantly supplied with provisions. Here are also great cattle markets, on the first Tuesday of every month; and two annual fairs, on May 12 and October 28, when those dates fall on a Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday, and when not, on the Tuesday after. Races are held annually in the latter part of August or the beginning of September, and are usually well attended and liberally supported. The Seven Stars and the Seymour Hotel are large and well-conducted establishments, and there are in the town many respectable public-houses and well-stocked shops. The present commodious Market Place was erected in 1848, at the cost of £2800, and has a handsome front. Water is supplied from the springs in the higher parts of the town, and a stream is continually flowing down either side of the main street. The Town Council have, at considerable cost, laid down water mains for supplying the houses and the public with water, which is of the very purest quality, and is brought from springs on the Broomborough estate. The town was newly paved throughout in 1876, by which it has been greatly improved, the pavements previously having been of a very primitive character. The town is lighted with gas.

Gas Works.—A private Gas Company was formed by six townsmen, for their own use, in 1832, who took a plot of ground of the Duke of Somerset for a term of 31 years, at a yearly rental of £2 7*s*. The Totnes Gas Company was incorporated in 1835, with a capital of £1400, in £5 shares, and they purchased the private company's works. About 1853 or 1854 the Totnes and Bridgetown Gas-light Consumers' Company was established, in opposition to the above company, but it ultimately collapsed, and on March 25, 1874, it was purchased by the Totnes Gas Company, since which time the company has been styled the Totnes and Bridgetown Gas-light and Coke Company, limited. Their capital is about £5000, in £5 shares, but only £3 is paid up on the last 400 shares. The ground was leased, on June 24, 1869, for a term of 63 years, at a yearly rental of £12, and on April 14, 1877, Grove Cottage was granted by the Duke of Somerset at a further rental of £8. Gas is supplied to private consumers for 5*s*. 5*d*. per thousand cubic feet. Mr. John Shute is manager and secretary; Mr. Thomas C. Kellock, solicitor; Mr. John N. Chaster, auditor; Mr. Philip Nicholls, gas inspector; and Mr. George Fitze, collector.

In ancient records Totnes is called Totton, Totonie, Totneis, &c. The Roman Road, called Ikneild or Fosseway, which traversed through this county into Somerset, and from thence to other parts of the kingdom, began here. The town was anciently encompassed by a wall with four gates, of which there are still some slight remains. In Domesday Book it is described as having 95 burgesses, besides 15 without the walls, and is said to be subject to the same services as Exeter, and never to be taxed but with that city. The honour or barony of Totnes, which had been part of Edward the Confessor's demesne, was given by William the Conqueror to Judhael or Joel, who assumed the name of De Totneis, and is said to have erected the castle, as already noticed; but being banished by William Rufus, this barony was given to Roger de Novant. It was afterwards held by the Cantilupe and Zouch families. On the attainder of Lord Zouch, Henry VII. gave it to Sir Richard Edgecumbe, whose grandson sold it to Lord Edward Seymour, an ancestor of the Duke of Somerset, its present owner. The castle, long the seat of the barony, was in ruins when Leland visited it in the reign of Henry VIII., except the great tower, or keep, of which the outer walls are still standing. Joel de Totneis founded a Priory here in the Conqueror's reign, as a cell to the Benedictine Abbey of St. Sergius and St. Bacchus, at Angiers. It was not dissolved till the reign of Henry VIII., when it contained six monks. It stood near the church, and its site is now occupied by the Guildhall and other buildings. Tanner says there were two convents of friars at or near Totnes, but Leland mentions only one, founded by Walter de la Bon, or Boate, at a place called Warland, near a chapel dedicated to the Holy Ghost and St. Katherine. Some small remains of this convent are to be seen in a cottage, and its site belongs to W. D. Adams, Esq., of Bowden House, a large and handsome mansion, formerly a seat of the Trist and Giles families. The estate of Little Totnes has been long held by the Wise family, but is now nearly all the property of the Duke of Somerset. Follaton House, an elegant modern mansion, about a mile W. of the town, is the seat of S. E. Cary, Esq.; and Broomborough, the seat of Mrs. Phillips, is an elegant mansion recently erected, in the Elizabethan style. Many other proprietors have estates in the parish. The manor of the borough of Totnes was conveyed in the 2nd of Elizabeth, by Piers Edgecumbe, or Edgcombe, to the Corporation, subject to a reserved rent of £21 per annum, payable to the owner of the Castle. Geoffrey of Monmouth says that the Trojan Brute landed here, and called the place Tout al' esse (all at ease), now corrupted to Totnes, and tradition points to a peculiar and ancient stone in one of the pavements, which has been preserved in the recent alterations as the spot on which he landed. Leland, however, says the ancient name was Dodonesse, or rocky town. Bede says Ambrosius and Uter-Pendragon came to Totnes, after defeating Vortigern in Wales. In 1626, Lord Carew, of Clopton, was created Earl of Totnes, but the title became extinct on his death, without male issue, in 1629. Charles, the natural son of Charles II., was created Lord Dartmouth, Viscount Totnes, and Earl of Plymouth, in 1675, but on his death without issue, in 1680, all his titles became extinct, and that of Totnes has never been revived.

Totnes is said to have been governed by a mayor since the reign of King John, who granted the burgesses a charter in 1205. These privileges were confirmed and extended by Henry VII., and other monarchs. Under the charter granted by Queen Elizabeth, in 1596, the Corporation consisted of a mayor, a recorder, 14 burgher-masters, councillors, and an indefinite number of burgesses, including a select body, called 'the twenty men.' The mayor, recorder, and ex-mayor, were justices of the peace for the borough and parish. The borough limits formerly comprised only the town, but they have been extended by the Reform Acts of 1832 and 1835, so as to comprise the whole parish of Totnes and the manor of Bridgetown. Under the Municipal Act of 1835, the Town Council now consists of a mayor, four aldermen, and twelve councillors. A commission of the peace has been granted, but the borough has now neither recorder nor quarter sessions. The revenue of the Corporation in 1841 amounted to £605, arising from rents, tolls, &c. They were trustees of various charities, and in 1823, the Attorney-General instituted proceedings against the old Corporation, for the misappropriation of charitable funds. Long pending Chancery proceedings followed, which were ultimately compromised, and by a new scheme approved of by the court, the management of the various charities devolved in 1855, on a new body, designated the trustees of the Municipal Charities of the Borough of Totnes; in 1874, under a Scheme of the Endowed School Commissioners, the management and administration of the greater part of the charities passed to the governors, afterwards appointed under the provision of that scheme. (See after). The borough returned two members to Parliament from the 30th of Edward I. to 1867, when it was disfranchised by 30–31 Vic. c. 102. Before the passing of the Reform Act of 1832, the right of election was in the Corporation and freemen, and the greatest number of electors polled for 30 years previous to 1831, was 75. The number of voters registered in 1837 was 297, of whom 34 voted as freemen. The Guildhall is an ancient building near the church.

TOWN COUNCIL (1877-8).

MAYOR.

Mr. Alderman J. Roe.

ALDERMEN.—Messrs. Roe and Rose (retire in 1880); Chaster and Kellock (retire in 1883).

Councillors.—Messrs. Heath, Cuming, Condy, and H. Symons, who retire in 1878; Messrs. E. Windeatt, P. Symons, Paige, and Distin, who retire in 1879; Messrs. Bourne, Michelmore, A. S. Distin, and Eynon, who retire in 1880.

Town Clerk—G. Presswell, Esq. Borough Treasurer—Mr. John Shute.

Marked 1 are in Paignton registration sub-district; 2, Brixham; 3, Dartmouth; 4, Totnes; 5, Buckfastleigh; 6, Ugborough; 7, Harberton. w, include water.

Totnes Union comprises 28 parishes, &c., and had 35,557 inhabitants (16,937 males, 18,620 females) in 1871, living in 6984 houses; besides which there were 492 houses uninhabited, and 40 building: the area of the union is 97,914 acres. These returns include 13 orphans in the Seamen's Orphan Home, at Brixham; 364 men on board H.M.S. 'Britannia,' at Dartmouth; and 241 paupers in the union workhouse. In the union there were 51 blind persons, of whom 3 were blind from birth; 18 deaf and dumb persons; 54 idiots or imbeciles (not in asylums); and 3 lunatics (not in asylums) when the census was taken. Their total average annual expenditure on the poor during the three years preceding the formation of the union was £13,879. The expenditure of the union in 1838 was £11,893; and in 1840, £13,183; and for the year ended Lady-day 1878, £12,599. The WORKHOUSE is a large stone building, erected in 1838–9, at the cost of about £6000, and has room for 380 paupers. T. W. Windeatt, Esq., is the union clerk and superintendent registrar; Rev. F. H. Hele, chaplain; Mr. William A. and Mrs. Susannah Grills, master and matron of the workhouse; and Samuel Lane and George Freeman Marks are the relieving officers. The medical officers are Messrs. G. C. Searle, J. P. Stone, A. J. Wallis, D. Phillips, J. Hains, J. T. Cape, P. A. Cornish, H. S. Johnson, and R. W. Soper. The registrars of births and deaths are Messrs. M. F. Oldrey, J. W. Ashford, John Bovey, C. Cranford, T. Cutmore, W. H. Rossiter, and E. C. Cooper.

GOVERNORS OF ENDOWED SCHOOLS.—The Mayor for the time being, and Messrs. George Presswell, John Webber Chaster, Thomas C. Kellock, Jeffery Michelmore, John Haines, Thomas Hunt Edmonds, Thomas White Windeatt, and Frederick T. Tucker.

TRUSTEES OF MUNICIPAL CHARITIES.—Messrs. Stanley, Edward Cary, James W. Burrough, George Presswell, John Webber Chaster, and Thomas Creaser Kellock.

PETTY SESSIONS are held at the Guildhall once a month by the magistrates of Stanborough petty sessional division, and the magistrates for the division are Sir H. P. Seale, Bart., John Seale, Esq., W. Froude, Esq., Colonel Ridgway, General Birdwood, Colonel Madden, Major J. F. Trist, H. L. Toll, Esq., C. Seale Hayne, Esq., A. Champernowne, Esq., R. H. Watson, Esq., W. E. Matthews, Esq., H. Studdy, Esq., J. D. Lewis, Esq., S. E. G. Cary, Esq., J. Twysden, Esq., J. Allen, Esq., S. E. Cary, Esq., T. King, Esq., J. Fleming, Esq., and W. Cubitt, Esq. T. Weymouth, Esq., of Kingsbridge, and T. Bryett, Esq., of Totnes, are clerks to the magistrates.

TOTNES COUNTY DISTRICT comprises all the parishes, &c., in Totnes union; and the court is held once a month alternately at the Guildhall, Totnes, and at Churston Ferrers. M. Fortescue, Esq., Q.C., is judge; T. Bryett, Esq., registrar; and Mr. M. Oldrey, high bailiff.

BOROUGH MAGISTRATES.—The Mayor, the Ex-Mayor, C. Webber, Esq., S. E. Cary, Esq., J. W. Chaster, Esq., S. Huxham, Esq., J. Hains, Esq., L. J. Oldreive, Esq., R. Paige, Esq., A. J. Wallis, Esq., A. S. Distin, Esq., and J. Westhead, Esq. T. W. Windeatt, Esq., is their clerk. Sessions are held twice a month at the Guildhall.

The CHURCH (St. Mary) is a handsome structure in the Early Perpendicular style, with a lofty tower at the west end containing eight bells. Its date was unknown until about 1800, when the south-east pinnacle, being struck by lightning, fell through the roof of a small room over the porch, in which were found two chests full of ancient records, from which it appeared the church was rebuilt in 1259 and again in 1432. In the latter year Bishop Lacy granted forty days' indulgence to all who contributed to the rebuilding. An elegant stone screen of ornamental tracery divides the nave and chancel; but the altar-piece, instead of corresponding with the rest of the building, is of Grecian design, with a classical semi-dome supported by Corinthian pillars. The stone pulpit is elaborately ornamented. The church is now undergoing restoration—all the old galleries have been removed and a new one erected, a new vestry built, all but the chancel reseated, and gas introduced—the whole at a cost of £2578 3*s.* 4*d.*; the tower, roof, the exterior of the church, and the reseating of the chancel remain to be done. The vicarage, valued in K.B. at £12 8*s.* 9*d.*, and in 1831 at £200, is in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor and incumbency of the Rev. J. W. Burrough, who has a good residence. The rectorial glebe (74A. 2R. 21P.) and tithe, formerly belonging to Totnes Priory, are now the property of the Duke of Somerset; but only 693 acres are titheable, and now pay a yearly tithe rent of £280. There was anciently in or near the town a Chapel of St. Peter, and at the west end of the old bridge was a chantry chapel, dedicated to St. Edmund and St. Edward the Confessor, founded by Wm. de Cantilupe, and endowed with lands valued at £7 13*s.* 11*d.* per annum in 1547. At Follaton House is a ROMAN CATHOLIC CHAPEL, and in the town is an INDEPENDENT CHAPEL, a WESLEYAN CHAPEL, and a BAPTIST CHAPEL. The Independent Chapel was built in 1840, at the cost of £1700, and is a handsome structure in the Early English style. It stands on the site of one of the two Presbyterian Meeting-houses, which existed here as early as 1715. The Baptist Chapel has just been erected on the site of the old mayoralty house at a cost of £1700. BRIDGETOWN CHAPEL OF EASE was built in 1835 by the Duke of Somerset at the cost of £7000, and was intended as a chapel of ease for that part of the parish which forms a suburb of Totnes, but owing to a dispute with the Bishop it was never consecrated, though it is now licensed. It is in the Perpendicular style, with a tower, and about 1200 sittings. The Rev. W. Watkins is the curate in-charge.

The SOUTH DEVON LIBRARY, in Fore Street, was established in 1810.

The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on January 31, 1871, and consists of Messrs. John Webber Chaster, Samuel B. Dolling, B. W. Hayman, and Robert Harris, and the Revs. J. Powning and Wm. Watkins; Mr. T. H. Edmonds is clerk. They have two schools under their control. New schools, under the supervision of the vicar, were erected in 1875. The properties at present under the management of the School governors comprise the Rostabridge estate in Harberton, let at £60 per annum; the Totnes Town Mill, property and weir, let at £125 per annum, subject to deductions for chief rents, &c.; the Public Quays, with the tolls arising therefrom; the Town Marsh and Bowling Green, which are now in hand; the Church Walk House was dilapidated, and has been disposed of as a street improvement; a small garden, let at £1 1*s.* per annum; a house let at £4 10*s.* per annum; two cottages which for years have been in ruins and are valueless, except for the site; rent-charges known as the Manor and Maudlin rentals, payable out of various properties and together about £44 per annum; the income at £4 per cent. per annum on £3150 Totnes market debentures, and the income of £516 4*s.* 2*d.* £3 per Cent. Consols. From floods and storm-waters the costs of repairs of the weir, mill and quay properties are heavy. The Schools Scheme provides for an annual payment of £200 (less certain expenses) to the Charity Trustees to be applied according to the Chancery Scheme of 1855; but as yet this payment has not been effected. The scope of the Schools Scheme seems to be too large for the means of the endowment.

The Charities now under the management of the Charity Trustees and administered by them consist of—ACLAND'S GIFT, £2 12*s.* per annum, payable by the City of Exeter out of certain charities and distributed in bread; BALL'S GIFT, £12 16*s.* 8*d.* per annum (gross), payable out of houses and lands in Whitechapel, London, and distributed in cash; CHURCH CHARITY, £10 15*s.* 3*d.* per annum (gross), small reserved high rents, called 'The Church Rental'; a house in Fore Street, Totnes, let at rack rental of £18 per annum; income applied in liquidation of a debt, and the remainder paid to churchwardens towards repairs of Totnes Church; LANGDON'S GIFT, £10 per annum (gross), payable out of land at Knighton, in Ilsington, Devon, and distributed in cash; MARTIN'S CHARITY, a house in Joy Street, Barnstaple, let at rack rental of £35 per annum, and a piece of land called 'The Rack Marsh,' in Barnstaple, let at rack rental of £12 per annum; income distributed in coals and clothing; NORRIS'S ALMSHOUSE, a two-room cottage (near the Grove), the occupants of which are appointed by the trustees; SHORT'S GIFT, £2970 Consols, the income of which is paid quarterly in annuities to nine persons.

ALMSHOUSES:—A house occupied rent-free by several poor families, placed there by the Mayor, was given by the Corporation, in lieu of an ancient almshouse, founded by William Douse, in the 20th of Elizabeth. The only endowment for the inmates is 17*s.* per annum. MAGDALEN HOSPITAL, which stood near the town, was a house of lepers, but all that now remains of it are some traces of its chapel. An almshouse for six poor men, was founded by James Rodd, in 1654, and endowed with some adjoining buildings, but these premises were converted into the parish Workhouse, many years ago. In 1700 Susan Bound left £420 to be invested in land, and the yearly proceeds to be applied in relieving her late husband's poor relations, or other poor people resident in Bridgetown. This legacy, with £180 arrears of interest, was laid out, in 1720, in the purchase of a farm of £29A. 1R. 1P. at Combe, now let for about £57 per annum.

The minister of the Independent Chapel has the dividends of £50 Four per Cent. Stock, purchased with £30 left by Elizabeth Row. To the Presbyterian minister of the Lower Meeting House, Barbara Jetsome left a yearly rent-charge of £4 out of lands at Ashburton; and for the poor of the Presbyterian congregation she left an annuity of £2 12*s.*, charged on the same lands. From 1799 the Lower Meeting House was occupied by Wesleyans for some years and then sold, and the proceeds handed to the trustees of the Independent Chapel. The minister of that chapel receives the annuity of £4. The annuity of £2 12*s.* is disposed of in weekly distributions of bread to the poor people of Totnes, of the Independent Chapel.

The Freemasons' Lodge (Pleiades, No. 710), was founded in 1856, and now meets in a building, erected in 1865, in Mill Lane by Mr. John Heath. The TOTNES UNION AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY was originated in 1872. J. B. Paige-Browne, Esq., is treasurer; and Mr. J. L. Winter, secretary.

Among the eminent men born at Totnes were: the Rev. Edward Ley, the learned author of the Saxon Dictionary; the late celebrated Hebraist, Dr. Kennicott, whose father was clerk of the church; and Dr. Philip Furneaux, an eminent dissenting divine, who published Letters on Religious Liberty, addressed to Judge Blackstone, and an Essay on Toleration.

TOWNSTAL. (See Dartmouth.)

TRENTISHOE is a small parish and village on the coast of the Bristol Channel, near a rivulet and on an acclivity, 10 miles E. by N. of Ilfracombe. It is in Barnstaple union and county court district, Lynton polling district of North Devon, Braunton petty sessional division and hundred, and Sherwell rural deanery: it had 106 inhabitants in 1871, living on 1571 acres of land. The parish is in two manors, one of which was in the possession of the Jeffery family, in the reigns of Henry III., Edward I. and II., and afterwards to the Rogers: this family became extinct in the male line in 1791, and now belongs to Miss Griffiths, the representative of that family. The other manor was anciently held by the Raleighs, from whom it passed to a branch of the Chichesters, of whom Mrs. Barnard, the present owner, is the representative. Mr. J. R. Reed has an estate here. Rhydda Bank, a pleasant residence in a picturesque valley, is the property and seat of Miss Griffiths. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is a small edifice, consisting of nave, chancel, and tower containing two bells, and was restored in 1878 by Miss Griffiths, at a cost of £400. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £8 8*s.* 4*d.*, and now at £118, in the gift of Miss Griffiths, and incumbency of the Rev. Charles Scriven, M.A., of Martinhoe, who has 36 acres of glebe. The tithes were commuted in 1841 for £80 a year.

TRUSHAM is a small scattered village and parish, seated in the Teign Valley, 2 miles N. by W. of Chudleigh, in Newton Abbot union and county court district, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Chudleigh polling district of South Devon, Totnes archdeaconry, Moreton rural deanery, and Exminster hundred. It had 219 inhabitants in 1871, living on 749 acres of land. Sir L. Palk, Bart., owns nearly all the soil, and is lord of the manor, formerly held by the Southcotes. The CHURCH (St. Michael the Archangel) is a small building, consisting of nave, chancel, north aisle, and low tower. The pillars between the aisle and nave are remarkable as being granite monoliths. The church was restored thirteen years ago by the present rector. The living, a rectory, valued in K.B. at £9 4*s.* 9½*d.*, is in the patronage of Sir W. E. De la Pole, Bart., and incumbency of the Rev. Arthur Thomas Gregory, B.A., who resides at Culver Cottage, Chudleigh, and the Rev. William M. Rogers is curate in sole charge. The glebe is 59A. 2R. 28P., and the tithes were commuted in 1840 for £120 a year. John Stooke, in 1675, gave a yearly rent-charge of £4 out of Stonings lands, to be applied as follows:—52*s.* in a weekly distribution of 1*s.* worth of bread among the poor, 20*s.* for annual distribution in corn, and 8*s.* for the person who makes the said distributions. The same donor built an Almshouse (consisting of two dwellings and a garden), and endowed it with a farm of 60 acres at Christow, let for £50 per annum, from which 12 poor people receive 32*s.* each yearly. The same donor also gave about 13 acres of land for the benefit of the rector, except the quarterly sums of 5*s.* for sacramental bread and wine, and 5*s.* for distribution among the poor communicants. He also left for the rector an annuity of £5. (See Christow.) The School Land, comprising about 4½ acres, purchased in 1723 with £80 benefaction money, is let for £5 a year, which is applied in schooling poor children.

TWITCHEN parish is in South Molton union, county court district, and petty sessional division, North Molton polling district of North Devon, Barnstaple archdeaconry, South Molton hundred and deanery. Its village is situated in a picturesque dell, encompassed by lofty hills, some of which have flourishing plantations. It is 6 miles N.E. by E. of South Molton Road Railway Station, on the South-Western line from Exeter to Barnstaple. Its parish, which had 249 inhabitants (127 males, 122 females) in 1871, comprised in 50 families, living in 48 houses, on 2918 acres, extends to the borders of Somersetshire, and includes about 310 acres of common. Lord Poltimore is lord of the manor and owner of most of the soil, the rest belonging to Sir R. G. Throckmorton, Bart. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is a small structure consisting of chancel and nave, and was restored in 1844, at the cost of £400, except the tower, which contains three bells. The chancel window is enriched with stained glass; and the church contains an organ. The living, a vicarage, annexed to that of North Molton, and valued at £180, is in the patronage of Lord Poltimore, who owns the great and small tithes. The Rev. Frank Ley Bazeley, is vicar. The vicarage house has been renovated within the last two years. The WESLEYANS have a chapel at Twitchen Mill. The SCHOOL was built at a cost of £400, on a site given by Lord Poltimore, and is conducted as a Voluntary Public Elementary School: it has accommodation for about 60 children.

UFFCULME, a market town and parish, including the hamlets of Craddock, Ashill, Bradfield, Stenhall, and Smithincott, is situated in the picturesque valley of the small river Culme, 4 miles N.E. of Cullompton. The parish is in Tiverton union and county court district, Cullompton petty sessional division, Uffculme polling district of North Devon, Bampton hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton East rural deanery. It had 1880 inhabitants (906 males, 974 females) in 1871, living in 421 houses, on 6122 acres of land. Uffculme is the first station on the new Culm Valley Light Railway, from Tiverton Junction to Hemyock, being about 2½ miles from the Junction. The old bridge over the river has just been replaced by a handsome new bridge, erected from the plan of Mr. Farley, county surveyor, at the joint expense of the county and the inhabitants. GAS WORKS have been recently erected in the town, and the Square is lighted with gas at the expense of Mr. Bowerman; private consumers are charged 7*s.* 6*d.* per 1000 cubic feet. Uffculme had formerly two large woollen and worsted manufactories, and it has still one factory, belonging to Fox Brothers & Co., of Wellington; a large brewery, belonging to Mr. W. Furze; several malting houses, and two corn mills. It has four great markets on the first Mondays in March, June, September, and December. John Cogan had a grant for a market and two fairs here in 1266. The manors of Uffculme and Hackpen, formerly held by the Douay, Bourchier, and Stamford families, were sold in parcels, together with the royalties, to various freeholders before 1712. Sir J. W. Walrond, Bart., is a large owner in the parish, and resides at BRADFIELD, a fine antique mansion with pleasant grounds, where his family has been seated since the reign of Henry III. This mansion has a wooden Gothic roof, and on the outside are numerous coats of arms of the Walronds and their alliances. It remains nearly in its original form, and is one of the finest specimens of ancient domestic architecture in the county. The chapel was taken down many years ago, but a new chapel has just been built by the present owner close to the house. The other principal freeholders in the parish are John Cave New, Richard Hall Clarke, Robert Warren, — Venn, and W. A. Wood, Esqrs. The CHURCH (St. Mary) is a large and handsome structure, and was restored, enlarged, and improved, and the tower and spire rebuilt, about 35 years ago, at the cost of about £3400. A new south aisle was added in 1846. The new tower and spire rise to the height of 120 feet, and the former contains six bells. They were built at the expense of R. J. Marker, Esq., who also gave the great bell and clock. The interior has four pillars and arches of great beauty, of a transition character, between the Early English and Decorative styles; and a fine oak screen of the 15th century divides the chancel from the nave and aisles, 67 feet in length. The pulpit and reading desk are handsomely carved, and the organ is a fine-toned instrument. Most of the windows are in the Perpendicular style, and that at the east end is enriched with coloured glass. There is a chapel belonging to the Walrond family at the east end of the north aisle. The rectorial tithes were commuted for £431 in 1839, when the vicarial tithes were commuted for £571 a year. There is a glebe attached to the rectory of 133A. 3R. 33P. Thomas Carew, Esq., of Collipriest, Tiverton, is the rector, under a lease from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The living was formerly in the gift of the Prebendary of Uffculme in the Cathedral of Salisbury, and the parish was in the peculiar jurisdiction of the Dean of Salisbury; but, by a recent Act, peculiars were abolished, and the patronage given to the bishop of the diocese in which they were situated, and the parishes placed under their jurisdiction. The Bishop of Exeter is now patron, who presented the Rev. Henry Bramley, M.A., to the vicarage in 1875. There is a good vicarage house close to the church. The living is worth £640 gross, £415 nett. The BAPTIST CHAPEL, originally built in 1727, was rebuilt in 1809, enlarged in 1834, and reseated in 1869. The INDEPENDENT CHAPEL was erected in 1862, in commemoration of 1662, and replaces the old chapel, built in 1720, near what is now called the Factory. It is a neat Gothic structure, and cost £612, raised by subscription, aided by a grant of £75 from the Chapel Building Society, London. A stone in the chapel states that the foundation stone of the old building was laid by Mr. Richard and Mrs. Mary Clark, whose descendants are now living at Bridewell Hall. The FREE GRAMMAR SCHOOL, founded in 1701 by Nicholas Ayshford, who gave £400 for its erection, is now under a scheme of the Endowed School Commissioners, converted into a second-grade school for girls. The endowment of the school is the interest of £1300 Three per Cents., and the management is vested in a body of governors, of whom R. H. Clarke, Esq., is chairman, and the Rev. H. Bramley, secretary. The school is, however, partially worked by the council of the Devon and Somerset County School for Girls Association (limited), which was incorporated in 1877. Of this council Sir J. W. Walrond, Bart., is chairman; the Revs. C. S. Bere and H. Bramley, joint secretaries; and Mr. J. Southey, clerk. When the necessary formalities are complete, the school will be leased by the Association, but both bodies will co-exist, and have a voice in the management. The governors of the original trust have a fund at their disposal for prizes to be awarded annually, and for exhibitions tenable in the school. Miss Mary A. Glanville is head mistress, and Miss Mary Fell, assistant mistress. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on June 26, 1872, and now consists of J. C. New, Esq. (chairman), the Rev. H. Bramley (vice-chairman), and Messrs. Samuel Sparkes, Thomas White, and Arthur A. Wood.

Mr. John Southey is clerk. New Schools for boys, girls, and infants, have been built at Uffculme, and a Mixed School at Ashill, at a total cost of £3800, and they will accommodate 300 scholars. There is a small School at Bradfield, built and maintained by Sir J. W. Walrond. About 5 acres of land, called Carter's tenement, was given for the reparation of the church before 1770, and is now let for £12 12*s.* a year. The poor parishioners have the dividends of £244 19*s.* 6*d.* Three per Cent. Stock, purchased with £120, left by Joan Holway and other donors; and the rent of a field at Tiverton, purchased with £1000 left by the late Mrs. Anna Marker, for distribution in clothing on New Year's-day. They have also a yearly sum from Wilmot Burrow's Charity, left in the 9th of James I., and now vested with T. W. Walrond, W. A. Wood, and other trustees. The interest of £200, bequeathed by Captain Knox, and also of £200, left by Miss Margaret Walrond, is distributed among the poor at Christmas by the vicar and churchwardens.

UGBOROUGH parish, which includes the hamlets of Parsonage, Bittaford, North and South Filham, and part of Ivybridge, is in Totnes union and county court district, Ermington and Plympton petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Totnes archdeaconry, Plympton rural deanery, and Ermington hundred. It had 1523 inhabitants (751 males, 772 females) in 1871, living in 292 houses, on 8659 acres of land. Its village is situated on the slopes of an eminence, surrounded by higher hills, 3½ miles E. of Ivybridge and N.N.E. of Modbury, and 1½ mile S.W. of Kingsbridge Road Railway Station. The soil is generally fertile, and the parish extends westward to the river Erme. There is a conduit in the centre of the village. Large cattle fairs were held here on the last Tuesdays in May and November, and there was formerly a monthly fair. The stone from Wrangaton Flint Quarry—now rented by Mr. George Kent—is the most valuable in the county for macadamising purposes, and large quantities are sent to the Three Towns and other places in the county. The manor of Ugborough (Ulgeberge) belonged to Alured Brito at Domesday Survey. It afterwards passed to the Briwere, Loring, Grey, Harris, Palk, and Carew families. The Misses Carew, who are now ladies of this and other manors in this parish, Richard King Wyndham, Esq., William Mitchell, Esq., Mrs. Mary G. Widdecombe, Miss Charlotte Lang, Mrs. Cornish, John Pearse Sawyer, Esq., Whinfield Robinson, Esq., William and John Hodder, Esqrs., Arthur and John White, Esqrs., are the principal owners of the soil. An old square tower, part of an ancient chapel, stands on land at Filham, belonging to J. P. Sawyer, Esq., whose predecessors held the estate between four and five hundred years. Fowellscombe was built in 1537, by Sir Thomas Fowell, but now belongs to Mr. R. K. Wyndham. Ludbrook and Filham were the seats of families of their own names, and Stone was long held by the Damarells. The CHURCH, which stands on the crown of a hill, commanding delightful views, is a large and handsome structure in the Perpendicular style, having a lofty embattled tower containing eight bells. The nave was restored and re-seated in 1867–8, at a cost of £274 3*s.* 4*d.*, towards which the Grocers' Company gave £125, the rest being raised by subscription. The tower, which had been greatly damaged by lightning on November 30, 1870, was restored in 1873, at an outlay of £250. The living, a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £20, and in 1831 at £260, is in the patronage of the Grocers' Company, London, and incumbency of the Rev. J. F. Fixsen, who has a good residence, and 70 acres of glebe. The rectorial tithes were appropriated to Plympton Priory. In 1786 Christopher Savery, Esq., sold nearly the whole of these tithes to the principal landowners, and the remainder, with the advowson, to the Grocers' Company. By a commutation in 1842, the vicar has £185, and Sir W. P. Carew, £202 yearly, in lieu of tithes. The INDEPENDENT CHAPEL was built in 1871, at a cost of £820, raised by subscription. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed in 1876, and now consists of the Rev. John Frederick Fixsen (chairman), and Messrs. Charles Wroth (vice-chairman), Thomas Adams, Thomas Wakeham, and William Barrons. The School was built in 1876, at a cost of £1700, and has an average attendance of 97. The poor parishioners have 50*s.* a year, out of Rope-ridge field, left by Sir John Fowell. Sir John Kempthorn, an eminent naval commander, who died at Portsmouth in 1679, was born at Witchcombe, or Widcombe, in this parish, in 1620. While he was commanding the 'Mary Rose,' with 230 men and 48 guns, and acting as convoy to a fleet of merchantmen, he encountered at once seven sail of Turkish men-of-war, which bore down upon his ship. He allowed five of them to pass without returning their fire, but as soon as the admiral's and the vice-admiral's ships came up, one on each side, he gave them a broadside, and sank both. He then engaged the other five, which he either sank or brought as prizes to England. He took part in two engagements with the Dutch, and for his bravery received the honour of knighthood.

UPLOWMAN, or Uploman, a parish which includes the tithing of Whitnage, is in Tiverton union and county court district, Cullompton petty sessional division, Northern division of the county, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton East rural deanery. Whitnage is in Halberton hundred, near the Grand Western Canal; the rest of the parish is in Tiverton hundred. Uplowman parish had 443 inhabitants (230 males, 213 females), in 1871, living in 87 houses, on 2912 acres of land. The parish was originally called Lonmene, Lomena, and Lomene, and not until 1442 does its name appear as Uplomene (that is, up the river Loman.) The river was anciently called Sunning (slow) brook. The manor anciently belonged to the de Lomen, or de Lumine family, and afterwards to the Willington, Beaumont, and Powlett families. The manorial rights now belong to the rector, but the soil belongs to various freeholders, the largest of whom are W. C. Nation, Esq., Admiral Parker, and C. A. W. Troyte, Esq. The rector is lord of the rectorial manor, now in several proprieties. Widhayes in this parish is an exceedingly old house, perhaps 500 or 600 years old. At the end of the seventeenth century there lived here a Mr. Ham, who founded one of the scholarships at Blundell's School, Tiverton. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is a Perpendicular structure, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch, vestry, and square tower containing six bells. The church was restored by subscription in 1864, at a cost of £1800, when a new pulpit was erected, and the pillars, font, and windows scraped and repaired. The belfry and ringing cage were thoroughly repaired and improved, and a chiming apparatus added in 1870. The East window is filled with stained glass, in memory of Montague Baker Bere, Esq.; the north chancel window is given to the present rector by friends, and the south chancel window is in memory of the late rector, the Rev. S. Pidsley; all three windows are by Wailes, of Newcastle. There are the arms of the Courtenay and other families on the capitals of the pillars. The first church was opened by Bishop Stapledon, but nothing of this building remains, except the pedestal in the porch, over the south door, which is supposed to have been the top of one of the old columns in that church. The present church was built chiefly by the mother of Henry VII., who occasionally resided in the neighbouring parish. There was formerly a chantry on the south side of the church, founded by Piers Courtenay, but it is now thrown into the south aisle. The church was formerly connected with the Priory of Canonsleigh, which again was connected with the Abbey of St. Augustine, Bristol. The Priory of Canonsleigh was founded by Walter de Clanville, a forefather of the present rector, de Clanville having married a Miss Bere, of Huntsham. The Communion plate was mostly given by Mrs. Margaret Ham, in 1738. The living, a rectory, valued in K.B. at £21 0*s.* 10*d.*, and now at £601, is in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. C. S. Bere, M.A., who has 43A. 3R. 6P. of glebe, and a large residence, which was mostly rebuilt in 1832, and has tasteful grounds. The tithes were commuted in 1842 for £500 a year. The NATIONAL SCHOOL was built by subscription in 1874, at a cost of £800, of which £120 was granted by Government. Near the rectory house a commodious room has been fitted up by the rector for meetings, &c. At the east end of the hamlet of Whitnage was an ancient chapel called Beauchapel, but all traces of it disappeared some years ago. In 1638 Bartw. Calwoodleigh left 40*s.* a year for the poor parishioners, out of a house and close called Collishayes. They have also the following yearly doles: £2 out of Landrake estate in Tiverton, left in 1684 by John Chave; £3 13*s.* out of Splatford Meadows, left by William Chave in 1719; and £1 out of the poor rates, as the interest of £20 given by John Chave in 1723.

UPLYME is a parish and large scattered village, pleasantly situated at the most eastern extremity of Devon, only about a mile from the town and seaport of Lyme Regis, in Dorset. It is in the Eastern division of the county, Axminster union, county court district, petty sessional division and hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Dunkeswell and Honiton rural deanery. It had 961 inhabitants (476 males, 485 females) in 1871, living in 215 houses; the area is 3199 acres, including 50 acres of water. The manor was anciently held by Glastonbury Abbey, and afterwards passed to the Drake and Tucker families. John Reginald Francis George Talbot is now lord of the manor, and owner of a great part of the soil. He has a handsome seat here, called RHODE HILL HOUSE. Sir Bourchier Wrey, James Davidson, Esq., and the representatives of the late Rev. C. W. Ethelston, M.A., have estates in the parish. A Roman bath and a tessalated pavement have been found. The CHURCH (St. Peter and St. Paul) is an ancient structure, with a remarkably low tower, containing six bells and a clock. The interior has been restored and re-seated with open seats, in lieu of the old oak pews, and the bells rehung, the whole at a cost of £820. The church contains an organ. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £20 8s. 11½d., and now at £461 (commuted tithes), in the patronage of the representatives of the late Rev. C. W. Ethelston, M.A., and incumbency of the Rev. Brooke de Malpas Egerton, M.A. The glebe is 35 acres, and the rectory house is a handsome residence, which was enlarged and much improved in 1838. The WESLEYANS and the BAPTISTS have chapels here. Here is a NATIONAL SCHOOL, built by Mrs Ethelston. In this parish was born that skilled geographer, Nathaniel Carpenter, who published several learned works.

UPOTTERY, or Up-Ottery, is a parish and pleasant village, in the picturesque valley of the river Otter, a few miles from its source, and 5 miles N.E. by N. of Honiton. It is in the Eastern division of the county, Honiton union, county court district, petty sessional division, Axminster hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Dunkeswell and Honiton rural deanery. It had 868 inhabitants (446 males, 422 females), living in 183 houses, on 5830 acres of land. It includes Rawridge tithing, many scattered farms, and extends to the borders of Somerset. Here is a cattle fair on the Wednesday before Lady-day. Viscount Sidmouth, M.P., is lord of the manor and owner of a great part of the parish, and resides at the large new MANOR HOUSE, which was erected about 25 years ago at a great expense, and a new wing is now being added. This mansion is a noble pile in the Elizabethan style, standing on the brow of a gentle slope near the village, and with its clusters of ornamental chimneys, forming a conspicuous object of considerable beauty for some distance. The walls are of pale grey flint, with quoins and dressings of Membury stone. The interior has several elegant apartments, and in the library is a fine collection of books, and a life-size portrait of the first Lord Sidmouth, in his robes as Speaker of the House of Commons. (See page 709.) Here are also many other fine pictures, and an admirable bust of the same illustrious statesman, by the celebrated Roubiliac. The stables, which form one side of the village street, are in the same style as the house, and the grounds are tastefully laid out and planted. The manor was given by the Conqueror to Ralph de Pomeroy, and was afterwards given to the Church of Rouen, from which it passed to Sir Nicholas Cheyney, in the reign of Henry III. It afterwards passed to the Willoughby, Blount, and Popham families, and was purchased of the latter by Dr. Addington, great grandfather of the late Viscount Sidmouth. The CHURCH (St. Mary) is a fine antique structure, with a tower and five bells. The East window is of beautiful stained glass, representing our Saviour, the Virgin Mary, and St. John. The Dean and Chapter of Exeter are patrons of the vicarage, valued in K.B. at £15 5*s.* 7½*d.*, and in 1831 at £392. The Rev. George Lowe, B.A., is the vicar, and in 1843–4, erected a new vicarage house, in the Elizabethan style, at the cost of about £1600. The glebe is about 4 acres, and the tithes were commuted in 1841—the vicarial for £431, and the rectorial for £350 10*s.* per annum. The parish is chiefly in pasturage, and forms a pleasing landscape from either side of the valley. The Independents and the Baptists have chapels here, and the former congregation was Presbyterian in 1715. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on April 8, 1872, and consists of Mr. Herman Bromfield (chairman), and Messrs. — Peacock (vice-chairman), D. G. Downes, Thomas Drake, and James Dimond. Mr. Robert Marshall is clerk. A very handsome School-house with teachers' residence was erected in 1877, by Viscount Sidmouth, and by him transferred to the Board. This school has accommodation for 108 scholars, and has an average attendance of 79. Besides this, Viscount Sidmouth built a Church of England School with teachers' residence at Smeatharpe, having accommodation for 40 children, and entirely supported by Viscount Sidmouth. The poor parishioners have 15 acres of land and a barn, left by Anne Palmer, in 1714, and now let for £23 a year. The rent is distributed at Easter, together with a yearly rent-charge of 40*s.* left by Henry Preston, in 1623, out of Greenhays Farm. In 1748 Robert Newbery left a yearly rent of 50*s.* out of Six Acres Close, to the Baptist minister. Warren's Charity of £5 is distributed on January 13 to poor persons who have not received parochial relief during the year.

UPTON HELIONS or Upton Hellions is a parish and village in the picturesque valley of the small river Creedy, 2 miles N. by E. of Crediton, and is in the Northern division of the county, Crediton union, county court district, and petty sessional division, Exeter archdeaconry, and Cadbury rural deanery. It had 117 inhabitants (62 males, 55 females) in 1871, living in 21 houses, on 819 acres of land. Mrs. Guerin owns the manor and farm of Helions Barton, anciently held by the Helion family. Sir H. R. F. Davie, Bart., owns Creedy Widger, or Lower Creedy, and the estate called Haske or Husk; and J. C. Luxmore, Esq., owns Merrifield, or Merryvale. The CHURCH (St. Mary) is an ancient structure, partly in the Norman style, and has 110 sittings, and a tower containing one bell. The church was partially restored in 1871–7, at the expense of the present rector. Some very curious and handsome variegated tiles have been placed in the chancel wall, and the East window is filled with stained glass. The Register dates from 1678. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £10 6*s.* 8*d.*, and in 1831 at £275, in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. Samuel Jenkins Johnson, M.A., who has a large and handsome residence, commanding a fine view of Creedy Park, on the opposite side of the river. The house was much enlarged by a late rector,—the Rev. James Carrington, who died in 1794, and has a handsome monument in the church. The poor have the dividends of £187 Three per Cent. Stock, purchased with money given by various donors.

UPTON PYNE is a parish and straggling village on the north-east side of the vale of the small river Creedy, near its confluence with the Exe, and nearly 4 miles N. by W. of Exeter. It is in the Eastern division of the county, St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district, Wonford petty sessional division and hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Cadbury rural deanery. It had 430 inhabitants (220 males, 210 females), living in 97 houses, on 1852 acres. The Rt. Hon. Sir Stafford Henry Northcote, Bart., C.B., is lord of the manor and owner of a great part of the soil, and resides at PYNE'S HOUSE, a commodious brick mansion, built by Inigo Jones, situated in a small, but well-wooded park, commanding picturesque views. The manor belonged to the Pyne family as early as the reign of Henry I., and it afterwards passed to the Larders, Coplestons, and Staffords. The heiress of the latter carried it to Sir Henry Northcote (died 1851) one of whose forefathers was created a baronet in 1641. An estate called Turlake, in this parish, belongs to the Roberts family; and another, called Cox Hill, to W. C. Hunt, Esq. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is an ancient structure with a tower containing five bells, and a north aisle was added about 40 years ago. The church was thoroughly restored and reseated with open benches in 1875, when an organ chamber was built; it now comprises nave, chancel, and north and south aisles. In the aisles are two windows filled with beautiful stained glass, in memory of the grandfather of the present baronet. An old monument has an effigy in armour of one of the Larder family. Over the altar is a painting of the Lord's Supper, by an Italian artist, bought by one of the Stafford family. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £23 6*s.* 8*d.*, and in 1831 at £482, is in the patronage of Sir S. H. Northcote, Bart., and incumbency of the Rev. John Jane, M.A., who has a good residence and 90 acres of glebe. The tithes were commuted in 1837 for £400 per annum. A new NATIONAL SCHOOL, with house for the master, was built by the patron in 1852, and is supported by him. It has an average attendance of 90 mixed scholars. A prize of £2 has been given annually since 1870 by Sir Stafford Northcote, to the boy who passes the best examination, and of £1 to the best girl; the names of the prize-takers are hung up in the school. The poor have the dividends of £141 18*s.* Three per Cent. Consols, purchased with £100 left by Nicholas Williams, in 1803. Sir Stafford Northcote was born in 1818, and succeeded his grandfather in 1851. He was educated at Eton and at Balliol College, Oxford, where he obtained a double first. He was selected by Mr. Gladstone, then President of the Board of Trade, as his private secretary, in which capacity he greatly distinguished himself. He was called to the Bar by the Inner Temple in 1847. He has been Chancellor of the Exchequer since 1874.

VENN OTTERY, or Fen Ottery, a parish and small village on the west side of the Otter Valley, 4 miles S.W. of Ottery St. Mary, is in the Eastern division of the county, Honiton union and county court district, Ottery petty sessional division, Exeter archdeaconry, and Ottery rural deanery. It had 88 inhabitants (43 males, 45 females) in 1871, living in 19 houses, on 918 acres of land. The manor was anciently held by the Furneaux family, but the soil now belongs to Messrs. T. and J. Yelverton, the Hon. Mark Rolle, Mrs. Hugo, and a few smaller owners. The CHURCH (St. Gregory) has a tower and three bells, and is an ancient structure, except the chancel, which was built in 1832. The rectory is consolidated with that at Harpford, as noticed at page 466, and was endowed with the great tithes by R. Duke, Esq. The glebe is 10 acres, and the tithes were commuted in 1840 for £290 per annum.

VIRGINSTOWE, or Virginstow, a parish and small village, is pleasantly situated on high ground near the Carey rivulet, 6½ miles N. by E. of Launceston. It is in Launceston union and county court district, Lifton petty sessional division, Lifton polling district of South Devon, Lifton hundred, diocese of Truro, and Trigg Major deanery; and had 130 inhabitants (73 males, 57 females) in 1871, living on 1274 acres of land. The rateable value is £924. Mrs. Hawker owns most of the soil. The CHURCH (St. Bridget) is a barn-like structure, built in 1852. The valuable service of silver Communion plate was presented by Mrs. Morrison, of Yeo Dale. The Register dates from 1730. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £5 6*s.* 8*d.*, and now at £168, in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor, and incumbency of the Rev. James L. Moody, late chaplain-to-the-forces. The Rev. P. Cann built the rectory house in 1845, and contributed liberally to the new church. The glebe is 56A. 0R. 11P., and the tithes are commuted at £119 a year.

WALKHAMPTON is a parish and scattered village, in the valley of the little river Walkham, on the western borders of Dartmoor, 5 miles S.E. of Tavistock. It is in Tavistock union and county court district, Midland Roborough petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Roborough hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Tavistock deanery; and had 631 inhabitants (312 males, 319 females) in 1871, living in 118 houses, on 10,540 acres of land. The parish includes 6600 acres of open common and wastes in Dartmoor; part of the village of Horrabridge, and many scattered farms. Sir Massey Lopes, Bart., M.P., is lord of the manor, owner of a great part of the soil, and of the barton of Gnatham. The CHURCH is a small Perpendicular structure, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, and tower containing six bells, and has been restored throughout by subscription and rate. The bells have been rehung, a new organ placed in the chancel, a new reredos, lectern, and font cover provided, and the chancel reseated. The living is a vicarge, valued in K.B. at £9 14*s.* 7*d.*, in the patronage of Sir Massey Lopes, Bart., the impropriator of the rectorial tithes, and in the incumbency of the Rev. Charles Henry Walker, M.A., who has a good residence and 18A. 2R. 14P. of glebe. The small tithes were commuted in 1839 for £141 a year. The WESLEYANS have a chapel here, built about 60 years ago. The FREE SCHOOL was founded in 1719 by Mrs. Elizabeth Modyford, who endowed it with 162 acres of land, now let for about £160 a year. There is also about £1100, which arose from surplus school income, and is now vested at interest. The master and mistress teach 40 free scholars, who are partly clothed at the expense of the charity. The poor have the interest of £20, left by the foundress of the school.

WARKLEIGH, or Warkley, parish is in South Molton union, county court district, hundred, and petty sessional division, Chittlehampton polling district of North Devon, Totnes archdeaconry, and Barnstaple rural deanery. It had 273 inhabitants (126 males, 147 females) in 1871, living in 58 houses, on 2451 acres of land. Warkleigh village is situated 5 miles S.W. by W. of South Molton, and 4½ miles from the Umberleigh Station on the Taw Vale Railway. The parish rises boldly from the Taw and Mole valleys on the east and west. The Hon. Mark Rolle is lord of the manor and principal owner of the soil, and the other proprietors are John George Johnson, Esq., the Rev. W. H. Karslake, J.P., Mr. John Mortimer, Mr. William Carter, and the Rev. W. Thorold. The manor was anciently held by the Martins, Audleys, and Bourchiers. The CHURCH (St. John) is a handsome structure in the Perpendicular style, with a tower containing three bells. The present rector rebuilt the chancel in 1850. The west window is filled with stained glass, in memory of James Gould, Esq., of Northam. The living is a rectory consolidated with that of Satterleigh, and valued in K.B. at £14 4*s.* 7*d.*, in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. William Thorold, M.A., J.P., who has 27A. 1R. 12P. of glebe, and a good residence in the Elizabethan style, built in 1844. The tithes have been commuted for £230 a year. A new SCHOOL, for the joint parishes, with teachers' residence, was built in 1875, the cost being defrayed by subscription and grant.

WASHFIELD is a parish beautifully situated on the west bank of the river Exe, in the Northern division of the county, Tiverton union and county court and polling district, Cullompton petty sessional division, West Budleigh hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton West rural deanery. It had 434 inhabitants (208 males, 226 females) in 1871, living in 87 houses, on 3319 acres of land. It is a detached member of West Budleigh hundred. The village is about 2½ miles W. of Tiverton. The Rev. R. Worth, and T. C. Daniel, Esq., are the chief landowners. The former is lord of the manor, and has a pleasant seat here called Worth House, where his family has been settled since the 13th century. Messrs. John and Joseph Melhuish, Thomas Tidbeald, and Mrs. Harriet Gale are the chief owners of the remaining land, and there are some six or seven smaller holders. The CHURCH (St. Mary), consists of nave, chancel, north aisle, porch, and a good Western tower, which contains five bells. There is a very handsome carved oak screen, extending across the church, dated 1624, which bears above the cornice, over the chancel doorway, the royal arms of James I., and over the aisle doorway the feathers of the Prince of Wales, marked C. P. There are probably very few instances existing of this—the arms and supporters, &c. are massively carved—but the quarterings on the king's arms seem to have been altered. These shields, &c. were put up, as the date on the screen testifies, in the last year that Charles I. was Prince of Wales. The font is very ancient, probably very early Norman, the basin being square. In the north aisle are some curious monuments to members of the Worth family. The church, with the exception of the tower externally, has been recently carefully and handsomely restored, at a cost of over £1200. One of the chief contributors to the work was John Coles, Esq. (of the firm of Whitehead & Coles, Throgmorton Street, London), who was born in the parish. The rector was the architect, and Mr. James Wood the builder. The Registers begin in 1554. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £19 17*s.* 6*d.*, is in the patronage of John F. Worth, Esq., and incumbency of the Rev. W. Lloyd Jones, B.A., who has a good residence with pleasant grounds. The tithes were commuted in 1837 for £407. The glebe is about 35 acres. The NATIONAL SCHOOL, built in 1836, and recently improved, has about 50 children in attendance. It is supported by voluntary rate, and at present receives the benefit of the dividends on £500 Three per Cent. Consols, left by the Rev. John Pitman, rector, in 1856, 'to be paid to the rector for the time being, to be expended by him in the education of children in sound Church principles.' A cottage and land, given for the poor by Gregory and Baldwin Harris in 1651, has been sold, and the money invested in £485 Three per Cent. Consols; the dividends are distributed by the trustees, among deserving poor not receiving parochial relief, annually on the Saturday before Easter-day. The poor have also the interest of £15, left by Francis Eveleigh; also about £10 a year, being a moiety of Blagdon's Charity, as noticed with Tiverton. Messrs. R. Melhuish and T. B. Talley in 1862 placed £300 in Three per Cent. Consols in the hands of trustees for the use of such poor and deserving persons residing in the parish as may be agreed upon, to be distributed on the first Wednesday of February in every year.

WASHFORD PYNE, a parish and a small village on the banks of a rivulet, 11 miles W. of Tiverton, and E. of Chulmleigh, is in the Northern division of the county, Crediton union, county court district, and petty sessional division, Witheridge hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton West rural deanery. It had 171 inhabitants (94 males, 77 females) in 1871, living in 37 houses, on 1140 acres of land. It includes the small hamlets of Higher and Lower Black Dog, and several scattered houses. The manor formerly belonged to the Pyne and other families. The Rev. Comyns Tucker, M.A., is now lord of the manor, and owner of a great part of the soil. Mr. Thomas Bragg owns Wonham, where there was anciently a chapel, and other freeholders have estates here. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is a small structure, consisting of nave, chancel, and tower, with spire, containing three bells. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £6 0*s.* 2½*d.*, and now at £195 (net), in the patronage of C. C. Tucker, Esq., of Lincoln's Inn, and Fellow of University College, Oxford, and incumbency of the Rev. John Eldon Hole, B.A. There is a rectory house, and the glebe is 130 acres. This parish is united to Thelbridge and Woolfardisworthy parishes as a School Board district (see Thelbridge). The school is at Washford Pyne. The poor parishioners have the interest of £12, given by various donors.

WEAR GIFFORD, a parish and pleasant village on the eastern side of the river Torridge, 3 miles N.W. of Great Torrington, is in the Northern division of the county, Torrington union and county court district, Great Torrington petty sessional division, Shebbear hundred, Barnstaple archdeaconry, and Hartland rural deanery. It had 499 inhabitants (251 males, 248 females) in 1871, living in 102 houses, on 1587 acres, and includes the hamlet of Cliff, and a number of scattered farms. The river is navigable to this place for small craft. The manor of Wear was held by the Giffords at an early period, and afterwards passed to the Fortescues, who were seated here for several generations, in an ancient mansion, now occupied by Col. A. Hill Millett, and containing a profusion of richly carved old wainscot, said to have been brought from various parts of the kingdom; the roof of the hall is one of the most rich and tasteful specimens of Perpendicular work in England. Earl Fortescue is now lord of the manor, but part of the parish belongs to the Hon. Mark Rolle, and a few smaller owners. The CHURCH (Holy Trinity) is a plain Perpendicular structure, consisting of nave, chancel, south aisle continued the whole length, south porch, and west tower containing six bells. The church has been recently restored, the nave has been reseated, oak choir stalls erected in the chancel, some ancient finely carved bench ends restored to their original use, and a new organ by Chappell, of London, placed in the chancel. The tenor bell has the inscription, 'Religion, Death, and Pleasure make me ring.' In the building are monuments of the Fortescue, Rolle, and other families. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £13 5s., and in 1831 at £180, in the patronage of Earl Fortescue, and incumbency of the Rev. Charles William Sillifant, M.A., rural dean. There is a good parsonage, and the glebe is 5A. 2R.; the tithes are commuted at £174. The WESLEYANS have a small chapel here, and there is a good SCHOOL in the parish.

WEEK ST. GERMANS. (See Germansweek.)

WELCOMBE is a parish and small scattered village, 5 miles S. of Hartland, adjoining Cornwall and the sea, and near the sources of the rivers Torridge and Tamar. The parish is in the Northern division of the county, Bideford union and petty sessional division, Holsworthy county court district, Hartland hundred and rural deanery, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 232 inhabitants (120 males, 112 females) in 1871, living in 39 houses, on 1751 acres of land. Sir George Stucley, Bart., is principal owner of the soil and lord of the manor, which formerly belonged to the Capra, Merton, Stowell, and Rolle families. Messrs. Richard, Thomas, and Heddon, have estates in the parish. The CHURCH (St. Nectan) is a small structure, consisting of nave, chancel, and tower. The living is a vicarage, which was separated from Hartland in 1508, and is valued at only £86, in the patronage of Lord Clinton, and incumbency of the Rev. Chas. Thos. Comber, B.A., who resides at Bradworthy, there being no vicarage house here. The tithes are commuted at £155, and belong to Mr. Richard Heddon. The glebe is 10 acres. The WESLEYAN CHAPEL, at Darracott, will seat 80 persons. The SCHOOL is held in a small building near the church. The poor have two annual rent-charges, namely, 20*s.*, left by Henry Rowe, in 1788, and 6*s.* left by Alice Blighe.

WEMBURY is a parish and scattered village near the sea cliffs between Plymouth Sound and the mouth of the Yealm, 6 miles S.E. by S. of Plymouth. It is in the Southern division of the county, Plympton St. Mary union, East Stonehouse county court district, Ermington and Plympton petty sessional division, Plympton hundred, Totnes archdeaconry and rural deanery. It includes the villages of Knighton, Downthomas, and Gabber, and contained 531 inhabitants (270 males, 261 females) in 1871, living in 108 houses, on 3134 acres of land. The manor of Wembury belonged to Plympton Priory till the Dissolution, and afterwards passed to various families. In the 16th century it belonged to Sir John Hele, serjeant-at-law, who built here a magnificent mansion, at the cost of £20,000, and enclosed a park, which had a salt-water lake, supplied by the tides. After his death this manor was sold for the payment of his debts. It was purchased in 1803, by Thomas Lockyer, Esq., who pulled down the mansion, and built a smaller house for his residence. B. J. P. Bastard, Esq., is now lord of the manor and of the royalty of the river Plym, from Kitley to Plymouth Sound. Richard Cory, Esq., is lord of the manor of Langdon, and resides at Langdon Hall, a neat Elizabethan mansion, which he has recently purchased. T. Lockyer. Esq., and several smaller owners have estates here, and Ralph Dawson, Esq., has a handsome seat in the parish, called Wembury House. The CHURCH (St. Werburg) stands near the sea cliff, and is a small antique structure, with a tower and three bells. It contains several handsome monuments in memory of the Heles, and an iron helmet supposed to have been worn by Sir Warwick Hele. The church was restored and reseated in 1867. The living is a vicarage, valued in 1831 at only £83, is in the patronage of the Deans and Canons of Windsor, and incumbency of the Rev. Richard Lane, of Brixton. The WESLEYANS have a small chapel here, built in 1820. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on July 18, 1874, and consists of Ralph Dawson (chairman and honorary clerk), the Rev. Richard Lane (vice-chairman), and Messrs. Richard Popplestone, William D. Spurwell, and Thomas Joseph Pearse. The school with teacher's residence, was built in 1875 at a cost of £900. The church and poor have £40 Three per Cent. Consols, given in lieu of two ancient rent-charges. The Almshouses for ten poor people were founded by Sir Warwick Hele, who endowed them in 1625 with £30, arising from six tithe rent-charges. Sir John Hele left two yearly rent-charges to this parish, viz.: £6 13*s.* 4*d.* to the perpetual curate, and £2 12*s.* for the poor. They are paid out of land at Clifton in Dorsetshire, belonging to the Marquis of Anglesea. The incumbent has also £20 a year as the interest of £500, left by Josias Calmady in 1682, and now secured on an estate called Higher Edgecombe and Ransdown, at Milton Abbott. The same donor also left a yearly rent-charge of £2 12*s.* for the poor, out of Colebrook Estate.

WEMBWORTHY is a parish and pleasant village, 4 miles S.S.W. of Chulmleigh, and 2 miles S.W. from Eggesford Station on the North Devon Railway. It is in the Northern division of the county, Crediton union and county court district, South Molton petty sessional division, North Tawton hundred, Barnstaple archdeaconry, and Chulmleigh rural deanery. It had 434 inhabitants (201 males, 233 females) in 1871, living in 88 houses, on 2411 acres of land. The parish is mostly the property of the Earl of Portsmouth, who is lord of the manor, and resides at Eggesford House; but H. Tremayne, Esq., has an estate here. Heywood Barton was anciently the seat of the Espeke, or Speke family, and was leased by Sir George Speke to Sir John Doddridge, one of the Justices of the King's Bench in the reigns of James I. and Charles I. The CHURCH (St. Michael), a small antique structure, was restored, and the chancel and the porch added, about 10 years ago. The Register dates from 1674. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £11 13*s.* 4*d.*, and in 1831 at £146, in the patronage of the Earl of Portsmouth and others, and incumbency of the Rev. John Thomas Hyde, M.A. The parsonage is a neat and pleasant residence, and the glebe is 33 acres. The tithes are commuted at £170 a year. The INDEPENDENTS have a chapel here. Here is a CHURCH SCHOOL, partly supported by the Earl of Portsmouth, and under Government inspection.

WERRINGTON is a parish, near the river Tamar and the Bude Canal, 2 miles N. of Launceston. It is in the Southern division of the county, Launceston union and county court district, Lifton petty sessional division, Black Torrington hundred, Truro diocese, Cornwall archdeaconry, and Trigg Major rural deanery. The parish, which adjoins Cornwall, includes Yeolmbridge, Langdon, and Bridgetown villages, and had 707 inhabitants (347 males, 360 females) in 1871, living on 5000 acres of land. The rateable value is £4367. The Duke of Bedford is lord of the manor of Werrington, but the Barton estate belongs to Colonel Deakin, whose principal seat is Moseley Park, Cheadle, Cheshire, but who resides occasionally at Werrington Park, a neat mansion, with a well-wooded park. E. Coode, Esq. (who resides at Polapit Tamar, and is lord of that manor), and several smaller owners, have estates here. The manor was given by Ordulph to Tavistock Abbey, and was granted at the Dissolution to John Earl of Bedford. The CHURCH (St. Martin and St. Giles) was rebuilt in 1742, and is a handsome structure with a large tower at the west end, and two small ones on the north and south sides. There are two galleries, one over the porch, and the other opposite; they are used as pews by the owner of Werrington Park and his domestics. The pulpit, reading-desk, and some seats adjoining, were put up by Colonel Deakin. The other parts of the chancel were restored by Edward Coode, Esq. The complete restoration is much to be desired. Colonel Deakin is patron of the living, which is a donative, endowed with £120 a year out of the tithes, which are the property of the trustees of Hele's Charity, Exeter, and have been commuted for £290 per annum. The Rev. George B. Gibbons, who resides at Camelford, is the incumbent. The Rev. R. D. Margesson is the officiating minister. There is a handsome residence, built about 25 years ago, by the Duke of Northumberland, at the cost of £1000.

WEST ALVINGTON is a small scattered village 9 miles from Kingsbridge Road Railway Station, and 1½ mile S.W. of Kingsbridge, but its parish extends for several miles of very irregular form, and includes part of Malborough village, and the hamlets of Woolston, Easton, Sorley, and Bawcombe, and the western side of the estuary and creeks, extending from the English Channel to Kingsbridge. West Alvington parish is in the Southern division of the county, Kingsbridge union, county court district and polling district, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, Stanborough hundred, Totnes archdeaconry, and Woodleigh rural deanery. It had 996 inhabitants (483 males, 513 females) in 1871, living in 211 houses; the area is 4110 acres, including 270 acres of water. The manors and their lords are:—Gerston, W. P. Bastard, Esq.; Woolston and Oldaway, J. Hurrell, Esq.; West Alvington and Norden, W. R. Ilbert, Esq.; Woodhouse, J. Hingston, Esq.; and Rake and Sorley, J. Walker, Esq. A great part of the parish is, however, freehold, belonging to the Ilbert, Bastard, Luscombe, Walker and other families. BOWRINGSLEIGH, a large and handsome Tudor mansion, with portions of earlier work, has a very fine Jacobean oak screen in the hall, enriched with ebony and mahogany, and has been recently restored by the owner, W. R. Ilbert, Esq. The chapel of the 15th century (one of the examples of a chapel placed in the basement of the tower), the east wing of the house, many valuable paintings and other property, were destroyed by fire in 1843; but the chapel has been accurately rebuilt, and contains a beautiful Perpendicular screen, removed here from the disused church of South Huish. The ceiling of the dining room is a fine example of the plaster decoration of the 17th and 18th centuries. COOMBE ROYAL, the large and elegant seat of John Luscombe, Esq., situate one mile north of Kingsbridge, was long the seat of the Gilberts, from whom it was purchased in 1736 by the family of its present owner. GERSTON, now occupied by a farmer, is the property, and up to the end of the 18th century was the residence, of the Bastards of Kitley. The fragments of an urn were found, in 1818, in a tumulus at Sorley. John de Bessill, lord of the manor of West Alvington, had a grant for a market and fair in 1270, but they became obsolete some centuries ago. On the front of Addlehole farm house is a large vine which has produced a ton of grapes in a season. The CHURCH (All Saints) is a handsome and substantial structure in the Perpendicular style, except the tower, which is early English work; it consists of chancel with vestry, nave, south aisle, chapel (attached by prescriptive right to Bowringsleigh, and thence called the Bowringsleigh aisle), south porch, and square tower containing six bells and surmounted by four pinnacles of unusual height. The edifice was restored in 1866-7, at a cost of £2500, defrayed by subscription, aided with a grant of £50 from the Incorporated Society: the church was reseated, and all the 318 sittings, except 25, are free. In the chancel is a curious erection of the early part of the 16th century, long supposed to have been an Easter sepulchre, but as it was evidently inlaid with brasses, it is probably an old tomb. An organ, by Dicker of Exeter, was built by subscription, in 1869, at a cost of £220; and the bells were re-hung also by subscription in 1877, at an expense of £65. The East window, of five lights, is filled with stained glass representing the Saints in Suffering, the Saints in Labour, and the Saints in Glory; it is in memory of W. R. Ilbert, Esq., and was inserted by his friends. The west window in the tower is in memory of the late vicar, the Rev. D. Macdonald, and was erected by his widow: it depicts the Resurrection. The living, a vicarage valued in K.B. at £62 16*s.* 10½*d.* and in 1831 at £685, originally embraced the chapelries of South Milton, South Huish, and Malborough; but the two latter have been recently detached. It is in the patronage of the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury, and incumbency of the Ven. Alfred Earle, M.A., Archdeacon of Totnes. The tithes of this parish were commuted in 1839, the vicarial for £330 2*s.* 0*d.*, and the rectorial for £555 8*s.* 3*d.*; the latter belong to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The NATIONAL SCHOOL, built in 1864 by the Rev. D. Macdonald, the then vicar, and by him given in perpetuity to the church, was enlarged in 1871 by the present vicar, and now has an average attendance of 85 children. Several cottages have long been vested in the hands of feoffees for repairs of the church and other godly purposes of the parish of West Alvington. The sick and poor have the dividends of £250 Three per Cent. Consols, purchased in 1794 with money given by Dame Catherine Ilbert.

POST OFFICE at Mr. Wm. Morgan's. Letters are received at 7.35 a.m., and despatched at 5 p.m. week days, and 12.35 p.m. Sundays, viâ Kingsbridge, which is the nearest Money Order Office.

WEST ANSTEY parish is in the Northern division of the county, South Molton union, county court district, petty sessional division, rural deanery and hundred, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 302 inhabitants (163 males, 139 females) in 1871, living in 54 houses, on 3008 acres of land. The village is situated on the acclivities of a lofty eminence, near the source of the river Yeo, and the borders of Somersetshire, 5 miles W. of Dulverton, and 9 miles E. by N. of South Molton. The parish includes more than 1000 acres of open moorland, rising abruptly from the Duns Brook, which divides the two counties. Yeo Mill and a number of adjacent dwellings are on the banks of the river, a mile south of the church. Lord Clinton is the principal owner of the soil and lord of the manor, which was held successively by the Le Moigny, Pillond, Cornu, Speccot, and Rolle families. Lord Portsmouth, Charles Partridge, Esq., William Partridge, Esq., A. Smith, Esq., Dr. Furse, William Binford, Esq., and the Rev. T. Pearce, have also estates here. The CHURCH (St. Petrock) consists of nave, north aisle, chancel, and fine tower containing four bells, and was dedicated on November 12, 1319. In the church is a curious Norman font, probably a relic from a more ancient church of wood. It is now being rebuilt, without material alteration, at a cost of £1650, raised by subscription. The church was much injured by lightning about 40 years ago. The Dean and Chapter of Exeter are appropriators of the rectory and patrons of the discharged vicarage, valued in K.B. at £10 6*s.* 8*d.*, and now at £223 (net). The Rev. Robert Lewis Bampfield, M.A., is the incumbent, and has a house and 50 acres of glebe. In 1841 the vicarial tithes were commuted for £113, and the rectorial for £78 a year. The latter now belong to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, but the net proceeds have been granted to the vicar. The National School, with teachers' residence, was built in 1865 at a cost of £530, raised by voluntary contributions, through the exertions of William Partridge, Esq. James Handford, in 1760, left two yearly rent-charges out of South Hill estate, namely, £3 for schooling poor children, and £2 for the poor.

WEST BRIDGERULE. (See Bridgerule.)

WEST BUCKLAND, a small parish and village, 6 miles N.W. by N. of South Molton, is in South Molton union, county court district, rural deanery, and petty sessional division, West Buckland polling district of North Devon, Braunton hundred, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 332 inhabitants (193 males, 139 females) in 1871, living in 51 houses, on 1772 acres of land, including the hamlets of Stoodleigh and Slade. Murray George, Esq., is lord of the manor, but a great part of the soil belongs to Earl Fortescue, the Rev. J. Buckingham, and J. N. Pyke-Nott, Esq. The Church (St. Peter) consists of nave, chancel, south aisle, and tower containing six bells, and was restored in 1863–4, when the south aisle was built at a total expense of £1200, of which the trustees of the late Hon. John Fortescue contributed £200 for the erection of the aisle to accommodate the inhabitants of Leavy, an outlying hamlet of Chittlehampton. The Register dates from 1686, but it is rather imperfect. The churchyard was enlarged at the same time. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £13 3*s.* 4*d.*, and now at £197 (gross), in the patronage of G. L. Basset, Esq., and incumbency of the Rev. John Henry Copleston, M.A. The glebe is 30 acres, and there is a rectory house built during the incumbency of the Rev. J. L. Brereton, with outbuildings erected by the present incumbent, aided by a loan from Q.A.B. The Wesleyans have a chapel in the village. The parishes of East and West Buckland are united as a school district; the School, situated in the village of West Buckland, was erected in 1846, and has an attendance of 60 children. The Devon County School, the first of its kind, was commenced on a very small scale in 1858 by the Rev. Canon Brereton, at that time rector of West Buckland, with the assistance of the late Earl Fortescue, who laid the foundation stone of the present buildings on October 4, 1860, and which were opened by the present Earl on October 8, 1861. The style of the buildings is Domestic Gothic, and their erection was commenced by a joint stock company, with a capital of £7000; but the original design has been very largely extended, additions having been made nearly every year. The school is situated midway between East and West Buckland, about 8 miles from Barnstaple Railway Station, and 2 miles from Castle Hill Station, on the Devon and Somerset Line, standing in its own grounds of about 16 acres. In 1875 the shareholders authorised the trustees and directors to raise £4000, for the erection of a new wing, which enables the school to accommodate a total of 210 or 220 boys. The buildings are arranged round a quadrangle, and include a large dining room, two large school rooms, a number of class rooms, a reading room, supplied with several of the leading London and provincial papers and magazines, and a library of about 800 volumes. The chief subjects taught in the ordinary course, are—the Scriptures; English, including reading, writing, writing from dictation, and spelling, grammar and analysis, composition, geography and history; mathematics, including arithmetic, mental arithmetic and book-keeping, algebra, Euclid, trigonometry, mechanics, land surveying and higher mathematics; French, and vocal music; Latin and Greek, drawing, and instrumental music are taught as extra subjects. The School is a centre for the Oxford and Cambridge local examinations. During ten years 548 certificates were obtained from the two universities, and of these 168 were in honours. The late Earl Fortescue, K.G., gave £1000 to endow a chaplaincy to the school; £500, representing the original donations and the value of buildings presented to the school by Mr. Brereton, has been settled on the school to found scholarships, in acknowledgment of the exertions made by the Rev. Prebendary Brereton to promote the welfare of the school; the late Duke of Bedford presented £1250 to the school, the interest of which is devoted to scholarships, called the Duke of Bedford's scholarships; £200 has also been given under the will of the late Hon. John Fortescue, to found a scholarship. This scholarship is called Mr. John Fortescue's scholarship. The Endowment Fund for scholarships and prizes amounts at present to upwards of £3000, besides a great many prizes, for which no permanent provision is made. Earl Fortescue is patron; the Earl of Devon, the Rev. J. L. Brereton, the Hon. T. C. A. Robartes, the Rev. W. H. Karslake, and George Langdon, Esq., are trustees; the Rev. J. H. Thompson, M.A., head master; and A. Martin, Esq., honorary secretary.

Post and Money Order Office, and Savings Bank at Mr. Richard Harris's. Letters are despatched viâ South Molton. Castle Hill is the nearest Railway Station and Telegraph Office.

CARRIER—John Perrin, to Barnstaple, Tuesdays and Fridays

WEST DOWN is a parish and pleasant village on a bold acclivity near a rivulet, 6 miles N.N.W. of Barnstaple, in the Northern division of the county, Barnstaple union, county court district and archdeaconry, Braunton hundred and petty sessional division, and Sherwell rural deanery. It had 492 inhabitants (249 males, 243 females) in 1871, living in 110 houses, on 4059 acres of land, including the small hamlets of Willincott, Dean, Bradwell Mill, and Cheglinch, and the straggling farms of Trimstone, Stowford Barton, Buttercombe, Aylescott, &c., &c. John E. Loveband, Esq., is lord of the manor of Bradwell, and Arundel W. Yeo, Esq., lord of that of Stowford, which was the seat of Judge Stowford, the builder of Pilton Bridge. Tom Hole, Esq., Mrs. M. Parminter, A. W. Yeo, Esq., J. E. Loveband, Esq., the Rev. A. C. Bassett, John Chugg, Esq., and E. Anderton, Esq., are the principal landowners. The CHURCH (Holy Trinity), an ancient cruciform structure in the Early English style, with a tower containing six bells, was restored in 1874, when the chancel walls were raised, the entire church newly roofed, and reseated with open seats of pitch pine, and the chancel paved with encaustic tiles, at a total cost of £1300, raised by subscription. The organ, by Wildlake, of London, cost £120. The East window, a triplet, is filled with stained glass in memory of the late Mr. Robert Hole, and two other windows in the chancel are similarly enriched in remembrance respectively of two members of the Davy family, and of the late vicar, the Rev. H. J. Drury, who died in 1870. In the north transept, under an arch in the wall, and reclining at full length, is an ancient wooden effigy of Sir John Wyatt, a judge of the Court of Common Pleas in the 14th century, who is represented in the robes of a serjeant-at-law. In the same transept is a mural tablet in memory of several members of the Parminter family, and on the north side of the nave is an old monument of Francis and Grace Isaac, who died about the middle of the 17th century. The font is Norman, and was found under the church floor in the south transept at the restoration of the church. A tablet on the tower records that it was rebuilt in 1711, and again in 1712. The Register dates from 1538. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £8 14*s*. 9*d*., and now at £211, in the patronage of the Bishop of Exeter, and incumbency of the Rev. William Chorley Loveband, M.A., who has a very pleasant residence. The tithes were commuted in 1841, the rectorial for £160 10*s*., and the vicarial for £255. The WESLEYANS have a small chapel at Bradwell Mill, and the INDEPENDENTS one in the village, which was erected in 1831 at a cost of more than £100, and enlarged and reseated in 1868 at a further cost of £100, and which will seat 250 people. In the latter chapel is a mural tablet in memory of the late John Norrington, twice mayor of Barnstaple, who died in 1870, and left an endowment of £10 a year to this chapel. A school room in connection with the chapel was erected in 1873 at an expense of £350. The NATIONAL SCHOOL was erected in 1842 at the cost of £139, but has since been enlarged. The poor have the dividends of £190 19*s*. 8*d*. Three per Cent. Consols, arising from the proceeds of the sale of a cottage and garden, purchased in 1672 (with a field of 3 acres, for £20, left by John Eyre) but resold in 1868, and the interest of another £20 left by the same donor. For teaching six poor children, a school mistress has 40*s*. a year from Mrs. Newcommen's Charity (see page 153). In one of the front rooms of the manor house, over the fireplace, are some very curious plaster figures standing out in bold relief from the wall, underneath which on wood are the letters F.I. 1624 G.I. Over the door of another farmhouse, near the church, is the date 1669.

WEST LEIGH, a parish and village on the east side of the estuary of the Torridge, 2½ miles N.E. of Bideford, is in the Northern division of the county, Barnstaple union, Bideford county court district and petty sessional division, Fremington hundred, and Barnstaple archdeaconry and rural deanery. It had 476 inhabitants in 1871, living in 101 houses: the area is 2616 acres, of which 160 acres are water, and the parish includes East Leigh and Southcott hamlets, and many scattered houses. Edward Ralph Berry Torr, Esq., of West Leigh House, is lord of the manor of West Leigh. TAPELEY, or TAPLEIGH, a handsome mansion with tasteful grounds, is the seat and property of William Langham Christie, Esq., M.P. for Lewes, who is also owner of the manor of East Leigh. The estates came into the hands of Mr. Christie in 1872, through marrying the daughter of Augustus Clevland, Esq., J.P. Sir George Stucley, Bart., and other smaller owners have estates in the parish. The handsome granite pillar in Tapeley Park, which is 50 feet high, and can be seen at a great distance, was erected in 1856, by general subscription, in memory of Archibald Clevland, Esq., who was killed at the battle of Inkermann. The CHURCH (St. Peter) is an ancient structure, consisting of nave, chancel, north aisle, south transept, and south porch; several of the windows are filled with stained glass. The church wants repairs. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £8 2*s.* 1*d.*, and in 1831 at £170, in the patronage of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and incumbency of the Rev. Sydney Thelwall, B.A. There is a neat residence, erected in 1837, and a glebe of 45 acres. The WESLEYANS have a chapel at West Leigh, erected in 1841, and another at East Leigh. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on October 10, 1872, and consists of Mrs. Agnes Hamilton Christie (chairwoman), and Messrs. J. B. Laramy, William Tucker, William Wedlake, and Richard Balsdon. Mr. Frederick Lee, of East Leigh, is the clerk. A School, with teacher's residence, was built in 1877 at a cost of £850, to accommodate 86 children. The Church Land is 2 acres, and the poor have the interest of £50, given by John Berry, Esq. The tithes were commuted in 1840 —the vicarial at £165 12*s.*, and the rectorial at £193. The great tithes are in the appropriation of the Custos and Priest-Vicars of Exeter, but are leased to the representatives of the late Robert Newton Incledon, Esq.

WEST OGWELL, a small parish adjoining East Ogwell, with which it forms a detached member of Wonford hundred, is in the Eastern division of the county, Newton Abbot union and county court district, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Totnes archdeaconry, and Moreton rural deanery. It had 31 inhabitants (16 males, 15 females) in 1871, living in five houses, on 683 acres of generally fertile and finely undulated land. At Domesday Survey the manor was held by William Pictavensis, or Peytevin. It was sold by one of the Earls of Devon to the Reynell family, from whom it passed by marriage to the family of Taylor, the present representative of which, P. G. E. Taylor, Esq., sold it to Daniel Robert Scratton, Esq., the present owner, in 1869. The CHURCH is a small stone fabric, consisting of chancel, nave, north and south transepts, vestry, and tower containing three bells; and in the edifice are several neat monuments. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £7 2*s.* 11*d.*, and united to that of East Ogwell. The tithes are commuted at £110.

WEST PUTFORD, in the Torridge valley, 8½ miles N. of Holsworthy, is a village and parish in Bideford union and county court district, Holsworthy petty sessional division, Southern division of the county, Barnstaple archdeaconry, Holsworthy rural deanery, and Black Torrington hundred. Its parish, which includes Colscot, Sessacott, Thriverden, and Wedfield hamlets, had 290 inhabitants (145 males, 145 females), in 1871, living in 61 houses, or 2620 acres of land. Lewis James May, Esq. is lord of the manor, but a great part of the soil belongs to the Hon. Mark Rolle, Mr. Alwes, Mr. John Walter, and others. The CHURCH is a fine cruciform structure, with a square tower at the east end, containing three bells. The Register dates from 1590. The living, a rectory, valued in K.B. at £9 11*s.* 0½*d.*, and now at £290 (net), is in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. George Chambers, B.D., who has 89 acres of glebe, and a good house, erected about thirty years ago. The tithes were commuted in 1842 for £203 a year. The WESLEYANS and the BIBLE CHRISTIANS have chapels here. The SCHOOL BOARD for East and West Putford was formed on November 21, 1874, and consists of the Rev. G. Chambers (chairman), and Messrs. J. Moase (vice-chairman), Richard Walter, A. E. Dayman (hon. clerk), and Hugh Cottle. A school is being built here. The poor have the interest of £40, given by unknown donors.

WESTWARD HO! is the name by which the north-western corner of Northam parish has become known during the last 12 years, and it is so named from the popular novel of the late Charles Kingsley, the principal scene of which is chiefly laid in this neighbourhood. It is about 2½ miles N.W. from Bideford, and 222½ miles from London, by the London and South Western Railway. An Hotel and Villas Company is engaged in developing this watering place, which already possesses a promenade pier (500 feet long) for the use of visitors, a large salt water swimming bath for gentlemen, a separate swimming bath for ladies, together with hot and cold baths for both sexes. There are a good many excellent lodging houses for visitors, a church, a good private club house, as well as an increasing number of private residences. The United Services College for Boys has been successfully established here, and promises to become a very large and important institution. There is much building ground still available—and among the plans likely to be carried out is one of a Sanatorium, to be called the 'Kingsley,' with a resident physician, for the reception and benefit of invalids, who would here derive the solid advantages to be gained from the salubrious breezes of the Atlantic. This locality supplies several subjects of interest to geologists and antiquarians. In the low cliffs may be seen the remains of an ancient raised beach of pebbles, analogous to the present pebble ridge in its formation and materials, marking a period when the water flowed to a far higher level than at present. While in exact contrast to this may be seen near low-water mark the remains of a peat bed, in which are found numerous specimens of an extinct shell (a pholas), the remains of large trees, hazel nuts, the bones of red deer, &c., and, stranger still, the tokens of ancient man, who lived amid these trees and woods, as seen in the flint flakes that mark the places where he hewed weapons out of flint nodules—and in the bones of the ox, sheep, &c., which were broken up by him in order to extract the marrow. The CHURCH is in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave and aisles, and bell turret, at the west end, containing two bells; it was erected in 1870, and is dependent on Northam. The cost of the buildings and fittings was £2519 0s. 1d. The UNITED SERVICES' PROPRIETARY COLLEGE (lim.), was incorporated about 4 years ago, and the college was opened in September 1874, to provide sons of officers, who are or who have been in Her Majesty's Service, with a public school education at a lower cost than can now be obtained by them elsewhere. The present buildings which occupy the whole of Kingsley Terrace, are at an elevation of about 80 feet above the sea level, fronting 700 acres of golf ground and common land, and commanding the whole of Bideford Bay. Though ample for the accommodation of 200 boys, it is hoped that this edifice may, in course of time, form only a junior school to a still more extensive establishment, to be built upon ground near the same spot. The number of shares registered up to Christmas 1876, was 1924, representing a capital of £9620, belonging to 179 shareholders. A gymnasium has recently been completed at a cost of £230, and it is proposed to erect a fives court. The Council consists of Major-General Sir H. Charles Daubeney, K.C.B. (chairman), Rear-Admiral R. A. Powell, C.B., Lieut.-General Sir John St. George, K.C.B., R.A., Major E. Harding Steward, R.E., Major-General J. Thornton Grant, C.B., Lieut.-Colonel E. J. Bruce, R.A., Rear-Admiral Rowley Lambert, C.B. Captain T. H. Sangster is secretary. Cornell Price, Esq., M.A., B.C.L., is headmaster; F. W. Haslam, Esq., B.A., the Rev. E. J. Campbell, M.A. (chaplain), W. C. Crofts, Esq., M.A., Herbert Green, Esq., M.A., F.C.S., M. H. Pugh, Esq., B.A., F. W. B. Phillips, Esq., B.A., J. T. N. Lee, Esq., B.A., Mons. F. Jacquot, B.L., S. Thomas, Esq., (Art), and J. H. Righton, Esq. (music and singing), assistant masters. W. H. Ackland, Esq., M.D., is medical officer, and Sergeant Kearney fencing, drill and gymnastic instructor.

WEST WORLINGTON is a parish and a pleasant village picturesquely situated on an acclivity on the north side of the Little Dart river 5½ miles E. of Chulmleigh. It is in the northern division of the county, South Molton union, county court district, and petty sessional division, Witheridge hundred, Barnstaple archdeaconry and Chulmleigh rural deanery. It had 203 inhabitants (114 males, 89 females) in 1871, living in 34 houses, on 2683 acres of land. Sir George Stucley, Bart. is lord of the manor, and owner of all the parish, except 60 acres which belong to George Smith, Esq. The manor was anciently held by the Worlingtons, and afterwards passed successfully to the Crawthorne, Marwood, Affeton, and Stucley families. The old Manor House, now called Cobley, has in its neighbourhood many fox covers, from which it is supposed to have obtained its present name. Near the farm house called Affeton Barton are some remains of the ancient and extensive castellated mansion, which was the seat of the Affeton family in the 13th and 14th centuries, one of whom was sheriff for the county in the reign of Edward III. The entrance gateway tower, with a spiral staircase, 49 feet high, is still in good preservation. This was one of the most splendid seats in the county, and had an extensive park, with large fish ponds, woods, a warren, &c. It was built in the form of the letter E, and was last occupied by the Stuckley or Stewkley family, whose heiress carried the manor in marriage to the Bucks. The CHURCH (St. Mary) is a very ancient structure, with a tower containing six bells, and crowned by a wooden spire. The old Norman font and alms-box still remain, and in the chancel is a stately monument in memory of Sir Thomas Stuckley, Kt., who died in 1663, at Affeton Barton, and whose brother was chaplain to Oliver Cromwell, but was deprived of his clerical office at the Restoration. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £8 15*s.* 10*d.* and now at £200, is in the patronage of Sir Geo. Stucley, Bart., and incumbency of the Rev Thos. Wemyss Pigot, B.A., who has 84 acres of glebe and a good residence, rebuilt in the Italian style in 1847, at the cost of £700. The tithes were commuted in 1841, for £160 per annum. The SCHOOL BOARD for the united parishes of East and West Worlington was formed on April 1, 1874, and consists of the Rev. W. M. Bruton (chairman), and Messrs. John Troake (vice-chairman), George Smyth, — Hosegood, and — Lake. The poor have the interest of £48, left by Richard Cooke and other donors.

WHIMPLE is a parish and pleasant village with several neat houses, on a declivity 4½ miles W.N.W. of Ottery St. Mary, and 8½ miles N.E. by E. of Exeter. It is in the eastern division of the county, St. Thomas union, Exeter archdeaconry, and county court district, Ottery petty sessional division, Cliston hundred and Aylesbeare rural deanery. It had 720 inhabitants (355 males, 365 females) in 1871, living in 148 houses, on 3019 acres of land. The parish includes Strete Raleigh tithing, the small hamlets of Slewton, Perreton, and Cobdon, and many scattered farm houses, &c. A fair for sheep, &c., is held in the village on the Monday after Michaelmas day. Wm. Wentworth Buller, Esq., is lord of the manors of Whimple, Strete Raleigh, and Cobdon, formerly held by the Englefield, Clist, Pudding, Raleigh, Gould, and other families. Abm. Smith, Esq., George Brooke, Esq., — Davy, Esq., Edward R. Broom, Esq., Wm. Smith, Esq., Richd. Burrell, Esq., John Venn, Esq., Sir John Kennerleigh, and Mr. George Brooke are the principal landowners. SLEWTON HOUSE is occupied by Mr. George Brooke, whose family has resided in the parish for more than 200 years. The CHURCH (St. Mary) is a large handsome structure in the Perpendicular style, and was all rebuilt, except the tower, in 1845, at the cost of about £2000, of which £210 was given by the Diocesan and Church Building Societies, on condition that 207 sittings should be free for ever. It now comprises nave, north and south aisles, and chancel; and the interior is neatly fitted up with carved open seats. Four of the windows are filled with stained glass in memory of the Buller family; and there are monuments to the Brooke and Honywood families, besides one to the Rev. Edwd. Heberden, M.A., who had the benefice 57 years, and died in 1843. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £30, and in 1831 at £386, in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. Lloyd Sanders, M.A., who has a neat and commodious residence and 67A. 3R. 14P. of glebe; the tithes were commuted in 1835 for £335 a year. The INDEPENDENT CHAPEL was built in 1862. The NATIONAL SCHOOL was built in 1848–9, at the cost of £745, of which £126 was given by Government and the National Society: it is attended by 40 mixed scholars. A WORKING MEN'S CLUB was established here in 1875, and is affiliated to the Metropolitan Working Man's Club and Institute, 150 Strand, London. It has now only 20 members. The poor parishioners have the dividends of £180 2*s.* 3*d.*, Three per Cent. Consols, purchased with money given by various donors.

WHIPTON. (See Exeter.)

WHITCHURCH, a parish and a small scattered village on an eminence, 2 miles S.E. of Tavistock, and 12 miles N. of Plymouth, is in Tavistock union, county court district, petty sessional division and rural deanery, Tavistock polling district of South Devon, Totnes archdeaconry, and Roborough hundred. It includes the hamlet of Middlemoor, and had 1098 inhabitants (518 males, 580 females) in 1871, living in 229 houses, on 5979 acres of land, of which 2523 acres are open commons and wastes on the borders of Dartmoor. There were several lead and tin mines here, but they have been abandoned. T. H. Bulteel, Esq., is lord of the manor of Whitchurch; and that of Walreddon belongs to the Earl of Devon. W. H. Chichester, Esq., W. P. Michell, Esq., Mr. H. Spry, and others, have also estates here. Grenofen is beautifully situated among romantic scenery, and was rebuilt by J. M. Knighton, Esq. Holwell House was for 300 years the seat of the Glanvilles. The CHURCH (St. Andrew) is a venerable structure, in the Perpendicular style, with a tower and six bells, and is being restored at a probable cost of about £1100. In the chancel are several handsome monuments, belonging to the Pengelly and Mooringe families. The vicarage, valued in K.B. at £16 5*s.* 5*d.*, and in 1831 at £240, is in the patronage of H. Luscombe, Esq.. and incumbency of the Rev. Samuel Featherstone, B.A., who is also impropriator of the rectorial tithes, and has 80A. 3R. 25P. of glebe, and a large and handsome residence. The tithes have been commuted, the rectorial for £260, and the vicarial for £192 10*s.* The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on February 2, 1874, and consists of W. P. Michell, Esq., J.P. (chairman), Henry Spry, Esq. (vice-chairman), W. H. Chichester, Esq., J.P., the Rev. S. Featherstone, and J. Willcock, Esq. Robert Luxton, Esq., is their clerk. The Board School was built in 1875–6 at a cost of £900, to accommodate about 150 children. Francis Pengelly, in 1719, left for the poor £100, and also £6 a year out of the great tithes, for schooling poor children; the poor had also the interest of £10, left by Peter Sleeman in 1778, but these charities have been lost.

WHITESTONE, or Whitstone, is a parish and a scattered village, 3½ miles W.N.W. of Exeter, in the Eastern division of the county, St. Thomas's union, Exeter county court district, Wonford hundred and petty sessional division, Exeter archdeaconry, and Kenn rural deanery. It had 544 inhabitants (268 males, 276 females) in 1871, living in 113 houses, on 4077 acres of land, and it includes the villages of Halfordswood and Nadder. The surface is picturesquely broken into hill and valley, and one of the hills commands extensive views, on which Exmouth, Honiton, and other distant places may be seen. The manor was anciently held by the Beaumont, Powderham, and Bohun families. It passed from the latter to the Courtenays, but is now held by Anthony Gibbs, Esq. The principal owners of the soil are Thomas M. Snow, Esq., Mrs. Yarde, Francis Abbott, Esq., the trustees of the late James Pitman, Esq., Joseph Roberts, Esq., and several smaller proprietors. That part of the parish called Hallesford Ward, was formerly a manor, including Naddir, Rohorn, and other farms. Sherwood (or Sherewood) Villa, at the west end of this parish, is noticed at page 705. The CHURCH (St. Catherine) stands on a commanding eminence, and is an ancient structure, with a tower containing four bells. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £19 13*s.* 4*d.*, and in 1831 at £707, is in the patronage of Emanuel College, Cambridge, and incumbency of the Rev. Wilse Brown, M.A., who has a good residence and 73A. 1R. 35P. of glebe. The tithes were commuted in 1839 for £616 16*s.* per annum. At Slade is a Wesleyan Chapel, built in 1877. The Church House, which had been vested from an early period for charitable uses, was rebuilt in 1753 by John Splatt, and divided into apartments for the use of a schoolmaster and four poor people. Mr. Splatt also gave two fields at Heavitree, and directed the rents to be applied in repairing the building and supporting the inmates. These fields comprise 6A. 1R., and are let for about £30 a year, of which £25 is paid to the schoolmaster for teaching poor children. A new school house was erected in 1876, and has an average attendance of 40 mixed scholars. The poor parishioners have the dividends of £114 10*s.* 9*d.* Three per Cent. Consols, purchased with the gifts of Ann Best, John Sowdon, and others. They have also a yearly rent-charge of £3, left by Thomas Sowdon in 1733, out of Higher Southway estate; and the dividends of £112 7*s.* 3*d.* 3½ per Cent. Consols, left in 1837 by Mrs. Mary Brown, wife of the late rector. The late James Pike in 1874 left £300, which is invested in the Three per Cent. Consols, the dividends of which are divided among eight poor parishioners who have not received parish relief during the preceding twelve months.

WIDECOMBE-(or Widdecombe)-IN-THE-MOOR is a parish and scattered village, picturesquely seated in a valley on the eastern side of Dartmoor Forest, 6 miles N.W. by N. of Ashburton. It is in the Eastern division of the county, Newton Abbot union and county court district, Teignbridge petty sessional division, Totnes archdeaconry, and Moreton rural deanery, and is a detached member of Haytor hundred. It had 901 inhabitants (469 males, 432 females) in 1871, living in 175 houses, on 10,614 acres. The parish includes the hamlets, &c. of Cator, Ponsworthy, Poundsgate, Linchaford, Fernhill, Dunstone, Blackslade, Lower Tor, &c., and about 4700 acres of open commons, called Newbridge, Blackdown, Natsworthy, Jourdan, &c. The parish rises in bold hills from the river Dart and several of its tributary streams, and great improvements have been made of late years in the Forest farms. The first Lord Ashburton purchased a long term in the manors of Widecombe and Spitchwick, and built a neat house in the latter, in a romantic situation, where he made extensive plantations. These manors are now held by Mrs. Drake and Dr. Blackall, respectively. Blackslade belongs to Mr. R. Dymond, F.S.A., and Nolsworthy to Mr. Owen Tucker. The CHURCH (St. Pancras), a large ancient structure with a lofty tower and six bells, has been recently restored. On Sunday afternoon, October 21, 1638, it was much damaged by lightning, which killed 4 and injured 62 of the congregation then assembled in divine worship. The tower was shattered extensively, and one of the large pinnacles fell through the roof of the nave, and a large beam dropped between the pulpit and reading-desk, without injuring the vicar or the clerk. A circumstantial account of this occurrence may be seen in some verses, written by an eye-witness, and preserved in the church. The fabric is mostly in the Early Perpendicular style, and has a nave, aisles, transepts, and chancel; and the tower has octangular turrets at the four corners, crowned by crocketted pinnacles. The vicarage, valued in K.B. at £25 13*s.* 9*d.*, and in 1831 at £332, is in the patronage of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, and incumbency of the Rev. John Williams, M.A., who has 60 acres of glebe, and a good residence. The impropriate tithes are held by the Rev. S. Coldridge, under a lease from the Dean and Chapter of Exeter; they are commuted at £168 6*s.*, and the small ones at £280 a year. A new CHURCH (St. John the Baptist) was built by Mrs. Larpent in 1863, in lieu of the long ruined chapel of St. Leonard, at Spitchwick. She was aided by a grant of £300 from the Incorporated Society for the erection of additional churches. A district called Leusden was assigned to the church in 1864, and had 370 inhabitants, (189 males, 181 females) in 1871, living in 81 houses, on 5000 acres of land. The living is a vicarage, valued at £127, in the patronage of Mrs. C. R. Larpent, and incumbency of the Rev. Percival Jackson, who has 26A. 2R. of glebe, and a vicarage house. The WESLEYANS have small chapels at Widecombe and Ponsworthy, and the INDEPENDENTS have one at Watergate. A house, two cottages, and 1½ acre of land, have been vested from an early period for the use of the church and poor, and the latter have 13*s.* a year, left by Lewis Wills and Sampson Jerman. There is a fund for educational purposes, amounting to about £250, with which stock in the new Three per Cents. has been purchased. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on May 1, 1875, and consists of the Rev. J. Williams (chairman), and Messrs. John Hannaford (vice-chairman), F. H. Firth, H. H. Hannaford, John Easterbrook, Thomas Nosworthy, and James Hamlyn. The old National School Room is being enlarged to meet Government requirements. Richard Fitzralph, Primate of all Ireland in the 14th century, was born in Devonshire, and his family is said to have been seated for many generations at Widecombe, where remains of the old family residence are still to be seen. He translated the Bible into the Irish tongue, and wrote more than thirty books on religious subjects. He lived to a great age, and was buried at Dundalk.

WIDWORTHY is a parish and small village on a bold acclivity, 3½ miles E. by S. of Honiton, 4 miles rom Colyton Railway Station, and 6 from Axminster. It is in the Eastern division of the county, Honiton union, county court district, petty sessional division, Colyton hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Dunkeswell and Honiton rural deanery. It includes part of the village of Wilmington, which is partly in Offwell parish, and had 141 inhabitants (75 males, 66 females) in 1871, living in 32 houses, on 1437 acres of land The manor of Widworthy was held by a family of its own name, till the reign of Edward I., when their heiress carried it in marriage to the Dinhams. It afterwards belonged to the Chichesters, of whom it was purchased by the Marwoods, who built houses at Sutton and Cookshayes. Sir E. Marwood Elton, who was created a baronet in 1838, is now lord of the manor, and owner of nearly all the parish. He resides at Widworthy Court, which he erected about 40 years ago, in the Doric order of architecture. This large and elegant mansion comprises a quadrangular body four stories high (including basement), with a north wing. It stands on a commanding eminence, and the south and east fronts are encompassed by a beautiful terrace, 56 feet broad and 163 feet long. The CHURCH (St. Cuthbert) is an ancient cruciform structure in the lancet Gothic style, with a tower and five bells. It contains several handsome white marble monuments; one, with figures of Justice and Temperance, is in memory of Thos. Marwood, Esq., who died 1780. On an ancient altar tomb is the recumbent effigy of a knight in chain armour, date 13th century. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £11 16*s.* 0½*d.*, and in 1831 at £200, is in the patronage of Sir E. M. Elton, Bart., and incumbency of the Rev. Marwood Tucker, M.A. The parsonage has been much improved of late years, and the glebe is 30 acres. The tithes were commuted in 1838 for £206 per annum. The PARISH SCHOOL was given by James Marwood in 1759, and was endowed by him and Benedictus Marwood with £6 a year for the master, and £2 a year for repairs, now charged on Widworthy Barton estate. The dividends arising from £315 5*s.* in the public funds, the legacies of the Rev. J. Somaster and the Rev. W. T. Tucker, are applied one-half to the school, and the other half to the poor of the parish in bread. Also clothing to the amount of £4 per annum is given to the poor at Christmas, being the gift of the late W. Elton, Esq. The poor have a yearly rent-charge of 20*s.*, left by Robert Marwood in 1738, out of Stone Burrows field.

WILLAND, a small parish and village, is situated in the picturesque valley of the small river Culm, near the Bristol and Exeter Railway and the junction of the Tiverton branch, 2½ miles N. by E. of Cullompton, and 6 miles E. of Tiverton. It is in Tiverton union and county court district, Cullompton petty sessional division, Cullompton polling district of North Devon, Halberton hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Tiverton East rural deanery. The parish contained 370 inhabitants in 1871, living on 989 acres of land. Sir John Walrond and James Parkhouse, Esq., are the chief owners of the soil. The CHURCH (St. Mary) consists of nave, north aisle, and chancel, which is separated from the nave by a beautiful and ancient oak screen. The church, which was re-pewed, and the west gallery removed in 1859, at a cost ot £200, will seat nearly 200 persons. The living, a rectory, valued in K.B. at £7 10*s.* 5*d.*, and now at £125, is in the patronage of W. Partridge and R. A. Ward, Esqrs., and incumbency of the Rev. William Chester Copleston. The parsonage house has been much enlarged, and the glebe is rather over 2 acres. The tithes were commuted in 1842 for £103 8*s.* 9*d.* a year. The WESLEYANS have a small chapel here. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on July 17, 1872, and now consists of James Parkhouse, Esq. (chairman), the Rev. W. C. Copleston, and Messrs. W. Thorne, Samuel Southey, and Wm. Dummett. Frederic Burrow, Esq., of Cullompton, is their clerk. The BOARD SCHOOL was built in 1872 at a cost of £700. The poor have the following yearly doles:—20*s.* from an acre of land in Tawney Meadow, given by Lewis Brooke, in 1725; 10*s.* out of Blacklands, left by Robert Hinton, in 1707; 10*s.* from £10 given by Thomas Tymewell, and £1 17*s.* 4*d.* as the interest of £42 left by Mary Clarke and another donor.

WINKLEIGH is a parish and a large ancient village, situated on a lofty eminence, 4 miles W. from Eggesford station, on the North Devon Railway, 5 miles from North Tawton, on the Devon and Cornwall Railway, on the Crediton and Torrington road, 6 miles S.W. of Chulmleigh, 7 miles E.N.E. of Hatherleigh, and 22 miles W.N.W. of Exeter. Its parish, which gives name to a hundred of its own extent, is in Torrington union and county court district, South Molton petty sessional division, Dolton polling district of North Devon, Barnstaple archdeaconry, and Chulmleigh deanery, and contained 1402 inhabitants (686 males, 716 females), in 1871, living in 299 houses. It comprises 9118 acres of land, including a large tract of barren, moory ground; but some parts are woody, and the remainder is tolerably good corn and grazing land. J. G. Johnson, Esq., M.P., is lord of the manor, and he and the Earl of Portsmouth, J. Tremayne, Esq., M.P., G. Luxton, Esq., and R. G. Luxton, Esq., are the principal owners of the soil. The borough court, or view of frank pledge, gave place to the county court in 1848. There are two annual fairs, one on the first Wednesday in October, and the other on the Monday after the 8th of July, unless that date falls on a Sunday, in which case the fair is held on the Monday se'nnight. The manor belonged to the Crown at the Domesday Survey, when it was settled on Matilda, the Conqueror's consort, and the park-keeper had a virgate of land. Risdon speaks of two castles at Winkleigh, on the east and west sides of the town, where their sites still retain the names of Court and Croft Castles. The manor was for a long period divided between the Keynes and Tracey families, and was afterwards held by those of Holland and Lethbridge. The Court Barton was purchased of the latter by the late Rev. Peter Johnson, from whom it passed to the present owner, J. G. Johnson, Esq., M.P. for Exeter. Southcote and Hollacombe belong to the Earl of Portsmouth. William de Portu Mortuo was lord of the manor of Hollacombe in the reign of Henry III., and in 1260 had a charter for a weekly market, and a fair for three days at the festival of the Ascension. In 1361 Richard Inglish had the King's charter for castellating his mansion at Up-Hollacombe.

The CHURCH (All Saints') is a fine antique structure, consisting of nave, chancel, north aisle, north and south transepts, south porch, and west tower containing a fine peal of six bells, which were recently hung by Messrs. Mears & Steinbach, at a cost of £900, defrayed by George Henry Pinckard, Esq. The inscriptions on the bells are, 'Ave Pater, Rex Creator,' 'Ave Fili, Lux Salvator,' 'Ave Pax et Caritas,' 'Ave Simplex, ave Trine,' 'Ave Sancta Trinitas.' In the tower is also a clock, with quarter chimes, made by Funnell, of Brighton, and presented by Miss Pinckard, sister of G. Pinckard, Esq. The tower commands from its summit extensive views, including Dartmoor Hills, and the towers of 24 churches. The church, exclusive of the chancel, was thoroughly restored and beautified in 1873, at the expense of nearly £7000, provided (with the exception of £150 raised in the parish) by G. H. Pinckard, Esq., of Godalming, a native of this parish. The chancel had been restored five years previously by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The East window is filled with stained glass, in memory of the late vicar, the Rev. John Fisher Turnell, who died December 1, 1871. Another window in the chancel, similarly enriched, represents St. Peter holding the Keys, and is in remembrance of the Rev. Henry Wright, who was vicar here for twenty-seven years, and died in 1856. In the south wall is a stained glass window, representing the raising of Lazarus, and inserted by the parishioners in commemoration of the munificence of Mr. Pinckard in restoring the church. The piscina is of Decorated character: on the south side is the ancient priests' doorway. The new communion table was the gift of the Rev. William Radford, of Down St. Mary; the reredos, which is of granite, was erected by the late vicar. The new organ, built by Hill, of London, was presented by Mrs. Henry Pinckard, at a cost of £400. The Register dates from 1586. The Dean and Chapter of Exeter are appropriators of the rectorial tithes, and patrons of the vicarage, valued in K.B. at £21 8*s.* 9*d.*, and in 1831 at £215, and now held by the Rev. James Philip Bremridge, M.A., who has a good residence and 8A. 3R. 26P. of glebe. The tithes were commuted in 1846, the vicarial for £312, and the rectorial for £427 per annum. The WESLEYANS, INDEPENDENTS, and BIBLE CHRISTIANS have chapels here. The WESLEYAN CHAPEL was built in 1864, at a cost of £400, raised by subscription. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on March 31, 1874, and consists of R. G. Luxton, Esq. (chairman), and Messrs. Samuel Dunn, John Cowle, William Molland, and William Luxton.

Mr. Thomas Letheren is clerk. A school, with master's residence, was built in 1876, at a cost of £1275, and will accommodate 220 children. The Church Lands have been vested for the repairs of the church from an early period, and comprise about 25 acres in East Chappel Farm, let for £19 10*s.*, and a garden let for 5*s.* per annum. The churchwardens have also 6*s.* yearly from chief rents; and a house occupied by paupers. The poor parishioners have £2 12*s.* yearly from Sir John Acland's Charity (see Exeter), and the interest of £30, left by unknown donors. An Almshouse for five poor women was founded in 1681, by Bartw. Gidley, who endowed it with a cottage and half an acre of land, worth £4 per annum; but the almshouse being dilapidated has been taken down, and 30*s.* a year is now given to four poor women of the parish, under the sanction of the Charity Commissioners. Robert Skinner, Esq., left £2, to be given, at the discretion of the churchwardens, to the poor at Christmas.

CARRIER—George Barry, to Exeter, Thursday, returning on Saturday

WITHERIDGE, a parish and a small, clean, and well-built town, with an open square or market place in the centre, is pleasantly situated on the south-eastern acclivity of the Little Dart River, 10 miles W. of Tiverton, 10 miles S.E. by S. of South Molton, and 8 miles E. of Chulmleigh. Its parish gives name to a hundred, and is in the Northern division of the county, South Molton union, county court district, and rural deanery, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 1213 inhabitants (625 males, 588 females) in 1871, living in 256 houses. It comprises 9048 acres of land, on both sides of the river, picturesquely broken into hill and valley, and consists of the East, West, South, and Town Quarters, including many farm houses, &c. Witheridge was anciently a borough, governed by a portreeve, and had a weekly market, which was disused before 1774. It has still an annual fair, on Midsummer-day, and great cattle markets on the last Wednesday but one in April, on the Wednesday before Michaelmas-day, and on the first Wednesday in November. The manor and hundred of Witheridge were successively held by the Fitzpayne, Poleyne, Marchant, Chichester, and other families. The Earl of Portsmouth is now lord of the manor, and owner of a great part of the parish, and the rest belongs to Mrs. M. M. Benson, and many smaller freeholders. A court leet and baron is held for the manor yearly at the Angel Inn, as also is a court of the Duchy of Lancaster. Mr. Jas. Tanner is steward of the former, and Mr. T. M. Comins of the latter. The small manor of Bradford Tracey belongs to Mrs. M. M. Benson, and was formerly the residence of the Melhuish family, who had previously resided at Dart Ralph, an ancient farm house, belonging to J. H. Tremayne, Esq. WEST YEO, formerly belonging to the Coplestons, is now the property of Mr. Samuel Cock. William Chapple, the antiquary and editor of Risdon, was born at New House, or Lower West Yeo, and in 1781 bequeathed a large prayer-book, to be used at the altar-table of the parish church. This book had once belonged to the Royal Chapel at Windsor, and was given by the vicar, in 1844, to Mr. William Thorne, of Dart Ralph, in testimony of his valuable services as churchwarden for more than 20 years. The CHURCH (St. John the Baptist) is a large and handsome structure, with a tower which contains six bells, and was heightened 40 feet a few years ago, when the ancient decayed wooden spire was taken down. The entire fabric is being gradually restored. The East window was enriched with stained glass in 1876, at the expense of the patron, in memory of the Rev. W. P. Thomas and the Rev. J. P. Benson (a former rector). The pulpit and font are elaborately carved. The rectory, valued in K.B. at £23 10*s.* 5*d.*, and in 1831 at £350, is in the patronage of Mrs. M. M. Benson, and incumbency of the Rev. Prockter Melhuish Benson, M.A., for whom a new vicarage house has recently been erected at a cost of £1800. The glebe is 49A. 2R. 32P. In 1837 the small tithes were commuted for £355 per annum. The patron owns the rectorial manor, formerly belonging to Cannington Priory, but part of the great tithes belong to Mrs. Benson. Here is an INDEPENDENT and also a BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHAPEL, the former built in 1839, and the latter in 1834. The former cost £650, and in connection with it is a School, built by subscription in 1845, at the cost of £330. A large NATIONAL SCHOOL was built in 1846, in lieu of the old parish school, at the cost of £400. The old school, with a house and garden for the master, was given in 1804 by Richard Melhuish, who endowed it with £700 Three per Cent. Consols, in trust to apply the dividends yearly as follows :—£14 to the master for teaching 40 poor children to read, and the remaining £7 to be laid out in books for the scholars. The vicar and churchwardens are the trustees. The Agricultural Association of Witheridge and six neighbouring parishes has a numerous list of members, and holds its meetings and ploughing matches here. The Poor's Money consists of £263 16*s.* 7*d.* Three per Cent. Stock, and £55 at interest. It arose from a legacy of £100, left by Hugh Shortridge, D.D., in 1715, and from several small benefactions. The yearly proceeds (about £10) are distributed at Christmas, together with £3 from two rent-charges left by Humphrey Brooke in 1670; and 5*s.* a year out of Gunhole estate, left by Richard Greenslade.

WITHYCOMBE-RAWLEIGH, or Withecombe-Raleigh, is a parish and pleasant scattered village, with several handsome villas, &c., from 1 to 2 miles N.E. of Exmouth, and is bounded on the west by the broad estuary of the Exe. Its parish, which includes part of the town of Exmouth, is in the Eastern division of the county, St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district, Woodbury petty sessional division, East Budleigh hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Aylesbeare rural deanery. The parish had 2872 inhabitants (1210 males, 1662 females) in 1871, living in 611 houses, of which 2252 persons (952 males, 1300 females), living in 476 houses, were in the town of Exmouth. The whole parish extends over 2617 acres, of which 635 acres are water. Courtlands, a pleasant seat on the east bank of the estuary, two miles N. by W. of Exmouth, passed from the Roberts to the Baring family, and is now the residence of Mrs. O. Browne. The manor of Withycombe-Clavill belongs to Mrs. O. Browne, and was anciently held by the Clavills by the service of finding the king two arrows stuck in an oaten cake whenever he came to hunt in Dartmoor. The manor of Broadham and Rill belongs to the executors of the late W. H. Hull, Esq., who had a pleasant seat here, called MARPOOL HALL, in a delightful valley half-a-mile from Exmouth. This hall now belongs to the executors of the late H. Percy, and is a modern structure, and the park is well wooded, and commands extensive views. MARLEY LODGE, the property of John Bryce, Esq., and the residence of Mrs. Long, stands on a commanding eminence, 2½ miles N.E. of Exmouth, encompassed by ornamental shrubberies, sylvan walks, and extensive gardens. Near it is ST. JOHN'S COTTAGE, late the seat of Charles Sanders, Esq., standing in the midst of extensive and beautiful pleasure grounds, on an elevated site, commanding a fine view of the sea and coast. WITHECOMBE HOUSE, in a picturesque vale half-a-mile from Exmouth, is the seat of Otho Cooke, Esq. The mansion is a modern structure, in the castellated style, with turrets and battlements, and a tower in the centre. The flower garden is ornamented with a rustic fountain, and near it is a model cottage, approached by serpentine walks, and surrounded by artificial rock work and other ornaments. The lake is crossed by a curious rustic bridge leading to a plantation on the higher grounds, which command a fine view of Exmouth and the sea. A-LA-RONDE, the seat of Mrs. Anna Sophia Hurlock, stands in a pleasant lawn, and was built from a model of St. Peter's, at Rome. In the centre is an octagonal hall, about 25 feet high, around which are the other apartments, each made to close with sliding shutters instead of doors. A gallery, ornamented with curious shell-work, runs round the hall, and on the outside is another gallery, extending round the whole building, and commanding extensive views. Near it is the POINT-IN-VIEW, founded in 1800 by the late Mrs. Parminter, and comprising dwellings for four poor aged maidens, with a small Independent chapel, and a house for the minister. The chapel is in the centre, and the dwellings have small gardens. The minister and the almswomen receive stipends from the estate of the late Miss Parminter, and over the chapel door is inscribed, 'Some point in view, we all pursue.' The old parish church, commonly called St. John's in the Wilderness, was taken down on account of its inconvenient situation about 1748, except the tower and part of the north aisle, still used for sepultural purposes. These venerable remains are in a sequestered spot, more than a mile from Withycombe village, where a new chapel (St. Michael) was built by subscription in 1720. The principal contributor towards its erection was Sir John Colleton, Kt., who also gave the singularly sculptured altar-piece; but the chapel has been pulled down, and the altar-piece removed to St.-John's-in-the-Wilderness. A large and handsome new CHURCH (St. John the Baptist) was built in 1864 at a cost of £5000, on a site given by J. Wood, Esq., of the Grange. It is of the Decorated style, and comprises nave, with aisles and clerestory, north and south transepts, and chancel with organ chamber. The living is a vicarage, valued at £210 (commuted tithe rent-charge), in the patronage of the Hon. Mark Rolle, and incumbency of the Rev. Henry Llewellyn Hussey, M.A. The glebe is 4 acres, and there is a vicarage house. The rectorial tithes are commuted at £201, and belong to Drake's Charity. Here is a NATIONAL SCHOOL, built in 1865, and the parish receives yearly from Drake's Charity (see page 525) £7 for the incumbent, £2 for the poor, £2 10*s.* for apprenticing poor children, and 20*s.* for repairing a small almshouse. The poor parishioners have £5 a year from Three per Cent. Consols, left by Francis Rowe, in 1844; and the dividends of £500 of the same stock, left by William Spicer, Esq., in 1848. Some of the chapels, &c., in Exmouth are in this parish.

WOLBOROUGH, or Woolborough, parish contains Newton Abbot, and the whole parish is noticed with that place at page 556.

WONFORD, EAST and SOUTH. (See Exeter.)

WOODBURY is a parish and a large village, pleasantly situated on an acclivity 3 miles S.E. of Topsham, and 7 miles S.E. of Exeter, extending eastward from the estuary of the Exe to the lofty hills which overlook the Otter Valley. The parish is in the Eastern division of the county, St. Thomas union, Exeter county court district, Woodbury petty sessional division, East Budleigh hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Aylesbeare rural deanery. It had 1967 inhabitants (907 males, 1060 females) in 1871, living in 424 houses; the area is 7804 acres, of which 500 acres are water. The parish includes part of the new ecclesiastical district of Woodbury Salterton and the smaller hamlets of Ebford, Exton, Nutwell, Gulliford, Grindle, Woodmanton, and Higher Hamlet, extending more than a mile on all sides of the village, and including many good houses and much picturesque scenery. Woodbury Salterton comprises also a part of the parish of Colaton Raleigh, and had altogether 440 inhabitants (211 males, 229 females) living in 95 houses, on 3198 acres of land. Many women and children here are employed in making Honiton point lace. The trustees of the late Lord Rolle are lords of the manor of Woodbury, which was part of the royal demesne settled on the Queen of Edward the Confessor, and afterwards passed to the Mandeville, Albemarle, Damarel, Bonville, and Ford families. In 1285 it had a grant for a market and fair. It has now only a pleasure fair on May 3. On the lofty summit of Woodbury Common, overlooking the Exe and Otter Valleys, and commanding a view of the sea, are the remains of an ancient entrenchment, sometimes called Woodbury Castle. It is supposed to have been formed by the ancient Britons, and afterwards altered and enlarged by the Romans, Saxons, and Danes. It is now planted with fir trees, but in 1798 and 1803, at the time of the threatened invasion of the French, a camp of considerable force was stationed here, with a park of artillery. NUTWELL COURT, on the east bank of the broad estuary of the Exe, opposite Powderham Castle, is the seat of Sir Francis Drake, who is lord of the manor of Nutwell and Lympstone. He succeeded his uncle, Sir T. T. F. E. Drake, who was created a baronet in 1821, and who derived the lordship of the manor from his uncle, the late Lord Heathfield. The latter obtained the estate from his uncle, Sir Francis Drake, Bart., who died in 1794, and made great alterations in the house and grounds, and converted the chapel into a handsome library. Risdon says, Nutwell Court was a castle till Lord Dinham, about the time of Edward IV., converted it into a fair and stately dwelling-house. It was nearly all rebuilt by the late Lord Heathfield, and is now a large and handsome mansion, in a well-wooded park. NUTWELL HOUSE, in Upper Nutwell, an old-fashioned pleasant residence, is the seat and property of Miss Selina Northcote. Salterton belongs to the Rolle and Marker families. Grindle or Grindell belongs to the latter, and other parts of the parish belong to the Vicars-Choral of Exeter, the Lee family, and several smaller owners.

PETTY SESSIONS for Woodbury Division (see page 28) are held here at the Police Station, every alternate Monday, and the magistrates for the division are: The Rev. James Thomas Boles, Joshua Dixon, Esq., Sir John T.B. Duckworth, Bart., Francis Drummond Fulford, Esq., John Garratt, Esq., Lieutenant-Colonel A. Garratt, Alexander Kelso Hamilton, Esq., Edward Johnson, Esq., Admiral May, William Henry Peters, Esq., General Sir Charles Sheppard Stewart, G.C.B., William Sim, Esq., John Wood, Esq., and Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. Walrond. H. C. Adams, Esq., of Exmouth, is their clerk. In the winter of 1876 Mr. Thornycroft made a present to Woodbury Salterton of a first-rate village clock, by Gilbert and Bland, of Croydon; it strikes the hours on a fine bell of 4 cwt. 3 qrs., and the sound can be heard three miles off.

The CHURCH (St. Swithen) is a large ancient structure, with a tower and six bells. The organ is a fine-toned instrument, and new communion plate was purchased by subscription in 1844. Three cottages and an orchard, worth £16 a year, have long been vested for the repairs of the church. A fine of £100, paid by the lessee in 1791, was laid out in new seating the church. The Register of baptism and marriages dates from 1557, and of burials from 1575. The Custos and College of Vicars-Choral, in Exeter Cathedral, are owners of the manor of Halstow, appropriators of the tithes, and patrons of the vicarage, valued in 1831 at £150, and now enjoyed by the Rev. J. L. Fulford, M.A., who built a new parsonage house in 1849. The tithes were commuted in 1839 for £1070 per annum, and there is a glebe of 20 acres. WOODBURY SALTERTON CHURCH (Holy Trinity), about a mile N. of the village, is a handsome Doric structure, which was built in 1845 by the late Miss Mary Ann Pidsley, of Clist St. Mary. The church has a belfry containing three bells and crowned by a spire; and the interior, which is elegantly fitted up, is lighted by handsomely painted windows. The living is a vicarage, endowed by Miss M. A. Pidsley, and valued at £136, in the patronage of Mrs. Thornycroft, and incumbency of the Rev. George Grey, M.A. Miss Pidsley also, in 1846–7, built the parsonage house and school, and the handsome fountain which supplies the hamlet with pure water. She is said to have expended about £13,000 in these useful erections and the endowment. The INDEPENDENTS have a small chapel at Woodbury; and the UNITARIANS one at Gulliford, which was erected in 1774, on the site of one built by Presbyterians in 1689. The present chapel was thoroughly renovated in 1874, and the Rev. Wm. Sutherland, of Topsham, is the minister. There are National and Infant Schools at Woodbury, and the school at Salterton is supported by Mrs. Thornycroft and others. The poor parishioners have the yearly sums of £5 7s. 2d. from the Mercers' Company, London, and £1 13s. 4d. from Exeter Corporation, pursuant to the bequests of John Heydon in 1579. The sum of £130, given to the poor by various donors, was vested in 1656, in the purchase of an annuity of £66 out of a house in Butcher Row, Exeter; this is paid by the City Council of Exeter, who purchased the property. An annuity of £5 out of Hawkerland estate was purchased in 1695, with £134, given to the poor by Benjamin Whetcomb and other donors. In 1691 Thos. Weare left a yearly rent-charge of £4 10s. for schooling poor children of this parish. (See Clist-Honiton.) For the same purpose Esaias Broadmead left £120 in 1728, and it was laid out in the purchase of 13 acres of land, which were sold in 1873 to Sir Francis Drake for £1000, of which £450 was granted for the rebuilding of the National School at Exton Woodbury, and the remainder was retained by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The parish schoolmaster has also the interest of £50, left by Wm. Hollwell, M.D., in 1707; and the poor have the dividends of £500 Three per Cent. Consols, left by Mrs. Mary Hayman in 1833. Mr. W. F. Spicer, of Lympstone, in 1853 left £100 for the poor of the parish, now invested in the Three per Cent. Consols.

RAILWAY (L. & S. W.)—Geo. Moore, station master

WOODLAND, a chapelry and small village, 3 miles E.S.E. of Ashburton, in Ipplepen parish, had 160 inhabitants (86 males, 74 females), living in 32 houses, on 1606 acres. The manor was held for a long period with that of Ipplepen, and was sold at the Dissolution to Sir Thomas Kitson, from whom it passed to Sir Thomas Pettus, who disposed of it in parcels in 1658. The soil now belongs to various freeholders. The CHURCH (St. John the Baptist) is a small antique structure, consecrated in 1536, and consisting of nave, north aisle, south porch, and low embattled tower containing three bells. There are some good Perpendicular windows in the nave, and the East window contains some fragments of stained glass. On the north wall of the aisle is a brass, in memory of Thomas Culling (died 1670). The churchyard is entered by a lych gate. The living is a vicarage, valued at only £50 17*s.* 4*d.*, in the patronage of the principal inhabitants, and incumbency of the Rev. T. Waltham Were, B.A., for whom a handsome parsonage has been built within the last ten years. An estate of about eleven acres, let for £20 a year, and two small fields, in the parish of Ashburton, let for £4 13*s.*, are held in trust for the parishioners; the trustees appointed by a deed of the Charity Commissioners being the vicar and churchwardens for the time being. The poor have 20*s.* from £20, left by William Dyer in 1696; £40, left by Mrs. Emma Culling, was paid into Chancery, and invested for the use of the poor of this parish, the yearly interest amounting to £1 6*s.* 8*d.*; and 40*s.* a year, paid out of Higher Woodland estate, and left by William Culling in 1725, to instruct poor children belonging to Woodland to read.

Letters are received by foot messenger week days only, at 8.30 a.m. from Ashburton, which is the nearest Money Order Office. There is a WALL LETTER BOX, cleared daily, except Sundays, at 5 p.m.

WOODLEIGH, a small village and parish in a healthy and elevated situation on the east side of the Avon valley, 3½ miles N. of Kingsbridge, and 8 miles from Kingsbridge Road Railway Station, gives name to a deanery, and is in the Eastern division of the county, Kingsbridge union and county court district, Stanborough and Coleridge petty sessional division, and Stanborough hundred. The parish, which includes the hamlets of Preston and Hendham, had 232 inhabitants (107 males, 125 females) in 1871, living on 2319 acres of land. The manor was held at an early period by the Damerells, but now it belongs, three-eighths to W. H. Tayleur, Esq., one-eighth to the heirs of F. Wise, Esq., a quarter to the heirs of Mrs. S. Edmonds, and a quarter to the heirs of Mrs. E. Netherton. The chief owners of the soil are W. H. Tayleur, Esq., J. Luscombe, Esq., and W. Cubitt, Esq. Wood Barton, formerly a seat of the Fortescues, was a large quandrangular building of the 15th century, but only two of its sides now remain. The CHURCH (St. Mary) is a small antique fabric, and by the addition of a north transept in 1794 is cruciform in plan. The old windows of granite have round-headed lights of a type prevailing in the neighbourhood. The church is to be restored, and it is proposed to adhere to the design and character of the old work. The interior has several handsome mural tablets belonging to the Luscombe, Cornish, Edmonds, and other families; and in the north wall of the chancel is an ancient monument, canopied and richly carved, in memory of Thomas Smyth, formerly a rector of this parish. The silver flagon, given by Lady Amy Fortescue in 1686, weighs 4lbs. 12oz.; and is emblazoned with the Fortescue and Courtenay arms. The benefice, a rectory, valued in K.B. at £22 8*s.* 4*d.*, is in the patronage of Exeter College, Oxford, and incumbency of the Rev. George Dawson, M.A. The tithe has been commuted for £340. There is a glebe of 85A. 2R. 6P. with a commodious parsonage house.

LETTERS are received by foot messenger from Mounts at 7 a.m. (week days only). There is a WALL LETTER BOX, cleared at 6.15 p.m. Kingsbridge is the nearest Money Order Office and Telegraph Station.

WOOLFARDISWORTHY (commonly called Woolsery), near Bideford, is a parish and village, 8 miles W.S.W. from Bideford, and 6½ miles E.S.E. from Hartland, in the Northern division of the county, Bideford union, county court district, and petty sessional division, Hartland hundred and rural deanery, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 749 inhabitants (382 males, 367 females) in 1871, living in 148 houses, on 5798 acres. Sir George Stucley, Bart., is lord of the manor.

The CHURCH (Holy Trinity) is a mixture of the old Gothic and Norman styles of architecture. The tower contains six good bells, and requires rebuilding from the foundation. The rest of the structure was restored in 1872, when the porch, roof and windows were renewed, chiefly through the exertions of Mrs. Prust and the late Misses Prust. In 1877 a new organ and stoves were added. The Register dates from 1540. The living is a vicarage, valued at £70 a year, with 15 acres of glebe, and a residence. The patronage belongs to Mrs. L. E. Hawkes, who is also the lay impropriator of the tithes, which are commuted at £475. The Rev. William Holderness, late chaplain of H.M.C. Establishment at Dartmoor, is vicar and principal of the Collegiate School, which he founded in 1870. BUCKS MILLS is an ecclesiastical district, formed in 1862 out of the parishes of Woolfardisworthy and Parkham, and had 313 inhabitants (153 males, 160 females) in 1871, living in 62 houses, on 1100 acres of land; of these 141 persons were in Woolfardisworthy ancient parish. The CHURCH (St. Ann) was built and endowed about 1860 by the late Mrs. Elwes, and consists of chancel, nave, and tower containing one bell. It is in the Early English style. The living is a vicarage, valued at £163, with 18 acres of glebe, in the patronage of the trustees of the late Mrs. J. M. Elwes, and incumbency of the Rev. Albert Lockwood, M.A. The vicarage house was built about 40 years ago as a private residence, but was purchased by the late Mrs. Elwes in 1856, and subsequently assigned by her as a residence for the incumbent. The WESLEYANS and BIBLE CHRISTIANS have each a chapel in the parish. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on December 19, 1874, and now consists of Mr. J. Burrow (chairman), and Messrs. J. Andrews, — Cann, R. Harding, and the Rev. Wm. Holderness. A new school house, with teachers' residence, is about to be erected at the cost of £715, on a site given by Mrs. Prust.

WOOLFARDISWORTHY, or Woolsery, near Crediton, is a parish and scattered village, 6 miles N.W. of Crediton, in the Northern division of the county, Crediton union, county court district, and petty sessional division, Exeter archdeaconry, and Cadbury rural deanery. It had 201 inhabitants (105 males, 96 females) in 1871, living in 37 houses, on 1815 acres. The CHURCH is a small neat structure, with a tower containing three bells; it was entirely rebuilt in 1845, at the cost of about £1000. The East window is enriched with painted glass, and the pulpit is of stone, finely carved. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £9 19*s.* 4½*d.*, and in 1831 at £280, in the patronage of Anthony Benn, Esq., and incumbency of the Rev. Humphrey Archer Slack, who has a handsome stone residence in the Elizabethan style, erected in 1842–3. The glebe is 95 acres, and the tithes were commuted in 1840 at £199 12*s.* 10*d.* a year. The SCHOOL BOARD for the united parishes of Kennerleigh, Washford Pyne, and Woolfardisworthy with Thelbridge contributory, was formed on May 3, 1876, and consists of the Rev. H. A. Slack (chairman and hon. clerk); Leonard B. Gamlen, Esq. (vice-chairman); the Rev. S. Hosegood, and Messrs. F. J. P. Maunder, G. Selley, Thomas Bragg, and W. E. Waller. The Board have one school under their control, situate in the hamlet of Black Dog, that being the central position of the district. It is intended for 95 children, was built at a cost of £1617, and was opened in July last (1878).

YARCOMBE, or Yartcombe, a parish and village on the bold western acclivities of the small river Yarty, near the junction of Devon, Dorset, and Somerset, 5 miles W. of Chard, 8 miles N.E. by N. of Honiton, and 12 miles S. from Taunton Railway Station. It is in the Eastern division of the county, Chard union and county court district, Honiton petty sessional division, Axminster hundred, Exeter archdeaconry, and Dunkeswell and Honiton rural deanery. It had 757 inhabitants (386 males, 371 females) in 1871, living in 151 houses, on 4689 acres of land, rising in lofty hills, and including many scattered houses. The rateable value is £4987. Sir Francis G. A. Fuller-Eliott Drake, Bart., of Nutwell Court (see page 855), is lord of the manor, owner of a great part of the parish, and impropriator of the great tithes. He resides here occasionally at SHEAFHAYNE HOUSE, a fine old mansion with pleasant grounds. His family has long held the manor of Yarcombe, and he purchased Sheafhayne and the great tithes in 1808. Since then he has greatly improved the estate, and made extensive plantations in the parish. The manor was held by Otterton Priory, and after the Dissolution a moiety of it was granted to Robert Earl of Leicester, who sold it to Robert Drake, Esq., of Ash, who conveyed it to Sir Francis Drake, the celebrated circumnavigator, who was possessed of the other moiety by grant from the Crown. The CHURCH (St. John the Baptist) is a fine Gothic structure, consisting of chancel, nave, aisle, transept, porch, and an embattled tower containing five bells and a clock. The interior is neatly fitted up, and has a beautifully carved pulpit. A new organ was placed in the church in 1877, at a cost of £300, and the chancel is about to be restored. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £28, and in 1831 at £617, in the patronage of the Crown, and incumbency of the Rev. Mortimer William Ford, B.A. The parsonage is a small ancient building, and the glebe is 28 acres. A yearly rent-charge of £389 1*s.* 1½*d.* is now paid in lieu of the vicarial tithes. The BAPTISTS have two chapels here. In 1630 Giles Martin left £250 to the Mercers' Company, London, in trust, that they should pay £17 2*s.* 6*d.* yearly to this parish, for the poor. There is now belonging to this charity £211 2*s.* 2*d.* Old South Sea Annuities, purchased in 1768 with nine years' arrears, so that the poor parishioners have now divided among them at Christmas £16 6*s.* 7*d.* They have also about £20 a year, as the rent of the Parish Mead (5 acres), purchased in 1692 with £60 poor's money.

YARNSCOMBE, a parish and village, 5 miles N.E. of Great Torrington, and 7 miles S. by E. of Barnstaple, is in the Northern division of the county, Torrington union, rural deanery, and county court district, Great Torrington petty sessional division, Hartland hundred, and Barnstaple archdeaconry. It had 384 inhabitants (192 males, 192 females) in 1871, living in 81 houses, on 3047 acres of land, and includes part of the hamlet of Langridge Ford. The Hon. Mark Rolle is lord of the manor of Yarnscombe, but the Misses Bellew and several smaller owners have estates in the parish. It was formerly in two manors, called Great and Little Yarnscombe, and there were two churches in the parish—one at Chapel (then called Little Yarnscombe), dedicated to St. John the Baptist, and the other at Chircombe (Churchcombe). The CHURCH (St. Andrew) was erected in the reign of Henry III., as being in a more central position than the old parish church at Chircombe. It is a handsome structure, and consists of nave, chancel, south (or Rolle) aisle, south porch, and tower containing four bells. All the windows were formerly of stained glass, but several of the windows were restored and filled with new glass in 1877, at a cost of £40. The pulpit is modern, and of Caen stone. In the south aisle is a curious recess, thought by some to be the remains of the Easter sepulchre. In the chancel is a curious monument in memory of Nicholas Cockworthy, who owned the manor of Yarnscombe in the reign of Henry V. In the Rolle aisle is a tablet in memory of Airce, daughter and heiress of Nicholas Cockworthy, who married John Trevelyan, who descended from the Earls of Cornwall, and of Anthony Trevelyan, who married Cecilia, daughter of Hugh Fortescue, of Wear Gifford, and died in 1623. There are also many other tablets, in memory of the Champneys, Pollards, Lovebands, and other families. The Register dates from 1653. The living is a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £7 11*s.* 11*d.*, and in 1831 at £132, in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor, and incumbency of the Rev. Henry John Dixon, M.A. The vicarage house, a pleasant and commodious structure, overlooking a picturesque valley, and from the grounds of which a good view of the Bristol Channel and Lundy Isle can be obtained, was erected in 1867, at a cost of £1500. The glebe is 30 acres, and the vicarial tithes are commuted at £136 10*s.*, and the rectorial at £152; the latter belong to the Hon. Mark Rolle. The BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHAPEL will seat about 100 persons. The parish lands comprise 30 acres, called Ashridge, now let for £28 a year, a third of which is paid to the school, and two-thirds for the repairs of the church. The poor have 40*s.* a year, left by Edward Warren, in 1693, out of a tenement called North Westcott, in the said parish, for the purchase of ten twelve-penny wheaten loaves four times a year; and they have also the interest of £50 New Three per Cent. Annuities, given by Mr. Champneys and Mrs. Nichols. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on November 20, 1877, and consists of the Rev. H. J. Dixon, and Messrs. Richard Oatway, Frederick Thorne, George Arthurs, and Charles Baker. Mr. Henry Thorne is clerk.

YEALMPTON parish includes the hamlets of Dunstone, Yeo, Lyneham, Weston, and Yealm Bridge: is in the Southern division of the county, Plympton St. Mary union, East Stonehouse county court district, Ermington and Plympton petty sessional division, Totnes archdeaconry, Plympton hundred and rural deanery, and had 1054 inhabitants (468 males, 586 females) in 1871, living in 228 houses, on 3371 acres of land. The village is pleasantly seated on a salubrious acclivity, overlooking the river Yealm, 7 miles E. by S. of Plymouth, and 5½ miles W. of Modbury. It is on the high road to Kingsbridge, &c., and about a mile below it the Yealm spreads into a broad estuary. It has three corn mills, and a great cattle market is held on the fourth Wednesday of every month.

PETTY SESSIONS are held here every third Monday, by the magistrates of Ermington and Plympton division (see page 27), and the magistrates for the division are Baldwin J. P. Bastard, Esq., Cecil E. Bewes, Esq., John Bulteel, Esq., Lord Blachford, Charles R. Buller, Henry Collins Splatt, Capt. Wm. Conran, Ralph Dawson, Esq., Captain Harris, Stuart Hawkins, Esq., Arthur Mudge, Esq, Admiral Parker, R.N., John Duke Pode, Esq., George W. Soltau, Esq,, and George Soltau-Symons, Esq. Thomas Kelly, Esq., is their clerk.

Yealmpton is described as a borough in ancient records, and tradition says the Saxon King Ethelwolf had a palace here. The manor was given by King John to Matthew Fitzherbert, and afterwards passed to the Earls of Huntingdon, one of whom sold it in 1580 to Sir John Hele. The heiress of Edmund Pollexfen brought it to an ancestor of its present owner, B. J. P. Bastard, Esq., of KITLEY, a large and elegant mansion in the Elizabethan style, erected in 1825 by the late Edmund Pollexfen Bastard, Esq., from designs by Mr. Repton. It has many handsome and elegantly furnished apartments, and stands in the picturesque valley about a mile from the village, upon a finely wooded lawn, embellished with terraces and a sheet of water. The Pollexfens resided in the old house at Kitley, as early as the reign of Elizabeth, and the Bastards removed to it from Garston. Wm. Bastard, Esq., was created a baronet in 1779, and the creation was gazetted, but he declined the intended honour. The late E. P. Bastard, Esq., was one of the representatives of Devon in Parliament from 1816 till 1830, and his uncle held the same office from 1784 till his death in 1816. The manors of Bowden and Dunstone also belong to Mr. Bastard, and he has large estates in many other parishes. Bowden, an ancient house near the village, was long the seat of the Coplestons. The CHURCH (St. Bartholomew) was a very ancient structure, but in 1850 it was completely renovated and nearly all rebuilt, at the cost of about £7500, chiefly defrayed by the late E. R. P. Bastard, Esq. It is a handsome cruciform building, in the style which prevailed in the reign of Edward II. The arches and windows are of Caen stone, and the columns are of the limestone obtained at Kitley; every alternate block is polished, and a band of the same polished marble is carried round each arch. Four windows are enriched with stained glass. The chancel is divided from the nave by a very handsome marble screen; the floor is of marble; the font is of marble, supported by columns of serpentine; the top of the communion table and the credence table is marble; the roof is open, and the portions over the chancel and chantry are very beautiful. There is a brass tablet on the floor of the chantry in memory of Sir John Crocker, standard bearer of Edward IV. There is a stone pillar in the churchyard, supposed to be erected in memory of Lipsius, standard bearer of Ethelwolf. It has several neat monuments of the Pollexfens and Bastards. The Register dates from 1600. The living, a vicarage, valued in K.B. at £35 16*s.* 4½*d.*, and now at £400, is in the patronage of the Bishop of Exeter, and incumbency of the Rev. W. T. H. Eales, B.A., who has a good house. The vicarial tithes were commuted in 1841 for £355, and the rectorial for £307. The latter belong, with the glebe of 20 acres, to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The WESLEYANS and PLYMOUTH BRETHREN have chapels here. In Yealmpton are two NATIONAL SCHOOLS—one erected in 1849 by the late E. P. Bastard, Esq., and another built in 1876 by B. J. P. Bastard, Esq. Under a hill near the church is an extensive limestone cavern, which was discovered by the quarrymen about 90 years ago, and in it were found the bones of a large animal. It may be entered from the bank of the river, and has a splendid appearance when lighted up. The poor parishioners have the interest of money left by the late Charles Anthony, Esq., amounting to £107 per annum.

POST and MONEY ORDER and TELEGRAPH OFFICE and SAVINGS BANK at Mr. Samuel Brock's. Letters are received viâ Plympton at 7.40 a.m. and despatched at 5 p.m. Plympton is the nearest Railway Station.

ZEAL MONACHORUM is a parish and village, in the Taw valley, 8 miles W.N.W. of Crediton, and is in the Northern division of the county, Crediton union, county court district, and petty sessional division, Barnstaple archdeaconry, and Chulmleigh rural deanery. It had 546 inhabitants (272 males, 274 females) in 1871, living in 110 houses, on 3264 acres of land, and includes the hamlets of Loosebeare, or Loxbeare Burstone, and Tuckingmill. It was anciently called Sele Monachorum, and had the latter part of its name from its being long held by the monastery of Buckfast, to which it was given by King Canute. J. H. Ley, Esq., is now lord of the manor; but Loosbeare belongs to the Kelland family, and Burstone to R. Davy, Esq. Messrs. J. and R. Pedler, Mr. R. Westlake, and a few smaller owners have estates in the parish. The CHURCH (St. Peter) has a tower containing five bells; the chancel was restored, and a window filled with stained glass in 1854. The living is a rectory, valued in K.B. at £17 8*s.* 9*d.*, in the patronage of the Rev. R. Rigg, and incumbency of the Rev. Henry John Arundel Fothergill. The glebe is 52½ acres, and the parsonage is a neat residence, with tasteful grounds. The tithes have been commuted at £419 a year. The SCHOOL BOARD was formed on February 3, 1875, and consists of the Rev. H. J. A. Fothergill (chairman and hon. clerk), and Messrs. John Pedler, William Snell, Robert Pedler, and Richard Cheriton.

The School, built in 1850, was enlarged at a cost of £75 15*s.* in 1876, to meet the requirements of the Board, and will now accommodate 91 children. The poor have £10, and the rector and trustees £2 yearly, from the bequest of Francis Hole, in 1749. For schooling poor children, Weekes Hole, in 1768, left £100, now vested at interest, and producing £3 5*s.* 10*d.* The poor parishioners have £3 1*s.* 8*d.* per annum, in four rent-charges, left by Andrew Davy, Richard Hole, Robert Packer, and Edmund Rowland.
